Township makes own center proposal

Edwards objects to plan put forth by PARC group

By Matt Jachman
 Staff Writer

Plymouth Township officials are considering a study of the feasibility of building a township recreation center.

Treasurer Ron Edwards announced the plan at Tuesday's Board of Trustees meeting while introducing a 2014 township general-fund budget proposal of nearly $13 million, saying he had budgeted $50,000 for "a study, a survey, to see what residents of Plymouth Township want" in a recreation center.

"I think we need our own facility. We've talked about it for years," Edwards said.

His request came minutes after Edwards rejected a pitch from Don Soenen, a member of the Plymouth Arts and Recreation Complex committee, that township officials participate in a study of the possibility of converting Central Middle School in Plymouth into a cultural and recreation center after the school closes in 2015.

Edwards objected to participating in the planning when the facility would be in the city.

Soenen, speaking during the public comment segment of the meeting, said there was "considerable public support for such a facility" and estimated the price tag at $25 million, including $2.5 million for the land purchase. He asked for cooperation from city, township and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools officials during what he said would be a 24-month planning and preparation process, possibly leading to a November 2015 vote on a property tax to support such a complex.

Trustee Bob Doroshewitz, also a member of the PARC committee, balked Tuesday when Edwards announced a separate plan, saying the study Soenen had proposed didn't require any township money.

"He wasn't going to do it in Plymouth Township," Edwards replied. The PARC plan could

Plymouth braves mist to honor veterans

Cornelius Van Boven served his country as an infantryman in the U.S. Army during the Korean conflict.

Monday, a day he was recognized for 50 years as a member of the American Legion, Van Boven - who served in Europe from 1949-51 - was still serving.

"It still reminds me that I'm still serving my country," Van Boven said of his American Legion membership. "We honored our country (then) by doing everything in a military fashion. I believe in honoring your country."

Apparently, so does the Plymouth community. Some 100 people turned out on a dreary, rainy day to pay tribute to the service of all veterans in the annual Veterans Day ceremony in Veterans Memorial Park in downtown Plymouth. They listened attentively as retired U.S. Marine Lt. Col. Steve Monaghan emceed the ceremony, as he has the last several years.

The ceremony featured the Pledge of Allegiance and the national anthem, led respectively by the Central Middle School choir and band. Vietnam Veterans Chapter 528's color guard did the rifle salute, while bugler Rich Mazurkiewicz closed the ceremony with a stirring rendition of Taps.

A variety of speakers, including Plymouth Mayor Dan Dwyer, state Rep. Kurt Heise and state Sen. Pat Colbeck, drew applause from the crowd. Leaders of the various veterans groups extolled the virtue both of military service and service club efforts.

But one of the day's best

With tears, laughter, hugs and handshakes, two veteran officials stepped aside Monday after a combined 36 years on the Plymouth City Commission.

Ron Loiselle, who served for 28 years, non-consecutively, and Gerald Sabatini, a commissioner for eight consecutive years, reached the end of their terms Monday as the four winners of last week's city election, including two newcomers, were sworn in.

also lead to a tax – Soenen had suggested between seven-tenths of a mill and one mill – on township property to support a complex in the city, Edwards said.

Edwards called the need for a recreation center “a quality-of-life issue.”

“We have been losing on our property values left and right because we don’t have the amenities,” Edwards said. Township property values, he continued, haven’t recovered from the housing market crash as quickly as neighboring communities with a recreation center.

On Wednesday, Edwards estimated the cost of a recreation center at $26 million, adding that he was “on a mission” to see the plan through.

The board is scheduled to vote on the general-fund budget plan at its Tuesday, Dec. 10, meeting.

City site touted

Soenen, buoyed by a community meeting last week in which people at a crowded Penn Theatre demonstrated strong support for the PARC plan, argued Tuesday for a Plymouth location for the complex, saying visitors to it would want other attractions within walking distance, such as downtown restaurants, and that the athletic and cultural organizations that would use it would benefit from the denser city traffic.

Soenen said he’s lived in the township for 43 years, but has always considered the city and the township one community.

“It’s always been Plymouth and it always will be Plymouth,” he said.

Friday’s event also marks the kickoff of the local Salvation Army Red Kettle campaign, a Christmastime fundraiser that usually raises more than $200,000 to help area families during the holidays and represents a good portion of the Plymouth Corps’ overall holiday fundraising goal of more than $300,000. The Red Kettle campaign will have bell-ringers hitting the sidewalks and strip malls in more than 20 locations until Christmas Eve.

The Plymouth Corps assists families and individuals in Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township and several neighboring communities through the Red Kettle campaign.

speeches came from Plymouth Elks leader Stewart Israel, not a veteran, but a leader in local veterans causes.

“We can never be complacent in our gratitude to America’s veterans,” Israel told the crowd. “We must show the veterans, first and foremost, that they are not forgotten and never will be forgotten.”

One of those veterans is U.S. Army veteran Vincent Simonetti, who served in a signal radar relay company for a year at the end of World War II, then was drafted to serve again in the Korean conflict, where he was a supply sergeant stationed in California.

Simonetti was honored Monday for 60 years as a member of the American Legion.

“I think (veterans) are the backbone of the country,” Simonetti said. “What we have today ... we can thank those who served.”

Loiselle and Sabatini have also served on other city boards and commissions: Sabatini’s involvement dates back 25 years, while Loiselle’s dates back about 36 years.

“It’s been a great 25 years,” Sabatini said in a brief speech in the commission meeting room at city hall. He joked that his involvement started when he showed up at a commission meeting as a citizen and asked a question.

“Don’t ask any questions – you’ll find yourself up here for 25 years,” he said, drawing laughs.

for yours,” Sabatini added, fighting back tears.

Loiselle, in off-the-cuff remarks, said local government gave him a chance to affect people’s lives. “A city government does make more of a difference in your daily life than any other form of government,” he said.

Each man was presented a varsity-style jacket with his name and the city of Plymouth seal stitched on it.

Earlier, Dwyer paid tribute to both men. He credited Loiselle for getting him involved in Plymouth politics. “You have been a mentor to me ever since,” Dwyer said.

term. It is Dwyer’s third consecutive mayoral term, his fourth overall.

By charter, the first mayoral nomination automatically went to outgoing mayor pro tem Mike Wright, but Wright declined it and nominated Dwyer instead.

“I’m more interested in seeing us to continue to be as effective as we’ve been” than in being mayor or himself, Wright said. Later, he said his career as the owner of a small business owner likely wouldn’t allow him enough time to adequately ly do the job.

Wright has served as mayor pro tem since November 2009, taking the place of the mayor in Dwyer’s occasional absence.

On Monday, Wright passed up a chance at a third term and Commissioner Ed Hingelberg was named mayor pro tem. Hingelberg has been on the commission since 2008, when he was appointed to fill a vacancy.

Pastor, church members mourn typhoon victims

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

The Rev. Beth Delaney of Plymouth Township is pastor of the Filipino American Presbyterian Fellowship in Southfield. Talk of Typhoon Haiyan dominated discussion at services at the church this past Sunday.

“Most of my people have come from the north or the south. Their extended family wasn’t so badly affected,” said Delaney, who’s been with the congregation about five years. “All of my congregation were born in the Philippines except for a few spouses and kids. They are still Filipinos at heart. It really kind of hit them hard.”

nos at heart. It really kind of hit them hard.”

The congregation has about 45 people, mainly U.S. citizens now. “I think my congregation has felt God’s arms coming around them,” said Delaney, married to Stu and mother of two young adult children.

At Sunday services at the Southfield church, the typhoon was discussed in the gathering time and touched on in Delaney’s sermon. The meal afterward had much talk of Typhoon Haiyan, which killed thousands and left many more homeless.

“At that time, we really talked about it quite a bit,” she said. “The whole day was kind of surrounded by it.”

Filipino American Presbyterian Fellowship members are trying to figure out their relief efforts in the Philippines, said Delaney, whose family belongs to Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton. The American Red Cross and Presbyterian Church relief efforts are possible.

The founding pastor’s been building a school in the Philippines and there’s no word yet on the fate of his school, which may get their relief support. “We haven’t quite decided as a congregation yet,” Delaney said.

“They are continually battered by tropical storms and hurricanes and typhoons,” she said. “They seem to be a very resilient people.”

An earlier recent earthquake in the Philippines destroyed emergency resources in part of the country, she said: “It just kind of compounds, one on top of another. Certainly there’s a great sense of mourning.”

Northville school board member to challenge Heise

By Lonnie Huhman
Staff Writer

Northville Public Schools Trustee Scott Craig is throwing his hat in the ring against Rep. Kurt Heise, R-Plymouth, and will run against the incumbent for his 20th District seat in 2014.

And Craig cites education funding – or lack thereof – as one of the main issues that drew him into the contest.

"We need to create a world-class education system and build an economy that works for all Michiganders. This Legislature is too interested in promoting their narrow agenda and not interested in creating a better future for all who make Michigan their home," he said.

Craig, who is also president of the Northville Democratic Club, has filed to run for the seat. The 20th District includes Northville, Plymouth and a portion of Canton.

At its Nov. 18 meeting, the NDC Board will recommend that the club make a substantial contribution to Craig's campaign.

Craig has served on the Northville school board since 2011 and is a government/history teacher at Seaholm High School in Birmingham with more than 27 years of teaching experience. He and his wife, University of Michigan Professor Annette Masson, have lived in Northville for 10 years.

First elected in 2010, Heise was re-elected in 2012 for a second two-year term.

The election will be a challenge for Craig, considering the 20th is a solidly leaning Republican district.

According to Inside Michigan Politics/publisher Bill Ballenger, the 20th is probably 55-percent Republican voters. He said that's not a huge margin, but it will be a difficult hill to climb for a Democrat.

"Anybody has a chance, but as it stands now, Heise will be favored because it's hard to beat an incumbent who hasn't made any big mistakes," Ballenger said. "However, Heise can't take it for granted."

Ballenger does not know much about Craig, but said he sounds like a credible candidate considering he has served on the school board and is an NDC member.

Craig said he believes that the Michigan economy is not working for many in the 20th District due to poor decisions made in Lansing.

"Our unemployment rate of 9 percent places us at No. 46 in the country.

Our per capita income puts us at No. 35. Currently we are spending more on prisons than on higher education," he said. "This is not a path to prosperity."

He said he's a common-sense problem solver and believes that the cure for the Michigan economy is creating a highly educated workforce that can attract knowledge-based industries.

"We need to diversify the economy and promote entrepreneurship," Craig said.

To do this, he said he would work with anybody to promote economic growth and jobs.

On the school board, Craig said he has pushed for smaller class size and, as a result, there have been more teachers hired in the last year. He has also supported the district's ambitious plan to infuse 21st century technology into the classroom that has resulted in community support for a $21 million technology bond issue.

Fiscal responsibility is another area he views as a priority. He said during his time he has contributed to greatly improving the Northville district's financial status. While he has been on the board, the district fund equity has improved from a dangerously low 5 percent to a healthy fund equity of more than 15 percent.

By now we've all heard the statistics: 50% of all illness is a direct relation to dirty indoor air and our indoor air is up to 90 times more polluted than outdoor air. Yet, 90% of the calls I receive everyday are from desperate people complaining about dust. They tell me they dust the TV on Friday, but by Sun-day they are pushing the dust out of the way again so they can watch Dancing with the Stars, and none of them know exactly where it's coming from. Well, I'm here to tell you that it's not because you're a bad house-keeper, I tell people that by simply having your ducts cleaned will drastically reduce household dust, and the reason is, your cold air returns.

Cold air returns suck in dirty air, and over time it builds up until you have the same type of debris that you would find in your vacuum bag. Visit our website at www.americanpowervac.com for an actual photo of the debris that is pulled from a typical home.

Cold air returns are also the reason new homeowners are experiencing dust. While your drywall was being sanded, your cold air returns sucked all of the dust through the system and it settled on the bottom of the duct lines where a little at a time gets blown back into your home. To prove it, take a walk down into your basement, look up at the ceiling for thin sheets of tin mounted equipment vs. portable or truck mounted equipment at www.americanpowervac.com. These are your cold air return lines. Give them a good poufing. You'll see puffs of dust seeping out of the edges. That my friends, is the reason you have uncontrollable dust problems! This debris cannot be removed without a professional. Which brings me to my next point: choosing an air duct cleaning company. Most companies use portable units, which are like a shop vac that you would vacuum your car with, obviously a s o l u t e l y useless. Then there are companies who claim they have a truck-mounted system. In reality they have a low powered portable system attached inside a van, again, absolutely useless. Visit our website for photos of their equipment vs. portable or truck mounted equipment at www.americanpowervac.com.

American Power Vac has the equipment that is powerful enough to get the job done right and that equipment is a Power Vac truck. It is the most powerful equipment in the industry. This is where the entire truck is the vacuum and the truck motor powers the equipment. You'll know it's a Power Vac truck because it's the size of an ambulance and when engaged twelve large air bags will come out of the roof.

What makes the difference in equipment? Power! To put things into perspective, your furnace moves 2,000 CFMs (cubic feet of air per minute), basically what you feel coming out of your register. Truck-mounted equipment only moves 4,000 CFMs. The American Power Vac moves over 16,000 cubic feet of air per minute, more than quadruple the power of any truck-mounted equipment.

Beware of companies using cheap equipment and advertising cheap prices most are unlicensed or advertise that they are licensed and are not!

Avoid Scams by not falling for cheap get you in the door prices.

When asked what sets you apart from your competitors Keith says "Honest service is number one, equipment is number two. I know the importance of being on time, working with a smile, and respecting people's homes and their belongings." # Canton police called 'one of the best' by outside analyst

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Amid a rigorous on-site analysis this week by an outside team, the Canton Police Department appears in a strong position to retain its accreditation by an international agency, the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, or CALEA.

"This has been a top-notch agency – one of the best I've dealt with," said Gary Lafone, a retired Conover, N.C., police chief and CALEA analyst.

Lafone and Phil Patrone, retired Roanoke County, Va., police captain, arrived in town this week for an analysis as Canton seeks to satisfy more than 450 standards set by CALEA, an agency dedicated to strengthening crime prevention and boosting community confidence in local police work.

Canton Deputy Police Chief Robert Kerr, who retires this week, told the Canton Township Board of Trustees during a meeting Tuesday night he is confident the police department will retain the accreditation it earned in 2007 and 2010.

"It's going to happen again," he said. "We're going to get re-accredited."

Canton's latest assessment effort was headed up by Lt. Pat Sullivan, the local police department's CALEA accreditation manager.

According to the Virginia-based CALEA website, Canton remains the largest police agency in Michigan to earn accreditation. It is led by Public Safety Director Todd Mutchler.

Only seven Michigan agencies currently have attained the honor: Huntington Woods, Norton Shores, Port Huron, Portage, Wyoming, the University of Michigan and the Wayne County Airport Authority's law-enforcement division.

Canton has to meet a set of criteria with four basic areas: policy and procedures, administration, operations and support services.

If Canton survives the latest analysis, which appears likely, Lafone said the police department would be honored by a 21-member CALEA commission during a spring conference in Garden Grove, Calif. He said the panel is made up of 11 members of law enforcement and 10 representatives from the public and private sector.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

Domestic dispute

Police arrested a 46-year-old man following allegations he grabbed his pistol but never fired it after his wife told him that she was going to file for divorce, a police report said.

Police received the call about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The report indicated police were sent to a residence near Haggerty and Cherry Hill on a possible assault with a gun – an incident witnessed by two teenage children and another age 11.

The police report indicated the alleged assailant became upset after he and his wife argued over an affair he was having – an affair that led to another woman becoming pregnant. The wife asked him to leave and said they could no longer live together.

The report said the husband retrieved his pistol from underneath a sofa and walked toward her, though he wasn't accused of pointing it directly at her. The oldest son, 19, got between them.

At one point, the wife allegedly was rummaging through a kitchen drawer, but was never seen retrieving a knife or any other weapon. Police took the husband into custody for domestic violence and felonious assault, the report indicated.

Stolen vehicle

A woman notified police that her 1995 Dodge Intrepid was stolen from Carriage Cove Circle, near Warren and Lilley, between 11 p.m. last Thursday and 9 a.m. Friday.

The woman parked the car and learned the next day it had been stolen, a police report said. She spoke with an employee at a nearby Mobil gas station who said he had seen the vehicle near the Warren-Lilley intersection around the time it may have been stolen.

Home Depot tussle

Canton police were investigating reports that a 33-year-old Canton man struggled with employees of the Home Depot on Michigan Avenue before fleeing in a Ford minivan with merchandise he had stolen, a police report said.

The incident happened about 1 p.m. Friday. Police received a report of retail fraud that led to a struggle between an employee and a suspect. When police arrived, the suspect had fled. He was described as a white male wearing a black coat, blue jeans and red baseball cap.

The police report indicated he went to the store's plumbing aisle and stole 10 brass water valves, hiding them in his coat.

Theft of materials

A 61-year-old man who owns a roofing company notified Canton police after someone stole rolls of ice shield, felt and boxes of nails from a site near Geddes and Beck roads sometime between noon Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday.

He said the materials were for work to be done at the Villas at Maple Creek condominiums, according to a police report.

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Thief interrupted

A man interrupted the burglary of his wife's sport-utility vehicle one night last week and the man he spotted in the Chevrolet Traverse apparently ran off with the woman's wallet.

The incident occurred just before 10:30 p.m. Nov. 7 at a house on Woodlore Drive South, according to a Plymouth Township Police Department report.

The wallet reportedly contained cash, debit and credit cards and identification.

The complainant told police he was closing the garage for the night when he spotted someone in his wife's Traverse, which was parked in the garage. He at first thought it was his wife, but quickly realized it wasn't and tried to close the door, but not before a man ran out, he said. The man was described only as an older male wearing a hooded sweatshirt and a jacket, a police report said.

Police later found some of the contents of the victim's wallet in a neighboring yard.

Fraud reports

A township man's credit card was used in an attempted unauthorized Internet purchase of more than $1,600 in Apple merchandise recently, police report. The man reported the fraud Nov. 6; the credit card and the order were canceled.

An investigation determined the phone number used in the order was a number at a General Motors Corp. truck factory, the Internet address for the computer used originated in Ann Arbor and the merchandise was to have been delivered to an apartment in Detroit, police said.

A woman checking her bank account balance earlier this month discovered her debit card had been used to make an unauthorized purchase of about $396 via PayPal, police report. The debit card was canceled.

A township man reported to police late last month that his debit card had been used without his knowledge to buy $75 worth of department-store gift cards. The debit card was canceled.

Ring stolen?

A woman last week reported the possible theft of her $2,000 diamond and gold ring from her house on Baywood Drive in the township.

The woman told police she had left the ring in a bowl and that she last saw it Oct. 11 and noticed it was missing Oct. 19. She wasn't sure it was stolen and perhaps could have been misplaced, she said, but she had had a contractor and two deliverymen in her house since last seeing the ring.

Steve Jochmans of Northville Township photographs one of the penguin species native to Antarctica during his visit.

World traveler to hit library, tell tales of Antarctica

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Steve Jochmans of Northville Township is a retired Northwest Airlines pilot and U.S. Navy pilot. Since his 2006 retirement, Jochmans and wife Jody have been able to travel, including to Antarctica twice.

"My focus is visiting unique and fragile environments," said Jochmans, 62. "Antarctica was at the top of that list."

He visited with a National Geographic trip both in 2009 and 2012 and will share slides and his experiences at a program at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, at the Novi Public Library on 10 Mile east of Beck. It's a Friends of the Library Kaleidoscope presentation.

"I'm going to show close encounters with the wildlife," he said, including the three types of penguins in Antarctica. He has video and pictures of orca whales and will show images of humpback whales, too.

Attendees will also see images of ice floes and mountains of Antarctica. Jochmans will show images of old whaling villages and factories where ships would come in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

"They would basically use cables to drag whales onto the shore," and all parts would be processed, he said. "It was an assembly line process."

Travel has increased for the couple in recent years. "I've always been traveling, but the majority of the traveling has occurred in the last seven years," said Jochmans, who has a 32-year-old son, a high school physics teacher who lives in Baltimore.

Jody battled breast cancer after a 2011 Stage II diagnosis, going through chemotherapy and radiation.

"She's very proud of it," he said. "Everything's fine. It's like a new chapter in her life. She's a real role model. She just tackled breast cancer head-on."

In lieu of a speaker fee, the Novi library will make a donation to the American Breast Cancer Society for the couple. Jochmans has done other presentations and doesn't take a fee, but does ask for the donation where possible.

"I do it simply out of my love of traveling," he said of his presentations.

Rouge cleanup bags 82 cubic yards of trash in 2013

More than 1,700 people came out to the Rouge cleanup and restoration activities across metro Detroit this past June, according to the Friends of the Rouge, a local nonprofit organization dedicated to the river's restoration.

Volunteers removed 82 cubic yards of trash from 120 acres of public parkland and river valleys that wind through neighborhoods. The bulk of the trash removed consisted of paper, wrappers, Styrofoam, balls, bottles and cans. These everyday items are carried to the river by wind and water.

Other items volunteers pulled from the river were likely intentionally dumped and consisted of 31 tires, 27 shopping carts, four mattresses, bicycles, a Lazy Boy chair, a hot tub and household appliances.

Aristeo Construction, based in Livonia, removed a vehicle from the river this year.

"Aristeo Construction has been bringing out the big equipment to remove vehicles from the river for years" said Cyndi Ross, the river restoration program manager for the Friends group.

Volunteers also worked to control the spread of invasive plants in the region and removed more than 8,000 cubic yards of invasive plants like garlic mustard, honeysuckle and buckthorn. These non-indigenous plants have advantages over native vegetation. They often produce an abundance of seed or have the ability to alter the soil to prevent other species from thriving.

Those plants don't have predators (insects or animals that consume them) to keep their population in check. They have to be removed to preserve the health of the ecosystem and to maintain quality habitat for wildlife.

Rouge Rescue was supported, in part, by the Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project, the Erb Foundation and the following corporate sponsors: ITC; Robert Bosch, LLC; Quicken Loans; Denso International America, Inc.; Waste Management; TI Automotive; Marine Pollution Control; and Draw-Tite. In-kind contributions were provided by Michigan Poly Supplies and HD Edwards Co.

Youngsters are excited for their present in "A Wonderful Worldful of Christmas," set for Dec. 12-15 at the Village Theater at Cherry Hill.

America Legion members Mike O'Malley and Joe Tyson lead the Veterans Day "Salute to Service" at Heritage Park in Canton. TOM BEAUDOIN

Locals turn out to honor vets

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

The only thing Robert Miller knew about his father's time as a prisoner of war was that he was one, a fact he says he "stumbled upon" and that his mom asked him to keep to himself.

Three weeks after his father died in 1994, Miller discovered a diary his father kept about that time in his life. It took him about 13 years, but Miller finally produced a book, Hidden Hell: Discovering My Father's POW Diary, that talks about what his father went through.

The book, available at all the usual places (Barnes & Noble, Amazon.com, etc.), talks about those experiences and took Miller a long time to write.

"He escaped twice from a prison camp ... he was tortured," said Miller, on hand for Monday's Salute to Service event honoring military veterans at Canton's Village Theater at Cherry Hill. "He always said, 'I'd rather die than not try at all.' I couldn't believe my dad's passion for life and will to live."

Miller's display was one of many at the Salute to Service event, which Michigan Military Moms members were out in force at Canton's Salute to Service event Monday night.

capped a day of honoring veterans for their service in both Plymouth and Canton.

The day started with Veterans Day homages in Heritage Park in Canton and Veterans Memorial Park in downtown Plymouth, where about 100 people braved a misty, cold day to honor veterans, including Cornelius Van Boven and Vincent Simonetti, World War II veterans honored for 50 and 60 years, respectively, of service in the American Legion.

It featured youngsters (the Central Middle School band and choir in Plymouth, the Workman Elementary School choir in Canton), local political leaders and – most importantly – veterans groups taking part in honoring the service rendered by the area's veterans.

Stewart Israel, president of the Plymouth Elks, summed up the purpose of the day pretty well.

"We can never be complacent in our gratitude to America's veterans," Israel told the crowd. "We must show the veterans, first and foremost, that they are not forgotten and never will be forgotten."

Set a budget for holiday spending this year

The holidays are right around the corner and it seems stores are starting earlier and earlier with sales.

It used to be the Friday after Thanksgiving (Black Friday) signified the beginning of the holiday season. Today, many stores will be open Thanksgiving Day.

The goal of all these sales and advertisements is very simple – get consumers to spend, spend and then spend some more. But that doesn't necessarily mean it's something we should be doing.

Every year, I write a column encouraging people not to overspend for the holidays. And it seems every year at this time, I read an article about people who have just finished paying for last year's holiday gifts – just as they're about to start spending this year.

Rick Bloom

Going into debt is no way to celebrate the holidays. Take a pledge to not overspend for the holidays. Easier said than done, but it is very important.

I recommend before you begin holiday shopping, set a budget. It's hard to know how much someone should spend for the holidays. However, if you have to put purchases on your charge card and you can't afford to pay the balance in full, then you're probably spending too much. Charge cards, especially during the holiday season, should not be used to finance purchases.

Gift list, too

At the same time you establish a holiday budget, decide exactly whom you have to buy gifts for. Once you do, it is much easier to allocate your resources.

I recommend establishing a game plan before you go shopping, because it is much easier to stay the course.

Another thing that families can do to help ease the pressure people feel during the holiday season is to set a limit as to the amount to be spent on a gift. After all, we tell children that it's the thought that counts, not how much you spend. Maybe this is the year we actually put that into effect.

We are in difficult economic times and gift giving unfortunately detracts from what the holidays are all about – a time to spend with family and friends. It is not a time to go into debt.

Before you begin your holiday shopping, consider talking to family and friends who you traditionally exchange gifts with and consider putting a cap on gifts. I recognize this may be an uncomfortable conversation to have, however, family and friends should be able to discuss finances without being embarrassed.

Don't get caught up in the vicious circle of spend, spend, spend. Be smart this holiday season. If you don't have the financial pressure that always comes about during the holiday season, you will enjoy the holidays the way they're meant to be enjoyed.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON CHAMBER CHAT

Building pay-off

At the Nov. 1 Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Gala, Chairman Mark Baker of PNC Bank announced the chamber has paid off the mortgage on its building.

Four-and-a-half years ago, the chamber took on a new mortgage to pay off the rest of the cost from purchasing and renovating the building in 2006. Through aggressive cash management, Baker said, the board was able to pay off the loan ahead of schedule through normal operations and fundraising.

Events like the Gala were major contributors to allow the chamber to pay off the loan and free up more revenue to spend on initiatives like community marketing and member services.

Joint after-hours

Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce members will be joining members of the Northville Chamber 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 20, for the November After Hours at Station 885 in Plymouth's Old Village.

The event will provide an opportunity for businesses to expand their network of professionals from business people in neighboring communities and in Plymouth at the same time.

Station 885 is located at 885 Starkweather. There is no fee to attend this event. RSVPs are requested by noon Nov. 19 to teri@plymouthmich.org or 734-453-1540.

Santa's arrival

Santa's Arrival in Kellogg Park is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 29. Visitors are invited to bundle up and help welcome Santa back to Plymouth with Santa, Mrs. Claus and Christmas Carol arriving by fire truck.

The Salvation Army will be in full force for collections and sharing some hot chocolate. Santa and friends will arrive on a fire engine at 6 p.m. He will be welcomed by city officials and will pull the lever to light all of the Christmas trees in Kellogg Park.

Once the ceremony is finished, Santa will be welcoming children to his house in Kellogg Park until 8:30 p.m.

Restaurants will be open for dinner and many shops will be open until 9 p.m. with holiday specials.

Santa will then be available in his house the following dates/times: noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30; noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7; noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14; noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15; noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21; noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 22; and 5:30-8:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23.

The board consists of 11 members who assist Michigan's Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs with managing the licensure and practice of more than 1,200 athletic trainers in the state. Eyers will serve as chairperson for one year. She has served on the athletic trainers board since 2010.

Eyers joined the Sports Medicine Division of Henry Ford's Department of Orthopaedics Surgery in March 2011 and was named supervisor of athletic training in November 2012. She is a certified athletic trainer.

Eyers holds a bachelor's degree in movement science from the University of Michigan, a master's degree in health studies from the University of Alabama and a doctor of education degree in educational leadership from Central Michigan University. She is a member of the Great Lakes Trainers Association, Michigan Athletic Trainers Society and National Athletic Trainers Association.

Calendar advice

Sue Voyles, president of Canton-based Logos Communications, was selected from more than 5,000 submissions to be featured in The 2014 Woman's Advantage Shared Wisdom Calendar. The calendar provides advice for women business owners from influential women leaders across the U.S. and Canada.

Voyles

Mary Cantando, growth expert of The Woman's Advantage, announced Voyles' advice is included in this year's calendar. Her quote appears on March 11, 2014, and reads, "If a woman in business asks you for help, take it as a compliment. Then give her a hand up." This marks Voyles' sixth consecutive appearance in the calendar.

Voyles' quote was selected because "it was powerful yet easy to understand. Her idea is relevant to almost every woman in business today," Cantando said. "Women business owners and those who dream of starting a business will learn so much from the advice provided by Sue Voyles and the other successful women quoted in the calendar."

The Woman's Advantage 2014 Calendar provides sound bites of advice on key business issues, including organization, promotion, sales and human resources.

Soft toy

The IKEA Soft Toys are coming to IKEA Canton and celebrating their 10-year milestone.

Since 2003, the IKEA Soft Toy campaign has donated $74 million to UNICEF and Save the Children and impacted approximately 10 million children in 46 countries. For each purchase of an IKEA Soft Toy, including fairytale-character stuffed animals, finger puppets and books available at affordable prices, $1.34 is donated to the Soft Toys for Education Campaign.

Running through Jan. 4, the 10th annual Soft Toys for Education Campaign will hit Canton to raise money to educate children around the world.

IKEA Canton will also have a special donation bin for those who don't have a child to give a soft toy to this holiday season. All donations will be given to Project Night Night, an organization that provides free of charge to homeless children who need childhood essentials to feel secure, cozy, ready to learn and significant. Each Night Night Package contains a new security blanket, an age-appropriate children's book and a stuffed animal – all nestled inside of a new canvas tote bag.

OUR VIEWS

Getting out in the field

Hunter safety should be No. 1 priority on eve of opening day

By now you may have heard the tragic story of an Indiana man who died last week after a hunting accident.

Timothy Bowers, a 32-year-old father-to-be, kissed his wife goodbye on a recent Saturday afternoon, just like he often did during hunting season, and went out into the woods. But, as Bowers climbed up to his tree stand for an afternoon hunt, he fell some 16 feet to the ground and shattered his spine. When he awoke in the hospital, doctors told him he would be paralyzed for the rest of his life and could no longer breathe on his own. Faced with such a bleak prospect, he chose to be removed from life support and died shortly thereafter, surrounded by family, leaving behind his wife, pregnant with the couple's first child.

The horrible tale is a reminder just how dangerous hunting can be. It's especially pertinent considering tomorrow, Nov. 15, is opening day for firearms deer hunting season in our state.

For the next two weeks, the vast woodlands of Michigan will be crawling with a virtual army of hunters, who will be taking up the annual tradition that still runs deep for a great many of our residents. Opening day, and deer hunting in general, is a part of our culture here in the Great Lakes State. It's a big deal, especially in more rural areas, where many businesses and even whole school districts will close opening day, because so many take to the woods in search of the elusive white tail.

Hunting is also big business. According to state officials, deer hunters contribute more than a half billion dollars of economic activity annually. That includes buying hunting equipment, staying at hotels and so much more. In fact, the state estimates 5,300 jobs are supported by the deer hunting economy alone.

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, of the more than 700,000 hunting licenses sold in 2012, nearly 600,000 people took part in the firearms deer season, which runs Nov. 15-30.

As such, it is so important that the hunting community recognizes the dangers associated with the sport. Hunter safety should be at the top of the priority list as people head out to deer camp and prepare to enter the field.

Each year in Michigan, there are usually around a dozen serious accidents, including a few fatalities. Considering so many people will be going into the woods toting along high-powered rifles and other firearms, it is amazing that there are not more accidents.

But the Bowers incident shows the dangers of hunting extend beyond shooting accidents. It is imperative hunters understand and practice safe hunting methods to avoid becoming a statistic, particularly when hunting with a firearm.

The DNR's website (www.michigan.gov/dnr) lists some safety tips that every hunter should keep in mind. Here are a couple of the basics:

» Before you go on your hunting trip, let a family member or friend know where you are hunting and when you plan on returning.

» If you plan on hunting on someone else's land, always be sure to get permission from the property owner and, if obtained, make sure they know when you will be there.

» Always treat every firearm as if it is loaded. Always point the muzzle in a safe direction and always keep your finger outside the trigger guard and off the trigger until ready to shoot. Be certain of your target and what's beyond it.

» All firearm hunters must wear clothing made of "hunter orange" that consists of at least 50 percent of the surface area. The hunter orange must be visible from all sides.

» Do not carry a loaded weapon as you climb up or down from an elevated stand. Falls are one of the fastest growing injuries to sportsmen and women.

» Never hunt while under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

It's not a bad idea to visit the DNR's website for more safety tips and other pertinent hunting information.

We realize hunting season is a special time for many of our readers. To all you hunters, we wish you luck. Perhaps this is the year you will bag that big buck. But please, be safe. Coming home in one piece should be your No. 1 objective.

COMMUNITY VOICE

There is talk in the Michigan Legislature of requiring two license plates – front and back – for motor vehicles. What do you think of such a proposal?

We asked this question at the Plymouth District Library.

"I don't understand why it's necessary. I don't think it's necessary at all. It's too bad, our state Legislature – this is their biggest problem?"

Julka Kilpelainen
Canton Township

"I never understood why they stopped having the front and the rear. It made sense to me."

Mary Pew
Beverly Hills

"I guess, safety reasons, that's great. I don't drive. Ride my bike everywhere. Stay green."

Michael Zielke
Plymouth Township

"Like we used to do in the old days. I don't have any problem with that. I would prefer it. I play a game with license plates and it would make it easier for me."

Agnes Colarossi

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bright future

Wednesday, in the light rain, I was surprised to see a large group of smiling teenagers wielding rakes in my front yard.

When I opened the door to ask what was happening, they shouted: "You've been RAKED by East Middle School National Junior Honor Society!"

Their teachers and parents all can be proud of our future leaders.

Joyce McCool

Consider research

A recent letter from Scott Julian, Ph.D., warned that published scientific research on child outcomes of same-sex parents was not all of the same quality and that inappropriate methodologies could lead to erroneous conclusions.

Unfortunately, Dr. Julian has presented an inaccurate assessment of the research he cites, reinforcing the imperative that readers must inform themselves and come to their own conclusions. Simply having a Ph.D. does not make one an expert in all fields nor render one immune from personal bias.

The central conclusion of the noted research by Marks (2012 in Social Science Research) is that the available data on same-sex parenting "are insufficient to support a strong generalized claim either way." In other words, research methodologies have a long way to go before the question of parenting outcomes for different types of families can be definitively answered.

The research by Regnerus (2012 also in Social Science Research), also cited by Dr. Julian, has a variety of flaws, the most critical being that it does not separate out stable same-sex families from single instances of a same-sex relationship nor does it control for the host of other factors that might also impact outcomes for children of same-sex couples such as adoption or age of adoption. In short, the definitions and indicators used have serious flaws.

Based on existing research, it is simply impossible to make the conclusion that "most academic research is showing [same-sex] parenting to be, on average, inferior." And suggesting that such a conclusion has been made is a gross misrepresentation of the state of the research field, generally, and of the articles specifically cited by Dr. Julian. It is thus distressing that anyone with a college education would so blatantly pick and choose facts that suit their own particular argument, especially in a letter that is snidely critical of such actions by others.

Regardless of the topic, we support Dr. Julian's advice to carefully consider the best available scientific research, including the methodology, sampling, representativeness and conclusions, before reaching a conclusion about a particular issue. We are sorry he did not follow his own advice.

GUEST COLUMN

Team effort in Lansing fights human trafficking

While it's taken far too long, the public is finally waking up to the worldwide tragedy of human trafficking. This horrific crime encompasses both sex trafficking and forced labor and is a highly profitable form of modern-day slavery, involving mostly young women and girls.

Let's be honest: Most view this as an international problem and assume the federal government deals with it through law enforcement and immigration policies. But make no mistake, Michigan is not immune. In fact, we have become a focal point for this crime, given our international border and location along major national highways. In fact, just this summer, the FBI conducted a nationwide sting operation, freeing victims and arresting pimps across the country – and the Detroit area ranked second in the nation in the number of arrests.

This crime is here and now and in our community. As an attorney and chairman of the House Criminal Justice Committee, I have a professional responsibility to fight human trafficking and eradicate it from our state. As the father of two teenage daughters, I have a moral obligation to ensure that no child – and no parent – ever has to be a victim to this horror.

This fight is personal for me. Over the past few months, I have read and listened to heart-breaking testimony by individuals who have suffered years of sexual enslavement at the hands of traffickers and pimps right here in Michigan. I've also heard from law enforcement from the federal level and other Great Lake states on what they are doing to fight back.

Michigan must be fully engaged in this fight and Michigan's Commission on Human Trafficking, co-chaired by me and Attorney General Bill Schuette, released its plan Nov. 6 to begin this effort.

Our study and report involved elected officials, state and federal law enforcement agencies, nonprofit organizations, faith-based groups and the academic community to develop a multi-faceted plan to fight this brutal crime.

This has been a team effort from every area of state government, the governor and Legislature, Republicans and Democrats and the attorney general. It's a great example of putting aside differences, ignoring party labels and who gets credit for what and putting children and families first for a real change.

Since the spring, the commission has studied ways to raise public awareness, train law enforcement, collect adequate data, protect victims and, most importantly, create a comprehensive legislative approach to help eradicate this modern-day slavery.

The nearly 100-page report calls for 13 new laws to bolster the human trafficking fight in our state and give law enforcement the additional tools they need to get the pimps and free the victims of this crime.

As chairman of the House Criminal Justice Committee, I'm committed to getting those bills moving and written into law. We want the pimps, johns and human trafficking criminals out of our state. We will make it clear that human trafficking will not be tolerated in Michigan, that you will be caught and you will be punished.

Unfortunately, many cases are not brought to the Michigan justice system and prosecuted because they are hard to detect. A big step in holding these perpetrators accountable will be to educate law enforcement and the public on how to identify victims and their traffickers.

Lastly, we need to make sure we create a safe and nurturing environment for the victims of human trafficking, especially the children. We will be turning to charitable and faith-based organizations to assist in this effort and will be forming partnerships with other groups committed to caring for these vulnerable persons. We must strive to create a safe environment, where we can work with victims to become productive members of society, while tracking down their oppressors.

I'm proud to say our commission has recommended a "safe harbor" bill that will treat the victims of human trafficking not as criminals, but as people who need our help – vulnerable children and adults who must be treated with compassion and respect by law enforcement, the courts and the social support system.

I also don't want a report that sits on a shelf while kids suffer. That's why I'm introducing a bill to create a permanent state commission on human trafficking that will implement and sustain the plan well into the future.

The Michigan Commission on Human Trafficking has worked hard to advance a comprehensive strategy to eradicate this crime and protect the victims of it. Our children and families deserve a Michigan where they are able to live, learn and enjoy their lives, free from this terrible crime.

State Rep. Kurt Heise represents the 20th House District, which includes Northville, Plymouth, and eastern Canton.

GIRLS SWIMMING & DIVING

Springboard to success

Wildcats' McKeehan wastes no time becoming diving standout

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

When Megan McKeehan launches into a dive for the Plymouth Wildcats she blocks out everything, including how she makes it from point A to point B.

It's all about springing off the diving board and letting go — trusting that all those hours working with coaches, watching video and smoothing all the edges of her technique pay off yet again.

Yes, everything McKeehan does from the moment she steps up onto the board until she propels her body toward the water is ingrained thanks to countless hours of training. It isn't a thankless job for the 16-year-old Plymouth junior, however.

Nothing beats the sheer rush of adrenaline McKeehan experiences every time she returns to the surface, another successful dive in the books.

For her, that's something to be thankful about.

"Going off the board I can like feel my heart racing," said McKeehan, a Canton resident in her third year with the Plymouth girls swim and dive team. "It's the best feeling ever when you come up out of the water and you hear everybody cheering. ... It's like nothing else."

And McKeehan's like nobody else, at least in the team's history. At the recent Wyandotte-hosted "Pumpkin Meet" she established a new Wildcats' record with an 11-dive (tournament) tally of 285.30 points. That means nailing 11 different dives — forward, backward, inward and variations therein.

McKeehan nearly also set a team 6-dive (dual meet) benchmark a couple weeks ago.

"For the 11-dive format she's the best we've ever had in 12 years," Plymouth coach Doug Schade said. "She missed our

Who: Megan McKeehan, 16, junior at Plymouth High School. She is in her third season with the Wildcats' girls swim and dive team and holds the team's 11-dive record (285.30 points).

Versatile: She also is a pole vaulter for Plymouth's girls track and field team and was on the girls gymnastics team her freshman and sophomore years.

Family: A Canton resident, her parents are John and Barb McKeehan.

Misc: McKeehan carries a 4.0 grade-point average and is involved in community service. She started in gymnastics at a parent-tot program at age 3 and has spent several years training in that sport at Canton-based Splitz Gymnastics. Those skills have helped her make the transition to diving, which she took up as a ninth grader.

Teammates: The Plymouth dive team includes McKeehan, seniors Rima Das, Ariel Magyar, sophomores Jessica Lynch, Catherine Harris, Lizzy Walton and freshman Beth Henderson. Diving coach Vikki Jouney is in her first season.

88.1 pledge drive

Listen up, fans of high school teams from Plymouth-Canton Educational Park as well as those of the Plymouth Whalers. P-CEP radio station WSDP 88.1 The Park is holding a pledge drive all week to raise $6,000 to update broadcast equipment, all with the aim of making those prep and Whaler games easier to hear. Call 734-416-7745 to make a pledge.

Helping the cause Monday was Pete Krupsky, the long-time voice of the Whalers. On Wednesday, 88.1 alum Chris Butzlaff helped out.

Production director Elena Bongiovanni said the pledge drive will hopefully raise $6,000, or up to 120 pledges of 50 bucks each.

WSGP is based out of Salem High School, on the second floor. Students comprise much of the on-air staff (including play-by-play and color broadcasters for Canton, Plymouth and Salem football games as well as basketball games).

Rakes, not sticks

Plymouth's varsity boys hockey team last weekend took part in its first community service project of the year. The Wildcats, in conjunction with Plymouth United Way, raked leaves at 10 homes.

Crusaders get honors

For the second straight year, Madonna University senior Amanda Ferrick (Warren Cousino) and junior Ashley Parent (Amherstburg, Ontario) earned All-Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference in women's soccer.

Ferrick, a defensive midfielder, earned first-team All-WHAC for the third time.

Parent is making her third straight appearance on the first team in 2013 after posting six goals and five assists while battling a variety of injuries.

Junior Katlyn Krysiak (Madison Heights Lamphere), the team leader in goals (10) and points (24), was joined by senior Liliana Serratos (Dearborn) were selected All-WHAC honorable mention team as well.

All-Academic choices for MU include junior Mo DeGrandis, senior Lindsay McMullen (Livonia Churchill) Ferrick, Krysiak, Parent and Serratos, the latter whom was also named to the WHAC's Champions of Character team.

CLASS D GIRLS VOLLEYBALL REGIONAL SEMI

Malcolm's hot streak sparks PCA victory

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Plymouth Christian Academy won 25-14 to open Tuesday's Class D girls volleyball semifinal against Ann Arbor Rudolf Steiner, but then lost 25-19 in the second set to square the match.

Not to worry, not with senior setter/middle blocker Jen Malcolm stepping up to the service stripe to open Game 3. By the time Malcolm had finished her stint, PCA was up by a 10-1 margin and in full control of things at Bloomfield Hills Roepert.

The Eagles rolled to a 25-6 win in that set and finished off the Storm in the fourth set with a 25-17 victory to advance to Thursday's regional final against No. 2-ranked Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes.

"I just had to be smart and mentally tough and not let that loss shake me up at all," said Malcolm, who spearheaded the victory with 30 assists (many to hard-hitting freshman outside hitter Olivia Mady) and seven aces. "And just focus on what I needed to do, which was get the ball into the open spots."

"They were having some communication issues, so we (PCA servers) just wanted to capitalize on that and exploit it

NEW AND IMPROVING

Despite shootout loss, Whalers' Vellucci sees progress in young team

With so many new players on the Plymouth Whalers, every game at Compuware Arena might serve as a "meet and greet" opportunity.

Slowly but surely, however, some of those Plymouth newbies are starting to gain name recognition with the home faithful. Or at least gain plenty of appreciation for a job well done.

Consider Saturday night's game against the visiting Windsor Spitfires, just the team's sixth home date in 21 contests. Although the Whalers dropped the Ontario Hockey League contest 4-3 in a shootout, the 3,247 fans in attendance were treated to big games by first-year players Victor Crus Rydberg (one goal, one assist) and Mathieu Henderson (one goal).

Another player some fans might not know all that well, defenseman and Rochester Hills native Mitch Jones, actually played sparingly last season. Against the Spit-

WOMEN'S COLLEGE VOLLEYBALL

MU spikers bid adieu to seniors

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Senior Night took on an extra special meaning last week for one Madonna University women's volleyball player.

Nastija Seremetjeva, who hails all the way from Riga, Latvia, was honored prior to Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference match Nov. 6 against visiting Siena Heights along with teammates Emilie Freeman, Evia Prieditis and Stacey Catalano.

They helped the No. 4-ranked Crusaders stay unbeaten following a 25-18, 25-22, 25-14 victory over the Saints. MU improved to 35-0 overall and won the WHAC title with a 12-0 record.

Seremetjeva, who finished with four kills on the night, has persevered despite a knee injury, which has hampered her throughout her MU career.

Tears flowed when her nation's national anthem was played after the four players were recognized.

"It was very emotional," said the 6-foot outside hitter. "It's real nice a lot of people came in and supported us, and just knowing that's our senior night. The last game was extremely emotional. I was crying, especially during my anthem. It was probably the most emotional part. The coaches hugged us. It was really nice."

Freeman, a 6-foot-3 middle hitter from Livonia (Lutheran Westland), finished with a match-high 11 kills.

Prieditis, a senior setter from Milford, had 32 assist-to-kills and 11 digs.

Strong bond

Meanwhile, the bond between Seremetjeva and her teammates is undeniable.

"Definitely I'm going to miss my girls," she said. "They're amazing friends ... because I came here all alone without family, and they were like family for me."

Following the win, Seremetjeva had her right knee wrapped in ice.

"She's a joy to coach and just a Godsend," MU coach Jerry Abraham said. "She's an awesome kid. God only knows what had happened had she not hurt that knee because she's so explosive and such a powerful player."

Seremetjeva has also performed in the classroom and will graduate next spring from MU with a degree in International Business.

fires, he blasted home a power play goal and helped set up another.

All of that undoubtedly is of some comfort to Plymouth head coach Mike Vellucci, especially on a night when it was announced over the Compuware PA system that Tom Wilson — a 19-year-old power forward who is in the NHL with the Washington Capitals instead of playing for the Whalers — tallied his first major league goal.

Getting better

"We played 15 road games and five at home," Vellucci said. "That's tough, especially a young team. I got 15 new players this year, so we're getting better every weekend. That's what I just told them."

He smiled about the contributions from players such as Crus Rydberg and Henderson. "They're all new, so nobody knows who they are, right? So we need somebody to step up and score."

Even though the Whalers (8-12-0-1) did not get the two points, they battled the fast, physical Spitfires tooth and nail and had a 3-2 lead until right wing Josh Ho-Sang evened things up at 14:53 of the third on a spectacular individual effort.

Ho-Sang skated from the left circle over to the right before cutting in on Whalers' goalie Alex Nedeljkovic (spectacular as usual, with 31 saves) before slipping the puck just inside the right post.

"There was a penalty on the play, they picked our guy on the play," Vellucci said. "It should have been called, that's why he was wide open."

In the shootout, the Whalers twice hit the goal post behind Windsor netminder Dalen Kutchmey, who also made a number of acrobatic saves including a diving grab to rob winger Jordan Addesi in the second period with the game tied 2-2.

The lone shootout goal was scored by Ryan Foss, who outwaited the Plymouth goalie before slipping a low shot into the cage.

Playing with jump

The Whalers played with plenty of jump despite it being their third game in three nights, not to mention Windsor (11-6-0-0) having Friday night off.

Plymouth lost 6-5 Thursday to the Spitfires and then defeated Guelph 3-2 in a shootout (behind a 41-save performance by backup netminder Zack Bowman).

"They (Spitfires) got a rest last night, ... we played 3-in-3 and gutted it out," Vellucci stressed. "We didn't win, but we could have. We hit two posts in the shootout, that was the difference."

Getting the Whalers on the board first was Jones, with a blast from the left point into the top left corner with 14:40 remaining in the first. It was Plymouth's first of two goals with the extra man.

Sliding the puck over to Jones from the right point was defenseman Yannick Rathgeb (two assists) with center Francesco Vilardi also drawing a helper on the play.

"Mitch Jones played well," Vellucci said. "He shut down their top line tonight."

Windsor answered with a power play goal at 11:52. Nick Ebert's slap pass from the left circle was redirected in by Remy Giftopoulos, stationed near the right post.

The Spitfires scored again on the power play to go up 2-1 with 12:52 left in the middle stanza when Cristiano DiGiaccin-to tipped in a slap shot by Steven Janes.

It only took the Whalers 42 seconds to get it back, however. Crus Rydberg roofed a shot with assists going to Rathgeb and Brook Hindink.

Plymouth then went ahead 3-2 with 5:39 left in the frame, again on the power play.

Crus Rydberg sent a crisp cross-ice pass from the left half-wall to Henderson, skating into the right circle. Henderson one-timed the puck through Kutchmey.

That's how the game stood until Ho-Sang's puck-on-a-string move tied things up and ultimately forced overtime.

Moment of silence

Before the game, a puck drop and moment of silence was held as a tribute to longtime Whalers scout Pat Peake Sr., who passed away earlier this year.

On hand for the brief ceremony was Pat Peake Jr., the only player from the Whalers' franchise to have his jersey (No. 14) retired.

Perfect 10-0 for Lions!

The Lions defeated the Redskins 7-0 to finish the season with a perfect 10-0 record. Scoring the lone TD was Darrell Johnson, while the defense was superb. Others helping the cause on defense were linemen Tyrun Bond, Marco Johnson, Daniel Baldwin, Spenser Korroch, Malcolm Clements, Kobe Kyle, Ray Anderson and Preston Long.

Making a splash for prep diving

Starting kids younger key to future success for Park diving teams

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

It is often said that the most important players relative to their sport are baseball pitchers, football quarterbacks and hockey goaltenders.

But what about the importance of a diver to a high school swim and dive team?

You can make the case for that being so, according to Plymouth girls swim and dive coach Doug Schade.

"I have to tell you, I've been a swimming coach for 22 years now and diving makes or breaks you," Schade said. "It's one one event in a dual meet, but in a lot of years when it's going to be close, and you know it's going to be close, usually the team with the best diving wins. So it's essential."

Schade's Wildcats are trying to build a top-notch dive squad. With junior Megan McKeehan recently setting a new team 11-dive mark with 285.30 points and several promising freshmen/sophomores moving up the ranks, next year could be a very successful one.

It helps the cause to have Vikki Jouney on board to work with the divers. Schade lauds the first-year coach, a teacher in Northville Public Schools, for strong communication skills.

"It's hard to find coaches," Schade said. "We're really lucky to have Vikki now because she's an incredibly good coach. She has a lifetime of teaching and learning experience."

Schade added that with Jouney taking care of the divers, "I can focus on the swimmers and I'm not worried about the chemistry, or the teaching and learning or anything like that. She just takes care of all of that, so that's been great for us."

No feeder system

It doesn't help that the Plymouth-Canton area does not have much of a so-called "feeder system" where kids in elementary and middle school begin to consider diving as a sport to be serious about when they do reach high school. That means Plymouth, Canton and Salem are at a competiitive disadvantage against teams from Novi, Northville, South Lyon and other areas in the Kensington Lakes Activities Association.

"We have some great athletes who show up here in the Park to dive," Schade said. "Unfortunately, we don't seem to have any kind of developmental program here, which I think is really lacking."

"I think if we could find somebody, maybe start in the middle schools with the eighth grade kids, get them on the board and get them learning the skills it would make Canton, Salem and Plymouth all that much better and ... more competitive overall in our conference."

Schade noted that, South Lyon typically has 10 divers who are "all going to score, that's a huge advantage for them. Northville will always have five or six, Novi will always have six or seven that are really good."

Plus, divers at those KLAAs schools "have been diving since they've been little kids. Nothing like that here. Honestly, I don't see how any of our three teams can really think about winning a conference championship unless we have that kind of diving."

MCKEEHAN

6-dive record by about two or three points at our last dual meet.

"So I certainly think her senior year she'll have a chance to come back and get that. I'd be disappointed if she didn't do that next year."

McKeehan is confident she'll add to her Plymouth legacy in 2014, too.

"I think I'm getting a lot more comfortable with my lists (her repertoire)," she said, during a recent practice at Salem High School, where she does most of her training. "I've been doing the same lists since the Pumpkin Meet."

"You have a certain number of dives you pick out to perform in the meets (routine) and in a certain order."

Give it a try

What is amazing about McKeehan — a lifelong gymnast — is that she didn't take up the sport until she was a freshman. That was following some encouragement from a Canton High School friend, swimmer Claire Green.

"She's a swimmer for Canton, and she'd been swimming for a long time and her dad (Todd Green) was a diver in high school," Megan noted. "And he knew I had a gymnast's background, I've been a gymnast my whole life. And he thought it might be something enjoyable for me to do."

There were enough similarities between gymnastics and diving that McKeehan nailed the learning curve so hard it practically flattened out.

"She had an extensive gymnastics background which really helped her when she started out," Schade said. "I'm not an expert on diving, but I do know a lot of the skills in diving are similar to the ones in gymnastics."

"And we've had six or seven girls over the years who've had a gymnastics background. That helps them in everything except for reversing, which can really be tough for them at first. Megan was one who got that really early in her career."

Aerial awareness

According to McKeehan, her experience as a gymnast helps her have an innate awareness of what she can do out in space — whether somersaulting off the diving board or propelling herself into mid-air off the uneven balance beam.

"It helps me with body control and spatial awareness, so it helps me know when to kick out," she explained. "Mostly, I think floor has helped most, with the tumbling. I've had experience in flipping and how you need to throw and stay tight and squeeze different parts."

Those same attributes, by the way, also help McKeehan with Plymouth's girls track and field team, where she is a pole vaulter.

Yet another common trait that gymnasts and divers tend to have is fearlessness.

Not even a hard belly smack into the water jars the best ones, such as McKeehan.

"Megan's crashed and burned a million times in practice," Schade said. "She just gets up, brushes herself off and keeps going."

"She developed that toughness from her gymnastics background. But part of it is her personality. She's a competitor, athletic, a little bit of a perfectionist and she wants to be good. So she's willing to really put it on the line and really go for it."

All together now

Hard-nosed competition isn't the only reason McKeehan is glad that she decided to "go for it" after talking to Claire Green a couple years ago.

"It honestly has made a big difference in my life, I love it so much," McKeehan said. "It's helped with my confidence and focus and just being more outgoing. I was really shy before but the divers on this team have really opened me up."

When she was a freshman, for example, older divers such as Rima Das and Ariel Magyar (both seniors on the current team) made sure she felt at ease.

"I joined late and they just welcomed me right in," McKeehan recalled. "I was afraid it was going to be awkward since I didn't know everybody and I wasn't as prepared as they were. But they showed me the ropes."

And that is something Schade didn't overlook at the time.

"We've really been lucky that the girls we've had in our diving program tend to be very kind girls," Schade said.

"Even though they're in direct competition with each other they seem to support each other really, really well."

"... That's a life lesson for them to learn. Ariel and Rima have both been really, really good as far as having her (McKeehan) come along a year behind them. It was pretty obvious she was going to take right over and become the No. 1 diver. And to their credit, they were very gracious about letting her join right in and take that role."

That's the tune

Perhaps they didn't mind because it meant Plymouth's diving team immediately got stronger, deeper and tougher as a result.

"Last year, it (diving) really helped us with divisions, we had a really strong dive team," McKeehan said. "We do this year, too, and we have one of the largest diving teams in our division."

It also doesn't hurt that they have plenty of fun along the way.

"Every day we're out here we sing and dance and support each other," she added. "We get to learn new things."

Fearlessness, focus and friendship sounds like the perfect mix for Megan McKeehan.

GIRLS SWIMMING

South Lyon captures Kensington Conference crown

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

South Lyon Unified racked up 195 of its team-high 914 points in diving to capture its third straight KLAAs Kensington Conference girls swimming and diving championship held Saturday at Novi High School.

Northville was runner-up with 817 followed by Salem and Livonia Stevenson in third and fourth, respectively, with 647.5 and 561.

Other area teams included Livonia Churchill, eighth (230), Westland John Glenn, ninth (185); Wayne Memorial, 10th (113); and Livonia Franklin, 11th (75.5).

South Lyon took seven of the top nine diving places to go along with five first-place finishes. (The meet scores through the top 24.)

Chanel Bonin led the way as she broke her own conference record in the 100-yard butterfly (55.18).

The senior also bested the 100 backstroke mark of 56.61 set by Novi's Andrea Vander-Mey (2012) with a clocking of 56.12.

Bonin also was a member of South Lyon's first-place 400 freestyle relay (3:34.01).

Other South Lyon firsts were recorded by Carolyn Bischoff in the 50 freestyle (24.57) and Deidre Gerke in the 100 freestyle (53.68).

so we could get the most points we could."

PCA head coach Kathy Decker, whose team improved to 19-15-7, only had to say a few words in the team huddle after Game 2 and she knew Malcolm would take it from there.

"She doesn't get flustered, she's very confident," Decker said. "So it's easy for me to look at her, and say 'We're going to serve tough, we're going to try to get them off their game.'"

Decker added that the Eagles tried to "keep them (Storm) from getting the ball up to their setter, because then they couldn't set the hitters that they wanted to."

As for playing the Lakers (7 p.m. Thursday), Decker said "they look very disciplined and they have a couple good hitters, so we've got our work cut out for us."

In the opening set, the Eagles nearly let it get away as Steiner junior Molly Rajewski closed the gap to 15-14 after serving up three aces among four consecutive points. But junior Raina Postma set up Malcolm for a defensive sideout point to keep PCA up by two.

On PCA's subsequent serve, it took a diving save in the back row by junior Kelsey Williamson to keep the ball from hitting the floor; Mady (18 kills) nailed the point at the end of that sequence to keep the Eagles on offense.

Malcolm went on to clinch that game with eight more service points.

"I try to jump as high as I can so I can ... so I can get a hard swing, and I just try to aim for the open spots," Mady explained.

Malcolm wasn't the only PCA player to literally serve up trouble for Steiner. In Game 3, Mady and senior Katherine Gibson enjoyed runs of six and four points, respectively.

Game 4 was more methodical, with the clincher finally coming on a bad serve by the Storm (20-10-1).

"We're a very small school, and we've come a really long way this season," Steiner coach Donn Hilker said.

Other Eagles with strong showings included senior outside hitter Rachael Fuller (16 kills) and junior libero Callie Morby (26 digs).

All-Observer girls harriers set a steady pace

FIRST TEAM

Jenny Rogers, Sr., Farmington: Rogers was the top area runner in the Division 1 state meet, finishing 23rd with a career-best time of 18:34.4. She qualified in eighth place at the Waterford regional, running 19:20 at Hess-Hathaway Park.

Rogers is the FPS city champion, leading the Falcons to the team title. She also was second in the last OAA White jamboree and was 24th in the Oakland County meet.

"Jenny had a very successful season in which she was able to accomplish most of her goals," coach Charles Bridges said. "Jenny has really made herself into a terrific runner. She is a wonderful example of what someone can do when she sets her mind on something and works to make it happen."

"Jenny is now a school, record holder and all-state competitor, and she has put herself in position to accomplish much more in the future."

Kayla Kavulich, Sr., Salem: Despite being slowed by an illness early in the season, Kavulich capped off a brilliant prep career in grand style.

The three-year varsity letter winner enjoyed a personal best of 18:35.5 and finished ninth at the Division 1 regionals with a mark of 19:14.3 to help the Rocks place second overall and earn another trip to the state finals.

Then, at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn, Kavulich finished 55th (19:13.3) as Salem came in 10th.

For her efforts, Kavulich earned Salem's Most Valuable Senior Award.

"Kayla has shown true heart and perseverance this season as she battled health issues," coach Dave Gerlach said. "But she still had success. Kayla has accomplished so much during her high school cross country career and helped raise the bar for this program."

Anya Cho, Jr., Salem: The talented junior is now firmly entrenched as one of the area's elite runners, following an outstanding season in which she placed sixth at D1 regionals (18:57.1) and 38th at D1 finals (18:58.2).

Along the way, Cho registered a PR of 18:45.6, made first team for the Wayne County and Kensington Conference meets and tallied the third-fastest time for a Salem junior in team history (18:45.6).

Cho also was individual champion at the Dewitt Invitational and was named Salem's Most Valuable Runner.

"Anya continued to show that she is on an elite level this season," Gerlach said. "Anya's passion and love for this sport shows through the way she has stepped in to lead this team and have continued success."

Maddy Trevisan, Soph., Farmington: Trevisan ran her best time of 19:05.4 and finished 52nd at the Division 1 state meet, making her the third-best runner among Observerland girls in that race. She placed ninth (19:24) in the Waterford Mott regional to qualify for state.

She also was the runner-up to teammate Jenny Rogers in the FPS city meet, placed fourth in the last OAA White jamboree and finished 34th in the Oakland County meet.

"Maddy had a great first season in cross country, exceeding her coaches' expectations," Bridges said. "We knew Maddy was a fine runner before she joined the team. But, for her to have the consistent finishes that she did throughout the season, it was remarkable."

"Maddy is one of the toughest runners I've ever had the pleasure of coaching. In every race and every practice, Maddy displays what a smart, focused athlete she is."

Marina DeBiasi, Sr., Plymouth: The Wildcats weren't sure if DeBiasi would return this fall, after being ill for much of the track and field season.

But the senior co-captain did and made it all the way back with a 63rd-place finish of 19:10.7 at the D1 state meet — one week after qualifying with her season's best time of 19:09 at regionals (eighth place).

At the Kensington Conference meet, DeBiasi placed 10th with a time of 19:13.22.

"She's an extremely hard working, motivated, focused and dedicated athlete that was frustrated with her track season and did everything in her power to come back and have a successful cross country season," Plymouth assistant coach Alice Ahearn said.

DeBiasi hasn't decided where to attend college, but Ahearn said several schools are interested in her to run for them.

Lauren Arquette, Jr., Salem: Yet another reason for Salem's continuing run as a top program in the KLAAs is Arquette, who stepped up as a junior to join the ranks of Kavulich and Cho.

Like Kavulich, she battled and overcame health issues this season. Arquette registered a PR of 19:12.0 at the D1 state finals at MIS (good for 53rd overall).

At the D1 regionals at Willow Metropark, her 11th-place finish of 19:18.2 helped the Rocks to a second-place finish. She also made second team all-conference.

"Lauren's positive character of determination and perseverance when the stakes were raised. At the Kensington Conference meet, her lifetime best of 19:50.29 enabled her to finish in 18th place and she bettered that with a time of 19:30 (15th place) at the D1 regionals.

That performance enabled Gorzalski to qualify for the state meet at MIS. She finished in 20:21.6.

"Anna ran a tough race at the regional," Pahl said. "She battled for the entire race with several other girls for that qualifying position. Anna was able to hold her spot and was one of only four individual qualifiers from the regional meet."

"Not only is Anna a great runner, but she maintains over a 4.0 grade-point average and is a positive role model and leader on the team. Anna will be missed in 2014."

Natalie Douglas, Soph., Liv. Franklin: The sophomore posted a personal best of 19:32.7 en route to a 13th-place finish at the Kensington Conference meet.

Douglas was also Public Schools of Livonia champion along with top finishes at South Lyon (fifth), Mustang (seventh), Wayne County (16th), and MSU Spartan (22nd) invitationals.

"Natalie is a very smart runner and always follows the race plan," Franklin coach Dave Bjorklund said. "She was our number one runner all season long and came up big for her teammates in dual meets and invitationals. At the regional, even though she wasn't feeling well, she put everything she had into the race and still finished 25th."

COACH OF THE YEAR

Alli Unger, Lutheran Westland: The fourth-year coach guided the Warriors to a runner-up finish at the Willow Metropark regional and a 17th place finish at the Division 4 state finals.

Unger's squad also placed runner-up in the MIAC meet and boasted an all-state runner in Jenna Wisner.

Five of the Warriors' top six runners are expected back next season.

"Cross country is truly a unique sport to coach," Unger said. "There is a special bond formed with your teammate when you're out on the roads for a long run. The same is true for the coach that gets to spend time with these kids."

"I have been blessed to have had the opportunity to coach kids who are not only talented, but also kids that are good examples of the hope we have been given."

"They use their God-given talents to glorify Him. And I am blessed to merely be a witness of that."

MU harriers 6th in WHAC

The Madonna University women's cross country team placed sixth out of 10 teams in Saturday's Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference championships held at Riverside Park in Grand Rapids.

Cornerstone University, led by individual winner Julie Oosterhouse, captured the team title with 38 points followed by Indiana Tech (55), Aquinas College (64), Siena Heights (113), Davenport (122) and MU (153).

Oosterhouse covered the 5,000-meter course in 18:30.78.

Junior Bianca Kubicki (Canton), back after a month layoff because of injury, was Madonna's top finisher in 24th (19:51.94).

Rounding out MU's top five was Jaclyn Sawasky, 34th (20:14.54); Karlie Gallagher (Livonia Stevenson), 35th (20:16.91); Kim Ader, 36th (20:19.33) and Nicole Murley, 49th (20:53.45). On the men's side, Aquinas led the 10-team field with 25 points followed by Indiana Tech, second (55); Siena Heights, third (84); Cornerstone, fourth (127); Davenport, fifth (135); and MU, sixth (186).

Louis Falland of Cornerstone was the 8K winner in 24:54.37.

Nathaniel Theobald was MU's top finisher in 22nd (27:00.83) followed by Jeff Grzywinski, 27th (27:22.98); Ryan Carrigan, 34th (27:58.89); Nick Brubaker, 76th (32:13.12); and Erick Roth, 79th (33:28.41).

WHAC All-Academic

A total of six Crusaders were named to the Academic All-WHAC team led by two-time selections Kayla Daugherty (Brighton) and Grzywinski (Monroe St. Mary Catholic Central).

A student-athlete must be a junior or senior and have a 3.25 cumulative grade point average or better to be eligible for consideration.

Joining Daugherty on the women's side were juniors Shannon Dusute (Grosse Ile), Brittany Hayden (Canton/Dearborn Divine Child), Kubicki and Sawasky (Ida).

Theobald (Monroe CC) was also selected on the men's all-academic team.

Dusute and Theobald were also the Crusaders' selections to the WHAC's Champions of Character team as the student-athletes who best represents and carries out the NAIA's Five Core Values of respect, responsibility, servant leadership, sportsmanship and integrity.

MU's Patrick Daugherty was selected by his fellow women's cross country coaches as the Coach of Character for the 2013 season.

MEN'S COLLEGE HOOPS

Madonna fizzles late, falls to No. 5-ranked Northwood

The No. 17-ranked Madonna University men's basketball team couldn't hold a second-half double digit lead Saturday night before falling to No. 5-ranked Northwood (Fla.), 82-78, in the Dick Versace Tip-Off Tournament held at the Hoernle Student Center in West Palm Beach.

Host Northwood, which improved to 2-0 overall, got a game-high 30 points from Chris Solomon, while Fred Mattison pulled down 13 rebounds.

Senior Travis Schuba led MU (1-3) with 16 points, all coming in the first half.

Fellow seniors Bobby Naubert (Livonia Stevenson) and Fred Williams each added 14 points.

MU led 40-36 at halftime and led by as many as 11 in the second half Northwood pulled even 62-all with 9:33 left after Solomon made three straight free throws.

Naubert gave MU its final lead, 77-76, with a free throw to complete a three-point play.

The Crusaders will start Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference play beginning at 3 p.m. Saturday in Fort Wayne when they face Indiana Tech.

Schoolcraft loses

Andrew Mapley scored 21 points and grabbed a game-high 18 rebounds, but it wasn't enough Saturday as Schoolcraft College (1-1) fell to host Glen Oaks Community College (2-0).

Aundreyan Roberts paced the victorious Vikings with a game-high 26 points, while Lee Gardner III and Quilyn Howard-Upshaw added 18 and 16, respectively.

Terrell Sewell (Canton) added 14 points, while Devonta Riley contributed 10 for the Ocelots, who trailed 38-20 at halftime.

Terrance Coles (Redford Thurston) also added eight points and nine rebounds in the setback.

Schoolcraft committed 25 turnovers and shot only 39.4 percent from the floor (26-of-66).

WSJFL SUPER BOWLS

Miracle finish leads varsity P-C Steelers to championship

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

JV Steelers topple Meteors to avenge season's lone loss

Down 12 points with two minutes left?

Time to panic, right? Not if you're a member of the Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity football team?

Trailing 20-8 in the waning moments of Sunday's Western Suburban Junior Football League Super Bowl at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park stadium, the Steelers engineered a comeback for the ages, scored two late TDs to pull out a 22-20 victory.

The winning score came on a 10-yard TD pass from Ryan Young to Billy Flohr with just

It was this group of Angelo Lanava-coached Steelers' fourth consecutive Super Bowl and capped the seven-year careers of Danny Lanava, Bryce Lynn, Lou Baechler, and Young in style. They finished 10-0.

Controlling the line of scrimmage on defensive side of the ball for the winners were Lou Baechler, Seth Troszak and Parker Selby. AJ Neal contributed a first-quarter interception.

A long run by Andrew Davis gave the Steelers an early lead.

O-linemen Dean Kaye and Nick Prevo paved the way.

After the 'Skins countered with 20 unanswered points, Baechler scored to bring the Steelers to within a touchdown. Following a perfect inside kick that was recovered by Anthony Cilia, Young connected with Flohr for the game-winner.

JV Steelers super, too

The junior varsity Steelers rallied from an early 6-0 deficit to hand the Westland Meteors a thorough 30-20 thumping in the JV WSJFL Super Bowl. The win avenged an earlier loss for the Steelers, who finished 9-1.

The Steelers grabbed their first lead of the chilly afternoon when Carson Miller scored the first of his two touchdowns. He then booted the two-point kick to make it 8-6.

Trailing 12-8 with just a few seconds left on the second-quarter clock, the Steelers seized the lead for good when Jake Cain connected with James Hansen on a 10-yard TD pass to put the winners up 16-12 following Miller's second straight two-point kick.

The Steelers chewed up the first seven minutes of the third-quarter clock on their opening possession after the half and scored on another Miller run. The Steelers' final tally came on Cain's one-yard plunge in the fourth quarter. It was set up by a long sprint by Logan Walkley.

Zack Kubacki, Liam Radomski, Jason Perko, Tyler Overaitis, Nick Downs and Luke Fishner blocked well for the winners.

Defensively, the Steelers were spearheaded by Ben Bennett, Ben Wright (interception), Jeremiah Penick, Zack Sweet, Ian Gozdor, Adam Janack and Aidan Garbarino.

Karolyn Grimes will meet fans at screenings of It's A Wonderful Life, Nov. 22-23 at the Redford Theatre.

Zuzu's petals, life to take stage

'Wonderful Life' child actress to share story, memories of Stewart, Reed at Redford

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

"Every time a bell rings an angel gets his wings."

Karolyn Grimes says she never tires of hearing that phrase, which she spoke in the 1946 film, It's A Wonderful Life.

The former actress was just 6 years old when she portrayed Zuzu Bailey, the daughter of George (James Stewart) and Mary (Donna Reed) Bailey in the classic Christmas movie. Today she's an enthusiastic ambassador for the film, which is shown at special events, fundraisers, festivals and holiday gatherings.

"This movie touched so many lives," Grimes said, speaking by phone recently from her home in Seattle, Wash. "There is joy for people to actually meet or hear from someone who was in the film."

"If you can make someone smile or put a light in their eyes, you know what? That is a great reward. And the smiles and love they give back to me — it's unbelievable."

Grimes will introduce the film and meet fans Friday-Saturday, Nov. 22-23, at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser, just north of Grand River Avenue in Detroit. Show times are 8 p.m. both days and 1 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $6. Grimes will have items available for sale and autographing.

In the film, an angel on Christmas Eve shows suicidal businessman — George Bailey — how his town of Bedford Falls, family and friends would have turned out if he had never been born. In the end, George realizes that he has a wonderful life.

"I like to watch the movie after I've talked to audiences and told them what to look for. I like to hear them laugh and see their reactions," Grimes said. She enjoys pointing out bloopers as well as symbolism in the film.

Young actress

Grimes already had four films on her resume when she was cast as one of the Bailey children in It's A Wonderful Life.

"My mother was a stage mother. She decided she wanted me to be in the movies," Grimes said. "I played the piano at 3 and the violin at 5. She searched out an agent and sent me out on jobs. You either got the part or you didn't."

She remembers being one of five girls in the casting call for the Zuzu role, answering questions from director Frank Capra.

"I remember he said, how would you feel and how would you act if you just lost your dog and it got run over by a car and died? I couldn't (read) the lines. I had to show the emotions."

She recalls filming "was a blast" and that the adult actors were kind to the youngsters on the set. Grimes remembers James Stewart once consoled her when she botched a line of dialogue.

"He said, 'Oh, that's all right Karolyn. You'll get it right next time.' And I did."

A new direction

Grimes made 11 more films after It's A Wonderful Life, but quit the business as a teen after her father was killed in an accident and her mother died from Alzheimer's disease. At age 14, she moved to Missouri to live with an aunt and uncle.

She considered studying theater in college, but ended up training as a medical technologist. She had two children with her first husband and two more with her second spouse who later succumbed to cancer. He also brought three children into the family from his previous marriage.

"I had seven kids I was raising. I left the (film) memorabilia in the basement."

Grimes renewed her interest in the film when she and the other actors who played the Bailey children toured with the movie nationwide in the early 1990s.

She said her early acting experience gave her a foundation to face "anything" that came her way.

"I had the self-confidence and ability to adjust fast. It benefited me. I've never felt that I couldn't get up in a crowd and speak."

Her current tour will take her to Illinois, Texas, Washington and New York after stopping in Detroit.

Ensemble cast explores love in 'Almost Maine'

Love is in the frosty air in Almost Maine, Paul's Players' fall production. The contemporary romantic comedy by John Cariani is set for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 15-16, and 3 p.m. Nov. 17, at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia.

Set in the small town of Almost, Maine, the play offers a series of vignettes about falling in love, spiced with a touch of good-natured, magical realism. Characters find themselves in unexpected romantic encounters that change their lives forever.

"The play explores love in all its facets and phases," says Rachel Kain, a Livonia writer and IT specialist, who portrays two different characters in the production.

Joining Kain in the ensemble cast are: Kate Mackie, Daniel Lynn, and Phil Sattler, all of Livonia; Pam Gunderson of Redford; Hannah Taubitz of Warren; Nick Szczerba of Brownstown; and Aaron White of Highland.

Pat Hutchison, director, chose this play because of its storyline, but also for its charming characters, individuals the playwright describes as "simple, but definitely not stupid."

"It allowed me to create a very flexible rehearsal schedule, which is perfect for community theater with people of all ages who have different life responsibilities," said Hutchison, explaining the practical reason for choosing an ensemble piece.

Kain said Almost Maine is "so honest — it's the actor's challenge to bring honesty to each scene, without slipping into sentimentality or stereotype."

Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for seniors and students. Purchase tickets online at Eventbrite.com, or reserve tickets at 248-347-4134. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Enjoy holiday flavors all season

Why wait until Thanksgiving Day to taste the distinctive flavors that make the holiday season so special?

You can enjoy the season's top flavors — pumpkin, spice, ginger, vanilla, peppermint, sage, cinnamon and nutmeg — every day leading up to Thanksgiving and every day after with simple tips from the McCormick Kitchens.

"There's really no reason to wait for a special occasion to savor the 'Seasonal Seven' flavors," said chef Kevan Vetter of the McCormick Kitchens. "For example, when I wake up in the morning, I like adding pumpkin pie spice to my coffee so I can start my day with that extra-special holiday flavor. To make Sunday dinners a little more festive, I'll add sage to my creamy potato gratin."

Think of every meal as an opportunity to include holiday tastes:

Breakfast — Top your morning bagel with a Pumpkin Spice Spread by adding pumpkin pie spice, canned pumpkin and brown sugar to store-bought cream cheese.

Lunch — Stir cranberry and ginger into mayo for a tasty sandwich spread any day of the week. For a special weekend lunch, use leftovers to make an Ultimate Leftover Turkey Panini.

Dinner — For Thanksgiving, try Butternut Squash Soup with ginger and nutmeg as a delicious starter. Then, serve Savory Herb Rub Roasted Turkey.

Cocktails — Peppermint Paddy Martini gets a kick from vanilla vodka, Irish cream liquor and peppermint extract.

Northville mortgage pro sees industry trends looking up

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Daniel Smith, senior loan officer with ColeTaylor Mortgage in Northville, is a 32-year veteran of the mortgage industry. Smith, a Northville Township resident, is encouraged by recent mortgage industry trends.

"We're getting back to a traditional market, traditional lending standards," he said. That means doing more to verify income, and using technology to dig deeper into applicants' finances.

"I think the biggest issue of buyers is what they may have done 10 years ago and has changed," he said. Smith and others in the field believe standards in recent years got too lax.

"In the past, we didn't have the technology," he said. Concerns about privacy remain: "But we are lending money so we have to make sure we get paid back."

There's, unfortunately, a lot of fraud among applicants, he said, who can easily manufacture real-looking documents like pay stubs. Smith said some 80 percent of mortgage deals now come through with tax returns, helping to verify things like rental property income and self-employment income from things like Amway.

He encourages those who wish to apply for a mortgage to read up on the process. "Go spend some time with a lender," to learn about mortgage hurdles, he said. "They need to know all those things and get their ducks in a row."

Paying bills on time to establish good credit remains key. Smith finds some applicants have false expectations. "It's definitely tougher but it got pretty stupid there," he said of lending in recent years. Delinquency rates on mortgages are dropping now, a trend he's glad to see.

"I personally don't believe good money management can be called too basic." Your rates will depend on your credit score, much like buying a car.

He sees the real estate industry rebounding, with prices up and property moving.

Smith hasn't seen a short sale in eight months.

"Things are moving in the right direction," he said, even if sometimes slower than desired. "Absolutely. No doubt in my mind."

Smith believes homeownership is earned and not a right. "I think the quicker we get back to that thinking, the better it's going to be for everyone."

Get it in writing from bank

Q: We went to a bank and spoke with a financial officer who claimed that he was not a financial institution or an affiliate of a financial institution and then made fraudulent oral representations inducing us to enter into a debt purchase agreement. Did that type of representation have to be in writing?

Robert Meisner

A: In a recent Michigan Court of Appeals case on facts similar to yours, the court held that the Statute of Frauds provision that requires certain promises by financial institutions be in writing to be enforceable. In effect, the court rejected the claim that a bank officer could not rely on the Statute of Frauds statute. The court said that a financial institution can only act through officers and agents and that the basic agency principles allow the officer to assert the Statute of Frauds defense. Therefore, any time you get any kind of promise from a bank officer of any type, insist that it be in writing.

Q: Our homeowner association is having a vote of the members on a particular issue and a number of our homeowners are delinquent resulting in them not being able to vote. When is the date on which we determine eligibility?

A: Assuming your association is a nonprofit corporation, your bylaws may provide for the fixing or in the absence of such provision, the board may fix the date as the record date for determination of which the shareholders or members who are entitled to vote. The date cannot be more than 60 nor less than 10 days before the time of the meeting. If the record date is not fixed, the record date under the statute for determination of members entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of members is the close of business on the day next preceding (the day before) the day on which notice is given or, if no notice is given, the day next preceding the day on which the meeting is held. You should check with your association attorney to determine how you are going to determine the record date for purposes of voting at the meeting.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
