Township steps up to fill potholes

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

As a winter with record cold and near-record snowfall gives way to what promises to be a muddy spring, Plymouth Township has stepped up its game on main roads pockmarked with bone-jarring potholes.

The township, which does not officially have responsibility for its roads, has been filling potholes on thoroughfares for several weeks, using public works employees and about 25,000 pounds of cold patch, for which it paid $4,000, officials said.

The move was made with public safety and drivers' pothole concerns in mind, officials said. Supervisor Richard Reaume said he's gotten complaints from motorists about costly repair bills for vehicles damaged in driving over the Trustee Chuck Curmi questioned the move, raising budget concerns.

'This is mission creep. I understand, it's nice," Curmi said. "Do we need to amend our budget?" Treasurer Ron Edwards replied that the $4,000 cold-patch expenditure was within budget.
The pothole-filling comes

Allen retiring after 50 years fighting fires

By Lonnie Huhman Staff Writer

Over the last half century or so in Northville, there have been a few important community mainstays, like Guernsey Farms Dairy, Parmenter's Cider Mill, Northville Downs and Fire Chief James Allen.

After years of service as the city of Northville's first full-time fire chief, Allen will hang up his boots this summer after 50 years with the department.

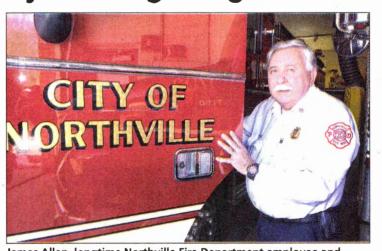

"It's time," Allen said of his retirement. "I'm a little apprehensive because it's been practically my whole life doing this, but I'm looking forward to a new stage in life."

Born in 1937 in Flint, but raised in Northville, Allen was always interested in fire fighting. Initially, his service in the army reserves prevented him from joining, but eventually he was able to join after serving with the Northville Police Department.

His family has a long history in Northville. His father served as mayor and his son and granddaughter both served with the fire department. His son Scott now serves in Redford. Additionally, his daughter Shari works at The Allens were also the

Student loss drives deficit in school budget

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

A dramatic drop in enrollment is driving the $5.3 million deficit Plymouth-Canton Com-munity Schools administrators are facing as they begin their budget work for the 2014-15 school year.

Facing increasing competition from charter schools there's a charter high school opening in Canton in September - and other private schools, enrollment projections for Plymouth-Canton don't look good as the district's budget committee begins forging a budget it expects to adopt by June 1.

The district expects to lose nearly 600 students before the 2014-15 school year begins.

"Student loss is a major driver" in the budget deficit, Brodie Killian, the district's deputy superintendent for business and operations, acknowledged after the Board of Education's first budget workshop Tuesday.

In his presentation to the board Tuesday, Killian said the district expects to lose 404 general-education students and another 29 special-education students. Charter schools, he said, are expected to snatch another 150 students.

The losses will drop Plymouth-Canton's enrollment to 17,205, its lowest level in years. With an expected $7,422 per-student foundation allowance, the district stands to lose nearly $4.5 million in state funding.

There are also some estimated savings in the initial budget. For instance, the district estimates about 20 teachers will retire this year, bringing some $600,000 in savings. Based on the potential student loss, administrators also expect to cut back by some 21 teachers, which would save roughly $1.6 million.

Still, as administrators begin their budget work, estimated revenues stand at some $145.8 million, while projected expenses are at $151.2 million. Board of Education Presi-

FOIA helps citizens open book on government

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

From routine reports on traffic crashes and fires, usually sought by insurance companies, to accounting records and written communications between officials, many documents and electronic records generated and used by local governments are available through Michigan's Freedom of Information Act.

But while the computer age makes it easier to use FOIA – visitors to Plymouth Township's website can do so online the trick in some cases is knowing what documents

"If you don't know it exists, you don't know to FOIA it," said Richard Sharland of Plymouth Township, who has been using FOIA in the township and other communities for more than 10

Sometimes, as with traffic accidents or home break-ins, it's a safe bet a local government agency has a report. Other times, it takes a tip, or paying close attention - Sharland is a regular at Board of Trustees and other township public meetings to know what's avail-

"Basically, I get what I want," Sharland said.

There are times, though, he feels stymied, he said, including recently by the township. Sharland declined to discuss what information he was after in that case or what reason he was given for being denied it.

Other times, said township Clerk Nancy Conzelman, a FOIA request asks for information to be put into a format that's tailored to the needs of the person seeking it. Governments are not obligated to customize the way raw documents or other records are delivered to those using FOIA, Conzelman

"We try very hard to make sure we can provide the information they are asking for," she said.

Exemptions

There are several exemptions to FOIA. including property appraisals, specific medical information, information that would be subject to attorney-client privilege and police records if it's deemed that releasing the information would interfere with law enforcement or court proceedings or jeopardize public safety. FOIA officials sometimes have municipal attorneys weigh in on certain requests.

Conzelman's office puts together a monthly FOIA report for township trustees; in February, for example, her office received 10 FOIA requests and collected more than $2,000. The township charges filers a 50-centsa-page copying fee and can also charge for the labor of the lowest-paid person qualified to do the research and gather the information requested.

FOIA charges in the city are similar. Both the city and the township have printed forms to fill out for those making FOIA requests.

In both communities, a majority of FOIAs are requests for police reports.

"People are usually looking for police reports," Plymouth Police Chief Al Cox said. There are typically a lot of requests in Plymouth only when there's been a major incident or an incident that garners a lot of media attention, he

"For run-of-the-mill calls for service, generally the only people who pull those are the people involved," the chief said.

plowing and salting crews couldn't get to them in a timely way.

'We had no choice" but to salt, Edwards said at Tuesday's Board of Trustees meetings, explaining the township had salted Ann Arbor Road, Beck, some bridges and even the M-14 freeway at times. "If you don't salt, you end up with accidents and you endanger our public safety out there."

'We made the decision for the health, safety and welfare of the community," Reaume said

Meanwhile, county officials announced Friday a countywide "pothole blitz" to smooth roads and help traffic flow better after the pending closing of a seven-mile stretch of I-96 in Livonia and Redford Township. The freeway is being shut down next month for a complete rebuilding that's expected to take about six months.

County officials said the pothole blitz will be concentrated on the surface streets that will accommodate thousands of extra vehicles daily because of the freeway closure

"Even though he couldn't finish it, the fact that he was there to welcome the people on the finish line" made it spe-cial for the family, said Bimberg, who stayed with her dad.

That left Bimberg's husband John; their son Gary, of Plymouth Township; his daughters Paige, 15, and Caroline, 12; Carol and John Bimberg's daughter, Amy Sullivan, of Canton Township; and her children Max, 4, and Hannah, 7, to run or walk the 5K. Max Sullivan may have been the youngest

The St. Patrick's Day Run is one of several races Gary Bimberg and his daughters enter each year. "We usually do all the Kona runs" in Plymouth, he said.

The trio did about a half-dozen races together last year, including the St. Patrick's Day (it was then called the Sham-Rock 'n' Roll Run) the Kona Run in Northville and the Wicked Halloween Run in Plymouth.

former owners of Inch Memorials, located on South Main Street. He remembers going to school in Northville when sixth grade was being taught in a classroom that was inside a home. He's seen the community grow from a small village into a vibrant downtown and city.

Building a strong fire department has been his main goal since he started. Over the years, the department has grown and now includes around 60 on-call firefighters, serving both the cities of Northville and Plymouth. His leadership has always been consistent, Allen said.

"I've tried to lead by example," he said. "Now I'm older and getting out of bed in the middle of the night has become more difficult, so I would never want to continue doing this if I could not put my full energy into the job."

Plymouth City Maner Paul Sinco leading by example is exactly what Allen has done his whole career. Sincock called Allen 'just a genuine guy who's been doing the right thing his whole career."

Allen's expertise was crucial, Sincock said, to the transition the city of Plymouth made from the Plymouth Community Fire Department to a partnership with Northville. The partnership started in January 2012.

"He certainly is the dean of firefighters in our area," Sincock said. "Without his leadership and commitment, we would have never been tion to our current fire operation. He's always willing to help, always willing to be there.'

For Allen, some of the memories that stand out over the years are the three plane crashes, including a fighter jet over Rogers Street with the pilot bailing out over Fish Hatchery Park, and fires at the old laundry mat and furniture store.

He said the big difference since the 1960s and '70s is the amount of awareness that has been raised with fire safety. Through the help of inspections and safety programs, he said, a lot of potential have been prevented.

One thing he will miss is the camaraderie in the fire house. Before making his announcement public, Allen told his officers first, who he said were surprised.

whole department and will miss the good working relationship that we've developed," he said. "They're a dedicated group of hard-working

Canton condemns apartments, cops seize pot

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

A Canton apartment building has been condemned and five people have been moved to temporary shelter after police seized dozens of mari-juana plants and found deplorable living conditions, local officials said.

After receiving a tip, Canton police Saturday evening went to the apartment building, 43415 Michigan Avenue at Morton Taylor, next to Canton Party Store.

They found adult residents who had no running water or heat and a leaky roof, Detective Sgt. Chad Baugh said.

'The tenants had to use a space heater to maintain warmth," he said, "and that is an obvious concern."

Police also seized numerous marijuana plants from the one-story building.

"They had 39 plants over what they were supposed to have as a medical marijuana caregiver," Baugh said.

Canton police and Western Wayne Criminal Investigations were involved in the case, which Baugh said has been turned over to Michigan State Police.

The Salvation Army Plymouth Corps has helped five people find temporary shelter at a motel.

Canton Township has con-demned what Baugh described as a five-unit building.

"We were concerned for the health and well-being of the residents," he said, citing "blight" conditions.

No one was in police custody Tuesday. Baugh said the investigation was continuing.

Koth appeared before Judge Mike Gerou and waived his right to have a hearing within 14 days of being charged. Gerou rescheduled the hearing for Tuesday

County's transparency rating improves to A-minus

Grade moves up from D-minus a year ago

Wayne County's rating in government transparency has improved from a D-minus to an A-minus in the past year. Sunshine Review, a non-partisan organization formed to rate local governments on transparency, gave Wayne County an A-minus grade in January. Sunshine Review uses a 10-point transparency checklist to evaluate government websites across the country to see if they proactively and voluntarily disclose information to the public and media.

"The fight for greater transparency within Wayne County government has been ongoing for some time and today I can say I'm proud of the strides we have made," Wayne County Commissioner Laura Cox, R-Livonia, said this week, in conjunction with Sunshine Week. "Taxpayers are able to view the complete county budget, its financial performance, audit reports and much more by visiting the county's website.

Sunshine Week is a national initiative to promote a dialogue about the importance of open government and freedom of information. Participants include news media, civic groups, libraries, nonprofits, schools and others interested in the public's right to know. For more information, http://www.sunshine

MEMORIES OF HUDSON'S

Museum speaker: Store's history key part of Detroit's fabric

By Julie Brown Staff Writer

Kiki Farrow of Plymouth has fond memories of J.L. Hudson's department store, where her late mom began work in 1952 and stayed as a contingent office worker more than 40 years.

"They actually gave her the charm bracelet." Farrow said of the distinctive bracelet she wore to a "Mad Hatter Tea" Sunday at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Farrow's mom got a 25-year service charm and her daughter added the 20-year service pin.

Women - and one brave hatted gentleman shared stories of Hudson's at the tea, which featured speaker Phyllis Barkey of Warren.

"They really practiced 'the customer is always right' you don't hear so much," said Farrow, who'd take the bus to downtown Hudson's on Woodward Avenue as a teenager.

While studying at Earlham College in Indiana, Farrow would meet her "big sister" upperclasswoman classmate for lunch at Hudson's. "Employees got a 20percent discount," she said. "Almost everything we had came from Hud-Nearby at a festively decorated table were Plymouth Township residents Dorothy Grant, Adelle Cote and Sandy Theile.

"This lady, she has a lot to do with the museum," Theile said of friend Grant, a museum volunteer who encouraged them to attend.

'We love Hudson's'

'We love fashion and we love Hudson's," added Cote, among those who were able to view the museum's current fashion exhibit that afternoon.

The 50 or so guests dined on a Maurice salad and cheese bread, made by event organizers and served by Northville High School National Honor Society members. Hudson's was known for years for its Maurice salad and tasty dressing, with Barkey noting the tea rooms and other dining areas at the store were added to keep women shopping.

'I remember my mother was a hairdresser," said guest Fran Toney of Plymouth, who retired five years ago as Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce executive director. "Every Monday she had off and we went to Hudson's. That's where you did your shopping, downtown, mainly at Hudson's.'

Toney and others recalled great customer service at the store. Barkey read an employee creed which emphasized such service to all staff.

She gave a history on Joseph L. Hudson, who came to Michigan at age 14. "In all of his jobs, he was dependable and honest," Barkey said.

In 1881 at age 35, Hudson opened his first store as a sole proprietor, selling men's and boys' clothes. There was little ready to wear clothing then for women and girls, Barkey said.

Hudson was a Methodist who didn't smoke or drink alcohol and it would be many years before Hudson's sold wine - and never liquor. He was active in civic affairs, including the Harper Hospital board of directors and the YMCA.

Barkey discussed the basement store, later named the Rainbow Store; how Hudson's outfitted a local missionary family in Bombay, India, for 20 years; its medical clinic with doctors and nurses to attend to customers who were injured and ailing staff, even with home visits to staff; and its 12th-floor toy department and Santa Claus.

Proud parade tradition

The Thanksgiving Parade began with Hudson's in 1920, "two years ahead of Macy's," Barkey said, adding it had a wartime hiatus in 1941-42. The parade was first telecast in 1949.

The large American flag on the building's side also prompted memories, with Barkey noting the addition of 6-foot-tall stars in 1959 for Alaska and Hawaii as states. The flag later went to the Smithsonian.

Many guests remembered the 300 delivery trucks with 500 drivers who'd deliver as little as a spool of thread. The dedicated drivers took people to the hospital if needed or to the train station - and would turn off the oven for supper's baked beans, if asked.

"They started countless cars on countless mornings for ladies in distress," Barkey said. One driver even saved a drowning child, while another saved a woman from a burning home and then cleaned himself up and completed his deliveries. "How's that for customer loyalty?" the speaker said. She has a special interest in dining at Hudson's and brought china and silverware from the store to show guests. Barkey is at work on a cookbook on Hudson's food, modeled on one for the L.S. Ayers department store in Indianapo-

She has a blog at relevanttealeaf.blogspot.com and recommends author Michael Hauser's books for those interested in Hudson's history. The store expanded to suburban sites, including Northland and Westland malls, with a couple of tea guests having worked at those sites.

Museum executive director Elizabeth Kelley Kerstens said of the Northville High teen servers, "They're won-derful."

Chamber auction draws hundreds looking for the luck o' the Irish

The green garb flowed and the luck of the Irish was on display as nearly 350 people got into the spirit of the "Luck of the Chamber" at Saturday's annual Canton Chamber of Commerce dinner/auction at Burton Manor.

The event, the chamber's largest fundraiser of the year, funds chamber projects and programs conducted throughout the year. Chamber President Thomas Paden said numbers were "still being tabulated" to determine the amount of money raised, but also insisted everyone had a great time.

"Everyone came dressed for the occasion," Paden said. "It went over very well."

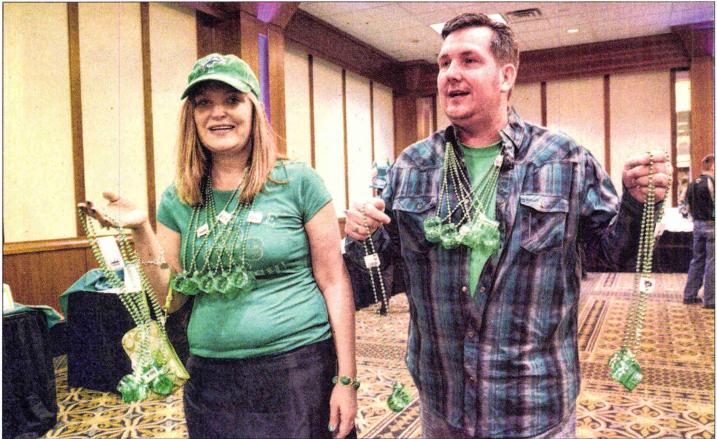

The evening featured more than 200 raffles and a live auction of 10 items. Live auction items included iPads, Detroit Tigers tickets, jewelry, laptops, a trip to Cabo San Lucas, a condo getaway to Lake Charlevoix and airline tickets to anywhere in the continental United States, Paden Canton bank managers Amy Miller and Judy Wetmore — Miller with a TCF branch and Wetmore with PNC Bank — chaired this year's event. Jack Demmer Ford and MSA Delivery Services were the major sponsors.

"It's our biggest fundraiser of the year," Paden said. "It's a fun night."

Chill can't keep runners from heating Kona paths

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

With temperatures in the teens and coming off an injuryplagued winter, Jeff Bord of Plymouth didn't figure he'd set any speed records Sunday in the 10K race sponsored by the Kona Running Co. in Plymouth. The Kona St. Patrick's Day Run (which replaced the Sham-Rock 'n' Roll Run), drew some 3,400 runners in a variety of runs/walks celebrating the Irish holiday. Those runners braved temperatures around 15 degrees at start time and it never got much warmer.

That didn't stop Bord from winning his race.

"It's early in the season and I was injured most of the winter,' Bord said. "I just wanted to get a couple of races in. I've run a lot better, but it was so cold."

The event featured 10K and 5K runs, a 5K walk and a mile run, what organizers billed as a "festive race."

Alan Whitehead, Kona's owner and the race director, said the number of participants, 3,400, was down from last year. And while that was true, the runners who did show up, Whitehead said, were simply determined to get outside despite the harsh winter.

"They come out, tolerate the cold for a couple of miles and then they warm up," Whitehead said. "They're tired of being locked up inside and running on treadmills."

Jean Timlin of Northville came out early with her 8-yearold son Christopher. The pair are getting ready to run Ypsilanti's Color Run in June.

"Chris wants to get in shape," Jean Timlin said, smiling. "This is our spring tuneup."

Sarah Austin of Livonia got her first taste of competitive walking during a half-marathon she walked last fall. She came out to Sunday's Kona event to scratch that itch and to spend time with her buddy, Rebeka Sroczynski of Garden City.

"I got bit by the competitive walking bug (in October) and this one was a lot closer to home," Austin said. "It's a fun way to spend the morning with my friend."

It was all a blur as the kids got started in their race Sunday.

And they're off - runners begin the 10K race.

Finalized date for I-96 shutdown expected this week

By David Veselenak Staff Writer

The official date for the start of the I-96 shutdown through Livonia and Redford is expected to be announced sometime later this week, a state transportation official

Jeff Horne, an engineer with the Michigan Department of Transportation working out of the temporary Livonia office for the project, said the project's start date is still in flux because of the poor weather the region has experienced. He said an official announcement is expected to come by the end of the week.

"It's all speculation at this point. At this time, we have a tentative start of April 1," he said. "We should know later this week."

The project was originally scheduled to begin March 24, several months later than many believed it would start when the project was announced. It was delayed more than a week earlier this month as crews wait out the winter weather for spring

The freeway will be shut down in both directions from Telegraph in Redford to Newburgh in Livonia for reconstruction. The $150 million project will result in several repaired and replaced bridges over the freeway, as well as landscaping improvements.

Horne said the original shutdown date was pushed back to at least April 1 to not interfere with the increased traffic expected to head to downtown Detroit for baseball's Opening Day.

"We are committed to having the freeway open for Opening Day for the Tigers," he said. "Hopefully we have more clarity by the end of the week.'

Horne said the shutdown is still scheduled to run through mid-October, when the freeway is expected to reopen.

Improvements have been made to ramps on both ends of the project to help with traffic: MDOT crews temporarily widened the exit ramp from southbound I-275 to Six Mile to accommodate another lane of traffic, and crews have worked on widening northbound Telegraph north of Schoolcraft to allow for more traffic coming from Detroit. Motorists are encouraged to use one of the official detour routes during the shutdown, which include I-94, I-696, the Southfield Freeway and the Lodge Freeway. More information on the project can be found at 96fix.com.

Middle school students tackle technology in 'We'll Be Better Later'

Staff Writer

Ask any parent about the Internet and their children and the answer will most likely be that they spend too much time online.

That's the premise of We'll Be Better Later, which will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday, March 21. by the Stevenson Middle School Drama Club, under the direction of Kevin Scollin.

Written by Laura Jacqmin, the play centers around a detention camp and reform school where parents have sent their Internet-addicted and online-obsessed teens. A small group of students are forced to live in the camp by their parents, who don't understand their interests, hobbies and addiction to technology.

They are at the mercy of The General and his minions, who force them to watch mind-numbing videos, hand-write letters to their families and make small talk with one another about puppies and the weather.

One teen, Lauren, played by Pooja Patel of Canton, begins to question why they were sent here. She wants to know why they can't all be friends despite their strange quirks and hobbies. As she makes plans for her grand escape, it's up to her, Macayla, played by Sabrina Yuchasz of Westland, and the rest of the gang to prove that socially awkward doesn't mean socially hopeless.

"It's consider a dark comedy," Scollin said.

CURTAIN TIME

What: The Stevenson Middle School production of We'll Be Better Later

When: 7 p.m. Friday, March Where: Stevenson Middle School, 38501 Palmer, west of Newbugh, Westland Details: Performed by the Drama Club, the play is about teens sent to a detention camp and reform school because of their addiction to the Internet and obsession with being online.

Admission: Free, however, a donation will be accepted.

"The kids have to deal with this sense of abandonment, but a transformation happens during the show and they realize they don't have to do what others do to be normal."

Drab dress

The show opens with the inmates dressed in drab gray hoodies and jeans. During the course of the production, the hoodies are slowly unzipped, revealing bright colored T-shirts, a symbol of the teens' transformation, Scollin said.

"It's a play everyone can appreciate, but middle schoolers who struggle to fit into the world will relate to it," he said.

Patel plays the rabblerouser in the play. She came to the camp, thinking it was a school, but when she realizes what The General, played by Lukas Hamill, and his Minions, played by Tony Trudell and Ari Fisher, are doing, she "thinks it's ridiculous," Patel said.

"She tells the kids that Yuchasz tried out for both roles and was tapped to be Macayla, a role she finds is her biggest challenge.

"I'm not a disrespectful person, I'm not very assertive," she said of herself. "I can be loud, but I can't be mean. There's a scene where Lauren tries to get the others fired up. Macayla gets very mad and breaks out of her shell and yells at them. I actually look forward to that scene."

'Understand us'

Both students believe parents will get the play's message that "they're understand us."

Scollin did casting in November and students have been rehearsing twice a week since then. With the curtain going up Friday night, they've been at the school every day this week doing dress rehearsals. There are 19 students in the cast and another 12 working as crew.

The play is being done on a shoestring budget. Fundraising helps pay for the cost of producing the play and the rights to present it for one night. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. There will be an intermission with concessions available and play goers will have the opportunity to buy T-shirts and pictures of the cast and crew.

Scollin has gotten help from Linda Knapp, who has done a "phenomenal job" with costuming, and Nick Yocum, a Wayne State University student who did two workshops with the cast on characterization and acting Scollin, who has been involved in theater since age 5, has seen the students grow with the production.

"I've seen them really blossom as actors," he said. "They've done fine learning their lines. They really get it."

Local case points to need for open government

How fitting it is that National Sunshine Week, March 16-22, is celebrated at this time of year. Earlier this month, we followed the "spring forward" dictum in setting our clocks ahead one hour - an annual change that allows us to take advantage of the growing hours of sunlight and save energy in the process.

Now with Sunshine Week, we all have an opportunity again to "spring forward" with efforts that will spread the light of day on government operations. That's what the week is dedicated to: pressing forward insistence that the state's Freedom of Information and Open Meetings acts be preserved and enhanced. They are measures that make certain that state and local governments remain "of the people, by the people and for the people."

'Open government is not a natural phenomenon. It's the law," says the National Freedom of Information Coalition, a non-partisan alliance.

And it needs to be cultivated, not pruned.

Just last week, the state House, in a package of bills coming from Republican legislators, approved a move that would turn into law a 1999 decision of the Michigan Su- phenomenon. preme Court that would exempt the status of gun records from the Freedom of Information Act. All firearm records, including records of concealed-carry permits, would be exempt under the measures that amend the Michigan Handgun Act. The package of bills now moves on to the state Senate, which must approve it before it becomes law.

Let's be clear that the access to gun records in no way impacted the right to bear arms - it just lets the public know who is packing.

The issue of privacy is one that pervades items held open to the government and, just last week, it became clear that it can invade the need to know of local residents in Oakland County, including those who have ever stepped foot in a shopping mall.

The Oakland County Medical Examiner's office last week revealed its findings in the death of a 25-year-old Ferndale man, McKenzie Cochran, who died following an altercation with security officers at Northland Center. Cochran's death has provoked outrage in the wider community and prompted several legislators, including state Rep. Rudy Hobbs, D-Southfield, to initiate legislation that would require the training of security guards.

The M.E. ruled that the death was accidental in nature and resulted from the position and "compression" of Cochran, who was lying face down on the floor. That's an interesting choice of words, given that cellphone recordings show security guards sitting on Cochran. The ruling begs questions about what fact finding and what information lead to that conclusion by the M.E.

But the so-called finding does not comprise the entire autopsy report, which the chief medical examiner said last week was not yet available. So the public just waits, right? Well, not so fast. The M.E. told the Eccentric that the autopsy report would not be made available unless a Freedom of Information Act request was filed. And then, it might not complete.

Using privacy as an excuse, the M.E. said that certain items may be redacted - that means blacked out.

'The report, when it is available, will be available to the next of kin and to the police department," said Dr. Ljubisa Dragovic. "It may be obtained by a Freedom of Information (Act request) only if it is all complete."

The privacy exemption under the act would allow items to be blacked out, unable to be seen by the public, he added.

But a 1991 court decision involving the Wayne County Medical Examiner challenges that privacy concept. In that case, the court held, in part, that "In making a determination whether a disclosure of requested information would constitute an invasion of privacy one looks to constitutional law and common-law as well as customs, mores, or ordinary views of the community. The release of autopsy reports and toxicology test results are not unwarranted infringements on the right to privacy of either the deceased or the deceased's family. The autopsy reports and toxicology test results are not within the doctor-patient privilege."

As stated at the beginning, open government is the law, not an environmental phenomenon. The public at-large, not just the media, must resolve to continue to take the temperature of those who govern and ensure that what they do sees the light of day.

Have emergency kit ready for severe weather

You've set your clocks forward one hour for daylight saving time.

Now there is another springtime ritual the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division is hoping you complete - building or restocking your emergency preparedness kit.

This week is Flood Safety Awareness Week in Michigan, closely followed April 6-12 by Severe Weather Awareness Week.

Michigan may see widespread flooding in the next couple of months because of the heavy winter snowfall, according to Capt. Chris A. Kelenske, deputy state director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the MSP/

And tornadoes and severe thunderstorms are always a springtime threat. An emergency preparedness kit will better prepare you in the event of such an emergency or disaster.

When a disaster strikes, you may have to evacuate, take shelter or go without basic services for hours or days. Having enough supplies to function without basic services --- such as electricity or water - is critical during an emergency or disaster, as emergency workers may not be able to reach you right away.

Knowing you may have to survive on your own, you will need a supply of essential items — like food and water — to last at least three days, or 72 hours, per person. Using five-gallon buckets or similar containers, assemble a preparedness kit with the items you and your family will need during an emergency.

Essential items to include in an emergency preparedness kit are: » Water, at least three gallons of water per person for 72 hours.

» Food, at least a three-day supply of non-perishable food per » Medications.

» Battery-powered or handcrank radio.

» Flashlight and extra batter-

» First aid kit.

» Whistle to signal for help.

» A complete change of clothing and footwear for each person. » Bedding.

» Important family documents. » Pet supplies (if necessary).

Pass meth legislation

I support Sen. Proos and Rep. Price's recently proposed anti-meth bills (Senate Bills 535, 563, 564, 756, along with House Bills 5363 and 5364) because they are reasonable and effective approaches to curbing one of our state's worst afflictions.

Meth is a terrible drug that can devastate entire communities. Michigan law enforcement officers are doing everything they can to curtail its distribution, production and abuse, but meth presents a complex problem to try to solve. Sen. Proos and Rep. Price have proposed innovative new policies that would give our law enforcement professionals more tools to combat the meth problem.

Among the many proposals offered by Proos and Price, one of the most innovative ones is called a meth offender block list, which will prevent all former meth criminals from purchasing common cold and allergy medicines that can be misused to manufacture meth. It's a commonsense policy that targets lawbreakers, not honest citizens. Additionally, stricter penalties and minimum sentencing for convicted smurfers (i.e. those who purchase pseudoephedrine for others with the intent of manufacturing meth) will help discourage criminal activity in the first place.

Policies that target meth need to be smart, balanced and effective. Proos and Price deserve credit for crafting such a policy.

Responsible for anything?

In a recent "Letter to the Editor," the writer claimed President Bush is responsible for the death of "1 million Asians," due to his "manufactured intelligence," the same intelligence President Clinton and other Democrats used to condemn Saddam Hussein when Clinton was president, comments ignored once Bush became president.

This number is totally manufactured, coming out of thin air. The truth is, throughout the Middle East, tribal wars have existed for hundreds of years, in particular the wars between the Sunnis, the Shiites and other Muslim sects; and are primarily responsible for the vast majority of deaths in the re-

Also being ignored, the 1980-1988 war between Iraq and Iran (about 1.25 million casualties) started by Hussein, the people gassed to death by Hussein in Northern Iraq

- is Bush also being blamed for those deaths? Let's not forget Sept. 11, 2001, and the almost 3,000 Americans who lost their lives.

Obama and the writer totally ignore the treatment of women throughout the Middle East and North Africa and the rape of Christian women (the real wars on women), the murder of Christians and the destruction of Christian churches throughout the Middle East and North Africa. Obama increased troop levels in Afghanistan and maintained troops in Iraq. How much of the $3 trillion war cost is Obama responsible for? How many of the 5,000 American deaths and disabled is Obama (the Nobel Peace Prize winner) responsible for?

We have a world in total turmoil, Iran and North Korea are far more dangerous now than they have ever been and Obama thinks he can sweet talk them into giving up their weapons of mass destruction. Syria (with over 100,000 deaths), Lebanon, Egypt, Libya and other parts of North Africa and the Middle East are at the center of this turmoil while Russia and Communist China are giving Obama the middle finger. Does Obama know who our friends and enemies are? Obama's actions and inactions have consequences; these are all Obama foreign policy failures.

If all you watch is ABC, CBS, CNBC, CNN, MSNBS and/or PBS and/or just read liberal newspapers, all Obama's cheerleaders, you will not learn what is actually going on. Just because the Obama administration does not admit or the liberal media report certain facts, it does not mean what I have written is not true. The writer's response is actually riddled with Democrat talking points, assumptions and opinions; besides who can believe anything Obama and the Democrats say anymore.

It's also the first official birthday of the Michigan Coalition for Open Government, a tax-exempt nonprofit group that keeps a sharp eye on the accountability, transparency and responsibility of public officials, governments, public universities and the courts. Back when the state's freedom of information and open meetings laws went into effect in 1977, the Michigan Supreme Court exempted all Michigan courts from being covered by those laws.

In subsequent decisions, the court has exempted all 15 public university boards from the Open Meetings Act when it comes to presidential searches. The universities say that decision also applies to their retreats, pre-meetings and other discussions that occur outside of the public meetings mandated by the state constitution. That's extremely relevant now as a presidential search was just completed for the University of Michigan and as searches are under way at Oakland University and Saginaw Valley State University. Public universities are annually given hundreds of millions of taxpayer dollars, yet because of the court's ruling, information about applicants who want to become president can remain secret until a new president is selected. Court decisions have consistently expanded the interpretations of exemptions despite the public policy language of the Freedom of Information Act itself. Last year, the state Supreme Court, through the State Court Administrative Office, helped draft legislation that exempts disclosure of any information on:

» Mental health courts (even data on the number of cases these courts handle, the success, failures and rates of recidivism on individuals involved)

» Hidden criminal juvenile records (including violent felonies and keeping potential employers from finding out about sex offend-

Most recently, the state Supreme Court through the SCAO has approved phasing in mandatory electronic filing of court documents without any mention of public access to the records and what that access should cost. The so-called e-filing legislation is, at least at this point, an "unfunded mandate" being handed down to local courts that requires them to keep all court documents in electronic form rather than on paper. According to some of the court clerks that MiCOG surveyed last year, "unfunded mandates' from the state are a serious financial problem for local govern-Nationally and in Michigan, courts have historically operated with a great deal of transparency. But this is changing fast in Michigan, despite the state law mandate that "sittings of every court within this state shall be public" except in certain cases.

The people have a right to full access to their courts. As we head into Sunshine Week, MiCOG urges courts to maintain an attitude of public accountability to engender confidence and belief in the fairness of the legal system. It's what's best for courts and for Michigan citizens.

W-W board starts search for new superintendent

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

The Wayne-Westland school board put out the help wanted sign as it begins its search for a new superintendent.

The process began Monday evening at a special meeting with Marlene Davis and Rod Green, consultants with the Michigan Association of School Board Executive Search Services, who will work with the school board during the estimated 14-week proc-

"The hopes and concerns you have are the hopes and concerns of most school boards," Davis said. "This is a new process for you and it can be as expansive and as closed as you want it to be. This is an opportunity for you to come together and think together to find a new superintendent. Our job is to help you come to a consensus."

During the meeting, Davis and Green, who was a superintendent in the East China School District, helped the school board decide on the scope of the search, develop a schedule of meetings and decide on a salary range to include in the job posting.

Preliminary posting

A preliminary job posting is already available, but it will be revised after the board meets March 31. That's when trustees will receive the details of the interviews Davis and Green conduct among school employee groups and community members, which they hope to start doing by week's end, and from a survey available through a link on the district's website at www.wwcsd.net.

"We want to make sure we give stakeholders many avenues for input," Davis said.

At the March 31 meeting, the board will decide what it wants to put in a more extensive posting, which will go out April 1. Candidates will have until April 28 to apply.

The consultants will take two weeks to review the candidates and then meet with the board May 5 to see which ones they want to interview. They also will develop 16-18 questions for the board to consider using during the interview process planned for May 13 and 15 and then lead them

SELECTING A SUPERINTENDENT

The superintendent selection process began Monday for the Wayne-Westland school board, which approved a series of meeting dates throughout the 14-week process.

Consultants will conduct interviews with employee groups and members of the community to find out what they want in a new superintendent. They will report back to the board at a meeting at 6 p.m. March 31, when trustees will determine what will be contained in the final job posting.

The other dates are: » April 1-28 - Applications will be accepted from potential candidates.

» May 5 - After the candidates have been reviewed. their information will be presented to trustees at a 6 p.m. meeting. During that meeting, trustees will determine who will be invited to interview for the position. » Candidate interviews will be conducted at 6 p.m. meetings May 13 and 15, with the pool cut to two or three at the end of that process. » A second interview with the final candidates will be at 6 p.m. May 19-20, if needed. » The board will have an opportunity to have several members conduct a visit of

"through another process" to determine who to bring back for second interviews. Those interviews, if needed, would be May 19-20.

There also would be time to have the final candidate do a site visit and, if the board wants, have members visit that candidate's district and meet the staff and get input. Davis said.

Difficult decision

The salary range was the most difficult of the decisions the board made at Monday's meeting, with members offering up salary ranges that went from $150,000 to $160,000 on the low side and $175,000 to $225,000 on the high side. In the end, the board agreed to $160,000 to $175,000.

The goal is to have the board hire the new superintendent at its June 9 board meeting and have that person on staff as of July 1. Current Superintendent Greg Baracy is set to retire July after 17

The Plymouth Relay for Life kicks off with a 7 p.m. ceremony today (Thursday) at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Any talk of cancer is always a personal story

Abigail

Stonerook

GUEST COLUMNIST

t seems to always be the story:
"I never thought this would be me.' "Never my mom." "Then we heard those words ...'

"Now, it's personal." Three weeks ago, in the wake of relief, editor and friend Brad Kadrich published a personal column detailing his "wake-up call" to cancer following the news that the biopsy of the lymph nodes on the back of his 16-year-old son's head showed they were benign. For years, Brad has been a voice to share the stories of hope from cancer survivors, the stories of despair from heartbroken family members and the need to get involved in worthy causes to help support critical life-saving research. But he admits that although he listened with empathy, the meaning changed when his son became part of that story - and it became personal.

I began working for the American Cancei Society in July 2012. Cancer stories pervade my life so frequently that, at times, I question whether my sensitivity, like Brad's, is hibernating until it's "personal" again. It seems like every day I receive a new email, call, text, Facebook message from a volunteer someone new has been diagnosed. Someone's mother, son, aunt, grandfather, grandson, best friend, themselves. Their fight becomes personal again and they add to their list of "reasons to Relay."

My reason to Relay changed again two weeks ago, when I was meeting some committee members on a Saturday morning in Plymouth to hang up posters in shops around town. Sitting down in Starbucks, one volunteers shared her new reason to Relay herself. The day before, hearing the words, "You have cancer" seemed like something that would happen to someone else. Now it was personal.

What always surprises me are people's reactions when it becomes personal. Like Nancy, my volunteer, who, after sharing her day-old diagnosis with me, decided she would still go poster the town.

Or Brad, who, in the midst of those awful, drawn-out days when you wait for biopsy results, continued to share the cancer stories in our communities while he was scared for his son's life. He has since made a public pledge to be a greater voice - a megaphone, I hope - of the imperative nature of taking up this fight.

work with who have decided that cancer thrives on silence. they're too angry to not make noise and they fight non-apologetically (I say this recognizing that at certain times the cancer experience is too raw and it's too soon

Believe it or not, people do tell me, "Oh, that hasn't affected my family, so we're not interested." But the odds are if cancer is not personal yet, it's probably just a matter of time. One in two men and more than one in three women will be diagnosed with cancer in his or her lifetime. And whether or not you have already been touched by cancer, by joining our movement, you are fighting for when it becomes personal - or becomes personal again. I recently watched a YouTube video called "Leadership from a dancing guy" – a narration of how to create a movement while a shirtless guy begins dancing in the middle of a grassy knoll full of people. It's painful to watch until strangers begin to join in his dance. I began playing this video to various committees and teams I work with both to make tnem laugh and inspire them to keep going. Sometimes it feels like we're out there all alone dancing on crowded a hill, but we know that if we just keep dancing or get out our megaphones or plaster the town with what we're doing, people will start to follow. And it's worth it.

If you're a leader in the community - or want to be - I am asking you to not wait for another wake-up call. Boldly join me and the volunteers in Plymouth to help lead our community in the fight against cancer through the Relay For Life of Plymouth.

look like it, but spring has arrived. We survived one of our toughest winters ever and many people will begin a variety of cleaning jobs around the home. It's not a bad idea to also do some spring cleaning of personal finances. After all, just like a t may not feel like it or home needs some tender loving care, the same thing applies to personal finances.

Here are some ideas to consider for spring cleaning of finances:

Go through your financial records and start shredding unnecessary documents.

There is no reason to keep bank statements from years ago. Even many of the brokerage statements received over the past year can be destroyed. Most financial institutions now send a year-end statement - a summary of all activity for the year. Once you receive that statement, shred the others.

It's also a good time to look at where you can consolidate certain accounts. I know people who, for whatever reason, have two or three different bank accounts. My question is always, why? Banks have been very aggressive in charging fees; consolidating accounts can make things easier and can save on

Spend a few minutes looking at fees. Whether it's looking for a new bank or even talking to your institution to see if they will waive fees, spend a few minutes focusing on the fees you pay.

Free credit report

Another item on a spring cleaning list of finances is to obtain a free copy of your credit personal finances, too report. By law, all three of the credit reporting agencies are required to provide a copy of your credit report once a year. Go to www.annualcreditreport-.com. When you get the report, check it for accu-

Mistakes on your credit report can either prevent you from getting a loan or require you to pay higher interest. It is a hassle to get mistakes corrected on your credit report, but it's not impossible. It can potentially save you a substantial amount of money.

Another spring suggestion is to inventory all assets. Not only should you consider videotaping your home, but also inventory your safe deposit box. Many people have safety deposit boxes, but have no clue what's in them. Now is a great time of year to visit your safety deposit box, inventory it and make sure your representative has access to the box.

One last thing item to consider is a document locator – a listing of where all your assets are kept. This is nothing more than a road map so that if something happens to you, your loved ones will know where your assets are located, who your professional advisers are and where your important documents are stored.

If you have one, check if updates are needed.

Springtime is when we air out our houses and fix up the damage that winter has caused. We should look at doing the same thing with our personal finances.

Good luck.

BUMMER AT BRESLIN

Chiefs stung by Mustangs' freshman, fall 44-26 in championship game

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

EAST LANSING — All season long, the Canton varsity girls basketball team has been noted for playing stellar defense.

That collective 'D' carried the Chiefs all the way to the Breslin Center, but that's where they finally met their defensive match.

Bloomfield Hills Marian prevailed 44-26 Saturday afternoon in the Class A championship game for the Mustangs's — and head coach Mary Cicerone's — first title since 1998.

Freshman guard Samantha Thomas (15 points) showed the mettle of a senior and Marian defended and trapped the Chiefs into submission, contributing to 19 Canton turnovers and a dismal 32 percent shooting percentage from the floor (8-32).

"With Marian, the tough thing is they switch," Canton head coach Brian Samulski said. "They go 2-2-1, then they go diamond, then she backed up and went into her 1-2-2 halfcourt. They trap. You got all those things coming at you so you got to be prepared for different ones and we just sort of got into a scramble.

"The passes weren't sharp, we were lofting passes and they were getting steals."

Doing her homework

Cicerone already had a good idea how the Chiefs would get after her team based on the Canton-Marian matchup at the start of the season. And then, she had more to go on after watching the way Canton guarded Grand Ledge's top offensive players during Friday's semifinal game.

"Grand Ledge, they have a couple good shooters, they have great size inside," Cicerone said. "And Canton just managed to stay on those shooters, they do a nice job of matching up with the post inside.

"So, I'm like, how are we going to get them spread enough and still execute our offense? And first quarter, (junior forward) Bailey (Gray) and Sam attacked their zone fairly well, we got some good looks. And that helped jump-start our offense."

Conversely, the Chiefs, according to Samulski, "couldn't get over the hump" in the first girls basketball state championship game in school history.

As Samulski answered questions from the media, sitting next to him at the podium were senior co-captains Paige Aresco, Rachel Winters, Taylor Hunley and Shannon Perry. Their eyes were redrimmed and moist, understandably disappointed with the way things unfolded against Marian.

"These guys and the rest of the girls had an outstanding season," Samulski said. "I'm sure no one thought they'd be here this day on November 11th. All the credit goes to them, what they've done this year.

"And they lost to a very good team. The goal is 'Hey, let's play the last day of the season' and they did that. I couldn't be more proud of what they accomplished."

Early problems

Canton (22-5) got into a deep hole early on, making just one of 13 field-goal tries in the opening quarter.

Setting the tone early was junior guard Kara Holinski, who nailed a trey from the right corner midway through the first to put Marian up 7-2.

Thomas then took it strong to the bucket for a couple of layups to make it 11-4 after one quarter — pumping up both the Mustangs (25-2) and their loud throng of fans sitting directly across from the Marian bench.

Canton got to within 20-16 late in the first half, fueled by

END OF AN ERA

What a ride

Finals loss doesn't spoil Chiefs' big year

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

The Canton Chiefs opened and closed the 2013-14 girls basketball season with losses against Bloomfield Hills Marian.

But those defeats bookended the Chiefs's best season in school history, making it all the way to the Class A finals at the Breslin Center before bowing out to 44-26 to the Samantha Thomas-led Mustangs.

"These guys took us on a tremendous ride through the state tournament," Canton head coach Brian Samulski said. "I mean, division champs, conference champs, district, regional and you play on the last day. You can't really complain.

"It's tough to lose to these guys to start the year and end the year. But with all that said, they did a great job."

ley and Shannon Perry.
All four shared the podium following Saturday's final, their final game together. All four were visibly disappointed about the loss but at the same time pretty proud of what the Chiefs accomplished.

"I'm just really proud of our team," Aresco said. "We played so awesome this year and look where we ended up. ... It was a great team to be a part of. In the locker room, it was like a second family."

Concurring were the others, including Perry, who noted that "I don't think any of us would trade our team for anything, no matter

Young guns lift Whalers to 4-1 win in finale

Plymouth now gearing up for start of OHL playoffs Friday at Guelph

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

With St. Patrick's Day looming, Vincent Scognamiglio and the rest of the Plymouth Whalers wore their green jerseys Saturday night in the regular season finale against Windsor.

But it was hard work and determination to quickly forget about the previous night's 10-1 loss to Erie and not the luck of the Irish that sparked the Whalers' 4-1 victory over the Spitfires.

The win, played before a Compuware Arena sellout crowd of 3,946, featured the first Ontario Hockey League goals by Scognamiglio and linemate Liam Dunda — both in the third period, when Plymouth went ahead to stay.

Rocks' first soccer coach 'set the tone'

Plymouth-Salem's Johnson led boys and girls teams to state championships

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Hard to believe, but three months have elapsed since the death of Salem High School's original soccer coach, Ken Johnson.

News trickled in under the radar about Johnson's death Dec. 21, 2013 at the age of 83.

But that was fitting for a man who "laid low" in Florida during the last two decades of his life after retiring from coaching the Rocks boys and girls teams after the 1995-96 school year.

Time was spent soaking in the sun and ocean waves while staying connected to his sport as a referee until 2010.

In fact, Ed McCarthy - hired by Johnson to coach Salem's junior varsity teams in 1991 and the varsity successor in 1996 — only saw him once after Johnson left the Park.

That was during the summer of 1996, when Johnson popped in on one of McCarthy's prac-

"He didn't come back and laid low," said Mc-Carthy, coach of Salem's boys teams until 2012. "I talked to a couple people that knew him and said he was real happy.

When I talked to him in '96 when he came back up, he said he had never been happier and he loved it. Every morning he would swim in the ocean. He was delighted for the retirement."

Retiring on top

Johnson left Salem (then known as Plymouth-Salem) on the highest note, coaching the boys to the 1995 state championship. He also was at the helm of the girls 1987 title team.

"The fact that he was there for a long time, the limited number of coaches that have been at Salem I'd say were in part continuing on what he did," McCarthy said. "He had a very, very impressive record."

"He was one of the nicest people that you would ever meet," Mc-Carthy said. "He was really a super guy, and he got along extremely well with everyone.

"He was the original coach of Salem soccer and really set the tone at the high school. The boys and girls programs have been terrific and he set that tone.'

McCarthy added that his own coaching style and subsequent success owed plenty to his men-

"There's no doubt I picked up lots of things from Ken Johnson," said McCarthy, now coach of the U18 Michigan Wolves boys elite travel team. "I thought the way that he related to the players was exceptional.

"I thought he had a great sense of humor with the players and he also carried the balance of having good discipline as well.'

His son-in-law Joe Knoerl was a Salem goalkeeper for three seasons when Johnson was coach.

'Not only did he coach at Salem," noted Knoerl in an email earlier this year to the Ob-server, "but was a big part of setting up the Plymouth and Canton soccer clubs during the late 70s and early 80s. He continued to ref until he turned 80."

Although no official tributes have been planned to honor Johnson, the idea of having a moment of silence for the coach before a Rocks soccer game was called "appropriate" by McCarthy.

She enjoys record-breaking state meet

Plymouth girl repeats as state champion

Plymouth resident Emma May repeated as a state swimming champion Saturday, at the USA sanctioned state championship meet at Walled Lake Central.

Emma, 8, who attends Spiritus Sanctus Academy in Plymouth, and Kylie Evenson - both from Ann Arbor-based Club Wolverine — won the state title in the 8and-under girls division.

Both girls won all five events they swam in to become co-champions with perfect Michigan Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association scores of 100.

Emma prevailed in the 25-yard butterfly, 50 fly,

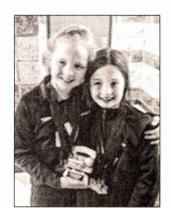

100 individual medley, 25 breaststroke and 50 breast.

The daughter of Kevin and Emily May also set four individual meet records.

Three of the four records had not been broken since 2006. She set marks in the 25 fly (15.29 seconds) and 50 fly (34.70).

Previous records were set by Emily Meier of Canton High School and Club Wolverine. Her record times were 15.37 in the 25 fly and 35.02 in the 50 fly. Also Emma set the meet record in the 25 breast (18.88, toppling the old record set in 2013 by Taylor Westrick, Kylie set three records, including in the 25-yard freestyle (14.17), 50 free (32.25), 25-yard backstroke (14.17) while finishing first in five events (25 free, 50 free, 100 free, 25 back, 50 back).

In 2013, Emma was winner in the 7-and-under division.

The puck caromed right out to Yetman, standing near the left post. He made no mistake with his shot. It was the Whalers' third power-play goal of the game.

Turning the page

According to Scognamiglio, it was good to bounce back from the Erie debacle and gain some confidence — especially with the opening round of the playoffs beginning Friday at Guelph. "I think we just knew we had to come out and play," he said. "Just like we did after losing to them in Erie last week (11-2 March 5), we bounced back with Niagara (a 4-3 win March 6) and we did the same to-night."

Scognamiglio added that the victory helps put the team in a better frame of mind going into the playoffs. Plymouth finished the regular season with a record of 28-33-0-7 for 63 points and the eighth seed in the Western Conference.

"This is great to end the season on, it gives us a lot of confidence that we need for the playoffs for the younger guys," he said. "And it's going to take everyone to make a good playoff run.'

Plymouth did have one worrisome moment, when Curcuruto was checked from behind into the boards in front of the Whalers' bench early in the final period. He shook off the hit and was on the ice during a three-minute power play, during which Scognamiglio scored his goal. Windsor ended fifth in the conference with 77 points (37-28-3-0) and will play London in the first round. Vellucci and his young squad will skate into the playoffs with a recent win to build on. "We wanted to make the playoffs (for them) to gain some experience in the playoffs," Vellucci said. "It's a whole new season and anything can happen." WHALERS DRAW GUELPH:

two triples from senior point guard Rachel Winters.

Marian finished the half up 22-16 and then regrouped during the intermission. Cicerone used the break to get her team on the same page, according to Thomas.

"In the first half we weren't scoring that much, and not talking as much as a team," Thomas said. "We were kind of being selfish a little bit. At halftime, Cice just told us we're not playing like ourselves, we just need to be a team and play it together and we can get whatever we want.'

Canton already was teetering in the confidence department as far as their offense was concerned, making just five of 23 field-goal tries in the first half.

And then, the Mustangs came out even stronger in the third quarter, covering the Chiefs at every turn.

To the rim

The Chiefs made eight turnovers in the third alone, and Thomas pretty much sealed their fate with three old-fashioned three-point plays in the frame.

With about 1:20 remaining in the third, Thomas galloped into the paint, threw the ball into the cylinder and drew a foul. After she made the free throw, it was a 32-21 contest.

Cice told us at halftime we had to spread the offense because Canton has a really good defense, so we needed to spread it out so we could drive it and kick it," Thomas said. "But they were out on our shooters so I knew the lane would be open so I just drove and I got the foul.'

Marian went up 35-21 after three and Holinski - who had scorched Farmington Hills Mercy Friday with 20 points — sank a trey in the opening minute of the fourth to make it 38-21. She ended up with nine points Saturday.

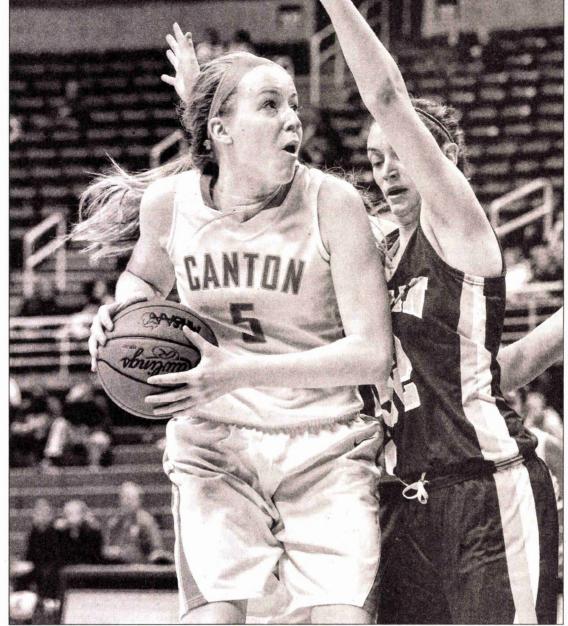

There was little doubt at that point who would be hoisting the coveted championship trophy.

The ultimate taste of victory is something Cicerone experienced four times before during her 31-year career at Marian, but she was elated that it was the current team that gave her a fifth title.

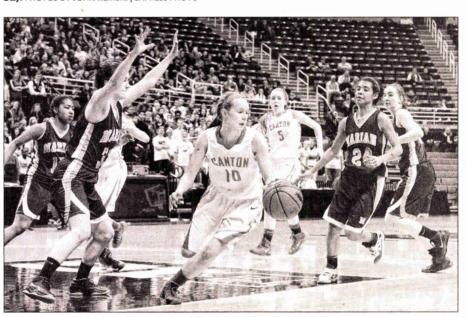

She also had a little concern that the Mustangs might not come out as strong as they did Friday against the Marlins, simply because of the Marian-Mercy rivalry

No letdown

Also helping Marian's cause were sophomore guard Bailey Thomas, with Samantha Thomas and Gray each grabbing five rebounds.

For Canton, the leading scorer was Aresco with nine. That was well below her average of 14.6. She also led the Chiefs with six rebounds.

what."

According to Samulski, whose team never led the game against Marian (and only tied the Mustangs at 2-2 early in the contest), few were jumping on Canton's bandwagon early in the season after the Chiefs started the year with two losses.

Getting them ready

But he emphasized that the first month of the schedule was a grind, against strong non-conference teams such as Marian, Farmington Hills Mercy, Grosse Pointe South and Dearborn Divine Child.

The ultimate goal of Samulski and assistant coaches Bob Blohm, Lauren Delapaz, Rob Heitmeyer and Kevin Palmer was to get Canton prepared for the possibility of enjoying a lengthy, pressure-packed tournament run.

'We made the non-league schedule because we have these four guys (seniors)," Samulski said. "You go Marian, Mercy, Grosse Pointe South and DC and people look at you like you're an

"But I knew we had these four and these four are awesome, they've been here three or four years. They knew the purpose of it. The whole goal of playing those people is to get you ready to maybe make a state tournament run and get there. So we accomplished that."

Because Samulski knew the character of his senior leaders, augmented by junior guard Alanna Brown and sophomore guard Natalie Winters (both key contributors all season), he did not get rattled about the early defeats.

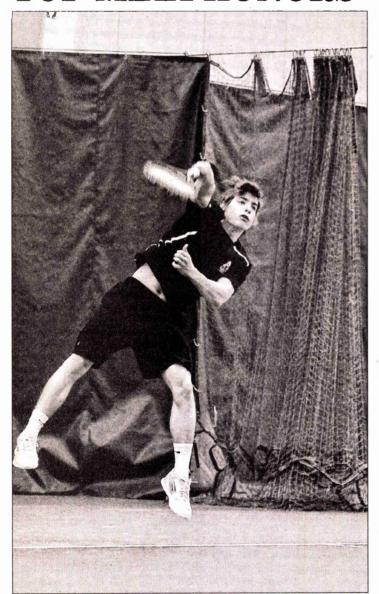

'We started the season 0-2 and you can easily have said 'You can cash it in,'' Samul-ski said. "Some teams do cash it in that early. One time we were 2-3. But they hung in there and realized what we were doing.

"These four are awesome, I love them to death, I'll miss them dearly. They did everything I could ask for. They had great careers, they had a great season, they should be absolutely proud of what they accomplished. It's the first team in school history to play in a state championship (game) and Canton's had a lot of good teams.'

But there's no denying the 2013-14 version had some thing special going for it.

The Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's National Honor Society will host its fourth annual "Super Jess" 5K run at 8 a.m. Sunday, May 4, on the high school campus. This event was created in 2011 in honor of 16-year-old P-CEP student Jesse Lindlbauer, whose sinus infection turned into an abscess which ruptured, causing a traumatic brain injury. The SJ5K run was created in order to bring the community support to the family and raise money. After a successful event in 2011, the National Honor Society decided to make the SJ5K an annual event to honor local families in need.

This year, the race will support one present P-CCS student and one P-CCS alumni: Salem senior Jerrica Fitzgerald and Salem alum Amy

Ladenberger. » Jerrica Fitzgerald was diagnosed with hydrocephalus, a rare medical condition in which fluid builds up in the brain. Jerrica has undergone more than 30 surgeries and countless nights in the hospital since she was diagnosed in 2009. She attended Smith Elementary and West Middle School. Jerrica is now a senior at the Park and is excited to graduate this spring with the rest of her class. » Amy Ladenberger is a 25-year-old Park graduate who attended Hoben Elementary and Discovery Middle School. She was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis, a disease which causes thick, sticky mucus to build up in the lungs, digestive tract and other areas of the body, when she was three months old. Within the last year, Amy underwent a double lung transplant and many other surgeries prior to that.

Please join the NHS to raise money and support for the

Fitzgerald and Ladenberger families by participating in the SJ5K, donating funds, or spon-

Registration forms can be found on the SJ5K Facebook page, on the P-CEP website or in Canton, Plymouth and Salem main offices. Event fees are $25 for adults over 18 and $20 for all others.

Crystallettes to represent U.S. overseas

Plymouth has two figure skaters on team headed to Italy

The Crystallettes Senior synchronized figure skating team will represent the United States at the 2014 ISU World Synchronized Skating Championships, April 3-5 at the Forum Sport Center in Courmayeur, Italy.

The Crystallettes won the silver medal at United States Figure Skating U.S. National Synchro Championships, Feb. 28 through March 1 at the World Arena in Colorado Springs, Colo. By virtue of their second-place finish, they qualified to compete in the World Championships.

The Synchro World Championships will host 23 teams representing 18 countries Australia, Belgium, Canada, Croatia, Czech Republic, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and the U.S.

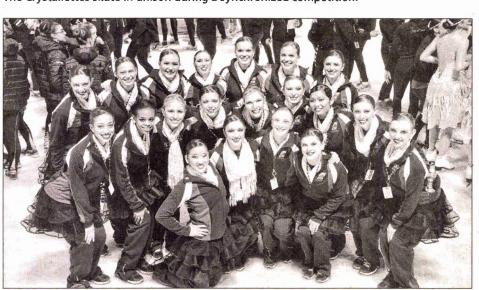

After skating a fast, clean and edgy short program Feb. 28 to I'm A Woman by Leiber and Stoller, the Crystallettes were in second place with 61.26 points – 10.06 points behind the Massachusetts-based and reigning national champion Haydenettes and 5.03 points ahead of the third-place team from Miami (Ohio) University.

Going into the long program March 1, the Crystallettes knew they had to skate a near-perfect program to remain in the top two spots and qualify for the Worlds.

Performing to Iris:
Cirque Du Soleil by Danny Elfman, the Crystallettes skated first among the top teams and earned a season-best score of 118.51 points.

The Crystallettes are on their way to Italy for an international competition.

The Michigan skaters were excited to perform their energetic program with a theme celebrating black and white televi-

Their performance was an exciting and fun interpretation of the music, with impressive intersections and quirky footwork and was an overall strong performance.

The Haydenettes skated next, executing a virtually flawless program and earning a season-best 133.70 points.

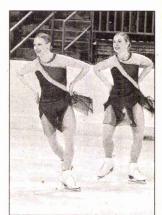

That left the Crystallettes in second place and anxiously waiting for Miami University to skate, knowing if Miami performed an exceptionally clean program, it would have the opportunity to edge the Crystallettes out of second place.

Miami's performance earned a score of 93.41, landing it in fourth place overall behind Chicago's Starlights.

The Crystallettes's hard work was rewarded with an invitation to represent the U.S. in the 2014 ISU World Championships as Team USA II.

The Crystallettes Senior team also won a silver medal at the Dr. Porter Synchro Classic in Ann Arbor earlier this season and the gold medal at the Mid America Championships in Fraser.

New coach moves over from Henry Ford CC

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

It took only a week for Schoolcraft College to find a new men's basketball coach.

Abe Mashhour, who led Henry Ford Community College to a record of 245-156 in his 15 seasons, will guide the Ocelots for the 2014-15 season following the resignation of Randy Henry on March 7.

Schoolcraft athletic director Sid Fox made the announcement March

"Schoolcraft College welcomes Abe with open arms to continue his successful coaching career here in Livonia," Fox said in a press release. "He has always impressed me with his capacity to recruit, coach and manage his players at an optimum level."

The 59-year-old Henry, a Detroit Redford High graduate who went on to play four seasons at Illinois State under Will Robinson, posted a 68-134 record in his seven seasons, including 14-15

degrees from Wayne

Mashhour as the director of student services and athletics for Dearborn Public Schools.

Henry Ford finished 12-17 overall this season and tied for sixth at 7-11 in the MCCAA's Eastern Conference (with Schoolcraft).

In 2008-09, Mashhour coached the Hawks to the MCCAA and NJCAA District 9 championships, as well as a berth in the NJCAA Division II National Tournament (in Danville, Ill.).

His 2009-10 squad was ranked No. 1 nationally after starting the season 20-0 before the Hawks were forced to forfeit five Eastern Conference wins because of an ineligible player. They finished 22-8 and wound up runner-up in the NJCAA District 9 tournament to St. Clair County CC.

"It's a better overall opportunity as far as having scholarships, I like the area very much and it's a better recruiting area, too," said Mashhour, who also served as an assistant at Henry Ford from 1994-95.
"Schoolcraft is a very reputable academic school. It seems we're losing a lot of Dearborn students who are heading to Schoolcraft. The opportunity came up when Randy resigned. I inquired and I was fortunate to get the job."

Mashhour has coached 18 NJCAA Academic All-Americans and six Distinguished All-Americans, with a player graduation rate exceeding 85 percent.

"Education is of the utmost importance to me, and it will remain as my highest priority for the purpose of providing academic opportunities that support studentathletes in completing their degree," Mashhour

Mashhour, who is already on the recruiting trail, said he will bring his entire Henry Ford staff to Schoolcraft including former Livonia Clarenceville High coach Corey McKendry, ex-Livonia Stevenson High coach Mike Allie and Seth Coffing.

"Obviously I want

"Obviously I want good kids that are going to play hard," Mashhour said. "With scholarships I should be able to recruit a little bit more high-caliber players. We want good young men that are going to work hard academically and obviously we want to win on the basketball court."

Nine of 12 Schoolcraft players are eligible to return next season.

Canton man recalls Detroit childhood in film

By Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

Jonathan Stanley grew up in a gritty Detroit neighborhood in a family that had little money but lots of heart.

"Our parents put us in Catholic school to keep us out of trouble," said Stanley, 31, a Canton resident and the youngest of three brothers. "It was a blessing. We were altar boys and it kept us full of faith. It would have been a different story if we had been in public school in that neighborhood. It was a rough area."

His experiences growing up in southwest Detroit and his job as a stripper at age 19 inspired Misled, an independent film he co-wrote, produced and cast. It makes its debut Saturday, March 22, at the Gasparilla International Film Festival in Tampa, Fla.

Misled tells the story of two Detroit brothers — Bobby is involved with drugs and Jason turns to stripping while also supporting their mother who struggle to better their "Stripping is a sub-plot and it's not glorified in the film. It's a family story at the same time. It's about living and doing what you have to do and staying loyal to family in the process," Stanley said.

Stanley said he wrote the Bobby character — portrayed by Matt Lockwood — as a compilation of friends and family members, but that Jason, the character he plays, more closely parallels his own of Port Huron that gave him a new-found sense of hope and safety. But it wasn't long before he began to feel out of place in school and his grades plummeted. By ninth grade, at age 15, he dropped out.

"I have amazing parents. They're good parents, but they weren't real hard on us, they didn't badger us. They didn't want to force us (to attend school) if we didn't want to. It worked for me. I quit," Stanley said, adding "I've never touched any drugs in my life and I attribute that to my par-

He worked various jobs, but by age 19, was behind in his rent and on the verge of losing his first apartment. An acquaintance suggested he try amateur night at Danny's, a club in Windsor, Ontario, that featured male strippers.

"I drove the two hours to Windsor, did amateur night and got 50 bucks Canadian. They hired me. It was rough at first and then it clicked. It was cool, easy money."

He danced for a few years and then looked for an exit

"You realize you're not working to your highest potential," he said. "I finally had the confidence I needed and went to L.A. to study acting.'

Getting into film

He took an intensive boot camp in Los Angeles and then signed up for theater classes at Henry Ford Community College. Over the past few years, he has appeared in such films as Stone and Last Man Standing. He had a lead part, as a meth addict, in The Narrow Place.

Stanley began writing the Misled script three years ago after John Blackwell of Blackwell Ford in Plymouth, a fan of his work in The Narrow Place, agreed to finance the project.

"I thought, I can do this. I wrote the first draft and it wasn't good. But I kept fine tuning it, reading books on writing screenplays. After six months, the people I showed it to liked it.'

Stanley collaborated with California-based scriptwriter Scott Baldyga on the final drafts. Baldyga also directed and produced the film, which stars Sammy Sheik and Natalie Avital, in addition to Stanley and Lockwood.

Misled was shot in 2012 in Detroit, Plymouth, Dearborn and Hamtramck. Stanley hopes to show the film this summer in metro Detroit and continues to submit it to film festivals.

"I want to keep making movies that inspire people. And to give back to the community," he said. "So many people did that for me along with way. So many people believed in me.'

Taste a world of culinary adventure

rom taking a food tour through the Mediterranean to infusing everyday recipes with exotic herbs and spices, home chefs are eager to explore the world through culinary adventures.

Americans are looking for adventure, sophistication and new experiences in the kitchen, according to a recent survey of people ages 45 to 65 commissioned by Florida Grapefruit. Based on the findings, the top five culinary adventures home chefs in this age group want to achieve are:

1. Spice up everyday meals with trendy, of-the-moment ingredi-

2. Add sophistication to beverages by using fresh herbs in unusual ways.

3. Create an exciting new dessert by pairing unexpected flavors, such as smokiness and a Middle Eastern influence.

4. Adopt a Mediterranean flair by exploring the tastes, culture and ethnic flavors of this region.

5. Add an exotic twist to favorite cuisines with a fusion of two favorite globally-inspired dishes.

To deliver on this wish list, celebrity chef Aarti Sequeira has created a series of tangy, exotic and delicious recipes. Each dish features a sweet and zingy favorite — 100 percent Florida grapefruit juice or fresh Florida grapefruit segments.

The recipes, part of the "Taste a World of Zing" collection, feature step-by-step instructions that give even kitchen novices the confidence to try something new. Among them are Grapefruit Tart with Cardamam Grapm, which answers the cell to pair unexpected with Cardamom Cream, which answers the call to pair unexpected flavors in the same delicious dish; Tandoori Steak-Grapefruit Let-tuce Wraps and Grapefruit Yogurt Smoothie with Fennel Seed, with flavors of Indian cuisine; and Kale & Grapefruit Salad with Warm Bacon-Wild Mushroom Dressing, which uses trendy and nutritious kale, along with wild mushrooms. For more ways to "Taste a World of Zing," visit www.facebook.com/FloridaGrapefruit to find additional recipes that answer your craving for culinary adventure.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT TART WITH CARDAMOM CREAM

Makes: 4 to 6 servings

1 ½ cups whole milk

5 cardamom pods, crushed 5 extra-large egg yolks, room temperature

¼ cup granulated sugar

3 tablespoons cornstarch ½ teaspoon orange blossom water

1 tablespoon grapefruit zest Pinch Kosher salt

1 tablespoon heavy cream

1 refrigerated pie crust 3 ruby red grapefruit, peeled, white pith removed, cut into segments Maldon smoked salt, for sprinkling

Place milk and cardamom pods in a small saucepan over medium-low heat. Cook, stirring often, until small bubbles form around the circumference of the saucepan. Turn off heat, cover and steep for 20 minutes.

Beat egg yolks and sugar together in a stand mixer at medium-high speed until pale yellow and very thick, about 5 minutes. Turn the speed down to low, then add the cornstarch.

Meanwhile, strain milk into a measuring cup. Stir in orange blossom water and grapefruit zest, along with a pinch of salt. Keeping the mixer on low, slowly pour in the milk mixture, beating until just combined. Transfer the milk mixture to a medium saucepan over medium-low heat. Cook, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon, until it comes to a boil, 5 to 10 minutes. Switch to a whisk; whisk constantly until it has thickened to the texture of pudding. Turn heat off. Stir in heavy cream and then strain into a large bowl. Place plastic wrap on the actual surface of the pastry cream, then refrigerate for at least 3 hours. Once pastry cream is chilled, pre-heat oven to 425° F. Place pie crust in 9 1/2-inch tart pan. Prick dough evenly with fork to keep it from puffing up in the oven. Bake for about 12 minutes or until the pie crust is just golden brown. Remove from oven and cool.

Just before serving, pour the pastry cream into the tart crust and even out. Decorate with concentric circles of grapefruit segments. Sprinkle with smoked salt and serve immediately.

For individual tartlets: Divide pie crust among four 4 %-inch tart pans. Bake at 425°F. for about 10 minutes or just until golden brown.

4 sprigs mint, minced ¼ cup extra virgin olive oil

1 head romaine lettuce, leaves pulled apart

Make steak marinade: Whisk together grapefruit juice, soy sauce, garlic and freshly ground black pepper. Pour over steak, marinate at room temperature for 10 to 30 minutes while you make you make the sauce and filling.

Tandoori sauce: Whisk together yogurt, grapefruit juice, garlic, honey, Tandoori powder, ginger and salt and pepper to taste. Pour into a small saucepan with ¼ cup water. Cook over low heat, about 10 minutes, until thickened. Set aside. Filling: Toss grapefruit, cucumbers, green onions and mint with extra virgin olive oil, salt and pepper. Set aside

Cook steak in a very hot cast iron skillet, about 3-5 minutes per side. Remove from pan, let rest 5 minutes. Slice thinly against the grain. To assemble wraps, place lettuce leaves on plate. Build wraps: place a couple of pieces of steak in a romaine leaf, top with grapefruit filling, drizzle with Tandoori sauce. Serve immediately

KALE & GRAPEFRUIT SALAD WITH WARM BACON-WILD MUSHROOM DRESSING

1 to 2 bunches black kale (about 1 pound), washed, stalks removed, sliced into ¼inch ribbons

¼ cup extra virgin olive oil, divided, plus more for massaging

3 slices thick-sliced bacon, roughly chopped 8 ounces wild mushrooms, thinly sliced (crimini and chanterelle recommended)

1 medium shallot, minced (about ¼ cup)

¼ cup champagne vinegar ¼ cup grapefruit juice

1 tablespoon honey

1/3 cup toasted hazelnuts, roughly chopped 1 large ruby red grapefruit, cut into segments Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper

Place kale in a very large bowl. Sprinkle with a couple of pinches of Kosher salt and a very light drizzle of extra virgin olive oil. Now, begin "massaging" the kale; squeeze fistfuls of the leaves and rub between your fingers. The kale will begin to wilt within minutes. Once uniformly wilted, set aside on the counter and prepare the dressing. Place a medium saute pan or skillet over medium-low heat. Add bacon pieces and cook, stirring every now and then, until most of the fat has rendered off and bacon bits are brown and just crispy. Using a slotted spoon, remove bacon to a plate lined with paper towel. Pour off bacon fat into a measuring cup. If necessary, add enough extra virgin olive oil to make ¼ cup. Pour back into

Add the mushrooms, stir to coat in the fat, then spread out into an even layer. Don't touch them for 3 to 5 minutes! They will start to soften and sizzle. Now stir and cook, stirring often until they are golden brown around the edges. Stir in the shallots and cook until the whole mixture is browned and

Add champagne vinegar, scraping up any brown bits on the bottom of the pan with your spoon. Turn the heat off. Add 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil, the grapefruit juice and 1 tablespoon honey. Stir together, taste for seasoning and adjust according to your palate. Sprinkle kale with hazelnuts, bacon bits and grapefruit segments. Pour warm dressing over the top and serve immediately.

It's one of two new sites established by LifeChurch Canton in the past three years. Life-Church Southfield opened in 2011 at the Southfield Marriott.

"We want to be a church that is accessible," said Brian Nanninga, who will pastor the Livonia location. "We want to partner with neighborhoods and reach as many people with the Gospel as we can.

"Our tagline is 'real people, real god, real life," Nanninga said, adding that LifeChurch Livonia will bring a "contemporary" church model to the community.

'What makes us different is the people here. We're from diverse backgrounds - socioeconomic, racially - and we're diverse in regard to church backgrounds. From that comes a beautiful mix.

Nanninga said the new location will hold five preview services over the next three and a half months. In addition to the service on March 23, the congregation will meet Easter Sunday next month, for one service in May and two services in June. Weekly worship services will begin in July

'We want to have the opportunity to do church well on Sunday," said Nanninga. "Church services that start weekly often struggle and end up failing. There are a lot of details in starting a new church. We want to build momentum and gather new people."

Nanninga said he expects between 150-200 worshipers to attend the inaugural service this weekend. The Southfield location draws approximately 200 individuals and the Canton church averages 1,200-1,400 worshipers every week-

'FIRE-SAFE' CIGARETTES A FACTOR IN REDUCED FIRE DEATHS

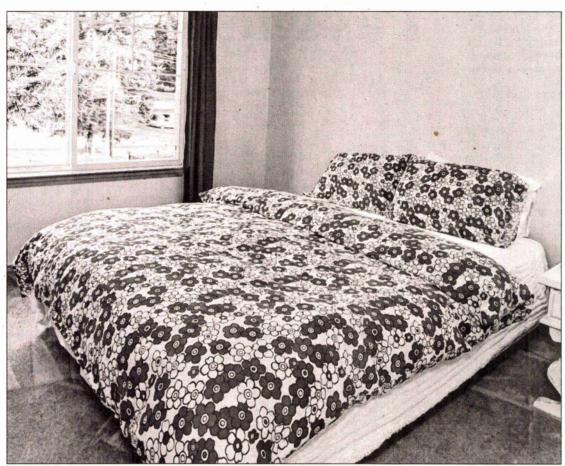

According to a recent report released by the National Fire Protection Association, 540 civilian deaths in the United States were attributed to smoking material fires in 2011, a 30-year low that is well down from 1980 levels. In 2011, there were an estimated 90,000 smoking material fires resulting in $621 million in direct property damage.

The decline in smoking, the effect of standards and regulations that have made mattresses and upholstered furniture more resistant to cigarette ignition, and more recently, adoption of fire-safe cigarette requirements throughout the country, are factors the report credits with the decrease in smoking material fire deaths over the past 31 years. The long-term trend in smoking material fires is down by 73 percent from 1980

"Fire-safe," or reduced ignition strength cigarettes, as determined by ASTM test standards and state laws on acceptable performance, appear to be the only factor contributing to the decline in smoking material fire deaths that had not leveled off or phased out before 2003 - the last year before the fire-safe cigarette law was effective in any state.

2012 was the first year all 50 state laws were effective and all inventories of prestandard cigarettes should have sold out. A projection linking the percentage decline in fires or fire deaths to the percentage of smokers covered suggested that when the law was fully effective across the entire country in late 2011, the reduction in fire deaths should reach 30 percent, relative to levels in 2003, and as predicted by the projection in the previous NFPA report, estimated fire deaths were 30 percent lower than in 2003.

"It is good news to see this 30 year low and fewer people dying in smoking-material fires," said Lorraine Carli, NFPA's vice president of Outreach and Advocacy. "Lives were saved and will continue to be saved as a direct result of efforts of the Coalition for Fire-Safe Cigarettes, a group of safety advocates, the fire service and others, who in the past decade joined together to see that fire-safe cigarettes become the standard."

Other key findings in the report show:

» One out of four fatal victims of smoking-material fires is not the smoker whose cigarette started the fire.

» Older adults are at highest risk of death or injury from home smoking material fires, even though they are less likely to smoke than younger adults.

NFPA has developed safety information, including safety tips focusing on safe behavior, storage, and disposal of smoking materials:

» Use a deep, sturdy ashtray. Place it away from anything that can burn.

» Before going to bed, check under furniture cushions and around places where people smoke for cigarette butts that may have fallen out

» Keep cigarettes, lighters, matches, and other smoking materials up high out of the reach of children, in a locked cabinet.

» Never smoke where medical oxygen is used. Medical oxygen can cause materials to ignite more easily and make fires burn at a faster rate than normal and can make an existing fire burn faster and hotter.

About the National Fire Protection Association

NFPA is a worldwide leader in fire, electrical, building, and life safety. The mission of the international nonprofit organization founded in 1896 is to reduce the worldwide burden of fire and other hazards on the quality of life by providing and advocating consensus codes and standards, research, training, and education. NFPA develops more than 300 codes and standards to minimize the possibility and effects of fire and other hazards. All NFPA codes and standards can be viewed at no cost at www.nfpa.o rg/freeaccess

License doesn't always mean scruples

Q: I am wondering if there is any obligation on the part of a community association manager to be licensed in Michigan.

A: No, unfortunately, there is not. In that regard, manager licensing advocates say it elevates professionalism, gives homeowners greater assurance and improves the industry's image. All of these things would be true and it might carve out some of the bad apples that sometimes join the management industry. In a sense, the idea that people should be able to handle hundreds of thousands or millions of dollars and make decisions that affect the value of homes without being licensed is, in many people's minds, troublesome. It should be considered by the legislature, in my opinion, although, the fact that someone is licensed does not necessarily mean that they are honest or ethical.

Q: I have heard of a technique to get around timeshare limitations which has been used out West, but I am not sure of the details. Can you give me some insight?

A: Apparently, some unit owners have started to enter into transactions where they grant a tenant a 1 percent recorded interest in the property and claim that the tenant is an owner and not a tenant (and trying to disprove that the 1 percent owner is paying rent to the 99 percent owner.) Therefore, they are also getting around any prohibition on timeshares. Of course, there are risks with such tactics, but the question of whether an ownership arrangement is a sham to avoid the application of law or the governing documents or is an arrangement with a legitimate purpose (and co-owners snaring the admity to occupy at different times is likely a legitimate purpose) would be the deciding factor in a case brought to question the action. In short, the association must be conscientious in enforcing its rights and rules with respect to ownership transfers in order to avoid the timeshare issue coming up.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
