Excitement reigns as students head back to class

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

After a summer of fun, Eric Novak noticed it was a little tougher to get his 7-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, out of bed Tuesday morning.

But get up she did, as did some 6,000 other students reporting for the first day of school in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Elizabeth, a Canton resident who's a second-grader at Gallimore Elementary School, had a list of reasons she was happy to be back in school.

"I get a new classroom," she said, "and I get to walk out to recess out of a whole new door, cuz the other one was too far away. And I'll get some new friends."

While 10-year-old Matt Fenech had a good reason for being happy to be back — "I want to learn," said Matt, whose favorite class is gym — his mom said his four-word answer belied his excitement about getting back to class.

"Usually, the last two weeks, the kids are ready to get back to school," said Teri Garrow of Plymouth, who also has a daughter, Megan, who's a junior at Canton High School, and a son, Brendon, a student at Pioneer Middle School.

At Salem High School, 16-year-old Emily Nelson of Plymouth had a big hug for her friend, 16-year-old Michael Rapp of Canton.

"I'm glad to be back because I get to see Michael and my other friends," Nelson said.

Rapp, who proclaimed summer

Students arrive at Gallimore Elementary School, hopping off buses that for the first time were able to use the new turnaround, completed just before the school year began.

POWERLESS BEGINNING

Mother Nature found a way to wreak havoc on the first day of school for Plymouth-Canton Schools by conjuring up rain storms that caused power outages at five district buildings Tuesday.

Deputy Superintendent Ken Jacobs said power went out at all three high schools — Plymouth, Salem and Canton — and at Pioneer Middle and Isbister Elementary schools. Discovery Elementary School also lost some technology capabilities during the day, he said.

"Other than that, we did OK," Jacobs said. "Our schools were pretty well prepared."

2009 as "the best summer of my life" after traveling to Colorado, also said he was happy to be back.

"I get to see all my friends," Rapp said. "It's always good (to get back to school) in the beginning."

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Visitors to the Plymouth Community Fall Festival this year can run, literally — or just have the run of area restaurants.

They can cruise the midway for carnival rides, cruise the festival stages for live music and entertainment, or visit Plymouth's version of a dream cruise during the antique and classic car show.

Plus, they can shop for crafts, play bingo, and fill up on pancakes, spaghetti, barbecued chicken and more.

Plymouth's 54th annual Fall Festival, which grew out of a community picnic that began in the 1950s, is noon to 11 p.m. Friday, 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13.

The festival is centered around Kellogg Park and District, teachers reach pact

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Michigan's dire economic conditions have been a factor in nearly every decision the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education has made lately, so it should come as no surprise they were a factor in union negotiations.

With an eye toward 2010-11, the board and the district's teachers reached agreement last week on a one-year contract that essentially changes very little from the deal that expired earlier this year.

"It's all the board was willing to approve with the financial situation in the state," said Ray Bihun, the district's executive director of human resources.

The contract was ratified by members of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association last week, then approved by board members in a unanimous vote at Tuesday's Board of Education meeting.

The deal, which dates back to Aug. 31 and runs through Aug. 30, 2010, carries no increase in pay for the teachers, though it does leave step increases in place for teachers who qualify. Union president Charles Portelli acknowledged the union asked for an increase, though neither he nor Bihun would say how much.

The pact also leaves in place the existing health care plan, though that was one area of contention between the two sides. Union officials said they brought a proposal they say would have cut the district's health care costs; Bihun said the district's consultant disagreed.

"They didn't want to go there," Portelli said. "We settled for no changes in benefits."

Both sides said the one-year deal was all they talked about largely because of the economic struggles of the state. Budget discussions at the state level are focused around cuts in per-pupil spending of anywhere between $110 and $600.

"They just said, 'We don't have any money, we're not going to have any money, and that's not going to change,'" Portelli said. "It's what everyone around the state is hearing."

St. John's retreat center to close with subsidy loss

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The Retreat Center at St. John's, which hosts religious gatherings and offers a variety of Catholic ministries, is falling victim to the Archdiocese of Detroit's financial problems.

The retreat center will close and its five employees will lose their jobs when the archdiocese ends its subsidy of it, said archdiocesan spokesman

Joe Kohn on Wednesday. No date has been set, but Kohn indicated the center will likely close before the end of the year. The subsidy has ranged from about $800,000 to about $1 million a year, Kohn said.

The retreat center is located in the Inn at St. John's complex at Five Mile and Sheldon in Plymouth Township. It's a former Catholic seminary that's now home to a hotel, conference center, golf course and the retreat center. No facilities other than the retreat center will be affected, Kohn said.

Retreat center programs include marriage enrichment events, Bible study and Catholic confirmation preparation. The retreat center also books weddings held at the former seminary chapel.

Kohn said it is uncertain, giving the pending shutdown, which scheduled programs will be canceled, but that people who have already registered for retreat center programs will be informed of any cancellations.

The retreat center shutdown is part of a major restructuring, including about 80 job cuts, the archdiocese announced last week. The archdiocese, which administers parishes and programs for the region's more than 1 million Catholics, says it is losing about $1.2 million a month.

Retreat center director Lea Woll declined to comment on Wednesday.

Heart of the matter

Veteran returns to school after bout with illness

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The students returning to Plymouth-Canton schools Tuesday morning were all in their places with bright, shiny faces.

At Salem High School, though, the shiniest face didn't belong to any of the youngsters coming back to school. The brightest face may have been the face of the oldest person in the building, associate principal Pat Fitzpatrick.

Fitzpatrick, who has been at Salem since the 1970s, was back for his 40th year after a spring spent wondering whether a heart condition that sidelined him earlier this year would allow him to come back to work.

"I'm very happy," said Fitzpatrick. "It's always good to get back."

Especially when you aren't sure you will. Fitzpatrick found out earlier this year he needed a heart transplant and was forced to take a medical leave while he consulted with his doctors about the best course of action.

That course of treatment for now is medication, Fitzpatrick said Tuesday, and he returned to the classroom as the principal of the district's summer school in June.

He was welcomed back full-time on Tuesday.

"Fitz and I go back a long time," said deputy superintendent Ken Jacobs, who joined the district in 1968 and was followed a few years later by Fitzpatrick. "When I heard he was going to be out and what the reason was, it was very distressing."

"This has meant a lot to both of us, and I'd hate to see someone go out like that," Jacobs added. "I was certainly hopeful he was going to be back, and it's great to have him back."

First-grade teacher Tricia "Mrs. J" Johnson makes sure she knows where her kids need to be for after-school transportation.

Second-grader Katie Tenerowicz brings a gift for her new teacher, Joy Michelsen.

Eric Novak and daughter Elizabeth arrived bright and early for the first day of school at Gallimore Elementary, where Elizabeth began second grade.

PROVIDENCE

Protect your portfolio in changing economic times

Labor Day has come and gone, the kids are back in school and, before you know it, we will all be waking up with morning frost on the ground.

It is hard to believe that the first decade of the 21st century will soon be only a memory. Just as many people winterize their homes in order to protect them from the effects of a changing climate, we also need to protect our portfolios from the effects of a changing economic climate.

Money Matters

Rick Bloom

When most investors purchase an investment, they hold on to it and then sometime in the future decide to sell it in its entirety.

Typically, the investment that they sell is one that has been underperforming. Although this sounds logical, it is not a good investment strategy. After all, the first thing we learn as investors is to buy low and sell high. That is the exact opposite of what most investors do.

SELL WINNERS

I believe the best way to manage your portfolio is to sell the winners and then turn around and buy something that is underperforming. After all, by selling winners you're selling high. On the other hand, when people sell their losers, they are selling low. Most investors want to sell at the ultimate high and then buy at the ultimate low. Obviously, if feasible, that would be great; however, that's impossible. It is impractical to think you can time the market. You can't and neither can anyone else.

The strategy I recommend is rebalancing a portfolio on a regular basis. The key to this is to know the allocations for the various asset classes that make up your portfolio. For example, before you invest you should know what percent of your portfolio is going into emerging markets.

STRATEGY

As an example, let's say 5 percent allocation in emerging markets and you rebalance your portfolio every six months.

If emerging markets have increased in value and now represent 8 percent of the portfolio, sell 3 percent to bring the allocation back to the 5 percent. Then, the 3 percent of the money would get invested into something that has gone down in value. For example, if your allocation for small cap U.S. was 10 percent and now because of market declines it only represents 7 percent, you know where to invest the additional 3 percent.

There is more to taking care of a portfolio than just occasionally rebalancing. Investors also need to monitor allocations and the performance of the individual investment. The key is to judge apples to apples. For example, when it comes to comparing the performance of an emerging market fund, you should compare it to other emerging market funds, not a large company U.S. fund.

GENERAL RULE

My general rule is that once I am in a fund, if it underperforms other funds in its same category for a two- to three-year period, I make a change. Just because the fund lost money doesn't mean I'm selling it; rather, the key is how it has performed when compared to other similar funds.

Many people mistake the buy and hold strategy for a buy and ignore strategy. Portfolios need to constantly be rebalanced and losers need to be pruned from the portfolio.

NEW REALITY

The old days of purchasing an investment and putting it away for 20 years just doesn't work in today's world. We live in a dynamic, ever changing economic climate and it's important that investors accept the reality of the situation.

As we near the end of the year, there is no problem with doing some tax selling. Many people go through their portfolios and sell investments that have lost money in order to deduct the losses from their taxes. Although there is nothing wrong with tax selling, the key is properly maintaining your allocations. In other words, if you've lost money on your small cap U.S. growth fund and you decide to sell it for tax purposes, the key is to turn around and buy another small cap growth fund so that your portfolio is still well-balanced and diversified.

Just as it's important to protect our homes during different seasons, it is also important to make sure that our portfolios are protected so that they can survive the changing economic climate. Good luck!

Political parlay

Friends don't let their parties divide them

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Michael Siegrist of Canton is a Democrat who ran a campaign for former Plymouth Township candidate Joe Hawver and stumped for current State Rep. Marc Corriveau, a Democrat from Northville.

Eric Bacynski of Plymouth Township is a devoted Republican who worked for Wayne County Commissioner Laura Cox and her husband, Michigan Attorney General Mike Cox.

The two may be living proof of the old adage, "Politics makes for strange bedfellows."

"We discuss a lot," said Siegrist, a 26-year-old graduate of Schoolcraft College who is currently studying political science at the University of Michigan. "We're always talking about issues, and various things going on in the political arena."

Bacynski said the political rivalry doesn't get in the way of the friendship.

"We don't argue about much," he said, smiling. "We disagree, but its over in a moment."

Siegrist and Bacynski first met as juniors in high school back in 2002, the product of "one of those lunchroom meetings." They became closer friends and got "more connective" with each other once high school ended.

Though their political parties are opposite, the two are taking a similar path up the political ladder. In addition to working for both Laura and Mike Cox, Bacynski was elected to the Plymouth District Library in 2006, then chosen the board's vice-chair earlier this year.

Siegrist, meanwhile, was elected to the Canton Public Library Board in 2008. Like Bacynski, he was chosen vice-chair earlier this year.

Both men said they chose the library board as a means of giving back to the community.

"Through my family's activity, I saw the importance of non-profit and public institutions," said Siegrist, the son of Dave and Linda Siegrist of Canton. "The library promotes people increasing their knowledge base. It helps people better themselves."

Bacynski, who has a 5-year-old daughter, Brooke, said the library was something he "had a connection with as a kid."

"I thought it was the way I could give the most back," said Bacynski, who grew up in Plymouth. "I came up here 2-3 times a week as a kid."

Both men know the value of a public library, particularly in tough economic times when libraries are counted on as people look for ways to expand their skills, seek help hunting for jobs and search for cheaper ways to entertain themselves.

Both the Canton Public Library, with its $5.5 million budget, and the Plymouth District Library, which operates on a budget of some

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Friends Michael Siegrist, a Democrat from Canton, and Republican Eric Bacynski of Plymouth Township don't let political differences get in the way of their friendship.

$4-plus million, have seen increases in such activities.

Having young men who understand those principles on their boards is a benefit to the libraries, staffers say.

"(Bacynski) makes himself aware of the issues, he was a library user before he got on the board," said Pat Thomas, director of the Plymouth District Library. "When he ran, I thought he would bring a youthful perspective. He may be young, but what he brings to the table is a mature perspective."

Both admit to a certain naivete about the boards to which they've been elected. There have been things that have caught them by surprise, none more so than the amount of public involvement in the libraries.

"The involvement of the patrons of the library, and their commitment to the library, surprised me,"

Siegrist said. "We get a lot of people blogging on the library's Web site."

Bacynski once interned for U.S. Rep. Thaddeus McCotter, a political beginning Siegrist said "inspired" him to seek - and receive - an internship with U.S. Rep. John Dingell.

"It's something I had yet to consider, but he put the first foot forward and that inspired me to do the same," Siegrist said. "We were young guys interested in things others weren't at that age."

Now politics is something both men are watching closely. Bacynski is a candidate for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education, while Siegrist - without naming a possible seat he'd seek - said higher office is something he'd consider.

"I didn't run for library board as a way to launch a political career," Siegrist said. "On the other hand, I do plan on being involved in the community at the leadership level. I thought library board would be a good place to start."

The friends know that, given their respective political affiliations, a Bacynski-Siegrist race could erupt for a future political seat.

But the prospect doesn't bother them.

"I think somewhere down the line, given our interests, running for the same office could happen," said Bacynski. "I think we know each other well enough and respect each other enough that it wouldn't get in the way of the friendship."

"If I do decide to move beyond the library board, and we were going for the same office," said Siegrist, "I couldn't think of a better guy to do battle with."

OUR VIEWS

St. Mary Mercy still focusing on mission after 50 years

One of northwest Wayne County's major institutions — St. Mary Mercy Hospital — is celebrating its 50th anniversary with events planned for this month and next.

We congratulate St. Mary Mercy on the service it has provided all these years to Livonia and neighboring communities, including Plymouth, Northville, Farmington Hills, Redford, Westland and Garden City, from where 75 percent of its patients come.

St. Mary Hospital was built in 1959 on Five Mile Road between Newburgh and Levan when the area was mostly farmland. It opened with 170 beds, 99 physicians and 300 employees.

From those humble beginnings, the hospital has nearly doubled in size to 304 beds. Renamed St. Mary Mercy Hospital in 2000, today it operates a cancer center, heart and vascular center and inpatient rehabilitation center. Its services include surgery, emergency angioplasty, oncology/radiation, birthing, women's health, behavioral medicine, 24-hour emergency care and community health education.

It employs 1,700 full- and part-time people, including 413 Livonia residents, making it one of the city's largest employers.

It has been honored for clinical quality and patient safety throughout the last decade and was named one of the top 100 large community hospitals by Thomson Healthcare for the past three years.

As part of a larger system now — Saint Joseph Mercy Health — St. Mary Mercy is stronger, poised for the challenges of the years to come and able to make an even bigger difference in health care, not only for the immediate area, but beyond.

St. Mary Mercy is able to tap into national programs with its affiliation with Trinity Health, the third-largest Catholic Health System in the United States.

In July 2010, through an affiliation with the University of Toledo College of Medicine, it will begin graduate medical education residency programs in internal medicine and family medicine.

Despite its growth, St. Mary Mercy has held fast to its Catholic mission to "be the hands and feet of Jesus," as former president Sister Mary Modesta Piwowar put it, by reaching out to the community, maintaining high standards and providing quality care with the goal of restoring good health.

In addition to providing health care, the hospital has contributed to the communities it serves, sponsoring events and, when possible, buying supplies from local businesses.

Three events are planned — a 5K Run/Walk for Cancer and Community Open House on Sept. 13 and a black-tie gala on Oct. 9.

We encourage residents to attend the events and offer St. Mary Mercy their own congratulations for the difference it has made in their lives and in their communities.

COMMUNITY VOICE

The Plymouth Fall Festival is coming up. What is your favorite part of the festival, and what is your least favorite part?

We asked this question at the Plymouth District Library.

"I guess the smells, the food, the atmosphere. ... Least favorite would be the rides. It makes it more a carnival atmosphere."

Ted Rais
Plymouth Township

"Chicken dinners. Even if we don't go to the festival, we always come up and get a chicken dinner. (Least favorite): All the unsupervised children running around there."

Krista Snyder
Plymouth Township

"The least favorite part would be the parking situation. My most favorite part would be — just everything it has to offer. ... The thing I like best about it is being able to bring my whole family."

Judy Karl

"Chicken dinner. Can't beat the chicken dinner. ... Least favorite? Nothing. There's something for everyone."

Salvation Army thanks

We write this letter to say thanks to the Plymouth and Canton Observers for their tremendous support of The Salvation Army in its service to the community. Over the past several months, the Observer papers have shared word of comings and goings and upcoming events — for this we are grateful.

As the economy has taken its toll, the Observer has reported on downsizing within its very own ranks. Despite this, the Observer continues to be a strong local voice in our community.

We are blessed to be part of a community that has such a strong local paper and dedicated staff. I trust that we never take it for granted.

To the staff at the Plymouth and Canton Observers — thank you for your dedication to continued reporting of local news and promoting positive service to our community. We are better for having you in our community.

Tea'd off

I am very disappointed with the Plymouth Observer publication. As a matter of fact, I am (tea'd) off. There have been three tea parties in our area (Plymouth, Northville and Canton) and not one word was printed in the Plymouth Observer concerning these meetings.

Your paper is not an honest, unbiased publication. You are picking and choosing what information we can read. There seems to be no place left for the conservative point of view.

I am canceling my subscription to the Observer and this is one good reason you are losing subscribers. I am sure I won't see this letter in your newspaper.

This is a sad thing to say in a free country.

Hilltop blackout

I realize that Plymouth Township, the owner of Hilltop golf course, cannot blackout the entrance way (currently dirt) from Beck Road to its paved parking lot.

However, playing golf there on Labor Day, as a resident, I couldn't help re-live several times during my round the bone-jarring ride into the clubhouse area. Unfortunately the rustic overhang of trees is offset by the heavily cratered dirt road.

My suggestion is for the appropriate Plymouth Township supervisor to contact Wayne County for periodic grading and/or the township provide the service, if the Public Works Department has the proper equipment.

To a golfer; the entrance sets the tone for the round and also for a possible return!

Don't revamp health care

Over the last month, I wrote to Congressman Dingell to tell him why I didn't like this health care bill that the Obama administration tried to ram down our throats again like they did with the other bills.

I got eight responses all on the same day (Aug. 3, 2009) and guess what? They were all the same response. No matter what I had asked him or what I had said, he sent the same standard form letter in response to each one of my letters.

In those letters he stated that he has since he became a congressman he has introduced the same bill that his father did before him on health care. This is a direct quote from that letter:

"This much anticipated, much-needed revamp of our crippled health care system will lower costs and increase choices and access to quality, affordable health care."

Just what is crippled? Seems to me the Canadian, Great Britain, and Scandinavian and other countries where a national health care plan was initiated are crippled, not our system.

Apparently he has not read the bill because on page 42 it states that the "Health Care Commissioner will decide on the plans" we will have no choice.

Page 145 states, Employers must auto-enroll employees in the government plan and no choice is permitted. Page 29 reads "health care will be rationed."

Page 203 says flat out, "The tax imposed under this section shall not be treated as tax." We will be taxed and at least 6 percent to start with so how in the world does this plan save us money, increase choices and give us access to quality health care if it rations our choices, increases waiting periods and raises taxes?

They think they "know what's best for us" and they keep throwing the same old garbage that 47 million are without health care when in all actuality there are more like eight million that truly need it that cannot afford it.

There is no need to "revamp" our system when it needs a few tweaks to get it back on track, but the politicians know that the money they stole out of the general fund for pet projects that was meant for Medicare and Social Security are about to come due and they need money fast to cover their respective asses. Medicare is $80 trillion in the red and the IOUs need to be covered or we are in serious trouble!

You would think that after all of these years John Dingell put into public service and introducing this legislation he would have come up with a better plan that didn't destroy the quality of health care we currently have.

There (was) gathering of patriots opposed to this government health care take-over in front of the Canton Wal-Mart on Ford Road Aug. 22 from noon to 2 p.m. ... share your frustrations with others that believe in this country.

Donnelly-Runnion race helps keep breast cancer victim's memory alive

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A dozen years haven't softened the loss still felt by family and friends of Trish Donnelly-Runnion. On the other hand, the resolve to keep doing something in her memory takes deeper root.

The popular, energetic Canton woman died in January 1997 from breast cancer at the terribly young age of 28.

But loved ones don't want to forget her and also want to help others now or in the future ward off the tragic disease.

On Sunday morning, the 13th annual Trish Donnelly-Runnion Memorial Road Race will take place in conjunction with the Plymouth Fall Festival.

"It's important to our family, it's important to my parents (Mike and Carol), it was hard for them to lose somebody at her age," said Trish's older brother, Pat Donnelly of Canton. "For myself and my sisters that are still alive, it's kind of unbelievable to us that someone her age could pass away from breast cancer."

"She was a runner, she was healthy. And given her age...."

BLINDSIDED

Pat Donnelly, a 1981 Salem grad, choked back his emotions but realizes even now that talking about the painful past is important because of how it might help people in the future.

Besides helping raise money for breast cancer awareness programs at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, proceeds will go toward providing $1,500 scholarships to a pair of Salem cross country athletes.

The smile on her face in this photograph says it all: Trish Donnelly-Runnion loved running.

"The scholarship portion, giving the money to kids at the high school," he noted, "that's always a pretty neat thing to do, too."

The deadly disease seemingly came out of nowhere to blindside the goal-oriented young woman and dim what looked to be a very bright future.

While at Salem during the '80s, Trish Donnelly was an accomplished varsity runner herself both in cross country and track.

Trish earned a scholarship to run at a community college before going on to pursue a degree in education. She eventually taught in Caro and Brighton — as well as student teaching at West Middle School in Plymouth.

However, in November 1993, the then-25-year-old found out there was a lump. That news

Late goal salvages tie for Wildcats

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Two KLAA-South rivals met Tuesday night for each team's division opener, and each side left the field with a tie and a disappointed coach.

Plymouth and host Livonia Churchill battled to a 1-1 draw, thanks to a late goal by Wildcats' junior midfielder Joe Klonowski. But both Plymouth head coach Jeff Neschich and his Churchill counterpart, Reid Friedrichs, were upset afterwards — for entirely different reasons.

Neschich wasn't happy with a foul called against his team with 31:30 to go that led to a Churchill penalty kick, a chance made good on by Chargers' senior defender

Adam Bedell.

"It was a terrible call, he (official) just gave it to him," said Neschich, whose team is 2-3-1 overall and 0-0-1 in the South. "They hand-balled it first down to our guy (inside the box) and it hit his hand and they called it against us."

Meanwhile, Friedrichs did not sugarcoat his assessment of how his team competed as a unit over the 80-minute tilt.

"It looked like they were passing the ball around with their friends," Friedrichs said. "They looked disorganized, they didn't look like they were a team out there."

"We had a lot of hard-working people but it was one person here, one person there. There was no movement outside the ball."

The penalty kick call came following a scrum in front of Plymouth junior goalkeeper Kyle Brindza, triggered by one of Bedell's patented long throw-ins from the sidelines.

The Wildcats didn't fold their tent after the unfortunate turn of events and evened the score with about 15 minutes remaining.

Senior defender Dan Jasewicz fed a pass through the middle that Klonowski collected and then followed up with a tailing shot into the top left corner behind Churchill junior goalkeeper Christian Adams.

Windsor holds off pesky Whalers

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Compuware Arena fans, at least those who showed up to watch Saturday afternoon's preseason game instead of college football, were treated to a spirited, back-and-forth tilt between the Plymouth Whalers and Windsor.

But the reigning Ontario Hockey League champion Spitfires earned a 5-3 victory with defenseman Cam Fowler and center Richard Panik each scoring twice and assisting on another.

Goals early and late in periods took the steam out of the Whalers, however.

"I thought we played all right," said Plymouth head coach Mike Vellucci. "We were bad the first two periods and played really well in the third. We weren't gritty enough and they scored some questionable goals."

For the Whalers, linemates Austin Mattson and Myles McCauley combined for two of the goals (1 goal, 1 assist each) and defenseman Leo Jenner collected two assists.

"Both of those guys had good games and they had a lot of chances," Vellucci said. "They could have had a couple more."

As usual, the Compuware crowd watched

HOSPITALS IN SOUTHFIELD AND NOVI

Sunday marks the 13th annual race to honor the memory of Trish Donnelly-Runnion, a varsity cross country and track and field athlete at Salem High School during the 1980s.

didn't stop her from marrying Larry Rynnion in December 1994 or continuing doing the things she always loved to do. "She knew about the lump in her breast," wrote Pat Donnelly in a recent letter to businesses about Sunday's event. "But (she) thought nothing of it because she was young and in great physical shape." When her cancer worsened, Trish bravely went on with "business as usual" for as long as she could. She kept teaching. "Trish was a dedicated teacher to all of her students and taught them never to give up hope," her brother said.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

After the disease finally claimed her, the Donnelly family didn't need much prodding to establish a nonprofit foundation and hold an annual race "to do something special in her memory." One of the catalysts was Trish's Salem coach, Tom Williams. "He was the originator of the race," Pat Donnelly said. "It was his idea." Since its inception, that race has generated more than $40,000 to programs at St. Joseph and about $30,000 in scholarships to Salem student-athletes.

Sunday's program again will be highlighted by the 5K (3.1-mile) run, although there will also be a one-mile run/walk.

According to Pat Donnelly, the family hopes the turnout improves from recent years when about 200 runners participated.

Reasons for fewer numbers include changing the date and place of the race several times in recent years and dealing with high-profile events such as the Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure.

"It's probably the passage of time," Pat said. "But there's more of those type of events now, that drag people away."

"We really began as mostly friends of my sister's (from Salem). And as people move away things change. So I think that's part of it."

Donnelly is optimistic that attendance will improve now that the event is aligned with the Plymouth Fall Festival.

"I'm confident, people in the city of Plymouth have been great to work with," he added. "We're looking forward to having another race."

Eagles earn tie

After playing a scoreless first half Tuesday, Lutheran High Westland (1-1-1, 0-1-1) and host Plymouth Christian Academy (2-1-1, 1-1-1) each managed a goal during the second half in this Michigan Independent Athletic Conference Blue Division overtime matchup.

Lutheran Westland senior Gage Flanery opened the scoring at the 40:30 mark of the second half after taking a nifty pass from junior Kent Krzyske.

Twenty minutes later, PCA tied the game up on a goal by freshman Dan Ross off an assist from senior Blair Robinson.

Starting the play with a long throw-in was junior Travis DeKruyter.

Nick Andrzejewski and Jake Fairbairn split duties between the pipes for Lutheran Westland.

There was no scoring in a pair of 10-minute extra OT sessions.

"It was a perfect shot," Neschich said. "It was a perfect upper corner shot."

From where Friedrichs was standing, it wasn't so perfect. But he didn't blame Adams, who had just made a diving stop on a rebound to keep his team in front.

TROUBLE FINISHING

The Chargers, now 5-0-1 overall, could have had a bigger lead by that point had they finished around Brindza when chances were available, Friedrichs said.

"We had two breakaways one way (in the first half) and two breakaways the other way (second half)," the coach added.

the goal had a lot to do with Brindza.

The goalie jumped high to catch shots, scrambled out to cut off rushes and was properly positioned to block in-close tries like a blast from senior forward Max Washko with about five minutes left.

"Just with how athletic he is back there he's just a solid goalie," Neschich said. "He had a strong effort tonight."

Neschich also liked the way

"Our D played strong tonight," he said. "... And (senior) Vinh Nguyen played a great center-mid for us, controlling it."

"And of course Joey (Klonowski) with the goal and (junior) Nick Russ played strong up top for us as well as (junior) Ian Griffiths."

Neschich said the way his team performed Tuesday reinforces his original assessment that the Wildcats will be a tough bunch in the KLAA-South.

"I knew we were going to be right up there," he said. "We've had a few losses this year but we've played really good. We need some of the breaks going our way."

McGinnis leads MU spikers to tourney sweep

Mary McGinnis earned MVP honors with a total of 70 total kills in four matches as the Madonna University women's volleyball team completed a four-match sweep Saturday in the Embry-Riddle (Fla.) University Labor Day Classic at the ICI Homes Center in Daytona Beach.

McGinnis, named Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Player of the Week, finished with 21 kills as MU, ranked No. 12 in the NAIA National poll, scored a 25-22, 16-25, 25-18, 25-18 win over the host Eagles.

Junior outside hitter Liz Dempsey (Livonia Franklin) added 10 kills and 11 digs, while sophomore outside hitter Katie Czarnecki also recorded 10 kills as MU improved to 8-0 overall.

Both Katie Altman (six kills, seven block assists) and setter Inta Grinvalds (49 assist-to-kills) joined McGinnis on the All-Tournament team.

Jordan Holcomb and Abby Hall led Embry-Riddle (7-1) with 17 and 16 kills, respectively.

Earlier in the day, Dempsey

COLLEGE VOLLEYBALL

contributed 11 kills and McGinnis added 10 in a 25-12, 15-15, 25-17 victory over winless Lindsey Wilson College (Ky.), which slipped to 0-6 overall.

Grinvalds contributed 33 assists and 10 digs, while redshirt sophomore libero Amanda Koszela added 15 digs.

After stopping Northwestern Ohio in five games in Friday's tourney opener, the Crusaders dumped winless Faulkner (Ala.) in three straight, 25-16, 25-13, 25-6, as Altman and McGinnis led the way with 12 and 11 kills, respectively.

Koszela finished with 15 digs, while Grinvalds handed out 33 assists.

After two weekends on the road, the Crusaders return home this weekend to host the annual Julie Martin Memorial Classic at the MU Activities Center.

MU opens play at 3 p.m. Friday against Spring Arbor College.

Lady Ocelots stand 7-3

Schoolcraft College faced some of the toughest NJCAA Division II teams in the nation over the weekend while participating in the Owens (Ohio) Community College Tournament.

On Friday, Schoolcraft opened play with a 25-17, 25-17, 25-8 victory Lakeland (Ohio). But in the second match of the day, Schoolcraft fell to Vincennes (Ind.) University by scores of 25-19, 19-25, 16-25 and 15-25.

On Saturday, Schoolcraft managed to defeat Kalamazoo Valley CC in five games, while falling to both Owens and Kishwaukee (Ill.) College in four games each.

"Overall, I felt we played pretty well," said Schoolcraft coach Rich Lamb, whose team is 7-3 overall. "Owens is ranked No. 17 in the nation, KVCC is No. 19 and Kishwaukee is No. 11. To be playing with those established programs shows that our team is making progress."

uber-talented center Tyler Seguin play keepaway with stickhandling, skating and the ability to make seeing-eye passes onto the tape of teammates.

Seguin, however, was held off the scoresheet largely because of some big stops by Windsor goaltender Michael Nishi.

"He's an exceptional player," said Vellucci about Seguin, a highly touted prospect and one of several who will attend high school at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park this season. "All those special players make the puck follow them and he sees the ice very well, he made some great passes where he wasn't even looking at the guy."

GOOD START

Plymouth (1-1-0) got on the board first on a power play marker just 3:34 into the game. Mattson, parked in front of Nishi, slammed home a centering feed from McCauley.

That goal held up for most of the period thanks to some composed play from goaltender Scott Wedgewood (Plymouth regular Matt Hackett and several other Whalers are gearing up for NHL camps).

But Windsor center Michael Whaley scored a power play goal with just 36 seconds to go in the first stanza. Stationed off to the right side of the goal, he lifted a rebound over the prone Wedgewood.

Windsor then scored the tie-breaker during the first minute of the second period, while on a 5-on-3 manpower advantage. Panik's weak shot along the goal line banked in off the left skate of Wedgewood (35 saves), to Vellucci's chagrin.

Getting that goal back about 10 minutes later was Plymouth's Tyler J. Brown.

Starting the play was Jenner, with winger Ryan Hayes backhanding a shot that the Windsor goalie couldn't corral.

BACK IN FRONT

Windsor's netminder did have the answers during a Plymouth power play during the final three minutes of the second, and the Spitfires regained the lead at 19:36 when Saverio Posa scored.

The Spits opened up a 4-2 margin just 1:14 into the third when winger Austin Watson snapped a shot into the twine. Again, Plymouth battled back with McCauley roofing a pass from Mattson to make it a 4-3 game.

Plymouth forwards Tyler G. Brown, Garrett Meurs and Seguin all had chances for the equalizer turned aside by Nishi down the stretch and an empty netter by Justin Shugg finished off the scoring for the day.

Although not happy with the loss, Vellucci did like a lot of what he saw. He emphasized that early preseason games are important for reasons beyond the final score.

"We learn about the younger guys, see what they can do," Vellucci noted. "And then, with the younger guys we want to make sure they learn the system. "So there's a lot of teaching going on early on, trying to make sure they understand what kind of game we're trying to play."

Plymouth will two road games against London this weekend to wrap up the preseason.

Motor City Metal Jackets to feature Plymouth's Bourgon

Hockeytown USA has a new team to cheer for in the Motor City Metal Jackets.

The Metal Jackets — a team featuring defenseman Mike Bourgon of Plymouth — will invade the Yack Arena in Wyandotte for its 2009-2010 season, beginning September 26th at 7:30 p.m. for its home opener against the Traverse City North Stars.

The team, comprised of superior, student athletes, 20 years old and younger, is the latest addition to the 19-team North American Hockey League (NAHL) — the highest level of amateur hockey in the United States.

Formerly known as the Machine, the Metal Jackets were purchased earlier this year by Tokyo Japan-based Hanroku Company, a group headed by Kenji Yamada, a hockey player, fan and enthusiast who has represented Japan's hockey program in various capacities at the International level.

"The Motor City Metal Jackets will provide its fans with an opportunity to see a high-quality, affordable brand of hockey while watching the sport's stars of tomorrow," said Yamada. "Our team is extremely family focused."

Hockey fans will witness an elite-level of student athlete and experience a world-class feeder league, which provides players a training ground for the NCAA, US Olympic program and professional ranks.

Ticket prices will also be extremely affordable for Metal Jackets fans. Season tickets, 27 home games, begin at $159/ticket. Family four packs of tickets for regular season games are only $20. Individual game tickets are $7/ticket. For ticket information, please visit, www.metaljacketshockey.com or call 734-642-0544.

TEE TIME Your local golf guide

Should golfers with a USGA index post a score from an unrated tee?

By Doug Hendershot

With nearly 900 Golf Courses in Michigan, there is certainly a wide range of USGA golf course ratings to select from. The Golf Association of Michigan has the sole responsibility to rate golf courses throughout the entire State, including the Upper Peninsula and parts of Canada. The GAM Staff, working with golf course management, agree on the number of tees to be rated by the course rating team. The rating team will rate tees for both Men and Women players. It is important to note, a tee that measures 5800 yards, will have a different USGA Course Rating and Slope for women vs. men from that same yardage.

Men and women playing from the same set of tees will have different ratings. Because the women's USGA

Course Rating usually will be higher, women receive additional stroke(s) equal to the difference between ratings, with .5 or greater rounded up. This is good reason to determine the proper number of tees needing a rate (more details on this matter later.)

At this time I would like to touch upon situations when a course rating may not be available for a set of tees. This could be a case of a newly constructed set of tees, or tees not rated in the past, simply too long or short and were not available to men or women to play from previously.

The USGA has a very specific set of guidelines to cover posting a score from an unrated set of tees on a Rated Golf Course. Authorized golf associations issue a USGA Course Rating and Slope for the most commonly played sets of tees.

If a USGA Course Rating and Slope Rating from a selected set of tees is not available for the appropriate gender, the player may apply the following procedure on a temporary basis.

- Locate the nearest set of tees for the appropriate gender.
- Determine the yardage difference between the set of tees being played and the rated set of tees.
- Using the table found at usga.org, under the Handicapping tab, Section 5, Scores, find the ratings adjustments from unrated tees for Men and Women. Follow the directions found in the Key, next to these tables.

This method may be used if a player plays a combination of tees. The player first determines the total yardage played then applies the above procedure.

If the Committee in charge of a competition has a set of tees for a competition course, this procedure may be used. This procedure is not a substitute for a formal USGA Course Rating and Slope Rating.

So now that we know how to make the proper adjustments to post from unrated tees, lets not forget that this should only be used on a temporary basis. How do we get this new favorite tee rated, on a permanent basis? The answer to that question is really up to players, and local course management, with the help of the GAM.

GAM receives many requests to rate additional sets of tees. These requests generally come from the Pro, or Superintendent, and can be based on the fact that players show an interest in trying a new look at their course. This is provided by playing their course at a new yardage, or even the popular combination of tees, using a blend of tees, that have different yardages. These are called combo tees.

GAM rates courses a minimum of every ten years. This is necessary to keep a golf course current with the licensing standards set by the USGA.

Extra sets of tees can be rated at this time, providing that the GAM has the new tees on their schedule. The GAM can also rate new tees and revamped tees at any time providing the request comes from local golf course management and is properly scheduled.

Doug Hendershot is the Director of Course Rating for the Golf Association of Michigan.

Freudenberg-NOK weathers tough economy as it marks 20 years

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Plymouth Township-based company with a global presence is reaching out to the community, and inward to its strengths, as it weathers the recession and marks its 20th year.

Freudenberg-NOK, which designs and manufactures seals and vibration-control products for the automotive, aerospace, agriculture, health care and other industries, launched community service projects this year at each of its locations around the world in recognition of its 20th anniversary.

Locally, employees have spruced up housing for developmentally disabled people in Plymouth, worked on a beautification project at Plymouth Township Park, and raised more than $4,000 for an emergency food pantry at the SOS Crisis Center in Ypsilanti.

"Freudenberg-NOK takes its commitment to social responsibility very seriously," said Mohsen Sohi, the president and chief executive officer.

Internally, the poor economy forced the company to scale back production, but Freudenberg-NOK kept key principals, like product development, quality and safety, intact, Sohi said. Freudenberg-NOK began as primarily an automotive supplier, but the move to diversify its markets has grown in recent years, he said.

Sohi, the CEO for six years, has experience in a range of sectors and multiple college degrees: a bachelor's in mechanical and aerospace engineering, a master's in business administration, and a doctorate in mechanical engineering.

He's motivated, he said, by the challenge of leading the company during tough times, but also gives credit to Freudenberg-NOK's work force of about 4,400.

"We have a large group and everybody has participated in pulling us through this," he said during a Tuesday interview at company headquarters.

While the auto industry is showing signs of recovery, he said, "you cannot claim the business is back. It stopped going down. We've seen a reversal in trend."

Chemist aides Mike Fisher (foreground) and Mike Leduc perform physical and mechanical characterizations of some of Freudenberg-NOK's polymeric materials.

Freudenberg-NOK employees add to a play area at Plymouth Township Park, part of a community service project that coincided with the company's 20th anniversary.

Still, he added, the auto industry so far is doing better than the industrial sector in general.

The auto downturn, Sohi said, is accompanied by permanent changes in the industry, especially increased global competition. While the Detroit area's Big Three survived the crisis, Sohi said, they're not likely to return to their former size.

Yet Sohi said he has confidence in the North American auto industry, and in Freudenberg-NOK's place in it.

The company has products, Sohi said, that fit with emerging automotive technology, such as battery-powered engines and gas-electric hybrids. It's also positioned to take advantage of the market for diesel-powered vehicles, which, Sohi said will gradually increase.

"I remain very optimistic about our business. I have no doubt that we'll have many more years," he said.

Sohi said Michigan needs to do a better job of positioning itself as a good place to do business. The state's advantages, he said, are its infrastructure, its colleges and universities, and its trained work force, but competition from other states is fierce.

Sohi said he likes what he's seen of the state's efforts to diversify its economic base.

"I think in general it's doing a good job of attracting industries other than auto," he said.

Founded in 1989, Freudenberg-NOK is a joint venture between Germany's Freudenberg & Co. and Japan's NOK Corp.

We are under way with our business development series on utilizing the Internet to enhance and grow business. Many people are signed up for each of the workshops, but there still is room to take a few additional reservations. During this month, Jon Bowerman of Powerful Design and Meaghan McCann of Search Ad Marketing are educating our members on Web sites, search engines, search marketing and social networking.

This series is intended to serve as a benefit of membership with no cost to attend these excellent workshops. We can accept up to 35 people for each session. To register for a workshop, please contact the Chamber at teri@plymouthmich.org or call 734-453-1540. Members can attend all four sessions or choose to attend individual sessions. Next Week's Workshop is "What Search Engines Do," presented by Jon Bowerman 8:30-9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Are people finding your Web site online? A good search engine strategy has little to do with how high you are ranked, but what you are ranked for. What does this mean? Come find out! You will learn what you can do to make sure people not only visit your site, but also stick around and come back.

Following workshops are on "Search Marketing," 8:30-9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 23; and "Social Media for Business," 8:30-9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 30, both presented by Meaghan McCann.

For more information on the workshop's content, contact the Chamber at (734) 453-1540.

Youngsters play on new equipment at St. Paul's Lutheran School in Livonia.

Grant buys new playground equipment for Lutheran school

Students at St. Paul Lutheran School started the new semester with a new play structure on the school playground.

The school, located in Livonia, received a $10,000 grant from Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC) of Southeastern Michigan and used the money to buy the new playground piece for students, church members and the greater community.

"The new structure is a true blessing. It will provide hours of fun filled activities for all," stated Charles Buege, principal at St. Paul's. St. Paul's Lutheran Church and School was founded in 1872. It moved to its current location, 17810 Farmington Road in 1970.

Fall brings renewed focus on faith for many families

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
CORRESPONDENT

Summer is almost over and people from Canton to Redford are back into their school routines and flocking back to services and religious education at places of worship.

Parents also are encouraged to take an active role in their children's religious education.

"There's an upswing in attendance, especially in September and October, when people are getting back in their fall routine to start the school year with an inspirational push to know they're a part of something bigger than themselves," according to the Rev. Jeff Nelson of Redford Aldersgate United Methodist Church.

"Families think: 'We can use some help to raise these kids.' They want to be with people who might give some advice."

Over time, some places of worship are finding religious education is getting shoved aside when parents juggle calendars filled with sports and other extracurricular activities in cyclones of hectic lifestyles.

The number of children in worship is up and Nelson is expecting an increase in families. Sunday school begins Sept. 20. Instruction of younger children should focus on developing a "meaningful and loving relationship with an adult that isn't their parent," he said. "It's an adult who says they are a valued member of the community, worthy of love and attention. It builds the lifelong relationships with other adults."

Over time, some places of worship are finding religious education is getting shoved aside when parents juggle calendars filled with sports and other extracurricular activities in cyclones of hectic lifestyles.

Some parents are opting to home school religious education. That's been a growing phenomenon at St. Colette Roman Catholic Church in Livonia, said Betty Haley, director of religious education.

"At one time religious education took priority over sports and school activities," Haley said. "Today, school activities and sports take precedence over religious education."

To accommodate the changes, registration at St. Colette extends a longer time while parents wait to secure their children's other schedules.

Whether a teacher or a parent says it, the message is the same: "The sacrament of Eucharist is the heart and center," Haley said. "The sacraments are those things that give us the graces to live the Christian life in a world that is counter-cultural to Christian living."

Grace is the inner life of God that is given to his followers, "so we can live out our relationship with God and others in this life," she added.

"To prepare for sacraments we have to be formed in faith so we know what we are doing," Haley said.

Faith formation, or religious education, outside of preparation for the sacraments, is to help teach the Catholic faith.

There's usually an increase in attendance during services and for religious education in September, according to the Rev. Eric Steimbrenner, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Livonia. Teen Bible Class and a separate adult class meets on Sunday mornings between church services at 9:45-10:45 a.m. beginning Sunday, Sept. 20. Last year, religious education participation was up slightly.

"Our purpose is to try strengthen them in the word of God," Steimbrenner said. "It's what the Holy Spirit gives them through the word of Christ. The healthiest part is that God is serving us through his word. It's vital to be where the word is."

Across town at The Hindu Temple of Canton religious education classes begin 1:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13.

"We teach values, like respecting parents, grandparents and teachers; behavior and doing services in the community," said Sures Shah, temple administrator.

Religious education at The Hindu Temple has grown from about 45 children 10 years ago, Shah said, to 130 children last year. This year he expects 150 children.

Each child must have at least one parent present at the temple in another room hearing lectures and learning about upcoming events. A new facility is planned at the same site and will allow for more classes and social areas.

At Adat Shalom Synagogue in Farmington Hills, Elissa Berg, director of education, said religious instruction during the last 10 years has become more interactive with parents.

"We ask parents to be a part of it much more than we used to and it's high energy," Berg said. "We're really trying to motivate the kids, as well as teach them. I think they (adults) come back in the fall, because it's the beginning of a new cycle-especially if they have kids."

Many children, Berg said, "have less experience with extended family and less people to learn from. Part of it is people are leaving Detroit for other opportunities. I strongly believe the participation of parents and family makes a huge difference in our success by reinforcing what we teach."

Children who attend services better understand what they are learning in class. "It's a living energy," she said. "It's not just theory."

Classical music alive and well in new season

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
CORRESPONDENT

Classical music has a bright future if two local orchestras have anything to say about it. The governing organizations of the Livonia and Plymouth Canton symphonies continue to work hard to combat the effects of an economic downturn and graying of the audience by instituting changes.

Now in its 64th season, the Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestras are introducing afternoon concerts to appeal to senior citizens and families. The Livonia Symphony Orchestra made the move to offer earlier programming a couple of years ago. Both realize that they must expand their audiences in order to exist.

While the LSO remains at Clarenceville High School on Saturday afternoons for nearly the entire season, the Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestras encourage classical music lovers to "Follow the Music" to a variety of venues, from The Village Theater at Cherry Hill in Canton to First Methodist Church in Plymouth for concerts on Sunday afternoons and Saturday evenings at the new time of 7:30 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

"We've grown to have more of a regional presence,"

Executive Director Beth Stewart said. "We're adding more professional musicians, grew the budget. Now everyone is paid, so that raises the level. We've gone to a fully professional orchestra."

RICH HISTORY

"The Plymouth Symphony has a long wonderful history to be around since 1945. When the symphony started, they played some concerts outside in a barn and what's true then as today is we're really fortunate to live in an area rich with classical musicians. Because of our location to the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, there are a lot of great classically trained musicians to choose from," Stewart added.

The PSCO's Celebration Youth Orchestra entices musicians to develop a love for classical music early on. Contemporary classical music lovers are drawn by the compositions featured on each program. Music director/conductor Nan Washburn programs one on each concert.

"Nan loves to program contemporary (music) by living composers and that's an orchestra builder," Stewart said. "They can play Bach and Beethoven just about anywhere. The thing that is special is to play music by a living composer and usually we have them with us."

Innovative programming costs money, yet neither orchestra has cut the number of concerts it offers this season despite the lack of grants from the state of Michigan and a decline in business and corporate support. The orchestra budget is $280,000 for 2009-10, almost $100,000 less than two years ago.

"We're facing challenges," Stewart said. "To try to save

Conductor Nan Washburn and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will pay tribute to Hollywood and Abraham Lincoln during the upcoming concert season.

money, we moved our offices to the Plymouth Community Arts Council. We're helping to share equipment and expenses and looking to do fund-raising together, programs. The arts council is renovating the building next door and we plan to have studios for musicians to give lessons. The orchestra and youth orchestra are in second year of rehearsing there."

LSO SUPPORTERS

The LSO is extremely grateful for the support of the community. Funding from Livonia Town Hall, Livonia Community Foundation, Livonia Anniversary Committee and Livonia Arts Commission has made it possible to roll back prices on the annual golf outing fund-raiser to $89.

"It's the $25 to $100 donations," said Rose Kachnowski, LSO president. "It's usually the people who can't afford it, give what they can to keep the symphony going."

The LSO budget remains steady at $100,000. Instead of cost-cutting measures, the board has voted to spend money on marketing its 37th season.

"We're hooking up with WRCJ(-FM 90.9), advertising each of the five concerts with ticket giveaways," Kachnowski said. "We're adding new events. After each concert, we're partnering with Fleming's Steakhouse for afterglows. Also new this year, we're starting the Spotlight Series at Greenmead (Historical Park). It's an evening to get to know the conductor, Volodymyr Sheshiuk. He'll discuss his time with the Bolshoi Theater during a reception and lecture on Oct. 1. Our season opener is a pops concert, Oct. 17, the second a Christmas theme with Bunny Sanford's dancers. The third is Anthony Bonamici, a Livonia native coming back from Russia, the fourth violinist Anton Shelepov, and the fifth at Ward Church is a requiem with Madonna University Chorale under Dave Wagner, and the Ward choir. Nov. 20, is an American celebration fund-raiser.

"We're trying to do a lot for the community by keeping the interest there. We hope to try to make things affordable. We gave out tickets last year, primarily to people who have never seen the orchestra. People can call our 24-hour line, for people who have lost their jobs. It's our way of giving back to the community."

Schoolcraft Culinary Extravaganza 2009: Food, wine event benefits scholarship

Schoolcraft College Foundation will host a celebration of food and wine 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 27, in the VisiTech Center at the Livonia campus, Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

The extravaganza brings together students, food professionals and the southeast Michigan community. The event provides patrons with samples of some of the finest culinary delicacies from the most notable restaurants, pastry shops and beverage vendors in the metropolitan area.

The event benefits the Culinary Arts Program and Schoolcraft College students by providing scholarships and grants.

Thousands of students have earned a degree, learned the skills for a rewarding career or received preparation to transfer to a four-year university with help from foundation scholarships.

Scholarships, especially in these difficult economic times, are often the difference that makes education a reality, said Craig Bowles, chair of this year's event and secretary of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Raffle tickets also help the fund-raising efforts and are available for online purchase at $5 each or three for $10.

The drawing will be held at Culinary Extravaganza. Ticket purchasers don't have to be present to win.

Prizes are: $1,000, first place; $500, second place; $250 for third and fourth places; and dinner for two at American Harvest for fifth, sixth and seventh places.

Painting pro takes to the screen to teach skills

BY JULIE BROWN
OSE STAFF WRITER

Tom Sweeney's been in the painting business some 23 years, and says business is good.

"I have a lot of repeat customers," said Sweeney, who lives with his family in Plymouth Township. "They're happy with my work so they keep calling me."

About 10 years ago, the owner of Sweeney Painting got the idea for a video on painting properly. "It was actually before DVDs became popular," said Sweeney, current president of the Rotary Club of Plymouth A.M.

He ended up with three DVDs, "Paint Like a Pro" ($16.95), "Drywall Repairs" ($11.95) and "Easy Wallpaper Removal" ($11.95). Those watching the DVDs can go to a menu and watch the section they need, although Sweeney noted watching the entirety is a great way to learn.

Subjects like painting preparation are divided into such subsections as caulking. "I show you what you need to know about caulking," said Sweeney, who appears in the DVDs.

"I'm showing my technique. I hired a professional film crew." He did writing and outlining, and hired out the filming and editing from professionals with that expertise.

Filming took over a year, and was delayed when one woman developed breast cancer. She's doing better.

Information on Sweeney's project is online at www.thepaintingguru.com, where DVDs can be ordered through Amazon.

Sweeney doesn't push the DVDs on his regular customers, but has used YouTube for marketing. He hasn't done his big Internet marketing push yet. His favorite section is the credits where viewers meet his family in a comedic skit.

He'd bought a foreclosed home for investment purposes in the winter. "I saw a good opportunity to do it this past winter," and that kept him busy.

The DVDs are in several area Teknicolors store locations in Farmington Hills, Redford, Birmingham and Pontiac. Sweeney didn't get any Michigan film tax credits for his project. "I actually filmed this before they had that," he said of the state initiative.

Sweeney had done some procrastinating on the DVD project, and got some family help getting off the fence as he talked about his plans. His brother said, "Year, right, sure you are." That kind of spurred me to do it."

He's pleased with business that comes through word of mouth, but is getting fewer calls for home interior work. He continues to do exteriors. "They still want to protect their investment and keep their outside nice."

He's been getting some calls to "spice up" properties for sale, including a lot of wallpaper removal. Sweeney worked on one condo that had been on the market over a year, taking out wallpaper from all rooms and painting them.

"That condo sold within a month," he said, adding the wallpaper could have been a turn-off and the buyers may have not wanted to do their own painting.

For do-it-yourselfers, he finds the biggest mistakes include not buying quality equipment like the right brushes and roller cover. "That makes a huge difference."

Premium paints are better as they cover more square feet per gallon, he said. You may run out of paint before the work's done if you buy an inferior brand.

The importance of a nice tape job is critical, Sweeney said. Just because the tape is blue or is labeled painters tape does not mean it will give you professional results. That's covered extensively in his painting DVD.

Many people do their own interiors, but exteriors can be a challenge, especially for those not comfortable on ladders. He recommends hiring a pro if that's your situation: "That's the best way to go."

Sweeney Painting can be reached at (734) 679-6300 or tom@thepaintingguru.com.

Tom Sweeney has a new video out that can teach you how to paint like a pro. Others in the series address drywall and wallpaper.

President may need removal

Q: I am a member of a condominium board who is perplexed with our new president. She has gained control of the association and thinks that she has more power than anyone else. She has fired our CPA and is unhappy with our property manager because she says they are too expensive. She has been rude to both of them and I am afraid we are going to lose other vendors. What can I do?

A: This appears to be a typical situation where someone has been promoted to the level of incompetency and/or thrust with power that they cannot handle. The board acts as a whole through a majority vote and no one person has the authority to take action without the approval of the Board of Directors. The fact that she has apparently alienated the CPA and/or property manager is apparently a precursor for coming attractions. This will, no doubt, bring havoc to your association. You should convene the board and put the issue on the agenda for discussion by the board confronting the president with your concerns. You may also wish to have the attorney for the association involved in that process. The board may have to remove her as president.

Q: My real estate agent has told me that I don't need an attorney to review the purchase agreement because it is a form issued by the local Board of Realtors. Is that a good idea?

A: No, each purchase agreement should be reviewed by a knowledgeable real estate lawyer before it is signed or made subject to the purchaser's attorney's review before it becomes binding. You need a new agent who is more honest in regard to your rights being protected as opposed to garnering a quick but uninformed purchase.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
