PIPELINE

Turkey time

Requests for Thanksgiving help are coming in to the Plymouth Salvation Army, and Salvation Army officials are hoping to get some help, as well.

With some 200 calls already in and three weeks to go, the Salvation Army, which fed nearly 270 families last year, is looking for folks willing to donate turkeys to help its Thanksgiving meal program.

"It's a tough time of year, and there are a lot of people who need help," said Laurie Aren, the Plymouth Salvation Army's director of family and community ministries.

"Donations help us meet that need." Donations of frozen turkeys — and other food items — can be arranged by calling the Plymouth Salvation Army, (734) 453-5464, or by dropping off donations at the Corps' headquarters on Main Street just south of Ann Arbor Road. Food must be donated by Nov. 20 for distribution Nov. 23-24.

Tax help

If you need help with your taxes, the Internal Revenue Service is offering a free Solution Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Nov. 7 at 477 Michigan Avenue, 20th floor, Detroit, MI 48226. Detroit is one of only five cities selected for the program. Foreclosure, bankruptcy, payment plans, penalties, past-due tax returns and other complex tax issues can be a challenge for taxpayers. Many of these issues require contact with specific IRS departments and tax experts. Solution Saturday brings together IRS employees from across the agency to work face-to-face with taxpayers to address unique tax problems or issues. Taxpayers are encouraged to schedule appointments by calling (313) 628-3120.

Toxic toys

State Reps. Dian Slavens (D-Canton) and Marc Corriveau (D-Northville) will hold a special town hall meeting 6-8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 9, at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road, for parents to learn how to protect their children from toxic toys and to have their kids' toys and other products tested for harmful chemicals.

The meeting features representatives from the Ann Arbor-based Ecology Center, who will perform free testing on toys and other children's products.

Slavens, who represents Canton, and Corriveau, whose district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, will also discuss legislation that passed the House earlier this year that will protect children from toxic chemicals.

Residents can call Slavens' office toll-free at (888) 347-8021 or send an e-mail to DianSlavens@house.mi.gov, or call Corriveau's office toll-free at (877) 208-4737 or send an e-mail to MarcCorriveau@house.mi.gov.

Election night 'in with old' - mostly

City commissioner Dave Workman had a hug for Stella Greene, who fell just short in her bid for re-election Tuesday.

Greene falls, Dwyer returns in city commission race

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

An incumbent Plymouth City Commission member was ousted, a former member returned and a challenger was elected to his first public office Tuesday in a decision made by less than 20 percent of the city's voters.

Commissioner Stella Greene lost her bid for a fifth elected term when she finished fifth on Tuesday with 599 votes. Meanwhile, Dan Dwyer, a two-term former commissioner, finished first with 834 votes. He was followed by incumbents Gerald Sabatini (810 votes) and Ron Loiselle (767 votes) and newcomer John Barrett (728 votes).

"You've got an awesome responsibility on you now," Greene told Barrett, a retired educator, when the results were announced at City Hall about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Greene, who joined the commission as an appointee in 1992 and won election the following year, said the results reflected a recent influx of younger voters into Plymouth. It was the first race, she said, in which she didn't do door-to-door campaigning, and that could have made the difference.

"The voters made their decision and I respect that decision," she said.

Greene said she'll stay active in the community, and spoke highly of the new commission, which will have no women on it. "It's a strong commission. They'll do exceedingly well," she said.

Incumbents, Davis earn school board positions

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Adrienne Davis doesn't want to be known solely as the first African American to be elected to the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

But that doesn't mean she isn't happy to have that honor.

She earned it Tuesday, finishing third in a five-way race for three, four-year terms on the board. Davis, who owns Different Drums Educational Services, an educational services company that partners with the Michigan Council on Economic Education to teach children about various components of education, earned 5,051 votes to finish behind incumbents Judy Mardigian and Barry Simescu.

Davis outdistanced fellow Plymouth Township residents Eric Baczynski (3,514) and Larry Martin (3,510).

John Jackson ran unopposed for a single, two-year term.

"I'm honored, I'm excited and I'm humbled," Davis said of her election. "When you look at the changing demographics, it's an honor to represent (diversity). I don't want to be pigeon-holed, thought of just as the diversity candidate. But it's a plus. I can be that ear that tunes and maybe helps shape policy."

While Mardigian, the longest-tenured board member, agrees Davis shouldn't be regarded solely as the first African American to be elected, she does think Davis' election is a big step for the district.

"I think it's huge," Mardigian said of Davis' election. "It reflects the diversity in our district, and it helps bring that perspective to the board. I know (Davis) will keep that as a big part of our decisions."

Davis is joined on the board by the returning Mardigian, the top vote-getter at 6,530 votes, and Simescu, who got 5,325 votes. Both expressed appreciation for the voters.

"I'm very pleased, and I appreciate the support," Simescu said. "Now we get to work on the budget, and that's going to be a challenge."

The budget, Mardigian agrees, is the biggest issue facing not only the new board — which Davis will join in January — but the current board. Facing a potential $5.5 million cut from the state, PCCS board members must find a way to trim the budget, hopefully without affecting student achievement.

And she thinks the election shows voters think the right people are in place to deal with it.

"I think it's a vote of confidence for the things the board is doing," Mardigian said. "I think people realize these are difficult times."

Parkside owner winds down 30-year career

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

As a young boy in the 1930s, Kal Jabara clipped outdoor scenes from old calendars, framed them as best he could and hung them on the walls of his bedroom in the northern Lower Peninsula town of Mancelona.

"I loved the out-of-doors," said Jabara, who still likes to fish and hunt. "Growing up up north, you're kind of close to everything."

Thus were planted the seeds of a lifelong interest in outdoor and wildlife art, which, decades later, Jabara turned into a successful retail career that he's now winding down.

Jabara is bidding farewell to his downtown Plymouth store, Parkside Gallery, through which he's sold artists' depictions of nature

Kal Jabara opened the gallery 30 years ago as a temporary project when real estate and building stopped due to sky-high interest rates.

Police seek local man in home invasion case

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Canton police are asking for help in locating a 28-year-old man wanted for questioning following a string of home invasions during the past two weekends in the township.

Police have released a photo of Eric Mark Matthews, whose last known address was in Plymouth. Anyone who has information is asked to call the Canton Police Department at (734) 394-5400. Tips for a possible cash reward up to $1,000 also may be made to Crime Stoppers of Michigan by calling (800) SPEAK-UP. Three of the home invasions happened southeast of Palmer and Canton Center, and three others occurred in the Palmer-Lotz area, police Sgt. Mark Gajeski said. "It's unknown if this guy is linked to all six," Gajeski said, but he is wanted for questioning after police say he could possibly be linked to some stolen property that was recovered. A variety of items including hockey equipment and cash had been taken during the home invasions, Gajeski said. Entry was made into at least some of the homes after an intruder or intruders broke into vehicles and used garage door openers to get inside, Gajeski said.

Prelude to states

Marchers use Halloween to scare up high score

BY DIANE HANSON
CORRESPONDENT

The darkening sky on All Hallows Eve was the perfect backdrop for the deep bah-bump, bah-bump of the beating heart, the stealthy creeping movements of the color guard, the resonating creak of the grinding hinges and the eerie melodic strains emanating from the 170-member Plymouth-Canton Marching Band as they performed their competition show, "Beneath the Surface," at the Huron Valley Marching Band Invitational at Lakeland High School in White Lake.

"It was a very appropriate show for today," said a smiling David Armbruster, director of bands at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. But that wasn't all he had to smile about.

His talented performers also scared up their highest score this season, 90.9, capturing the Flight I first-place trophy along with all three caption awards for Best Music, Best Marching, and Best General Effect. In spite of not being able to utilize all the props due to 20-mph chilly wind gusts, not only were they the highest-scoring of all 21 competing bands, but also the only band in the state to crack the 90s to date (other scores can be checked out at www.themcba.org).

"The band did wonderfully," said associate director Sheldon Frazier. "We're so proud of them. They have come a very long way with a very difficult show and they are handling it very well. The only thing we hope will change at this point is the quality of the performance. It's only going up from here."

And that's just exactly what the hometown marchers are gearing up for.

"We worked so hard these past couple of weeks and it really has all come together," said Canton junior Kaitlyn Tracy, one of the three drum majors. "It's so exciting. There is such a performance element to this show and we've added a lot of new stuff."

Synthesizer player and Salem senior Nicole Fenwick noted, "This is a fun show and it is really exciting. It is definitely my favorite of all four years. It is a really complex show this year and it takes a lot of time and practice, but it is all worth it."

That's certainly music to the ears of the directors, who appreciate the kudos they receive, but give major credit to the students and staff for the incredible success of this year's competition performance.

"We couldn't do it without this staff," said Armbruster. "Our staff is amazing - Alan Spaeth, Bass drummer Joe Lewis keeps the beat during the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band's highest-scoring performance at the Huron Valley Invitational in White Lake Saturday.

Jen Leseth, Lee Falvey, Sean McElroy, and the support staff we have."

Staff and students alike will be putting in the hours this last week before the State Championships at Ford Field Nov. 7. The 40 highest-scoring Michigan high school marching bands - 10 in each of Flights I, II, III and IV - will be vying for top honors.

And while Election Day Tuesday was a day off for most in the district, the P-CMB students and staff were putting in a full day, not to mention the usual three hours after school each day this week tweaking and cleaning an already outstanding show.

Sense of duty, not issues, motivated Plymouth voters

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A sense of duty and a general satisfaction with city government motivated several of the voters who participated in Tuesday's Plymouth City Commission election.

Conversations on Tuesday with eight voters outside the city's only polling place, the Plymouth Cultural Center, revealed no consensus of concern on a single pressing issue, only a wariness of the future as city officials face what are expected to be reduced revenues in the coming years.

For the most part, the voters thought their local government was working well, and they turned out Tuesday because they wanted to keep it that way - and strongly felt it was their responsibility to participate.

"I'm pretty happy with our current city government," said Marilyn Alimpich. "I think they've been managing things quite well considering the economy we've had in the last few years."

"I think it's everyone's civic duty" to vote, said Tom Bastin. "Be a part of your community. Get involved."

Seventeen-year resident Tony Sebastian likes that current commissioners work together amicably, something, he said, that hasn't always been true of past commissions. "Things seem to work better that way," he said.

"I love Plymouth," said Pam Antil. "I think it's a great town. I think it's well run." Antil added that, given the likely revenue reductions in the future, it's important that city officials continue long-term planning to manage costs.

Some 1,298 Plymouth voters, just over 18 percent of those eligible, cast ballots in Tuesday's election, and nearly half of those were absentee ballots.

Some voters on Tuesday expressed dismay with the turnout.

Gillian Easton, who immigrated from Great Britain and became a citizen in 2001, was voter number 78 in Precinct 2 about 45 minutes before the polls closed.

"That shocks me. It's so disappointing," said Easton. "It's so important, what people do with their vote."

ELECTION

"I'm thrilled," said Barrett, who added he was looking forward to working with the other commissioners. "These are all very outstanding individuals."

Barrett estimated he covered about 75 percent of the city in his door-to-door campaign. The reaction from voters was positive, he said.

"By and large people were very excited to have someone knock on the door and come talk to them," said Barrett, who also thanked his supporters. Barrett retired this year as the principal at Farmington High School, where he had spent a 43-year career as a teacher and administrator.

Sabatini, by finishing second, won a four-year term, which had been his goal. His two previous terms were two years each. "I'm very grateful to the voters who supported me," he said. Dwyer and Loiselle also won four-year former Planning Commission member who did not actively campaign and indicated she would not serve if elected.

Some 1,298 voters participated in the election, nearly half of them through absentee ballots. That's a little more than 18 percent of the city's nearly 7,000 registered voters.

for nearly 30 years.

"I'll miss the people the most. I love meeting and talking to people," Jabara said. "That's probably the strongest part of the business."

Parkside, on Main Street at Ann Arbor Trail, was crowded last Thursday, the first day of its closing sale. Jabara wants to be out by the end of the year.

"He's certainly going to be missed," said Angeline Nexsen of Garden City, who was shopping for bargains on Thursday. "You can't buy everything," she mused as she bustled around the store.

Nexsen, herself an artist who's lately into Oriental brushwork painting, said she's been a fan of Parkside (formerly Wild Wings) since it opened in 1980. She likes the scenes of nature, the religious art, and Detroit Red Wings memorabilia.

"I know, as an artist, some of the work that's here is just beautiful," she said.

Starting out as Wild Wings, on Ann Arbor Trail near Harvey, Jabara sold wildlife- and outdoor-themed art and gifts exclusively. It's a market that was strong for many years, he said; when it diminished, he branched out into religious items, sports themes, city scenes, and unique furniture and household goods. Parkside sells decorative lamps and pillows, plaques and oil-painting reproductions, art books and calendars, carvings and statues, mugs and bowls.

"You go in not looking for any particular thing, but you always find something," said Nexsen.

Jabara opened the gallery in March 1980, after leaving a manufacturing company in Redford Township that he and his brother, former Plymouth City Commission member and mayor Jim Jabara, had sold three years earlier.

"I could've been totally retired, but I can't sit around. I need to do something," he said.

The original Wild Wings was "a temporary thing," he said. "It continued to be a fun thing to do and a good thing to be involved with," Jabara said.

He later had two other Wild Wings stores in the Detroit area, both of which are closed. The Plymouth store's name changed to Parkside in 2002 after Cabela's, the outdoors equipment retailer, bought the Wild Wings company.

Jabara said he made it a mission to promote Michigan artists, and that he got a lot of satisfaction out of doing so.

But it's the right time to retire, Jabara said. Parkside's lease is up at the end of the year, he said, and he'll turn 83 next month. And, with the recession, the market's not as strong as it used to be, he said.

"Every retailer has suffered somewhat," he said.

Jabara said he'll find things to keep him busy after Parkside closes, like traveling, or perhaps leading commercial construction projects, something he has done before.

"I can't stay home all day," he said. "That's not me."

PUBLIC SAFETY

Officer's extra work designed to blunt crime's impact

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Officer Tony Angelosanto is working harder in order to make his job easier.

That's not a contradiction, but the way the Plymouth Police Department veteran describes his commitment to his crime-prevention work, which he manages to squeeze in around his regular patrol duties.

Angelosanto is the department's one-man crime prevention bureau. He talks to civic groups and schoolkids, tells people how to make their homes and businesses safer, oversees school safety drills and develops a rapport with residents and business owners that could help catch a suspect or solve a crime — or prevent one.

"It makes our job easier," Angelosanto said of his extra duties. "If I can come out and make your house safer, that might be a B and E (breaking and entering) report that we don't take."

Angelosanto, who has 13 years with the department, in June graduated from the Detroit Police Department's two-week crime prevention school, and added to his skills last month during a four-day seminar sponsored by the Crime Prevention Association of Michigan. Seminar topics included Neighborhood Watch, the value of street-level contacts with residents and business owners, and the importance of not letting crime-prevention duties dull one's vigilance as a police officer.

"You're wearing the uniform and you could be called out to a bank robbery at any time," Angelosanto said. "You still need to think like a law enforcement officer, like you're still working the street."

And Angelosanto is still working the street, patrolling Plymouth on 12-hour daytime shifts. He estimates he puts 15 to 20 hours a week toward crime prevention.

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Officer Anthony Angelosanto.

Commercial growth in recent years and a lively downtown, he said, has increased the need even for a community as safe as Plymouth to take a proactive stance on crime prevention.

"The community needs it, especially the business community. We have a lot more activity going on in the evenings here," he said.

Angelosanto is pushing his safety surveys; he'll come out to a home, business or apartment building and note basic changes that could be made to improve safety and make the place a less desirable crime target. Outdoor lighting, for example, might need to be improved, shrubs might need to be trimmed for better visibility, a window or a door might need to be better secured, or an alarm or camera system installed. "You're designing a safe environment," he said.

Angelosanto, who grew up in Livonia, worked in the food and hospitality industry for years before becoming a police officer. He has a culinary arts degree from Schoolcraft College.

But police work, he said, is something he'd long thought about. Knowing he's made a difference is what keeps him motivated, he said.

"It might've been helping a kid out on a particular day, giving him advice," Angelosanto said. "On another day it could be arresting an armed robber."

Homeowner nabs vandalism suspect, who agrees to cleanup

A 16-year-old vandalism suspect was caught by the owner of a house on Hollywood, in Plymouth Township, after a brief foot chase Friday night.

The homeowner told police he was awakened just after 11 p.m. by the sound of eggs hitting the house, and went outside to chase down the suspect, according to a Plymouth Township Police Department report.

There were reportedly two other teens involved in throwing eggs and strewing toilet paper on the property, the report said.

The suspect was handed over to police, then released to his parents and ordered to appear in 35th District Court later on a charge of malicious destruction of property, police said.

He also agreed, police said, to return to the house on Hollywood the next morning to clean up the mess.

Garage break-in

A leaf-blower, a power sander and a power drill were reported stolen from the garage at a house on Hackberry after a break-in Saturday or Sunday.

The garage had been entered, a police report said, after a window was damaged. The break-in occurred between 5 p.m. Saturday and shortly before 5 p.m. Sunday.

Larceny from garage

An air compressor and power tools were reported stolen from the garage of a house on Revere on Saturday.

The theft occurred between about 10 a.m. and 8:30 p.m., the victim told police. The garage had been left open.

The tools, however, had been kept in a locked cabinet; police said the lock was broken.

The incident occurred in the parking lot of Zack's, a restaurant at South Main and Ann Arbor Road, a police report said. The car was locked, but a window had been left open, police said.

Money Matters

Energy Matters

Save with federal energy tax credits

In 2009 and 2010, homeowners can enjoy federal tax credits of 30 percent of cost, up to $1,500 when they make improvements to their existing homes in the following areas:

- Windows and doors
- Insulation
- Roofs (metal and asphalt)
- Heating & cooling (HVAC)
- Water heaters (non-solar)
- Biomass stoves

According to the Energy Star website (energystar.gov/taxcredits) the criteria for tax credits are:

- Equipment must be placed in service from January 1, 2009 through December 31, 2010;
- Equipment must be for taxpayer's principal residence, except for geothermal heat pumps, solar water heaters, solar panels, and small wind energy systems (where second homes qualify);
- $1,500 is the maximum total amount that can be claimed for all products placed in service in 2009 & 2010 for most home improvements, except for geothermal heat pumps, solar water heaters, solar panels, fuel cells, and small wind energy systems which are not subject to this cap, and are in effect through 2016;
- Equipment must have a "Manufacturer Certification Statement" to qualify for record keeping.

ADVERTISING FEATURE — BY ALISON BERGSIEKER

Read on for advice from a local home, heating and cooling expert:

- "Get an in-home energy analysis to make sure your equipment is running at its peak performance to keep your monthly operating costs down. We have computer software that checks out your current heating and air system. Then we do a cost comparison between energy efficient hybrid heating systems."

— Doug Walter Jr., Owner of Hi-Tech Heating & Cooling in Canton

Small business owners face a variety of financial challenges, from securing financing and creating a marketing plan, to maintaining accounting books and minimizing tax liabilities. Regardless of whether business owners do the book-keeping themselves or outsource it, they are responsible for staying organized and strategizing to increase the bottom line.

Standard deductions, such as automobile expenses, must be tracked on a regular basis. Automobile expenses can either be tracked by multiplying mileage by the standard mileage rate of 55 cents for 2009, or by claiming the actual business-related expenses for the vehicle. (Note that standard mileage rates cannot be included on Forms 1065, 1120 and 1120S.)

In addition, travel expenses can include the cost of plane tickets, taxis or vehicles, as well as lodging and meals if the primary purpose of the trip is business. When family or friends accompany the business owner, just the owner's travel expenses can be deducted. Expenses related to advertising, promotions, interest on borrowed money (with record of where and how the money was spent) and bank fees are also fully deductible.

The amount and purpose of all expenses should be documented and tracked in the event that the IRS requests proof of expenditures. A receipt-scanning program such as Shoeboxed helps users to quickly and easily store and categorize receipts with deductible expenses. Mileage logs should include odometer readings, total miles driven, percent of mileage used for business, destination and purpose of the trip.

Tax Matters

Money-saving, year-round tax tips for small business owners

Other expenses are more challenging to discern, but the time taken to research and document them can save thousands of dollars in taxes owed. Legal and professional fees are generally deductible in the year they are incurred. However, if the consultation relates to future years, the fees must be deducted over the life of the benefit. Business entertainment expenses may be 50 percent deductible if business is discussed during the gathering. The business purpose and attendees should always be noted on the receipt or bill.

Higher contribution limits for 2009 allow business owners to save additional retirement money. For example:

- SEP and profit-sharing plan limits increased from $46,000 in 2008 to $49,000 in 2009.
- The defined benefit (pension plan) limit increased from $185,000 to $195,000.
- 401(k) elective deferrals are now $16,500 versus $15,500 in 2008. In addition, those age 55 or older can contribute another $5,500, up from $5,000 in 2008.

The 2009 tax year brings changes that can minimize tax liability for all small businesses. A tax-free reimbursement for bicycle commuting can be passed onto employees, up to $20 per month for buying, maintaining and storing a bicycle used to travel to and from work. Businesses with Health Savings Accounts (HSAs) can contribute more this year, up to $3,000 for individual high deductible health plans, and $5,950 for family coverage. Those 55 years and older can add $1,000 to those amounts.

Don't overlook the small stuff because it all adds up. Deductions for bad debts (goods sold, not services), customer gifts, business-related books, postage, seminars and trade shows, business association dues and even coffee exist.

At the end of the day, small business owners need to find an expense tracking and filing system that works best for them. The old-fashioned use of folders categorized by expense type or date range is ideal for some. Others prefer technological solutions, which also provide data back up. Important receipts, charitable contributions, bank statements, credit card bills and other key documents can be scanned and filed by fiscal quarter. Owners should make copies for themselves or their accountant.

Tax software can be used throughout the year to help small business owners understand how different financial decisions can affect their tax situation. By organizing early, owners can plan ahead, maximize deductions and save time when it's time to prepare their tax returns. TaxACT customers who pre-order their Preparer's Business software can use preview versions as soon as they're released. Previous versions of TaxACT Preparer's Business 1065, 1120 and 1120S are released in October, with final versions released in January.

Insurance Matters

Top 10 tips for purchasing life insurance

We all know getting life insurance is an important step in building a financial plan, and that it's easy to put off getting a policy because of uncertainty about life insurance and how it works. With these 10 expert tips, you'll be prepared to make the purchase that will protect you for life.

1. Consider why you need it

Life insurance doesn't simply insure your life; it helps ensure the well-being of your loved ones if you're unable to do so.

2. Maintain your health

Make wise health decisions today - you may need to undergo a medical exam to determine your insurability. The better your health, the better your policy rate. Take advantage of the opportunity to save money by getting in shape.

3. Determine the right amount of coverage

Before selecting an insurance company, figure out how much coverage you need. Online calculators can help determine your life insurance and other financial needs. A simple, alternative approach is to multiply your annual salary by seven; the average recommended amount of coverage.

4. Choose a provider

One of the best ways to buy life insurance is directly through a life insurance company. Just like certain stores specialize in clothing or electronics, life insurance companies specialize too. Do research to find the one that fits your situation. Use the Internet, friends and family; they're all valuable resources.

5. Consider your preferences

The Internet is one of the most efficient ways to maintain your policy. Find a company with the technology that allows you to manage your account and conduct transactions online. A good company will offer multiple alternatives. Perhaps you prefer to make transactions in another language, over the phone or in person. Look for a company that offers these options.

6. Do your homework

Once you have selected an insurance company, get a quote online so you have more information to help you in your decision-making process. Think over the questions you'll be asked. Who are your beneficiaries? What's your financial situation? What do you plan to use the coverage for?

Then call to speak with a licensed agent, or consider purchasing your policy online. Your agent will have an understanding of the changes you face that could affect your coverage or beneficiaries, and will work with you about coverage for life stages such as marriage, starting a family, or retirement.

7. Find the policy that works for your life stage

There are many different types of life insurance products, and learning about the available options will provide you the most comfort and security. A term policy will help you secure protection at the lowest rate for a specified period of time. If you can pay a little more money, a whole life policy may allow you to lock-in a more affordable rate early on, keep that rate for life, and give you the option to borrow the cash value of the policy.

8. Consider the financial benefits of the policy you choose

Life insurance policies offer many financial benefits. Under current tax laws, your beneficiaries may not have to pay federal income tax on the money they receive from a life insurance policy. Accelerated death benefit riders, under certain circumstances, may allow you to receive a percentage of your life insurance death benefits during your lifetime.

9. Create a relationship with your insurance company

When you speak with your insurance company, write down the name of the agent that helps you, and what's discussed, so you'll be prepared for any follow up. Check the company's Web site for updates and take advantage of additional financial tools and resources the company has to offer.

10. Manage your financial future

Be proactive in making sure you have the right coverage at every stage of life. Periodically review your personal circumstances and the products you own. Make sure your coverage fits your needs and does not lapse.

Despite these uncertain times you can take control of your financial future and get the right coverage for you and your family. ## Estate Matters

Three reasons you need a last will

If you've been paying attention to celebrity news, you've probably noticed several cases where courts are tied up with relatives and lawyers fighting over estates, children and money. One reason these cases take time — and money — to be resolved is because of the absence of an updated will.

No matter how young, healthy, wealthy or prepared for retirement you are, you can't predict what will happen in the future. But you can make your wishes for the future known, especially those that involve your family after your death.

A last will could be the most important document you ever sign. Without one, the courts determine what happens to your assets — and your minor children — when you die.

"Individuals of all ages and stages in life need to think about and create a will so their final wishes are followed," says Brian Liu, co-founder and chairman of LegalZoom.com. "Having a last will is very important for families. This protects loved ones and reduces — or even eliminates — confusion during a very difficult time."

Here are three reasons everyone should organize a last will:

1. Children. If you have minor children, you need to specify guardians. A will allows you — and not court system — to determine who would best care for your children and raise them the way you would rear them.

2. Property. Recording your wishes for the distribution of your assets and property not only ensures that your decisions are honored but it can also help your family avoid destructive conflicts over these issues.

3. Final decisions. Grieving the loss of a loved one is hard enough to handle. Sparing your loved ones the stress and anxiety of determining how you would like to be honored and remembered can be avoided with a will.

Preparing a last will isn't difficult, and services like LegalZoom.com make the process easier and affordable. LegalZoom helps you create reliable legal documents from your home or office. Simply answer a few questions online and your documents will be prepared within 48 hours. Your answers are reviewed for consistency and common mistakes, and the company guarantees your satisfaction.

By completing a last will online and keeping it updated, you can have all of your final wishes followed, and save your family plenty of stress.

Finance Matters

Five basic steps to financial security in any economy

Virtually everyone today is feeling the affect of the current economy; none of us is untouched by it. Here's the good news. If you can anticipate financial changes and develop a sound financial plan, you can protect yourself and your family today, and for many years to come.

Achieve financial security by following five basic steps:

1. Begin an emergency cash fund

- Create a savings account and resolve to pay yourself first by setting aside 5 to 10 percent of your salary each month.
- Automatically transfer money from your checking account to your savings so that you're not tempted to spend the funds elsewhere.
- Aim to save three to six months of living expenses in the account for emergencies.

2. Pay down your credit cards

- Credit card debt is the No. 1 obstacle to a secure financial future, and knowing your credit score is essential.
- You're allowed one free credit check annually with each of the major credit bureaus: Experian, TransUnion and Equifax.
- Check your credit score; it determines your interest rates on loans and credit cards, and may help save you money throughout your life.
- Check your report for errors and report any immediately. Bureaus are required to investigate and correct errors once you report them.

• If you feel you need further assistance with your credit contact the National Foundation for Credit Counseling at 800-388-2227.

3. Create a financial plan using life insurance as the foundation

- Purchase life insurance. It is the foundation of a strong financial plan and can protect your family during an unexpected turn of events, such as loss of life or loss of income.
- Educate yourself. Certain types of policies accumulate cash value that can be used for larger expenses, such as college, while others may be used to help create a legacy of giving that can last for generations to come.
- An insufficient life insurance plan can expose your family to significant financial risks. To learn more about life insurance, call (866) 331-3078 and speak with a life insurance specialist with SBLI USA, a company that specializes in life insurance policies. Or, go to www.sbliusa.com to get a free, no-obligation quote.

4. Empower yourself by creating a budget

- Be prudent with your spending. Write down everything you spend each month and cut back on non-essentials.
- Apply these savings toward reducing your credit card debt. Start by paying off your high-interest cards first.

- Explain to your family that everyone needs to contribute to the expense cutting. Making it a family effort will increase everyone's willpower.
- Use cost-cutting strategies to make the most of your budget. For example, pay in cash and remove credit cards from your wallet. Re-evaluate extra phone and television features. Or, consider eating at home more often, skipping the movie out and enjoying a night of board games with your family.

5. Optimize your retirement plan

- Many companies offer a 401(k) plan and may match your contributions. Take advantage of these deferred income tax benefits; you could be missing out on free money.
- If your work doesn't allow you to participate in a 401(k), consider opening up an IRA; or perhaps both. There are different types of IRAs, so before deciding, investigate your options and find the best IRA type for you.
- Remember, these are long-term retirement plans not short-term savings plans, so be patient and give your money time to grow.

These basic steps will help put you on the path to financial security. If you're not following at least three of them, begin today. Once you are on your way, you will quickly see how easy it is to incorporate all five into your life.

Destination Theater brings "Rent" to the Village Theater at Cherry Hill in Canton this weekend.

Group pays 'Rent' at Village Theater

After their Sunday performance did good work on behalf of the HIV/AIDS Resource Center in Ypsilanti, Destination Theatre has turned its attention to the final weekend of performances of the Broadway smash hit Rent at the Village Theatre at Cherry Hill in Canton.

The talented cast of Rent, hailing from all over Metro-Detroit, brings the vision of the late Jonathon Larson alive on stage for three more performances, 8 p.m. today (Thursday), Friday and Saturday.

Set in the Greenwich Village of the late 80's, RENT tells the story of seven friends struggling to keep their artistic dreams and Bohemian ideals alive while dealing with drug abuse, poverty and the ever prevalent shadow of AIDS. Larson wrote the story based on his own experience living in Alphabet City in the Village. The production is directed by Timo Anderson, music direction by Kyle Phillips and choreography by Patricia Mazzola.

Last Sunday's performance benefitted HARC; producers contributed $5 from each ticket to the center.

In addition to the HARC benefit, the cast also made their own AIDS Quilt. Cast members designed a square for a person that passed away from AIDS. The Canton Evening Quilters Club is sewing it together for the group.

Tickets ($15 general admission) can be purchased at DestinationTheater.org. Tickets are also available at Canton's Summit on the Park box office, 46000 Summit Parkway, (734) 394-5460. Box office hours are Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Saturday-Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Man faces child porn charge

A Plymouth Township man, Nicholas Cymes, faces a federal charge of possessing child pornography, the Plymouth Township Police Department said Friday.

Local police joined with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the recent arrest of Cymes, 32, according to a police department press release.

In addition, Cymes has admitted to sexually assaulting a child he was babysitting, police said. Charges are pending in that case, which remains under investigation by township police.

Police are seeking the public's assistance with the investigation. Anyone with information related to the case can call the detective in charge, Sgt. Steve Rapson, at (734) 354-3233.

Documentary on WWI Polar Bears features two area men

A Livonia professor and a Livonia graduate will appear in a PBS film Sunday honoring Detroit veterans of World War I known as "the Polar Bears," who were sent on a horrific tour of duty to fight the first communists in Northern Russia near the Arctic Circle under the midnight sun.

Dr. Roger Crowover, chairman of the history department at Madonna University, sets up the premise of the documentary Voices of a Never Ending Dawn through his explanation of what caused these young soldiers to be sent to such a far-off battle.

Actor Steve Swanson, a Stevenson High School graduate who now lives in Northville, plays Lt. Harry Mead, who with his men fought in one of the most frightening battles of the entire North Russian conflict.

After landing the party, Swanson did some family research and learned one of his great uncles was a Polar Bear.

The two-hour film will be broadcast at 3 p.m.

Crowover has been known as an expert on the subject of the WWI Polar Bears since he first did a thesis on this unusual military mission. Crowover wrote a book on the subject called The Polar Bear Odyssey.

Interviews for the documentary were shot at the Madonna University library. Swanson's character Harry Mead wakes to find 800 Bolshevik fighters rising up out of the snow in white camouflaged smocks storming his small squad of 45 men. The entire battle was re-enacted in the deep snows of northern Michigan last January and will now be seen by millions on PBS.

Award-winning documentary filmmaker Pamela Peak uses the haunting words of the books and diaries that these men left behind to bring their nearly-forgotten story to life.

"As the granddaughter of one of these brave soldiers, I felt the story simply had to be told," she said. "These heroic Detroit men fought for the principle of freedom eight long months after WWI had ended and all other soldiers from around the world had come home. They fought in 60-degree below-zero weather and blizzard conditions, watching their buddies die, knowing that all other soldiers fighting in the World War had already come home."

For more information on Voices of a Never Ending Dawn and on The Polar Bears, see www.PolarBearDocumentary.com.

Making some 'Noises'

Players tackle physical comedy in new production

Park Players director Kristen Quesada adjusts the placement of a table on the set of "Noises Off."

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

TAKING THE STAGE

- What: "Noises Off"
- Who: The Park Players' annual Fall production
- When: Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 8 p.m.
- Where: Gloria Logan Auditorium, Salem High School
- Tickets: Two for $15 tonight (Thursday); $15 for Friday and Saturday
- Info: See www.parkplayers.org

Molly Wallace had to tame her natural inclination to be funny the last time she was on stage, in last year's Second Stage Players production of "The Laramie Project."

The play, about the controversy surrounding the 1998 murder of gay student Matthew Shepard in Laramie, Wyo., wasn't the place for humor.

Now, though, Wallace gets a chance to return to her best trait as she takes on one of the leading roles in the Park Players' production of "Noises Off" this weekend at the Gloria Logan Auditorium in Salem High School.

Wallace plays Dotty Oxley in the play, which follows the on-and-off-stage antics of an acting troupe as they stumble from bumbling dress rehearsal to disastrous closing night. The play opens tonight (Thursday) and continues Friday and Saturday. All shows are at 8 p.m.

"It's a completely different brand of acting, a different challenge," said Wallace, a 17-year-old Plymouth High School senior who also did "Jekyll & Hyde" and "Musical Comedy of Murders of 1940" with the Park Players. "The challenge in 'Laramie' was turning off the funny. For this one, I'm back in my element."

Park Players director Kristen Quesada said she was looking for something different, something the group hadn't done, when deciding to put on this year's fall production.

"Noises Off" offers a three-act production that uses a complicated set and its share of pratfalls and other humorous bits.

"I wanted something that had some challenging physical comedy," Quesada said. "I thought it would be a great challenge. It's a tough show to direct."

Because school got started late (after Labor Day this year), rehearsal time was cut short. That meant the nine-member cast plus the crew all had to remain even more focused than usual.

"There are a gazillion props, someone falls down the stairs and all nine kids are moving at the same time," Quesada said. "We really had to be on task and focused at rehearsals."

The other challenge was building the set. It features a "front-stage" view and a "back-stage" set, and is built to rotate with eight students yanking on ropes.

The short rehearsal time also complicated the set production. "We only had two-and-a-half weeks to do it," said Paul Bird, who led the set-building effort. "It's an enormous set, it's complicated because there are a number of doors. But it always amazes me what these kids can do."

"Noises Off" presents the first opportunity for Max Julien, a 17-year-old Canton High School senior, to participate in something other than a musical. He's also been in "Jekyll & Hyde" and "Smoky Joe's Cafe."

"It's a lot more intense than the last two shows," said Julien, who plays Garry Lejeune. "Everything is rushed, it's all really fast and there's a lot of things to do in a short time."

The cast of "Noises Off" warm up before rehearsal begins.

Housekeeper Dotty Otley (Molly Wallace) bursts in on Garry Lejeune (Max Julien) and the object of his affections, Brooke Ashton (Mackenzie Elliott).

The elderly and somewhat befuddled actor Selsdon Mowbray (Sam Rector) will wake up, hopefully in time to deliver his lines.

The elaborate set is key to "Noises Off." Crew member Jordan Shroat hands a picture to Andy Sample, hanging pictures on the wall of the set.

OUR VIEWS

Let our veterans know you care

According to the U.S. Department of Defense, as of Oct. 30, 2009, 4,356 U.S. soldiers have died and 31,545 have been wounded in Iraq.

The numbers for the fighting in Afghanistan are far less — 911 dead and 4,398 wounded — but are on the increase with stepped-up attacks by Taliban and Al Qaeda fighters.

It's November, the month when we pause to give thanks — thanks to the Pilgrims who first settled here and to our veterans who have served our country with honor.

We list the days not in chronological order, but in their significance to most Americans. We pay lip service to the latter while we focus on getting ready for the former.

What originally started as a day dedicated to the cause of world peace and to honor World War I veterans, is now a day to honor the sacrifices and contributions of all veterans during peacetime or wartime.

But Veterans Day should come first. After all, if it weren't for soldiers dating back to the Revolutionary War, the United States would not be the land of the free and home of the brave.

Since 1919, Americans have observed Nov. 11 as a day to honor the sacrifices of those who have fought for freedom. Originally called Armistice Day, President Woodrow Wilson first declared Nov. 11 a day of remembrance following the end of hostilities between the Allied nations and Germany in World War I on Nov. 11, 1918.

President Wilson set the tone of observance with the following words, "To us in America, the reflections of Armistice Day will be filled with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory, both because of the thing from which it has freed us and because of the opportunity it has given America to show her sympathy with peace and justice in the councils of the nations ..."

What originally started as a day dedicated to the cause of world peace and to honor World War I veterans, is now a day to honor the sacrifices and contributions of all veterans during peacetime or wartime.

Today our war is a war on terror. We are fighting an enemy that cares not who is killed or injured, only that we are destroyed. Many of our brave young men and women have lost their lives in this war, many more have suffered devastating injuries.

Plymouth honors its veterans with its annual Veterans Day ceremony at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 11, at the Veterans Memorial Park, out in front of Central Middle School in downtown Plymouth. The event will feature speeches, the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park band, and appearances by the community's various military groups, Scout troops and, of course, veterans.

Our military personnel are our final line of defense against tyranny. We cannot forget their sacrifices. So this Veterans Day, we urge you to pause and remember our veterans. Tell them thanks and let them know you care. If you know the family of a soldier serving in Iraq or Afghanistan, call them. Let them know you're there to help.

We are all in this war together and we must all share the burden of defending our rights. We can start by honoring our veterans.

Thanks for coats

We here at the Plymouth Salvation Army want to thank our Coats 4 Kids volunteers for their assistance with the preparation and distribution of the coats. The entire process went smoothly despite the wet, windy day.

We assisted 89 families and will distribute over 300 coats to children living in the communities of Belleville, Canton, Plymouth and Northville.

We had 32 volunteers donate 116 hours of their time over the course of two days to help make this worthwhile program a success.

A sincere thank you to everyone from the Plymouth Corps staff.

Help find our dog

On Monday, Oct. 26, our dog Lila got away from our home. We never saw her get out.

We run a self-storage facility called The Stor Room, 40600 Michigan Ave., in Canton (at Lotz) located behind Wendy's; we live here also. From what we have been told, our dog was seen on Michigan Avenue literally right down from Lotz Road in the median. We have been told she was hit by a vehicle. A worker from the Arby's located on Michigan Avenue, right in front of where Lila was seen, said she saw two gentlemen with Lila at approximately 3:30 or 4 p.m. Our daughter is brought home at that time from school on the bus. They go right by this area and the bus driver did not see anything.

Lila is one month shy of being 3 years old. She is a pointer/pit bull mix we adopted from The Humane Society in Livingston County on Feb. 12, 2007. She is bright white with tan spots on her ears. She has a brown/tan nose that was also spotted, brown-green eyes, with a small tan spot on the back of her neck, a circle shape right at the base of her neck. Her belly is freckled, she had on a brown with pink collar with small bones as design on the collar.

No one saw who took Lila. We reported Lila lost with the Canton Police. We called the police every day to see if any reports came up on her. We went to the Westland Humane Society, the Huron River Humane Society in Ann Arbor, contacted all the local animal hospitals, went up to the Wayne Animal Shelter, called vets.

She is micro-chipped and if scanned will come up the Livingston Humane Society in Howell. We have left numerous messages with this facility regarding the situation and our contact info. We can be contacted at home — (734) 595-1372 — or at work — The StorRoom, (734) 721-3100.

We just want any information on where our dog went, alive or not. We need closure. She was like a daughter to me, I miss her terribly.

Health care help

We need to get to the point and hope that we can count on our lawmakers to vote for health care reform.

I am unemployed and a cancer survivor with no insurance. People like me in my situation should be able to have health care. I am not old enough for Medicare and cannot afford private insurance because I have no income.

The Social Security system needs to keep its money in its own account and not be loaned to another.

Fight pancreatic cancer

With the recent passing of prominent American figures, such as actor Patrick Swayze and NCAA President Myles Brand, pancreatic cancer has been in the national spotlight, yet many people don't realize the severity of the disease and the urgent need for early detection methods and effective treatment options.

Pancreatic cancer is the fourth leading cause of cancer death in our country and the most lethal among leading cancer killers with a five-year survival rate of just 5 percent. Seventy-six percent of patients die within the first 12 months of diagnosis because there are no early detection methods and the disease is often diagnosed when it has spread to other organs.

My name is Lucy Trierweiler and I had pancreatic cancer. I was one of the few who was detected early. My diagnosis was found by accident because I was not sick. It was found during a routine check; even then it was hard to detect and finally surfaced two months later. I had surgery April 14, 2007. Early detection is why I am still alive, but I fear not knowing if it will return. When I was diagnosed, I did not know the severity of this disease. I knew nothing about pancreatic cancer. Now is the time to make the public more aware of this disease. We need early detection and effective treatments.

November is National Pancreatic Cancer Awareness Month. More than ever, we must know it, fight it, end it. Pancreatic cancer has long been overlooked and underfunded among the leading top five cancer killers.

I volunteer for the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network, a nationwide network of people dedicated to advancing research and supporting patients. You can be a part of the movement to bring hope to those affected by the disease. Visit www.pancreaticcancer.org to learn how to get involved today.

Together, we can make a difference in the fight against pancreatic cancer.

Listen to all sides

Obamacare? What's that? A fiction created by the health care industry to scare seniors.

Change in federal government policy means all of us will have to adjust. Adjustment means all this nation's children will have, for the very first time, preventative care. They will live longer and healthier lives, which will lower long-term costs. The rest of the developed world chooses to take care of their children. Why can't we?

As we adjust our expectations, Medicare Parts C and D will be examined closely in order to eliminate waste, private insurance premiums that are too high, to eliminate the "doughnut hole" in coverage and to reduce prescription prices. Count on a big fight over this one, even though reductions achieved here can be used to increase payments to the doctors that participate in these programs.

Medicare and Medicaid bankrupt? No, both these programs projected long-term costs are not sustainable. Why? Because our current system of private health insurance is broken and unless we change the current system will bankrupt this whole nation. Is that the future you want to give to our children?

The cost of health care for illegal aliens will not be part of the adjustment we will make. This group will not receive benefits. Remember folks, we are all immigrants, and as one who traveled the road to citizenship, it is not easy. How many of you have been tested as adults on the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, Bill of Rights and the judicial system of this great nation? How many of you have endured a background check?

The Canadian government, with a population of approximately 32 million to serve, pays for high-end medical services in other countries since it makes no sense to duplicate equipment and specialists when it's cheaper to travel to close U.S. facilities. Within the U.S. we do the same, transporting patients to centers of population where services are available.

Keep in mind we are adjusting because the private medical insurance industry provides the highest-cost, lowest-quality outcomes of all the medical care systems in the developed world. Our economic engine of growth has been debilitated by this industry. Since 1944, we have protected health insurance companies from price competition and they have done a pretty bad job. They are healthy, we are sick.

As we adjust to change, a painful and scary process for all of us, focus on actions we can take as individuals to keep change moving in a positive direction. Each of us can ask questions and take the time to listen to all sides. That's the healthy approach.

Chuck Fellows

Fix structural problems

With all the layoffs during the last few years in the state of Michigan and the big push to reeducate our workforce for the jobs that are available here and now, I do not understand how the state Legislature can be proposing massive cuts to education. Have they already forgotten?

Public officials and business leaders are always talking about providing our children with the skills they will need for the jobs of the future. The proposed cuts to K-12 education spending will devastate schools across the state and could result in massive layoffs, adding to the already huge number of Michigan workers in the ranks of the unemployed. Once layoffs begin, class sizes will increase. Students would no longer receive the individual attention that has proven to lead to higher levels of student achievement.

Higher levels of student achievement lead to an increased high school graduation rate and more students going on to college. I thought improving our high school graduation rate was at the top of the list for needed improvements.

Massive cuts to our K-12 public schools and institutions of higher learning is counterproductive to what we want to see happen in our state, namely, a growing economy and people ready to assume the jobs that are available. Companies will want to locate in Michigan if they know they can count on a well-educated and prepared workforce.

We all know that the state must balance the budget. Why aren't our leaders fixing the structural problems within the budget process instead of balancing the budget on the backs of our children and public education?

Delicate and finely sculpted Lladró porcelain figures are beloved around the world. This Saturday, collectors can meet Rosa Lladró, president of the Spanish company, at Ram Creations Jewelry & Gifts in Farmington Hills. Lladró will appear at the store 2-4 p.m. Nov. 8 to sign purchases and unveil a new piece called "Enigmatic Beauty." It will be her first visit to metro Detroit.

"I am very pleased and honored to have the opportunity to introduce Ms. Lladró to fans and collectors of Lladró statues during this wonderful visit," said Narendra Agarwal, owner of Ram Creations.

Agarwal said he expects Lladró lovers to travel to his store from throughout Michigan and Ohio to meet Rosa Lladró, daughter to one of three Lladró brothers who founded the porcelain company in 1953.

Ram Creations is the leading retailer of oeuvres statues in Michigan, and carries an extensive collection that Agarwal said he has carried Lladró for the past six years and the figures are very popular, especially as gifts for weddings, births and other milestones. Priced at $150-$150,000, the pieces are collectible and can rise in value. Many are limited editions.

"This is the best kind of porcelain available in the market as far as figurines are concerned. There is nobody else," he said. "The quality, design, architecture, the process, the intricacy of the pieces — Lladro is the leading manufacturer of porcelain figures in the world."

'Big' test next for Canton

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Ultra-sized linemen and a dangerous passing game are what Ann Arbor Pioneer will bring Friday night to Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

But the 9-1 Canton Chiefs will be ready in the first play-off matchup of the two squads since 2006.

"We've got to stop the run, for sure," Chiefs head coach Tim Baechler said.

"We've got to do a better job tackling, and you just can't give them the big pass play."

"A lot of their touchdowns have come on long passes and we're going to have to avoid that."

The Pioneers (8-2) should be a tough challenge for Canton, with senior quarterback Miles Sorise connecting with wideouts Ricardo Miller and Brandis Yarrington on a regular basis this season.

Add to the mix bulldog tailback Terrell Moran and big, physical linemen on both sides of the ball and it's easy to see why the Pioneers dismantled Temperance Bedford in a first-round playoff game, 28-7.

But Baechler and his squad — featuring plenty of playmakers, too — will be ready to go at 7 p.m. Friday.

Left-handed senior quarterback Kevin Delapaz is coming off an excellent game against Plymouth (270 all-purpose yards in a 40-17 win) and the Chiefs will line up tough, speedy running backs such as Adam Payter, Kevin Buford and Davion Stackhouse.

"We're ready," Baechler said. "There's a size problem. But our offense, kind of the great thing about it is you don't have to be huge to run it. Speed helps."

Baechler noted that the size of Pioneer's defensive linemen will not cause worries on his sideline.

"You know Franklin was huge, Stevenson's big, Plymouth's big," he said. "It's not like not we haven't been outsized."

The coaching staff doesn't dwell on how big some opponents might be and they expect their players to follow the script.

"We tell the kids it (size discrepancy) doesn't matter, we still got to block them,"

Salem nips Canton for regional title

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The second half of Saturday's Division 1 boys soccer regional final between Salem and Canton already had the urgency of an overtime, with the two rivals deadlocked 1-1 and the clock ticking below the 15-minute mark.

But the Rocks broke the deadlock with 14:13 remaining on a goal by senior forward Sal Savage, and it held up as Salem earned a 3-1 triumph on a blustery afternoon at Livonia Stevenson.

Salem (17-4-4) earned its first regional title since 2002, the year they made it to the state finals. Head coach Ed McCarthy and his squad won't know until Monday where they'll play the state semifinal, or against which team they'll face.

"It certainly had that feel of a likely overtime," McCarthy said. "Whoever was going to score in the last 15 minutes, that was probably going to be the last of it because the other team's gonna sit back."

Canton head coach George Tomasso said his young team (14-8-3) played a strong match, especially after falling behind 1-0 in the first half.

"We just struggled at the beginning of the game, I don't know if you could (attribute) it to nerves," Tomasso said. "Salem got their goal and I thought we responded really well."

"The 3-1 score doesn't demonstrate how hard and how well we played today and I don't think either team dominated. Both teams played an excellent soccer game."

Salem carried a 1-0 lead into half-time despite a defensive, cautious approach by both teams — trying to see how the constant wind might have an impact.

On the first goal (at 15:19), Salem's Lachlan Savage (2 goals) deftly fielded Alex Tramel's bouncing pass from the left flank and pooched his shot behind Canton senior goalkeeper Kai Walther, who had come out to challenge.

BACK IN IT

But the Chiefs were a much more assertive team starting early on in the second half and it paid off at 2:39 with the tying goal.

Freshman forward Daniel Ovesea sent a feed into the box from the left side and several Chiefs converged on it before senior forward Brandon Tolinski found the target from close range.

It took several key stops by Salem senior goalkeeper Sasa "Sasha" Miskovic to keep the Chiefs from taking the lead.

With 28 minutes to go, he cut down the angle and got an arm on a hard shot by Ovesea (who had been set up nicely by sophomore forward Mitch Posuniak).

"Sasha was strong at the end when we needed him, as usual," McCarthy said.

Miskovic's counterpart, Walther, also was active and very good at the other end. He skied to deflect a turnaround shot by Salem senior midfielder Evan Antich nearly 25 minutes into the half.

But it wasn't long after that when the Rocks took the lead for good. On the eventual winner, a long, free kick by sophomore defender Jake Genrich deflected off players in front of the Canton goal and over to Sal Savage on the doorstep.

He chipped it inside the right post behind Walther.

PADDING THE LEAD

Then the Salem tandem of senior midfielders Lachlan Savage and Tramel hooked up for their second marker of the day to provide some insurance with just 1:08 remaining.

Tramel rushed along the right side into the offensive zone and made a feed over to Savage up the middle.

Savage sidestepped Canton defenders before blasting an 18-yard shot into the left corner behind a helpless Walther.

"Me and Tram played on the same

Season ends for PCA

Plymouth Christian Academy's varsity boys soccer team lost 6-2 Saturday to No. 1 state-ranked Ann Arbor Greenhills in a Division 4 regional final in Jackson.

The Eagles (11-10-1) fell behind 1-0 early on to the Gryphons (24-1-0), but evened the match about 20 minutes into the first half on a goal by senior Don Mullett, his 18th of the season.

But a few minutes later, the "Peter Jacobsen Show" started as the Gryphons forward scored the next four goals to put Greenhills up 5-1 at halftime, an insurmountable deficit for the Eagles.

A tally by Rob Dolot in the second half upped that lead to 6-1 before PCA finished the scoring when freshman Dan Ross scored his 18th goal of the season, knocking home a crossing feed from Mullett.

"It was a great season and we thank God for how far we got, the unity we enjoyed all season and playing for God's glory, not ours," Plymouth Christian co-coach Larry Machonga said.

The team's leading scorer this season was senior Jordan Machonga, with 13 goals and 17 assists. Mullett (18-9), Ross (18-6) and senior Blair Robinson (2-7) were other standouts.

Power surge lifts Whalers

The Plymouth Whalers withstood a third-period rally Saturday night by host Erie, coming away with a 4-3 Ontario Hockey League victory. All Plymouth goals were on the power play.

The Whalers built a 3-0 lead after two periods — with defenseman Michael Jordan scoring his first two goals of the season — before the Otters came on strong, outshooting Plymouth 19-9 in the final stanza.

A power-play tally by Erie's Shawn Szydlowski (at 17:58) and a goal in the final minute by Andrew Yogan closed the gap. But Whalers goalie Matt Hackett closed the door (37 saves) to finish off the victory.

Plymouth (10-7-0-0) took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a marker by right wing Ryan Hayes, from Jamie Devane and Josh Bemis

Disabled football coach won't give up quest to rebuild his life

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

What Chuck Donaldson has had to endure over the past 16 years would have stopped most people — he broke his neck twice in separate auto accidents more than a decade apart.

Donaldson, 42, has no movement below his shoulders and must use a "Sip-N-Puff" device to maneuver his automated wheelchair. He inhales on an air tube straw to go in reverse and exhales to move forward.

But the onetime Livonia Stevenson quarterback won't let his heart be broken, too. As long as there's football in his life, that's not about to happen.

"I don't know what I'd do without coaching," said Donaldson, quarterbacks coach for the Plymouth junior varsity despite being a quadriplegic. "It's not a job, it's a passion and it's a time where you don't think about the disabilities. You think about football."

He certainly has a lot of people rooting for him.

At the top of the list are Plymouth varsity head coach Mike Sawchuk and Kurt Britnell, the first-year Salem head coach who worked with Donaldson as an assistant coach in recent seasons at Plymouth.

"Chuck is an inspiration to us all, he's the toughest guy I've ever met," Sawchuk said. "It's great for the kids to see perseverance, someone who had something catastrophic happen to him like that and he still comes out and has the passion to touch kids' lives and make a difference. "That's a great lesson."

INSPIRATIONAL

Britnell said Donaldson's desire to still be a top-notch coach despite his handicap is something to behold for players and coaches alike.

"He may be even a bigger influence on the coaches that he has coached with," Britnell emphasized. "I know he is for me. Just to know what he goes through to make early morning meeting or staying late is very challenging."

"It would be easy to give up on a lot of things but Chuck is a fighter."

That football still is in his life is a big reason for Donaldson's refusal to relent.

Donaldson has played and coached the sport for most of his life. It kept him going after his They're running down a dream of finishing among the best boys cross country teams in Michigan.

Plymouth qualified for Friday's state meet at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn thanks to a second-place showing at the Division 1 regionals.

The Joe Porcari-led Wildcats tallied 71 points, trailing only Ann Arbor Pioneer (23 points) at Willow Metropark in New Boston.

Prep sports teams still have heart

We live in a sports world that hardly seems real. There's multi-million dollar athletes who are pampered beyond belief. Owners of major league teams and those who package and spin to the public on their behalf seem aloof to the economic tsunami that continues to rip through the metro Detroit region and all of Michigan, for that matter.

On talk shows and cable TV, everybody seems to be in denial about why there are so many empty seats at the Copa, Joe, Ford Field and Palace. (We know why the Lions have trouble in the attendance department, but that's another story.) The reality is too many people are hurting financially to cough up money for ridiculous ticket and concession prices.

Unable to go to the stadiums, fans — hungry for unreal escape — get caught up in blogs, message boards and fantasy leagues.

Yet there's nothing artificial about high school athletics, particularly teams that get to the state playoffs.

Case in point No. 2: The boys soccer regional final Saturday, involving Canton and Plymouth. The Rocks had just finished off their PCEP rivals in a well-played match and celebrated the same way the football Chiefs had done the night before.

And after the handshakes were over, the winning side savored the flavor while Canton players sat on the Livonia Stevenson turf, some in tears, others with their heads in their hands. Their journey was over. No more corner kicks or headers.

The blogs and blurbs dutifully detailed Salem's 3-1 win, which enabled the Rocks to move on to the state semifinals.

But the "real" story was revealed during the postgame scene. Dedicated athletes and coaches from both teams had just experienced something genuine, a slice of life they'll never forget.

LIKE A FAMILY

But at the south end of the gridiron, a team that had worked just as hard since August two-a-days knew it was all over. For Plymouth seniors, their high school playing days were suddenly over.

One by one, those players exchanged bear hugs with head coach Mike Sawchuk, whose voice cracked when he thanked each one for leaving it all out on the field as they had all season and — for those seniors — throughout their prep careers.

Those emotions were real. "I spend more time with these guys than my own family," said Sawchuk, uttering a fact of life for football coaches.

It was a scene that won't make it into the stat sheet or won-loss record. But it revealed just how much of a family Sawchuk's team had become.

Now, it was time to say goodbye. Just like a high school graduate going on to college or a son or daughter getting married.

Case in point No. 1: Last week's football pre-district showdown between Canton and Plymouth.

The favored Chiefs outlasted the Wildcats, turning a close game (20-17 at halftime) into a 23-point victory. That advanced Canton into Friday's district final against Ann Arbor Pioneer at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

After the final seconds elapsed, Canton players and coaches mobbed each other out on the field. They held aloft the 2009 regional trophy and slapped each other on the shoulder pads. They would live to play another night.

when Mike Cazzola scored early in the third period, but the Whalers answered when left wing Josh Brittain put the puck behind Otters netminder Ramis Sadikov (25 saves) at 10:43. It was Plymouth's fourth goal with the extra man in the contest.

Plymouth now will return to Compuware Arena for 7 p.m. games Friday and Saturday against Sarnia and Sault Ste. Marie, respectively.

Shamrocks gear up to face Spartans

BY SAM EGGLESTON
 CORRESPONDENT

Rematches. They're always big when it comes to high school football.

Coaches, players and fans all have long memories, but none have to look too far back to count the reasons why Novi-Detroit Catholic Central will be looking to earn a win over the Livonia Stevenson Spartans at 7 p.m. Saturday at Detroit Catholic Central's Wixom Road campus.

Tom Mach's Shamrocks are 10-0 this season and just have to look back at this time last year when they took on and fell to the Livonia Stevenson Spartans.

It was the second round of the playoffs and Catholic Central had just earned a victory over the Novi Wildcats to advance. Stevenson beat West Bloomfield to go to the district finals. It was there the Spartans marched away with a 24-13 victory.

The Shamrocks have kept this in mind throughout the off season and this year. Many of last year's players are back from last year's loss and will be looking to assert their defensive pressure to shut down the Spartans while the Catholic Central offense will be expected to pound the ball up the middle while falling back on their very effective passing game when needed.

The Spartans' main weapon is Austin White, a speedy running back that averages well over 100 yards per game this year and have over 20 touchdowns. He is committed to play at the University of Michigan.

CC spreads its offensive pressure between several backs including Niko Palazetti and Anthony Capatina. Senior quarterback Sam Landry has several receivers to choose from.

The defense, however, is the name of their game this year. In total, the Shamrocks have allowed just 30 points all season long. Stevenson, however, has allowed 127 points.

The Shamrocks have faced several tough teams this year, including Brother Rice, which is in the district finals; Divine Child, which lost in the playoffs; Orchard Lake St. Mary's, which is in the district finals; DeLaSalle, which is in the district finals; and Livonia Franklin, which fell to the Shamrocks last week in the playoffs.

The winner of the Shamrocks and Stevenson (8-2) will play the winner of the Ann Arbor Pioneer (8-2) and Canton (9-1) contest, which will be played Friday at 7 p.m.

Editor's note: Student-athletes from Canton and Plymouth attend Catholic Central.

COACH

first crippling crash in 1993 (that two-car accident resulted in serious injuries to both drivers) cost him the use of his arms.

From 1994 through 1998, Donaldson helmed Livonia Clarenceville's varsity out of a wheelchair. He still could diagram plays and improved in his communication skills.

"When you lose something, you improve in other areas," he said. "Like verbal explanation."

Then came two years as a varsity assistant at Dearborn Heights Crestwood before joining the Wildcats' staff in 2002.

But terror returned to Donaldson in September 2007. He broke his neck in a different spot when the hand-capped van he was driving on I-275 collided with a merging semi-truck.

STILL ABLE TO COACH

That accident left him paralyzed from the shoulders down.

Still, Sawchuk kept him on the staff for the rest of that year and the two subsequent seasons (including the just-concluded one).

"Chuck's still got it together," Sawchuk said. "Obviously, he's got to be sharp mentally because he's kind of limited in how he can show you how to do it."

"He verbalizes it very well. He's a very good teacher and very patient."

One thing Donaldson's response to tragedy teaches the players is to never give up.

Besides losing use of his arms, Donaldson said the severity of the spinal cord injury diminished his lung capacity by 50-to-75 percent.

Another round of surgeries followed, including spinal fusion and the insertion of various metal rods and plates.

Over the past couple years, Donaldson has continued to fight as he works to regain some movement.

FAN MAIL FOR CHUCK

Chuck Donaldson is inspirational for the attitude and work ethic he shows despite suffering two broken necks that severed his spinal cord. The New Boston resident, 42, still coaches quarterbacks for the Plymouth Wildcats junior varsity.

Following are what others are saying about Donaldson:

• Jackie Cunningham, Specialty Tree Rehabilitation physical therapist: 'He is upbeat, has a good sense of humor and is always striving for more. ... Maybe it is the coach in him but (his) No Quit attitude continues to allow Chuck to progress and carry on with his life despite the challenges he faces.'

• Carrie Parks, Specialty Tree occupational therapist: 'Chuck has an amazing attitude. He is always willing to try anything that will help him gain function.'

• Mike Sawchuk, Plymouth varsity football coach: 'There's no doubt in my mind that all his years of playing football have helped him through everything he's been through.'

• Kurt Britnell, Salem varsity football coach: 'He has a positive message for all. Even more inspiring is the fact that he does it with a sense of humor and humility, not a woe-is-me chip on his shoulder.'

Specialty Tree Rehabilitation in Romulus, Donaldson (who now has to be chauffeured from place to place) shows his football background during grueling sessions.

He remembered not being able to be upright for "more than three seconds without falling down. ... Now, I expect nothing less but to be sitting without assistance for the full session."

Donaldson can't move his limbs. But that doesn't stop his determination.

"I can shrug," he noted, "which pushes the shoulder blades together to keep me upright."

HE WON'T QUIT

Much like the football coaches and players he works with, Donaldson has fans at Specialty Tree, such as physical therapist Jackie Cunningham and occupational therapist Carrie Parks.

"During therapy, Chuck has always had a 'no quit' attitude," Cunningham said. "He wants more and works for the highest level of function."

"Often in therapy, after Chuck has accomplished a goal and the department is cheering his success, he will respond with, 'That's not good enough. I can do better.'"

Donaldson's commitment to PT have helped him steadily progress from Specialty Tree's Neuro Care Center to residential home placement and now to his own home — from where he attends therapy sessions on an outpatient basis three times a week.

According to Parks, even struggles in therapy don't get Donaldson down.

"He puts great effort into his therapy and is rarely discouraged," Parks said. "Even when Chuck is having a rough day, he still puts all of his energy into therapy."

Donaldson is forever grateful to those medical professionals as well as 24-hour home care attendants. His parents, Bill and Noreen Donaldson, have been troopers.

"And I can't thank Mike Sawchuk enough," he said, "for allowing me to continue coaching even after the loss of the use of my arms and for being accepted by the entire coaching staff."

The support and efforts of others won't heal him, of course.

A man who once stood 6-3 and weighed 215 pounds still gets frustrated about not being able to take care of mundane things that people take for granted.

"Try for 10 minutes not to use your arms, see if you can do it," Donaldson said. "Go outside and have a mosquito go onto your body and you can't swat it away.

"When I hear kids crying about things, I tell them 'I'd love to be in your shoes.'"

Frustration doesn't stop him, however.

GETTING THE MESSAGE OUT

In fact, Donaldson refuses to use his handicap as a crutch.

Donaldson is planning on helping others who might learn from his experience.

He wants to launch a Web site and do motivational speeches a la Mike Utley, the former Detroit Lion who is confined to a wheelchair.

His message — both now and to anyone hearing it through those future endeavors — is simple but as right on as a perfectly thrown spiral to an open receiver.

"Times are tough right now and a lot of people get down," Donaldson said. "Everybody's human and they're going to have down times in their life."

"But they have to remember there's always somebody out there who has it worse off than you do."

Donaldson said he can eat regular food and breathe on his own instead of relying on tube feedings and ventilators.

"Anybody can whine and complain all their lives," he continued. "But does it change anything? The only people you hurt are the people who love you."

They definitely love him around the football fields at "the Park."

Taking life on like a quarterback facing an on-rushing defensive end instead of cowering in a corner is a major reason why.

"He would be welcome on my staff any time," Britnell said. "I love the guy."

And Sawchuk said Donaldson is an important member of his staff.

"I tell you what, Chuck can go with me anywhere I go," Sawchuk stressed. "If I stay here, he's always got a job with me no matter what."

That's football loyalty for you.

Olech key to Madonna basketball fortunes

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Could this be the year? After coming within of game of earning a spot in the NAIA Division II National Tournament, the Madonna University women's basketball team harbors even higher expectations for the 2009-10 season.

The Crusaders, 15-17 last year under third-year coach Carl Graves, were recently tabbed third in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference's preseason coaches poll only behind No. 3-ranked Davenport University and No. 17 Aquinas College. (Graves is 44-52 in three seasons.)

Earning votes in the inaugural Top 25 national preseason rankings, MU will be led by Kim Olech, a 6-foot senior center from Plymouth High, and Tabatha Wydryck, a 6-1 junior forward from Riverview Gabriel Richard.

Olech, who averaged a 11.4 points and 10.6 rebounds per game a year ago, earned first-team All-WHAC honors as well as third-team NAIA All-America honors. She was also named WHAC Newcomer of the Year after transferring from Albion College.

Wydryck, meanwhile, is coming off of an overseas tour representing the U.S. in Europe. She was tabbed to the preseason All-WHAC second-team and made the conference's All-Defensive team after posting a 10.3 point per game average in addition to 4.9 rebounds per game in 2008-09.

Other returnees for the Crusaders include 5-4 junior guard Erin Bentley, 5-7 junior guard Katie Mount, 5-2 sophomore guard Katie Martin and 5-8 sophomore forward Heather Goodwin.

Among the newcomers are freshmen Kaylee McGrath, a 6-1 freshman from Livonia Stevenson; Kristie Porada, a 5-9 guard from Gibraltar Carlson; Shantelle Herring, a 5-8 guard from Macomb Dakota; and Heather Pratt, a 5-7 guard from Flushing.

The Crusaders have also added 5-6 sophomore guard Stacey Szerlag, a transfer from Olivet College via Gabriel Richard H.S.

Madonna opens its 2009-10 season, 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 7, with an exhibition game at NCAA Division I member Eastern Michigan University.

CANTER help

For the month of November, shoppers can donate a dollar at the register in all seven Hiller's Markets grocery stores - including the Plymouth location - to support CANTER, a locally-based organization that finds homes for retired racehorses. Led by WXYZ-TV anchor and CANTER board member Robbie Timmons, the non-profit finds viable alternatives for young horses whose future, without CANTER's help, is bleak.

"As someone who is passionate about animals and animal welfare, I'm so glad Robbie Timmons brought CANTER to my attention," said Jim Hiller, CEO of Hiller's Markets, Southeast Michigan's oldest local grocery chain. "In tough times, we often forget about our four-legged friends - and it's imperative that we care for every creature to the best of our abilities."

"A dollar at the register is easy for most people to give, and all those dollars add up quickly," Timmons said. "I'm grateful to Hiller's for giving CANTER this platform and this exposure."

The cash register campaign will run for the entire month of November in all Hiller's stores. Additionally, Timmons will be available in Hiller's stores to talk with shoppers about the cause and sign her book, Twoey & the Goat, a true-to-life story about a horse who was found a home after not performing in the track. Timmons will be at the Plymouth store, at 5 Mile and Haggerty, 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 14.

Investors 'last line of defense' in protecting money

Just read an article about the Madoff affair which deals with the lapses by the Securities & Exchange Commission. The federal agency that should have been regulating Madoff's activities failed miserably.

When the scandal broke a little over a year ago, the general consensus was he used a variety of sophisticated techniques to fool federal regulators.

After reading the article, I believe Madoff was able to get away with this scheme not because he was so sophisticated, but rather, because federal regulators failed to do their job. For example, regulators admit that when it came to auditing Madoff and his business, they took his word as opposed to looking at underlying documents. What's more remarkable is that even when they caught him in a lie they failed to pursue it. The bottom line is regulators turned a blind eye to what was happening.

The real issue is how it affects you and me. As investors, we have to recognize the government doesn't have the resources to protect us. We must be our last line of defense when it comes to our money.

It is up to individuals to do the homework it takes to protect investments. That is why I believe simpler is better. The more complex an investment, the less likely the government regulators will do their job. I know that doesn't make sense, but it is sort of like dealing with the IRS. People that make a lot of money tend to have less of a risk of an audit than people who don't make as much.

Money Matters

Before investing your hard-earned money, make sure everything is on the up and up. It is not sufficient that the investment is sold through a large brokerage house or even a bank. You must be involved.

That is one reason when it comes to investing money, whether my own personal account or on behalf of my clients, I live by a set of rules.

First, I won't invest in anything that I can't check out independently. I want to research an investment using sources that don't have an axe to grind with the investment. I also never invest in anything that doesn't have a track record. I generally look at three, five and 10-year track records, spending the most time analyzing the five-year record.

One of the mistakes investors make is they assume if an investment is complex and difficult to understand, it's worth pursuing. I believe the exact opposite. I don't invest in anything that I don't understand. When it comes to an investment, I want to make sure I understand how I can lose money, and how I can get my money out when I want it.

When it comes to any investment, costs are important. When an investment is stuffed with high fees and commissions, it's one to avoid. Costs do matter.

Finally, when it comes to investments be reasonable. No one can double your money overnight and when returns sound too good to be true, there's a problem.

It would be nice if investing was easy. Unfortunately, like everything else in our society, it is not. However, you would be surprised at how much better an investor you could be by being involved.

Good luck!

Buy a gift and aid a charity at Alternative Christmas Fair

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

The 9th Annual Alternative Christmas Fair in Farmington Hills is so popular with non-profit vendors, that it filled every available booth in September — two months before the Nov. 14 event.

"Our letters (invitations) go out in September, but we were full in September. We've maxed out before and that's because we use every available spot we have," said Jessica Beamer, who has coordinated the shopping event for eight years. "It's a huge event."

Hope Lutheran Church and St. Fabian Catholic Church, both of Farmington Hills, co-sponsor the fair, which gives shoppers a chance to by gifts and help charities at the same time. Forty six nonprofits will be on hand.

"We have a waiting list of organizations every year," said Joy DeFranco, this year's coordinator. "We close out (the vendor list) early. I'd like to think it's because of the quality of this event. But beyond that, it offers attendees a wide range of opportunities to make a difference. We have old favorites return each year but new charities as well."

New this year are Band of Angels, a Rochester-based nonprofit that assists Down syndrome children and their families, and F.B.I. Assistance Dogs of Oxford, which trains canines to assist individuals who experience seizures. The acronym represents "For Better Independence."

Autistic students from Burger School in Garden City will make chocolates, cookies and dog bones to sell at the fair.

Other first-time attendees include the Eli Foundation, which will sell art photos, plants and a tribute CD to raise money for leukemia patients; Three Cups of Tea/Pennies for Peace, which will sell gift baskets, books and items made by children, to support construction of schools for girls in Afghanistan, and Volunteer Becky Gee visits the Food for the Poor booth, staffed by the Rev. Chuck Roberson.

Carved olive wood items line a table at the 9th annual Alternative Christmas Fair at Hope Lutheran Church in Farmington Hills.

Africa, which will sell fair-trade African art.

Returning local favorites include Coalition on Temporary Shelter (COTS), Forgotten Harvest, Alternatives for Girls, Detroit Rescue Mission, Make a Wish Foundation, Kids for Afghan Kids, Samaritan Counseling Center, and Sweet Dreamzzz.

DeFranco said many international programs will be on hand to raise awareness and funds for their missions, too.

"We do have Heifer International coming and Jerusalem Crafts and Omni Worldwide. That's what's attractive to the people who are coming — they enjoy the diversity," DeFranco said. Some charities sell small token gifts or cards that represent a donation made to their mission. Others sell handcrafted items that benefit the artisans.

"Either way you're benefiting a charity and their intended recipient," DeFranco explained.

The Alternative Christmas Fair draws approximately 700-800 visitors every year and has spawned a smaller, similar fair at Christ Church Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills. DeFranco said the Cranbrook fair is slated for Nov. 22 with about 20 vendors.

Over the past eight years, the Farmington Hills event has raised more than $175,000 for the participating charities.

"This is not a fund-raiser for our church, but we do have expenses. We'll have a bake sale from our church and St. Fabian to support this endeavor. We get dozens and dozens of cookies and brownies," DeFranco said.

In addition to the bake sale, the event will offer a children's craft area, lunch items for purchase and live music.

The Alternative Christmas Fair will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Hope Lutheran Church, 39200 West 12 Mile Road, just east of Haggerty. There is a $1 admission fee at the door. For more information call (248) 553-7170 or visit www.alternativechristmasfair.org.

New music plays on community partnerships

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Just as a caffeine rush builds with each sip, the excitement increases with the arrival of partners involved with the Ford Made in America project.

Pulitzer Prize winning composer Joseph Schwantner is coming to lead educational workshops in conjunction with the Michigan premiere of his Chasing Light performed by the Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestra (PSCO) Nov. 21, at the Village Theatre of Cherry Hill.

Ford Made in America made the consortium possible, bringing together the League of American Orchestras, Meet the Composer and 58 small-budget orchestras in 50 states to connect not only musicians but audiences to new music. PSCO Conductor Nan Washburn has been recognized with 17 awards from ASCAP for programming pieces by living American composers, but this was a special honor to take part in the commissioning of the piece inspired by a sunrise over Schwantner's home in rural New Hampshire. Schwantner drew on the images and his eight-line poem to compose four movements that take listeners through more than 400 time changes in 18 minutes.

"The music is absolutely gorgeous and difficult," said Washburn, a Plymouth Township resident. "I describe it as being like a jolt of coffee, not a sleepy morning to start the piece at all. He then gets into a beautiful array of color and a much more regular rhythm and reflects the colors he must have been seeing."

Beth Stewart describes the piece as "very visual music" that she is proud to present to the community thanks in part to the sponsorship of the Ford Motor Company Fund, the philanthropic arm of Ford Motor Company.

"The dress rehearsal will be observed by students from the Sphinx Organization which opens door for African American and Hispanic students with talent, students from the vocal and jazz camp from Music Hall (Center for the Performing Arts), our own Celebration Youth Orchestra students and orchestra students at the high schools," said Stewart, PSCO executive director. "It's an opportunity to not only watch him work with the professional orchestra but sit and talk with students from all walks of life."

The open rehearsal for students is only one educational component of Schwantner's five-day stay. He will give two workshops for fifth grade students at Farrand and Hulsing Elementary schools in the Plymouth-Canton School District and will spend a day with graduate composition students at the University of Michigan School of Music in Ann Arbor.

STUDENT COMPOSERS

Tim Schoenherr is coordinating the elementary school visits. Students have already written haiku. In the next few weeks they will bring the form of Japanese poetry to music class to create a composition based on another student's writing. Schwantner will listen to performances of the pieces and then talk about the compositions.

"It's an opportunity to enhance curriculum. We're always looking for opportunities to connect to literature and math," said Schoenherr, visual and performing arts coordinator for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. "National standards for music education expects teachers to connect music to other academic areas."

One by one teachers expressed their appreciation for the encounter with a living composer. Karen Thompson is delighted about connecting her fifth grade classroom with Amy Morgan's fifth grade music students at Farrand Elementary. "I'm grateful for the opportunity," said Amy Morgan, fifth grade music teacher at Farrand and Hoben elementaries. "Automatically when the topic of composers comes up they think Mozart."

Along with learning about more than dead composers, students are developing an interest and pride in writing. Schoenherr also is making plans to benefit students far into the future.

"We hope to tape and document the process and edit it into a professional learning resource for teachers so it's not just a single event but a resource."

Schwantner

NEW WORKS

Washburn feels new music aids in the development of an appreciation for composers.

"It's important to do new music as to do new theater, new book, new dance," she said. "There's something about that new that really keeps people excited."

Michael McGillivray couldn't agree more. As PSCO Concertmaster, the Birmingham musician has been studying the composition.

"It's really wonderful orchestration, very exciting music to listen to and a challenge for the players to maintain energy and concentration," said McGillivray, principal viola for the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony.

"Joseph Schwantner's written excellent orchestration especially for woodwinds and brass. Cascading passages of wind notes bring to mind images of chasing light, frost on windows, windows after an ice storm that I can't help thinking about when I'm listening to it."

Washburn began studying the music score in May.

"You have to do score study in spurts. Then I go for a walk or bike ride and play it back in my head," said Washburn. "I'm not just studying the music but strategize how to rehearse it and put it together and the rest of the program."

The performance will include the Lincoln Portrait by Copland, Gershwin's An American in Paris and Ellington's It Don't Mean a Thing.

The Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestras concert takes place 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21 at Village Theatre at Cherry Hill, 50400 Cherry Hill (at Ridge), Canton.

Tickets are $25, adult; $20, senior, $10, student. Call (734) 451-2112 or visit www.plymouthsymphony.org.

DVD teaches raw food preparation

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

Chef Mary Beckerman can teach you how to make spaghetti without boiling water for pasta.

She can show you how to make pudding without cooking it and soup without any simmering.

In fact, you won't need a stove or an oven for any of the recipes, including spaghetti, pudding, soup, vegetables, wraps and more that are included with step by step instructions on her new dvd, Raw Fundamentals.

But a slight change in perspective might be required if you're accustomed to heating everything you eat, because everything on the menu is raw.

"I think the challenge lies in really changing your mind set in terms of preparing foods differently. We were brought up traditionally in how to prepare foods and the biggest challenge is a new way of doing things," said Beckerman of West Bloomfield.

"When you look at it from that perspective and set up a lifestyle to embrace those concepts, life gets easier."

Beckerman shares her knowledge and passion about preparing raw foods through demonstration workshops, catering, training, and consultations, in addition to her new dvd. She also advises individuals on how to set up a raw food kitchen and how to select whole, unprocessed, organic foods.

"I've embraced raw foods for a great part of my life," said the Michigan native. "Even back in high school I was juicing and doing wheat grass and leaned more toward being a vegetarian."

Although she has held various jobs — everything from modeling to working for Orion pictures to running her own catering company — her love of food has remained consistent throughout her life.

When a friend suggested she "do what you love," she quit her corporate job and headed to California to study raw foods preparation.

"I said 'this resonates with me,' and I became a chef, put a business plan together and came home."

Beckerman is a graduate of the Living Light Culinary Arts Institute in California and a member of the American Association of Nutritional Consultants.

OFFERING OPTIONS

"What I do in my dvd is empower people. I not only give them recipes but tools, empowerment tools," she said. Each recipe offers a variety of ingredient options.

"It's really simple and if people embrace something like that they're able to create healthy meals."

"Taking baby steps toward a raw food diet can start with swapping sugar-filled, cooked desserts for tasty fruit-based sweets that use agar or raw honey.

Or heating one portion of a meal as Beckerman does in her spaghetti recipe that uses raw zucchini "pasta" strips and gently-heated tomato sauce.

"There are certain foods you can cook. By cooking the tomatoes you might lose some nutrients through the cooking process but you'll have an increase of lycopene," she said. "It's about balance and educating people."

"When you start eating raw foods your sense become alive. You start really tasting food."

Beckerman will sign her DVD, noon-5 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 7 at Barnes & Noble, 6900 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield. It costs $24.95.

Check out her Web site, www.lovingoodies.com for a list of classes, Thanksgiving menu ideas, recipes and more.

CITY BITES

Benefitting horses

Plymouth — This month shoppers can donate a dollar at the register at Hiller's Markets grocery stores to support CANTER, a locally-based organization that finds homes for retired racehorses. Led by WXYZ-TV anchor and CANTER board member Robbie Timmons, the non-profit finds viable alternatives for young horses whose future, without CANTER's help, is bleak.

"As someone who is passionate about animals and animal welfare, I'm so glad Robbie Timmons brought CANTER to my attention," stated Jim Hiller, CEO of Hiller's Markets. "In tough times, we often forget about our four-legged friends — and it's imperative that we care for every creature to the best of our abilities."

Timmons said the dollars can "add up quickly" to help CANTER's charges. Most of the horses are only 3-4 years old. With a potential lifespan of 30 years, CANTER helps these delicate creatures become accustomed to pasture-living. CANTER Michigan is the founding chapter of what has become a national effort. Started in 1997, the group has saved thousands of thoroughbreds, spending approximately $200,000 annually to rescue horses from racetrack life. CANTER stands for Communication Alliance to Network Thoroughbred Ex-Racehorses. There are no administrative costs or salaries — CANTER is all volunteer so every dollar donated goes to help horses.

Timmons will be available in Hiller's stores to talk with shoppers about the cause and sign her book, Twoey & the Goat, a true-to-life story about a horse who received a new home after not performing at the track. Elegant horse-themed holiday cards will be sold at all Hiller's customer service desks, with sales benefiting CANTER.

Timmons' book-signings at Hiller's:
 ■ 1-3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 14 at the Plymouth store, Five Mile and Haggerty
 ■ 3:30-5:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 14, at the Northville store, Center Street, south of Eight Mile

Realtors help seniors cope with moving challenges

BY JULIE BROWN
O&E STAFF WRITER

Realtor Nancy Austin, of Keller Williams Realty in Plymouth, recalls her dad being 92 and concerned about his home.

"He was worried about selling his house," said Austin, a Canton resident who's been in real estate full time since 1984.

That helped to motivate her to get her Seniors Real Estate Specialists designation, given through the National Association of Realtors. She's held that since about 1998, when NAR picked it up, but did that kind of work for years before.

A Seniors Real Estate Specialist is an agent who has special qualifications and training to work with seniors who wish to sell their houses to either downsize, buy a condo, sell a condo, move to assisted living or just a senior retirement center.

Austin concentrates on western Wayne and south Oakland, including Plymouth, Canton, Livonia and Westland. She has found seniors will do major updates on their homes, like furnaces, but put off updating cabinets and other smaller things.

"I really felt they could use my help in preparing houses for sale," she said. Even replacing light fixtures or painting will help a home sell.

"I do a walk-through all the time," Austin said. She agreed the need to help seniors is great, and will grow as baby boomers age.

"It can be challenging, it's very rewarding." A Realtor must be trustworthy and very patient, she said. Often, adult children are involved.

"There are a lot of times you must go the extra mile." The adult children may be living in other states, and some are estranged from the parent or parents.

Seniors may have faulty memory issues, Austin said, and some adult children lack patience to work with them. "Patience is just huge."

She shows properties to seniors who often need longer to see them due to physical challenges like using a cane or walker. Seniors often don't know what's best for them; most of the time, the move will be their final one.

She spoke glowingly of the Botsford Commons Senior Community in Farmington Hills, where a couple she knows was able to stay together when one became more ill. The spouse could visit for meals and at other times, staying nearby.

Austin can be reached at Keller Williams, (734) 718-8900. She doesn't offer seniors tax or mortgage advice, but has access to professionals who help in those areas. She recommends the SRES members/consumers Web site at www.seniorsrealestate.com/sarec.

Austin also praises Bryan Neal, who owns a local company, Assisted Moving, at (734) 751-5026. He moves people into senior facilities. "He will dispose of the furniture that's left behind," Austin said. He has a consignment store in Plymouth, and also takes furniture to homes of adult children or to charities like the Salvation Army.

"He's very good, a very pleasant person," Austin said. Michelle Michael, associate broker with RE/MAX

Classic in Novi, also holds the SRES designation, for about nine years. She'd worked with seniors before that, having gotten referrals from Henry Ford Village in Dearborn.

"I just found I really enjoyed working with seniors and helping them sell their homes," the Novi resident said.

A difference is that seniors have typically been in the home 25 or more years, Michael said. "A big issue is decluttering the home to prepare it for showings."

She finds seniors don't want to be taken advantage of:

"They are a very smart group of people and they want to know what's going on. I think they want to feel more of a human connection with the person they're working with. They want to be as informed as possible upfront."

Seniors need to know how the market's changed, Michael said, such things as increased use of the Internet to sell homes and interior pictures being important.

Seniors are some 95 percent of her business, and she spends a lot of face to face time. Michael, who can be reached at (248) 348-3000, also does seminars at retirement communities and community centers.

She noted this area had huge growth in the 1970s and 1980s. "Now they're looking for alternative housing. They just don't need or want the big house anymore," Michael said.

Mary Rettig, associate broker with Century 21 Today in Farmington Hills, has held the SRES designation for at least four-five years.

Rettig, a Berkley resident, realized she knew the market and enjoys educational opportunities. "I needed to work on this designation so I can work with these folks a little better," she said.

"You're dealing with family members, too." Some seniors are healthy and active, while others face health issues, Rettig said.

Rettig, who can be reached at (248) 538-2818, noted inheritance issues may arise. For seniors moving into assisted livings, costs are high and they need a trustworthy source of information.

"It just depends on the family mix," said Rettig, who finds work with seniors rewarding. Her dad was almost 91 when he died and her mom is 81.

"There's the trust factor, too," she said. "It's nice helping families out."

The current market is trying, Rettig added, and seniors benefit from having someone who can explain it in a lower gear.

Check out condo 'specialist' claim

Q: What is a "condominium specialist"?
Some law firms indicate that they have a "condominium specialist" assisting attorneys in collecting monies due and owing to a community association. Then what is a condominium specialist? Is it someone who is trained in community association law? Is it a licensed legal assistant? Is it a secretary or file clerk who has assumed the role of being a so-called community association specialist?

A: The law does not ethically categorize someone as a specialist until they are trained in a particular area and receive a certificate or other certification from a duly designated licensing body. At the minimum, we would hope that a condominium specialist is a trained legal assistant from an accredited legal assistant school. One of the questions you should ask your attorney is who, in fact, is assisting him or her in collections and is that person qualified and experienced, and, does that person have the right training to hold themselves out as a "condominium specialist" in collections?

Q: I am having a problem with our neighbor whose dog barks continuously and the association won't do anything about it nor will the owner of the dog do anything either. There is no end in sight and it is affecting my ability to sell the unit. What can we do?

A: If you have prevailed upon the association and the dog owner with no success, your only recourse is to seek legal action on your own behalf presumably under your community association documents. You are best advised to hire an attorney experienced in condominium law to seek an injunction against the dog making unreasonably loud noises. Other than that, you may have to grin and bear it.
