Bus woes continue to plague district

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

Officials for Plymouth-Canton's transportation vendor pointed Tuesday to the fact fewer calls are coming in complaining about transportation issues as an indication the situation is getting better.

But district administrators and Board of Education trustees weren't buying it as, three weeks into the new school year, buses are still getting kids to school late, missing stops and suffering from overcrowding.

Board of Education Trustee Sheila Paton said her son wanted to come to Tuesday's board meeting to complain about the issues. Paton, who lives five minutes from the high school park but whose son rode the bus for an hour home, said the drop in calls may be more an increase in frustration than satisfaction with solutions.

"I'm concerned we're missing calls because people have just given up," said Paton, who acknowledged her frustration level is high. "Three weeks into the school year we're still getting kids to school late."

Fixing things

According to Francisco DuPrey of TransPar Group, the vendor hired to handle transportation scheduling for the district, one measure of improvement is the drop in the number of calls to complain. A look at some of those numbers:

City to automate recyclables pickup

Blue recycling bins like this one will be introduced in Plymouth with a new solid waste contract that begins in November. The bins are designed for automated pickup, in the same way that trash carts are picked up and emptied now.

By Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

Plymouth residents have one of the highest recycling rates in Wayne County and new blue carts may make things even greener.

The city's new solid waste contract with Republic Services includes the automated curbside pickup of recyclables from 65-gallon wheeled carts – the same way trash is picked up now by garbage trucks. The contract takes effect in November and the new recycling procedures – and the carts themselves – will be rolled out over the next few weeks, city officials say.

Residents recycled nearly 18 percent of their solid waste in 2012, the latest year for which numbers are available, said Chris Porman, director of the Department of Municipal Services.

"I think our percentage will go up" with the new, larger recycling bins, Porman told the city commission during a recent meeting. "I think we'll recycle even more."

Blue recycling carts with gray lids will replace the 18-gallon recycling bins currently in use. With a capacity of 65 gallons, the carts can hold more than three times the volume of the current bins, although, as some commissioners pointed out, the absence of lids on the bins means recyclables can be packed and stacked above the top of the bin, a practice that increases capacity.

The carts, with hinged lids, are better for keeping critters out of the recyclables and keeping the recyclables inside, rather than blowing down the street, officials said.

Cost savings

Republic's contract includes the weekly curbside pickup and disposal of trash, recyclables and compost material like grass clippings. The cost is slightly over $2.15 million for five years; officials say the contract will save more than $64,000 com-

Hello recycling carts, goodbye bins

Key points for Plymouth residents as the city and Republic Services, its solid waste hauler, introduce the automated pickup of recyclables in 65-gallon wheeled carts set at the curb. The program will begin with Republic's new contract, which starts in November.

» The new wheeled recycling carts, blue with gray lids, will be delivered in the coming weeks.

» The current trash carts, also with a 65-gallon capacity and designed for automated pickup, will continue to be used, along with brown paper yard-waste bags or marked trash cans for leaves and grass clippings.

» The collection schedule, Monday through Wednesday during normal weeks without holidays, will not change.

Trash, recyclables and composting will be picked up weekly, on the same day of the week they have been.

» The city will be surveying homes to check that all 65-gallon trash carts are brown. Any that are not will be swapped out for brown ones, in order to distinguish, at the curbside, trash from recyclables, which will be set out in the new blue carts.

» Residents who now have a trash cart that isn't brown in color should contact the Department of Municipal Services at 734-453-7737, ext. 0.

» The city is preparing a campaign to inform residents about automated recycling and the new recycling carts. The city's website, www.ci.plymouth.mi.us, will have news about the program.

MATT JACHMAN
WJBK-TV (Channel 2) reporter, commentator and fill-in anchor Charlie Langton, who's also a lawyer, kept a Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce audience entertained Wednesday morning.

Laywer-turned-newsman shoots from the hip in politics talk

By Matt Jachman

Bob Ficano won't face criminal charges, Republican Gov. Rick Snyder may get votes out of traditionally Democratic Detroit and Kevyn Orr, Detroit's emergency financial manager, will be asked to stay on with the city when his current role is over.

Plus, this fall's election is a snoozer.

Those were among the pronouncements Wednesday from Charlie Langton, a WJBK-TV (Channel 2) television reporter, commentator and sometimes-anchor. The actor-turned-lawyer-turned-newsman entertained about 65 people with wide-ranging remarks Wednesday morning during a Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce breakfast at Schoolcraft College's VisTaTech Center.

Langton started out by declaring this November's general election, in which Snyder faces Democrat Mark Schauer and there are state and federal legislative contests, unexcit-ing. Redistricting, he said, has left most districts either firmly Republican or firmly Democratic and the close contests tend to be within parties, during primary elections.

"There are no races any more," Langton said.

'Mood to invest'

Although polls show Snyder and Schauer are close, Langton said he doesn't believe them and said Snyder could get votes out of Detroit, which tradition-

BUS

» Overcrowded buses – On Sept. 3, the second day of school, there were 28 reports of overcrowded buses, or 4.1 percent of the routes. By Sept. 19, those calls had dropped to eight. DuPrey pointed out that two of those reports turned out to be false.

» Late bus calls – Peaked at a high of 81 calls Sept. 8, but had dropped to two calls Sept. 15.

» Call center concerns – In the first four days of school, the call center took 684 calls from angry parents, including a peak of 217 Sept. 5, the fourth day of school. In a four-day period Sept. 12-15, calls had dropped to 42.

“We’re down significantly ... from the beginning (of the school year),” DuPrey told board members Tuesday.

Efforts to solve the problem, he said, have included shifting stops from one route to another to allow the late route to complete its run on time; using on-board cameras to monitor the situation and make adjustments; putting some additional buses on the road; and establishing earlier pick-up times for high school students.

Problems persist

John Parker, the district's director of operations, pointed out the district is now running 124 buses making 685 bus runs a day to transport some 10,000 kids who ride buses throughout the district. Still, he acknowledged, there are problems.

“We have some systemic things to work on,” Parker said. “We have late routes and those are a high priority.”

DuPrey told board members problems continue to exist at Discovery and Pioneer middle schools, but that those issues – and what he said were “the majority” of late-bus issues – would be worked out by Friday of this week or Monday (Sept. 29).

“We’re very frustrated we haven’t been able to fix this,” DuPrey said. “It’s not for lack of trying.”

That didn’t appear to appease board members, who continued to question TransPar’s performance.

“I just don’t understand why we continue to have problems three weeks into the school year,” board Treasurer Mark Horvath said. “I want to quit talking about the fact when customers stop calling it’s ‘good news.’ When customers stop talking to you, they stop being your customers.”

Define the issues

Part of the problem, according to trustees and Superintendent Dr. Michael Meissen, is the definitions for “late buses” and “overcrowded” buses. TransPar is using the standard of three students to a seat on elementary school buses and two to a seat on high school buses to define the latter.

And while DuPrey said the standard for on time has been the first bell of the day, Meissen said kids need more time than that.

“Students need to be on time and that means enough time to get off the bus, get into class and get organized for the day,” Meissen said. “We need to set our clocks to 10 minutes before school starts. That seems reasonable to me.”

pared to the current contract in its first year.

Republic, the city's hauler of solid waste since 2001, was the lowest bidder for the contract. Three other firms also submitted sealed bids.

In a recent survey of more than 300 residents about the city's solid waste disposal, more than 70 percent of survey respondents said they would favor an automated system for the pickup of recyclables.

Porman and Scott Cabauatan, a municipal services manager for Republic, made a pitch for 95-gallon recycling carts, rather than the 65-gallon carts. This was despite survey results that showed nearly 70 percent of survey respondents in favor of a recycling cart of 65 gallons or smaller, with only 10 people, just over 3 percent, favoring a 95-gallon cart.

In a breakdown of its bid, Republic had proposed the same price for weekly recycling pickup whether the 65-gallon or the 95-gallon cart was used.

Size matters

Cabauatan said Republic's experience has been that, once 65-gallon carts are introduced, they tend to fill up, and changes in recyclers' habits, such as no longer breaking down or folding cardboard boxes to fit them into the 18-gallon bins, contribute to that.

“We would rather put you in a larger cart and have excess capacity,” than have 65-gallon recycling carts that aren't large enough, Cabauatan told the commission. The “footprint” of the larger cart is only a bit bigger than the 65-gallon model, he said.

Mayor Dan Dwyer, saying that he was a zealous recycler, nevertheless said he couldn't see needing 95 gallons of cart space in a week. “I think people are not going to like this tank in their garage,” Dwyer said.

Porman said the larger cart would allow for an increase in recycling rates. “The world's probably going to get greener,” he said.

Ultimately, the 65-gallon carts won out, with Trustees Oliver Wolcott and Diane Bogenrieder siding with the mayor and Trustees Mike Wright and Colleen Pobur favoring the larger carts.

Solid waste disposal is paid for through taxes and a household fee of $10 per month, per trash cart, that's tacked onto residential water bills. Porman said the pricing structure of the new contract may mean future changes to the monthly trash fee.

ally favors Democrats. Snyder's tough stance on Detroit's bankruptcy, he said, is helping turn things around there.

“There's a mood in the city of Detroit to invest,” Langton said and the city's Midtown area is thriving.

Democrats typically need Detroit to win statewide and Schauer, Langton said, has “got to come up with something” in order to beat Snyder.

Orr, appointed by

Snyder, led the city into bankruptcy and Langton said he's likely to stick around to manage its aftermath once his 18-month tenure as emergency manager is up. “I'd be shocked if they got rid of Kevyn Orr. Shocked,” he said.

Langton said he misses Kwame Kilpatrick, Detroit's disgraced former mayor, who was convicted of several felonies, including perjury and obstruction of justice, and is serving a federal prison sentence. The Kilpatrick story made for great TV ratings, he said. “He's far more interesting out of prison than he is in prison,” Langton said.

Ficano fade

Langton also predicted Ficano, the Wayne County executive, won't be charged in the scandals that have tainted his office, like the unfinished, over-budget, county jail project. Several county officials have faced charges in recent years, some stemming from the jail project.

Ficano has a “laziness defense,” Langton said: “He seemed to delegate a lot of stuff to a lot of people.”

Ficano lost last month's Democratic primary to Warren Evans, the former county sheriff and Detroit police chief who is likely to win the general election in November. Langton indicated Evans will have a tall order in restoring the county's finances and keeping it from emergency financial management – and bankruptcy – and many in the audience seemed to agree.

“Let's give him a chance,” Langton said.

Concert benefits Canton arts factory

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

The Canton Partnership for the Arts & Humanities continues its fundraising push to build its signature project, the Village Arts Factory, on the site of the Henry Ford Cherry Hill Mill in Canton's Cherry Hill Village.

And the partnership is enlisting the aid of one of the area's more popular bands to get it done.

Fifty Amp Fuse, transitioning to become Your Generation in Concert, headlines a fundraising concert next month at the Village Theater at Cherry Hill, a concert organizers hopes can help raise thousands of dollars for the factory project.

"They have, as my son would say, a gi-normous following," said Jill Engel, the partnership's executive director. "We wanted this to be an amazing fundraiser. ... We needed a heavy hitter. They have followers of every age range."

The band takes the stage in a pair of concerts Saturday, Oct. 11, at the theater, located at 50400 Cherry Hill in Canton. The matinee starts at 2 p.m., with an evening concert at 8 p.m.

In addition to the concert, the evening performance features a pre-concert reception that starts at 6:30 p.m. That reception will feature appetizers from a variety of local restaurants, including Compari's on the Park, Karl's Cabin, La Bistecca Italian Grille and The Post Local Bistro, along with desserts from Main Street Catering.

Proceeds from the fundraiser will benefit the preservation and rehab of the Henry Ford Village Industry, including the World War II veterans dormitory and Cherry Hill factory. The Village Arts Factory, Engel said, will be a regional visual arts complex stretched across 14 acres, with special programming options being designed for local veterans to tie the property back to its original heritage.

"We are so honored to donate food toward the cause of this event," said Peter Poulos, manager at Karl's Cabin. "We feel it's important to support art, not only for the growth of our youth, but for future generations to enjoy. This is truly a great way for our company to give back to the community."

YOUR GENERATION IN CONCERT
Your Generation in Concert featuring 50 Amp Fuse headlines a fundraiser Oct. 11 for the Canton Partnership for the Arts & Humanities at the Village Theater at Cherry Hill in Canton.

For the fourth year, Canton-based Showroom of Elegance is the event's reception sponsor and will again provide gifts to ticket-holders (along with Indigo Salon, Spa & Boutique).

"I feel the Partnership for the Arts & Humanities is an essential part of the Canton community," Showroom of Elegance owner Linda Robin said. "The arts and culture help define the community and Showroom of Elegance wants to share in that. It's a great way to celebrate what Canton has to offer."

Being able to support programs for veterans is a benefit for Iron Mountain, the event's entertainment sponsor.

"Iron Mountain has a long and proud history of supporting our veterans, as well as the communities in which we work, and this (event) allows us to contribute to both," said Iron Mountain vice president Steve Kowalkoski, a retired Marine Corps officer. "On a personal note I ... am honored to have the ability to present this donation on behalf of Iron Mountain."

Tickets are $40 for the matinee and $75 for the evening concert, which includes admission to the reception. Other details and tickets are available online at www.cantonvillagetheater.org

Engel said she's as excited about the Fifty Amp Fuse appearance as she's been about any of the organization's fundraisers.

"The age range of people who can enjoy this show is wonderful," Engel said. "I've been to their concerts in Plymouth twice and they've had thousands of people there. It's going to be amazing."

Worthy praises teamwork on rape kit processing progress

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Progress is reported on a backlog of rape kits in Detroit and Wayne County.

"We are working very diligently on this," Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy said. She praised partners who've made processing of kits possible and anticipates working well with the new county administration beginning in January 2015.

Worthy was joined by Gov. Rick Snyder and Attorney General Bill Schuette in June 2013 to announce a $4 million plan to DNA test thousands of rape kits from crimes committed in Detroit.

"It was extraordinary and it was crucial," Worthy said of the funding. To fund the rape kit testing, Snyder included a $4 million appropriation for the State Forensics Laboratory Fund in his proposed supplemental budget. The appropriation was funded by settlement money recovered by Schuette from state and national litigation.

In 2009, approximately 11,300 untested rape kits dating back 25 years were discovered in a Detroit Police Department property storage facility. Each kit has the potential to solve multiple crimes, including those committed by serial rapists. Since the closure of the Detroit Police Department Crime Laboratory in September 2009, the Michigan State Police has provided forensic science services to the city of Detroit and the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. The MSP's Forensic Science Division has been instrumental in the laboratory analysis of sexual assault kits and works with the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office and the Detroit Police Department on efforts to test the remaining sexual assault kits.

In February 2010, the Michigan State Police and DPD partnered with Michigan State University on a project to test 400 randomly selected sexual assault kits to determine the statistical probability of obtaining an offender profile from the stockpiled kits. This project, called the 400 Project, used a federal grant awarded to the Michigan Department of Human Services from the U.S. Department of Justice, Office on Violence Against Women, to outsource the initial analysis of the selected kits. The 400 Project was completed in March 2011. The result was 90 CODIS associations.

Worthy's office reports now a total of 21 cases resolved, including eight pleas, five jury convictions, three jury acquittals, three dismissed at preliminary exam (one insufficient evidence, two for defendant lack of competency) and two cases pending now (bound over for trial). In a Sept. 10 interview, Worthy said, "There have been a number of prosecutions." In addition to the 400 kits processed under the 400 Project, an additional 1,600 have since been processed.

Two private labs are now testing 4,000 each under MSP contracts, Worthy said. That leaves approximately 1,000 to process.

Observer-area legislators had a role in the bills in 2013 to process the rape kits. State Rep. John Walsh, R-Livonia, was the sponsor of H.B. 5445, which outlines the process and time line for kit processing and the handling by law enforcement. Rep. Kurt Heise, R-Plymouth Township, explained the approximately $4 million in 2013 was "to help process the rape kits that were on backlog. We fast tracked it basically," he said of legislative efforts including Walsh.

"They're processing them nicely now," Heise said of state police and the kits. "It's going well. The work is getting done. I think Kym Worthy is pleased with how it's going."

Heise, who chairs the House Criminal Justice committee, said, "When you don't have the rape kits processed, you are denying justice. It's also not fair to the accused, the defendants. They don't get their day in court."

Plymouth man pleads guilty to tax evasion, fraud

A former Farmington Hills man pleaded guilty to wire fraud and tax evasion in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan, the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service announced.

According to court documents, Michael Stover of Plymouth was the president of Omni Facility in Southfield. Part of his responsibilities included approving and paying subcontractors. Stover created a fictitious subcontractor called Envirovac, Inc., and from 2004 through 2010 he created fictitious invoices from Envirovac that billed Omni for work that was never performed.

Stover then approved payment of those invoices on Omni's behalf and, over the course of this scheme, Stover embezzled approximately $2,178,423 from Omni. On his tax return for 2007, Stover evaded taxes by not reporting the income he embezzled from Omni, according to court documents.

Stover faces a statutory maximum sentence of 20 years in prison on the wire fraud count and five years in prison on the tax evasion count. He also faces three years of supervised release and a maximum fine of $250,000 for each count. U.S. District Judge Stephen J. Murphy set sentencing for Jan. 23, 2015.

The case was investigated by special agents of IRS-Criminal Investigation. Trial attorneys Yael T. Epstein and Kenneth C. Vert of the Tax Division prosecuted the case.

Canton residents cite weekend rash of larcenies from autos

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Canton residents reported a rash of thefts last weekend of items they left inside their vehicles, Detective Sgt. Chad Baugh said.

Canton police received at least four reports of stolen items such as GPS devices and wallets from unlocked autos parked in residential driveways near Cherry Hill and Sheldon roads, Baugh said.

The incidents happened late Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

Baugh warned residents against leaving their valuables in sight, especially in unlocked vehicles, a scenario that makes it far too easy for would-be thieves to carry out their crimes.

He cautioned residents to remove electronics, wallets and other valuables from vehicles or, at a minimum, to hide them in the trunk.

"They also should lock their doors if they want a safe environment for their property,"

Baugh said.

Over the years, Canton police have repeatedly warned residents against leaving valuables in sight in their vehicles, even when they are locked. Police have called larcenies from autos one of the most preventable crimes by refusing to tempt potential criminals with personal belongings.

Even in Canton, which local officials say has a comparatively low crime rate for a community of its size, thieves have repeatedly stolen items from vehicles parked in residential driveways, shopping center parking lots and outside movie theaters, among other places.

The bottom line, officials say: Make it as difficult as possible for thieves to seize an opportunity.

Anyone who witnesses an incident or who has information about suspects should call the Canton Police Department at 734-394-5400.

Vandal spray paints Livonia message on I-96 in Redford

A vandal with a can of spray paint had a message for Livonia early Tuesday morning – but he delivered it in Redford.

Police were called at about 1:45 a.m. to eastbound I-96 under the Columbia Street overpass on report of a male in a gray hoodie spray painting the cement wall.

When police got there the culprit was gone, but a message was left behind.

"Dear Livonia, Please take Duggan back before he sells everything," was painted in red on the south wall at Columbia, according to police reports. Mike Duggan is the mayor of Detroit, but he formerly lived in Livonia.

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Shoplifting grandma

A 63-year-old Canton Township grandmother was ticketed on a shoplifting charge Friday night after being detained at the Kmart on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

The woman confessed to having stolen some jewelry and a video disc and told police she had been having money troubles and was having trouble coping with retirement, according to a Plymouth Township Police Department report.

The incident occurred around 10 p.m. A store security worker told police he had witnessed the woman put jewelry in her purse and leave the store, the report said. When she was confronted outside, the report said, a DVD from the store was also found in her purse.

The woman told police she cares for grandchildren, who were at home. She was released after being issued a ticket for third-degree retail fraud.

Vandalism

A township woman reported vandalism to her vehicle Sept. 16 while it was parked outside apartments on Heritage Drive, near North Territorial and Sheldon Road, in the township.

The clear plastic cover over the vehicle's license plate had been spray-painted black, a police report said. The vandalism occurred between 5 p.m. Sept. 15 and 5 a.m. the next day, the woman told police.

She said it was the third time her car's license-plate cover had been painted over in that manner.

Vehicle burglaries

Police reported three vehicle burglaries that occurred within a short distance of each other, in the area of M-14 and Napier, late Sunday or early Monday.

Two were outside a house on West Hills Drive, where a wallet with cash, a credit card and identification in it was stolen from a Ford Flex, while an iPod was stolen from a Jeep Wrangler, a police report said. Both vehicles had been left unlocked.

The third was outside a house on nearby Weston Drive, where a $200 briefcase and around $5 in change was stolen from a Lincoln Navigator. The Navigator had also been left unlocked.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

The obstinate date

A 25-year-old Canton woman's overnight date refused to leave her apartment the next morning, prompting her to call police for help.

The woman called police shortly before 7:30 a.m. Saturday, saying she was concerned for her safety after the 23-year-old suspect, apparently drunk, refused to leave and continued to drink alcohol. She locked herself inside a room until police arrived.

Police found the suspect hiding behind a door, unsteady on his feet while emitting a strong odor of intoxicants, a police report said. The woman told police the date – their first – didn't go well.

The suspect yelled at police officers and the woman, the report said, and he was repeatedly warned to lower his voice to avoid disturbing neighbors. The woman at one point offered to give him a ride home, but couldn't find her car keys, then changed her mind due to his behavior, the police report said.

The man's behavior prompted police to arrest him for trespassing and being disorderly. He was taken to the police station, but complained of pain in his left side, so he was transported to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti. He was discharged with his police citation intact.

Speed sign vandalized

Vandals stole part of an electronic speed limit sign police had placed near Glengarry and Seabrook following complaints of speeding motorists in the area.

The theft occurred sometime prior to 2:30 a.m. Monday, a police report said.

The theft occurred when the 25-mph speed limit sign was missing from a trailer on which it was mounted, a police report said. The trailer was being repaired.

Traffic stop arrests

Police made a traffic stop after noticing a Ford Focus that was traveling erratically along Haggerty near Palmer, a police report said.

The incident happened about 12:35 a.m. Sept. 18.

The vehicle initially turned north on Haggerty from westbound

Michigan Avenue, veering and crossing the double yellow line, a police report said. Police said the driver, after being stopped, said he was taking two passengers home from his residence in Wayne.

Police could smell alcohol and marijuana from the vehicle.

After an investigation, the 28-year-old driver was arrested for operating while impaired and having marijuana that was found in his clothing. A 21-year-old woman was arrested for warrants out of Bloomfield Township for not having proof of insurance. A 25-year-old male passenger was taken into custody for having marijuana and Xanax in his possession.

The Slomba family of Livonia came to the I-96 family fun day Sunday dressed up in goofy costumes. They welcomed the announcement that I-96 through Redford and Livonia would open up before Monday's commute.

Thousands walk I-96 hours before freeway opens

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

MORE PHOTOS

The party on I-96 was a photographer's delight. Check out more images on A9.

The Slomba family had waited patiently for Interstate 96 to reopen during the past several months. In the meantime, they decided walking along the freeway in costume seemed like a good idea for a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

The family came dressed in various outfits, with dad Raymond coming as the left-lane inspector, mom Robyn as the "I-96 judge" donning a black robe and daughters Veronica and Rachel coming as a dancer and a reporter, respectively.

"You only live once," Raymond Slomba said. "They say, 'YOLO.'"

The family was one of nearly 10,000 people to traverse the freeway by foot, bicycle and skateboard Sunday during the family fun day planned by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

While the event saw massive crowds, it brought along welcome news that the freeway would open later that day in time for Monday's commute, the first rush hour the freeway had seen in almost six months.

MDOT director Kirk Stuedlesaid the scope of the project, as well as the amount of work and detail, is one of the largest he's seen.

While Stuedle has overseen several major projects, this one through Livonia and Redford was one of the more difficult ones to wrap up and do, he said.

"This one had 50 different contractors," he said. "At one point, there was probably 2,000 workers here. The magnitude of it, in this short amount of time, this is probably one of the most impressive."

Some work to still complete

The deadline for contractor Dan's Excavating to have the freeway open was Oct. 11, though MDOT officials projected earlier this month it would most likely open by the end of September. It wasn't until Sunday afternoon that the state said the freeway would open up even earlier.

The $148 million freeway project is not completely done, however. MDOT officials say there will still be some intermittent lane closures along the route between Telegraph and Newburgh for work along the sides of the freeway. Those should be complete later this year.

The freeway fun day attracted hundreds of people early on, with many arriving well before the planned ribbon-cutting. Several local leaders were on hand to celebrate, including Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey, Redford Township Supervisor Tracey Schultz Kobylarz and Gov. Rick Snyder, who announced to the crowd that the freeway would open early.

"We want to say 'thank you' to all the businesses and all of you who have put up with this in a very positive way over the last few months, because this was a major challenge," Snyder said.

In addition to some two-wheeled vehicles, several representatives from an area group, the Redford Township Unicycle Club, brought down their one-wheeled vehicles and rode along the freeway.

Dan Visscher and his daughter Catherine rode a stretch of the freeway on their unicycles. Dan Visscher said he had heard the club had ridden a parade down on the freeway when it opened in the 1970s and thought it would be fun to bring the unicycles down on the freeway, even with the rain.

Catherine, an eighth-grader at Emerson Middle School, said she knows her mother will be ecstatic to begin using the freeway again.

"My mom, she takes this way to get to work in Troy, so it's been crazy," she said. "She's always talking how she can't wait for the freeway to open."

For the Slomba family, the freeway will mean less time in the car, less money spent on gas and less time waiting in traffic. Raymond Slomba will now be able to drop off his children for school and not need to take Inkster to I-94 anymore.

"With school, I'll be able to drop her off and get to work at the same time, because I drop her off and leave," he said. "When it was closed, I'd have to drop her off sooner. So little things like that."

Walkers took to the picturesque paths of Heritage Park for Saturday's fourth annual Bark for Life Canton.

Walkers, pets raise money for cancer research

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

One of the most emotional moments in the annual Relay for Life cancer fundraisers comes right at the beginning, when those who've beaten the disease take the first "Survivors Lap."

That's how it was Saturday for Wayne Stafford of Canton, a two-time cancer survivor who beat bladder cancer 10 years ago and kicked ureter cancer three years ago.

Walking at the fourth annual Bark for Life relay event in Canton's Heritage Park, Stafford said the walk was "a little emotional."

"You realize how fortunate you are to still be alive," Stafford said. "Not everybody is that lucky."

Growing yearly

Bark For Life adds a twist to the American Cancer Society's traditional Relay For Life, serving as a fundraising activity to honor the care-giving qualities of canine companions while supporting the mission of the American Cancer Society.

The first Bark for Life, in 2011, raised some $5,500, but that total jumped to $18,000 the last two years. Event chair Janet Stafford - Wayne's daughter - said figures for this year's event weren't yet available, but organizers hoped to eclipse the $18,000 the event raised last year (the drive actually lasts through Dec. 31).

The presence of the dogs - "And this year we have some kitties who wanted to help," Stafford said - underscores the important role pets play in the care of cancer patients.

"Our canine companions are family members who are there when you need them," she said. "They never have to be told, 'Hey, can you do this?' They're just there. My dogs would sit at my dad's feet or on his lap and they're just there when you're not feeling well."

Giving hope

Chloe Desselles of Canton, the reigning Miss Teen Michigan United States, heard about Bark for Life while walking the Relay for Life earlier this year. Her grandparents are cancer survivors, so she figured the Bark for Life would be a good cause.

"I figured I have a dog, why not go for this?" said Chloe, who raised $115. "Coming and supporting people, giving people hope, motivates people."

Plymouth resident Diane Pike manned the hot dog booth for Wagging for Wayne, where proceeds were going to be split evenly between Bark for Life and Relay for Life.

She said she was involved for the fourth year because she believes in the American Cancer Society's mission - "It's a great organization," she said - and simply wants to help.

"I'd do anything to help other people not have to go through cancer," Pike said. "If they find a cure, that'd be great."

No tickets or passes are necessary and diners can participate as frequently as they wish over the nine-day period. Recognized for its vibrant downtown, Plymouth has a well-earned culinary reputation and this event will spotlight some of the city's finest dining establishments. With a wide variety of participating restaurants – all within walking distance of one another – Plymouth Restaurant Week offers standout dishes at a great value for every palate.

"With our fantastic restaurants being one of the best draws to our community, it's great to see some of our downtown restaurants teaming up to showcase the quality of their fare," said Wes Graff, president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

How to reverse a Roth IRA conversion

I recently met with a new client who last year converted stock from a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA. Since he completed the conversion, the stock has fallen more than 50 percent in value. The client has somewhat of an attachment to the stock and still wants to hold on to it. My advice is that since the stock had fallen, it would make sense to reverse the Roth conversion.

He was surprised that this was possible, considering that the conversion was done in 2013. I informed him that not all tax laws work against taxpayers and a reversal was something that I would recommend.

Most people are unaware that a Roth IRA conversion can be reversed. The rules allow it up through the time your tax return would be due, including any extensions. Therefore, since 2013 tax returns with extensions are due Oct. 15, 2014, there is still time to reverse a Roth IRA conversion that was done last year by filing an amended return.

The procedure is known as re-characterization. You can re-characterize the entire Roth conversion or a portion of it. The key is that the transaction must be completed by Oct. 15.

Rick Bloom
MONEY MATTERS

There are two reasons to consider re-characterizing a Roth conversion. The first is like the situation at hand, where the investment converted has significantly dropped in value. The other is if your tax bracket has unexpectedly changed.

For example, if when you converted the IRA you were in a 28-percent tax bracket and because of changing situations today you're in a 15-percent bracket, it may make sense to reverse the conversion. Why pay taxes at the higher rate?

There is one other item that also benefits taxpayers. Just because you reverse the Roth conversion doesn't mean that you're barred from doing the conversion again. As long as you wait 30 days, you can redo the conversion.

In my client's situation, I had recommended that after he re-characterized the Roth conversion, he wait 30 days and then redo it. The bottom line benefit is that he was still able to eventually convert the stock into a Roth IRA. However, he would only have to pay half the tax.

Anyone who reads my column regularly knows that I am a fan of Roth IRAs. The benefit of having money grow tax-free versus tax-deferred is significant.

I'm also a believer that on a year-by-year basis, people ought to look at Roth conversions. However, as is typical in life, not everything always works according to plan. That is why re-characterization is something to consider.

There's not much time left this year. So if you did a Roth conversion last year, take a few minutes to review it. If your investment in the Roth has dropped or you're in a much lower bracket, then it makes sense to consider re-characterizing your IRA.

Good luck.

Slavens gets nod in 7th Senate race

Voters in the Michigan state Senate 7th District have rarely had a choice as clear as the one they face in the Nov. 4 general election.

Incumbent Republican state Sen. Patrick Colbeck of Canton, conservative enough to be a Tea Party darling, faces liberal Canton Democrat Dian Slavens.

We believe voters in the district – which serves Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville Township, Canton, Wayne and Livonia – should choose Slavens.

The district, which used to be a Republican stronghold, now leans more to the middle than it has in the past. That's why Democrats like Dr. Syed Taj and Steven Sneideman can get elected to the Canton Township board; Sneideman, in fact, was the board's highest vote-getter two years ago.

The term-limited Slavens has been an effective state representative. In her first term, she piloted legislation that provided incentives for battery-makers to make Michigan their business home. Republicans essentially co-opted her effort to end life-time health benefits for legislators, but the measure passed nonetheless.

She may have had her best – and strongest – moment at the beginning of the current term when, against leadership and even party recommendation, she refused to support state Rep. Jase Bolger as Speaker of the House after he was implicated in a vote-rigging scandal before the 2012 election. It was a stance she knew – because leadership told her outright – would cost her politically, but she took it anyway.

Slavens is a strong supporter of public education and would support changes to the formula for financing public schools. While charter schools and cyber schools currently get the same foundation allowance as public schools, Slavens believes that because they don't have costs such as transportation, they shouldn't get the same allowance.

Colbeck, on the other hand, firmly believes that the cap should be eliminated to allow more charter schools to pop up and provide competition to local public schools.

While Colbeck eschews anything that looks like a tax to fix roads, Slavens would look at things such as higher user fees for larger trucks and tweaking the user fee schedule. And while Colbeck refused to vote to make the Medicaid expansion effectively immediately, Slavens supported the move.

Colbeck is a stand-up guy who believes in what he's doing, makes his choices and backs them up with data he believes explains them. He explains his votes (explanations can be found on his Facebook page) and stands by what he says.

But we believe Slavens comes closer to representing the district than does Colbeck. Dian Slavens gets our nod for the state Senate 7th District.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Assaults on women

Sen. Patrick Colbeck and his committee spearheaded legislation to provide $4.9 million for testing rape kits. Rape kits consist of DNA evidence collected from women who were raped/sexually assaulted.

The testing of rape kits frequently is the key piece of evidence required to convict these vicious criminals. Approximately 11,000 kits were found in a Detroit police warehouse in 2009, some going back to the 1970s, potentially preventing the prosecution of criminals who committed these crimes.

Overwhelmingly, this involved African-American women from the city of Detroit. Approximately 2,000 rape kits were tested internally, with $4 million going toward the outsourcing of 7,300 kits in 2013. This was a major effort to bring justice to minority women who were savagely attacked, many murdered.

Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy has been fighting a one-person battle with Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano to provide the necessary funding for this effort. Her department has not just been underfunded, but understaffed as well, since the city of Detroit and Wayne County have experienced severe budgetary problems.

Funding the testing of these rape kits and staffing the Wayne County Prosecutor's office has not been the highest priority for Ficano. As everyone knows, Detroit is in bankruptcy with Wayne County not far behind. The priority of Detroit and the county has been to pay off debt at the expense of solving crime and bringing criminals to justice. The consequences of these rape kits not being processed on a timely bases allowed serial rapists to be out in public, free to attack additional women.

In addition, Sen. Colbeck and his committee were involved in providing funding for the hiring and training of 250 new state police officers, who are on the job to provide crime fighting resources, accident prevention and investigation and to ensure trucks traveling on our roads and highways are properly maintained and operate within load limits. His efforts include, providing funding to hire and train additional state police officers, to be available in the near future.

The safety of Michigan's citizens is the highest priority for Sen. Colbeck, whether it is crime-related, in investigating or in preventing accidents, with his legislative successes reflected in these results.

Paving Lotz

The paving of Lotz Road to ease traffic is a wonderful idea and one that we've been awaiting for a very long time.

Unfortunately, it seems that, according to the article in Thursday's Observer, one of the reasons it is finally going to happen is because of the proposed 100-store outlet mall. I'm sure I'm not alone in saying that adding this development in this location is a terrible idea at this time.

All of the other proposed improvements to the Ford Road corridor between Lotz and Haggerty need to be completed prior to building this mall. Anybody who has been on Ford Road at I-275 on a Saturday afternoon is well aware of the congestion in this area. Merely paving Lotz Road is not going to solve that problem.

No one is even sure if the extension of the exit ramps and the creation of a boulevard will improve traffic conditions. Some township officials have even said that the boulevard idea was a good one 20 years ago, but it won't work now.

My question to our officials is this: Will all the work be completed on Ford Road before the outlet mall is allowed to build? I think I already know that answer.

For years you've said you are committed to correcting the dangerous traffic conditions on Ford Road. So now is your chance to prove it. Let's not help to add one more vehicle until all improvements are complete. Do this for the safety sake of our community.

showed a ghastly looking chap in agony and I thought it was from one of those Halloween costume shops.

But it turned out to be some type of slam against Democrat Kristy Pagan, who is running for our 21st District House seat. I can't comment further because whoever wrote that card was apparently writing in tongues.

The second flier touted Carol Fausone, who is running against Kristy Pagan. It appears that Fausone is the female version of Patrick Colbeck, Kurt Heise and Dave Trott. She brags that she is in favor of the right-wing policies enacted over the past four years.

Evidently, she is hoping her time in the National Guard will sway some voters her way. Well, let's put that to rest, because it has nothing to do with the issues at hand. So, I thank her for her service; now she can thank me for mine (four years active, four years reserve) and we can both thank all our fellow veterans. Case closed.

In my opinion, Fausone is just as far to the right of the political spectrum as any Tea Party extremist in Lansing or Washington, D.C.

Oh, in regard to the English major scholar who complained about the prose used by myself and two other writers (Observer, Sept. 18), I question whether the scolding was about the wording or the fact all three managed to throw barbs at Patrick Colbeck or the "new" Republican Party.

Truth is always an issue in election years

The election season is always pretty interesting. Maybe it's just me, but it sure seems like we hear a lot more from our elected officials during elections than we do during off-years. Of course, that makes sense because they are pretty eager to prove to us what a great job they've been doing for us since the last election.

Incumbent officeholders usually paint a pretty rosy picture and tell us the future is bright, while their opponents try to show us how the sky is falling. I suppose it is the nature of the beast that is our political system. You kind of have to take things with a grain of salt during elections.

That was the case last week, when state Rep. Kurt Heise, a Plymouth Township Republican who also represents the Northville community, put something out on his Facebook feed applauding a decision by the Michigan Strategic Fund and Michigan Economic Development Corp. that allowed Northville Township to capture more than $23 million in taxes "to convert the former state hospital campus at Seven Mile and Haggerty into a public green space and trail system."

Heise continued: "The project is leveraging the private development of the commercial and retail space going in at the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty Roads which is expected to generate a total capital investment of $130 million and create 100 full-time jobs."

Well, Heise's post led to a series of calls to Northville Township Supervisor Bob Nix. Some people took the post to mean the state was going to shower $23 million onto the township so it could finally tear down a major eyesore in the community and implement the recreation plan the township has for the property. This would have been welcome news, indeed.

However, the truth is little murkier, as Nix pointed out at last week's township Board of Trustees meeting.

Nix, who had traveled to Lansing to attend the Michigan Strategic Fund meeting that Heise was referencing, wanted to make it perfectly clear that the township is no closer now to clearing the Seven Mile property of the old state psychiatric hospital than it was before the meeting. Really, all that happened is the state approved the brownfield plan that the township put in place a year ago. Things move a little slower in Lansing, unless they are trying to ram through lame-duck legislation like right-to-work.

In addition, Nix explained the $23.4 million number Heise quoted is really about $17 million – the rest will be interest paid on the project.

And, in fact, when you factor in that Schostak, which is the developer of the commercial Northville Park Place project from which the tax capture will come, will get 50 percent of the tax capture, the township is actually only going to get about $12 million over the 30-year brownfield plan. And that's only if the commercial property is fully developed, which it is not at this point. There's still another 40 acres on the property that is undeveloped with no plan in place, even though the clock is ticking on the tax capture.

The frustrated Nix also pointed out that the money the township is ultimately able to capture from the brownfield plan most likely won't even be enough to demolish all the buildings that are left on the old hospital property, let alone begin to implement the recreation plan.

"At this point, we will begin collecting taxes next year and then figure out how we are going to pay the cost of this project," Nix said. "We're going to have quite a challenge to capture this money. We may be forced to do this project in incremental bites. The only way we could get this money now would be to go out for bonds. I don't think we're in any financial position to do that."

So, as you can see, the situation is not quite as rosy as Heise portrayed it. But, hey, it sounded pretty good – and there is an election around the corner.

PLYMOUTH WHALERS 2014-15 PREVIEW

NEW WAVE

Back on defense for the Plymouth Whalers for 2014-15 is Alex Peters, a Dallas Stars prospect.

Plymouth Whalers eye successful start to post-Vellucci era

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

What stands to be a very important season on and off the ice for the Plymouth Whalers is set to open this weekend.

The 25th season for the Peter Karmanos-owned Ontario Hockey League franchise will be a lot different than any other, simply because Farmington native Mike Vellucci is gone.

Vellucci, the longtime president/general manager and head coach of the team, left after last season to join the brain trust of the National Hockey League's Carolina Hurricanes (also owned by Karmanos, by the way). Vellucci presided over a team that made the OHL playoffs 23 consecutive seasons.

Will there be a 26th season in metro Detroit when 2015-16 rolls around? That remains in question because last spring Karmanos did not dismiss rumors the team might be on the move if attendance at Compuware Arena does not pick up substantially from last year's estimated 2,500 per contest.

The first chance for local fans to back the Whalers is at 7 p.m. Saturday against the Erie Otters. Plymouth begins the 2014-15 season on the road, Friday at London.

"I'm definitely looking forward to the opener," said forward Danny Vanderwiell, entering his fourth season with the Whalers. "People should definitely come out, give us a look.

Help us get our attendance up. "Whalers games are a lot of fun.

It's good hockey, it's good-paced hockey, just a bunch of kids trying to battle to make their dreams come true."

Sonny days ahead

There is more of a buzz around the Beck Road arena this fall, perhaps because of the now-delayed arrival of forward Sonny Milano, who is out for an undetermined period following facial fractures suffered at the recent NHL prospects camp in Traverse City.

Whenever Milano — who spurned the NCAA Division I program at Boston College for the OHL — does make it back Highly touted Sonny Milano is recovering from injuries as the Plymouth Whalers season opens. But he is still expected to make a major impact after he is healthy.

GIRLS SWIMMING

Salem depth sinks Chiefs

Versatile Rocks cruise to big victory

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The early season is good for experimentation and moving swimmers around the lineup, as long as the athletes are talented and versatile enough.

That indeed is the case for Salem's varsity girls swimming and diving team, which Tuesday night parlayed a lot of mixing and matching and superior depth to a 125-60 victory over campus rival Canton.

"Our team has so much depth," said Hannah Tardiff, one of Salem's standout senior captains. "All our relays are able to score points whether it's the 'A' relay, the 'B' relay or the 'C' relay.

"And then in our individual events, we're really strong, too. We always have one swimmer that's really strong in each event."

And for Salem head coach Chuck Olson, there is no better time than the first weeks of a season to switch things up and see who might be able to do what when crunch time arrives for his team (now 3-0 overall).

For example, Tardiff swam the 50 and 100 freestyle events Tuesday instead of her usual 100 butterfly. She scored points in both events, finishing fourth and fifth, respectively.

There were others who gave Olson food for thought.

"Lisa Zhang had a real nice swim in the 100 back (first, 59.35). That's the first time she's gotten to swim the backstroke in probably three years and she hit a state cut time," Olson said. "And Linda (Zhang) had a state cut time in the 100 butterfly (first, 59.04), which is where Lisa's usually at. They kind of switched

Blend of experience, talent sparks Chiefs

Canton second only to Plymouth in South Division

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Despite a near-miss for the KLAA South Division title, the Canton Chiefs still are enjoying a rewarding boys tennis season.

Canton had been undefeated in the division until the Sept. 16 showdown against the Wildcats. Thanks to Plymouth's 7-2 victory, that curtailed the Chiefs' title hopes.

Going into Tuesday's KLAA crossover matches, the Chiefs had a 4-1 record in the division, while Plymouth is 5-0 (and 8-0 overall).

It's the same scenario as 2013, when Plymouth and Canton took the top two spots in the KLAA South.

According to Chiefs head coach Barb Lehrmann, the talented core of returning sin-

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY

Salem's Jeffress stepping into elite category

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

With every weekend and every invitational, Salem junior Chaz Jeffress continues to state his case for being one of the area's elite runners.

Jeffress continued that trend at Saturday's Jackson Invitational, where he ran 15:54 to finish fourth overall.

His effort lifted Salem's varsity boys cross country team to a 10th-place finish out of 24 schools.

"Chaz has established himself as one of the top runners in the state with his performances over the last two weekends," Rocks head coach Steve Aspinall said. "(Saturday) he finished behind only three runners with extremely deep accolades and did not go down without a major fight.

"In fact, he led the race through the halfway point on his way to setting a new personal best (and fifth fastest time in Salem history)."

Jeffress literally gave defending national high school cross country champion Grant Fisher of Grand Blanc a run for his money at Jackson. For a portion of the race, Jeffress led Fisher, who went on to win the race in 15:22.

"I look forward to continued improvement from Chaz and I am excited to see what he can accomplish the rest of this fall," Aspinall said.

Steelers knocking on door of 'Big House'

Plymouth-Canton gridiron teams set to roam stadium where Brady, Howard and other stars excelled

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

Players for the Plymouth-Canton Steelers youth football organization are just over a week away from seizing an opportunity to perform on the same hallowed patch of real estate where Tom Brady once carved up secondaries, Desmond Howard executed his famed Heisman Trophy pose and Anthony Carter electrified crowds that were larger (and louder) than most cities.

On Saturday, Oct. 4, the Steelers' four football teams and their cheerleaders will "host" the Lakes Area Hawks at the University of Michigan's famed "Big House." The Steelers' junior-freshman team will kick off the day-long proceedings at 10 a.m., followed by the freshman game at noon, the junior varsity contest at 2 p.m. and the varsity showdown at 4 p.m.

Steelers unit director Harry Walkley said the chance to play in arguably the most famous college football stadium in the United States was too good to pass up.

"We heard through the grapevine that an Ann Arbor youth football team hosted a game at the University of Michigan last year, so we contacted them to see what their experience was like," Walkley said. "Our initial concern, obviously, was the cost. But when we found out it would cost roughly half of what we paid to have our freshman team play for six minutes during a Detroit Lions halftime last season, our board decided to go for it."

U-M permits the participating organizations to sell individual tickets to the game for a maximum of $20, but Walkley said the Steelers board of directors opted to set the price at $10.

"We thought $20 was too high; we didn't want a family of five to have to pay $100," Walkley said. "We think $10 is fair and we should draw more fans than if it was twice that much. There are a lot of people who have never seen a game at the 'Big House,' so this will be a great opportunity for them."

Walkley said the Steelers organization delivered 100 tickets to each of the three P-CEP high schools. Families of players and cheerleaders will also be allowed to purchase tickets in advance of the games.

Members of the public can purchase tickets at the gate the day of the games.

The junior freshman players will warm up on the stadium's field prior to their game. The other three teams will get the unique opportunity to get loose in the Wolverines' indoor practice facility, which the Steelers rented for the day.

The gates to the stadium will open at 9 a.m.

Varsity improves to 3-0

Powered by a strong rushing performance Saturday from Carson Miller and Ian Gozdor, the varsity Steelers upended visiting West Bloomfield, 49-6, at Central Middle School. Gozdor's career day included three TDs, while Miller bulled into the end zone twice for the winners.

The Steelers also scored on a 65-yard punt return by Ben Wright and a 5-yard run by Conner Meadows. Liam Radomski, James Hansen, Miller, Jackson King and Gage Wheatley paved the way for the Steelers' big ground game.

Spearheading the defense were Jack Yates, Seth Troszak, Jason Perko and Ben Bennett (interception).

JV rolls

The junior varsity Steelers improved to 2-1 with a come-from-behind 30-7 victory over the Lions.

Trailing 7-0, the Steelers took the lead for good in the final minute of the first half when quarterback Mason Hackney connected with Logan Walkley for a 47-yard TD pass that was made possible by a key block from Cian McGill. Cooper Donlin's two-point conversion kick made it 8-7.

Walkley scored two more times in the second half on a 40-yard pass from Hackney and on a sweep. Hackney capped the scoring with a six-pointer on a keeper. Nate Janke, Sean Mullin, Cenzie DeFelice, Aidan Tafelski, Josh Martin and Justin Tafalski all blocked well for the winners.

Defensively, Tyler Overaitis, Zack Kubacki, Zack Sweet, Drew Poet, Calvin Vos, Jonathan Simpson and Nate Cain all excelled.

Freshman team still perfect

The freshman Steelers ran their record to 3-0 by blanking the Lions, 27-0. Brayden Willis led the offense with two touchdowns and several drive-sustaining runs. Also shining for the offense were Luke Janack and Andrew Iaquaniello, both of whom scored a TD. Iaquaniello also hooked up with Brady Blakita on a point-after conversion pass. Charlie Tams also booted a two-point conversion kick.

Setting the tone on the offensive line were Trevor Moulton, John Delaney, Andrew McGuire, Connor Hands, Dante Favor, Brenden Church and Acelino Villarini.

Defensively, Adam Nicholas, Barrett Barker, Baechler Houser and Iaquaniello (interception) were standouts for the triumphant hosts.

Junior-freshman team shines

The Steelers junior-freshman contingent delivered its finest defensive performance of the season as it forced four turnovers: fumble recoveries by Preston Houser, Lee Krueger, Marco Tate and Rick Williams. Other key contributors on defense were Nick Gozдор, Nathan Sadowski and Danilo Guberinich.

Marco Tate made a touchdown-saving tackle in the second half.

Warriors run to daylight, 40-26

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

It's kind of fitting that Lutheran Westland football coach Paul Gusé hasn't quite figured out a nickname yet for his pair of yards-devouring senior running backs, because the Warriors' opponents haven't quite figured out a way to stop them.

The Warriors improved to 3-1 overall and 2-0 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference when they battered visiting Oakland Christian with a 509-yard rushing attack Saturday.

It was the winners' third consecutive victory heading into Friday night's 7 p.m. homecoming game against Lutheran Northwest. Portable lights will be set up.

Doing the bulk of the damage were Austin Olson (23 carries for 264 yards and two touchdowns) and Jacob Davenport (218 yards and four scores on 28 hauls).

"We're thinking about maybe calling them peanut butter and jelly or salt and pepper; we haven't decided yet," said Gusé,

ED WRIGHT

Lutheran Westland back Jacob Davenport gained 214 yards and scored four TDs in Saturday's win over Oakland Christian.

whose team was never threatened by the Lancers after cruising to a 28-0 third-quarter lead. "Both Austin and Jacob run hard and they make a lot of people miss. We'll go as far this season as those two carry us."

The tone of Saturday's contest was established early and often by the Warriors, who vaulted to a 7-0 lead on their first drive when Davenport plunged in from the 1 to cap a 57-yard drive. Olson set up the score with a 24-yard run a few plays earlier; he also booted the first of his four extra points. The hosts doubled their lead to 14-0 with 2:28 left in the first quarter, when Davenport closed out an 11-play possession with a 10-yard TD run.

LW took a 21-0 lead into the intermission when - guess who? - Davenport raced 65 yards to the end zone.

"At halftime, I told the boys to keep grinding and doing what we did in the first half," Gusé said. "I knew (Oakland Christian) would come out and throw everything they had at us - trick plays and all - and sure enough, that's what they did."

Davenport extended his team's lead to 28-0 early in the third quarter with a 1-yard TD run, but the Lancers answered minutes later with a touchdown off a halfback pass to make it 28-6.

After the Warriors went three-and-out on their next possession, it appeared the momentum was shifting slightly in favor of Oakland Christian - that is until LW defensive back Caleb Richter picked off a pass and returned it 33 yards to the Lancers' 35.

Olson made the Lancers pay for the pick when he scored on a 41-yard run to up the Warriors' lead to 34-6.

LW closed its scoring with a 44-yard Olson TD run with 7:50 left.

WHALERS

to Plymouth, fans could be watching the team's most electrifying performer since Tyler Seguin starred for two seasons.

"We're just going to play with they guys we have," first-year head coach Don Elland said. "There's no contingency plan as far as bringing someone in. We'll do what we can until (Milano) gets back in the lineup. Just like if someone went away to camp."

The longtime youth hockey coach at Compuware was part of Vellucci's coaching staff the past five seasons, so there promises to be a seamless transition from the Vellucci era. The coaching staff also includes popular former Whalers player John Vigilante.

Taking over as the general manager is Mark Craig, also no stranger to youth hockey in the area. Vellucci, in addition to his duties with the Hurricanes, will remain involved as the Whalers' governor for OHL matters.

"I'm excited, it's been great," Elland said when asked about picking up where Vellucci left off.

"Learning a lot from Mike, the transition's been smooth. Obviously, I'm anxious to get the season started, anxious to get everybody back from camp and see what we have."

And therein lies the rub as the Whalers try to get off to a good start in the OHL West Division standings.

Because a number of players are prospects for NHL teams, they either remain in big league camps or are returning to Compuware Arena just a couple of days ahead of the official start of the season.

Helping Ned

Standout goaltender Alex Nedeljkovic, who has been in the Carolina camp, may or may not be ready for the opening games. If he isn't, backup Zack Bowman will play.

Nedeljkovic was instrumental to the Whalers' qualifying for the playoffs last season, often seeing 50-plus shots per game and earning OHL Goalie of the Year honors for his efforts. He made 2,042 saves and posted a .925 save percentage, helping Plymouth to a 28-33-0-7 record.

"Everyone says it's easy because you have the best goalie in the league coming back and we do," Elland said. "We're going to rely on him. But we should have better expectations than just, 'Hey, we have the best goalie in the league, so let's just rely on him.'"

"Hopefully he has a great year, both for him and for us. But hopefully, we're not relying on him like we did last year, 50-60 shots a night. If we're doing that, than we're doing something wrong."

Other top Plymouth players such as forwards Matt Mistele (Los Angeles), Connor Chatham (New Jersey), Victor Crus Rydberg (N.Y. Islanders) and defenseman Josh Wesley (Carolina) might have their debuts with the Whalers delayed.

Another defenseman, Alex Peters, did return from the Dallas Stars prospect camp and will be ready Friday to face the

RENA LAVERTY | PLYMOUTH WHALERS
One of the players who could pile up a lot of points for the Plymouth Whalers is forward Matt Mistele.

Knights

Peters is one of the leaders who will look to help young defensemen such as Tyler Sensky (who hails from Canton).

"I have a lot of confidence in our team," Peters said late last week. "I think we could do a lot of good things this year."

"Once we get everybody back (from NHL camps) and start working more in systems, I think we have an opportunity to make a run for the playoffs for sure and see how far we go."

Peters, fully healthy after an injury-plagued 2013-14, embraces the opportunity to lead.

"I'm an older guy now. We have a lot of new guys to the league and on our team, so I'm just trying to help out as much as I can, in any way I can, just by giving a couple tips around the (locker) room."

"I think we're going to be a lot more aggressive this year. We're going to be hard on the teams and not give them any space."

Breaking it down

The Whalers look to be tough at the offensive end of the rink, too.

Elland is confident that Milano won't need long to make up for any lost time and that veterans who had somewhat down seasons in 2013-14 will bounce back.

"I think (Mistele) is going to have a huge year," Elland said, reminding that Mistele was a 35-goal scorer two seasons ago. "I think he's been great in camp. I'd go so far as to say Misty's been our best player. Every game that he's dressed in training camp he's been the best player on the ice."

"Victor's going to have a great year. (Chatham) should have a bigger role offensively than he had last year and put up more points. Those three guys we're going to rely on until Sonny gets back."

Mistele netted 18 goals and 19 assists last season, while Crus Rydberg (12 goals, 26 assists) and Chatham (13 goals, 18 assists) all had their moments.

Also back is elusive center Francesco Vilardo, who showed plenty of promise with 13 goals and 25 assists last year.

Two newcomers also have the chance to keep game statisticians busy, namely center Mathew Campagna (acquired from Sudbury in an August trade) and promising rookie forward Will Bitten.

"He's a great point guy, but more importantly, he's a kid that we can use on the power play, killing penalties, five-on-five late in a game whether we're up a goal or down a goal," Elland said about Campagna. "He's got tremendous experience; he's a good two-way player."

As for Bitten, the coach said the youngster will be heard from, hopefully sooner rather than later.

"I see him making an impact. I don't know if it's right away," Elland said. "I don't care how good you are, in this league there's very few guys that come in and there's not an adjustment period."

"Although Will's been great in training camp, once the regular starts, it's even more intense. There's going to be an adjustment period for him, but there's no doubt he's going to be a really, really good player."

Opportunity

Several others have the opportunity to play a much bigger role, namely blue-collar forward Vanderwiel, left wing Liam Dunda and center Cullen Mercer.

"Danny is a great skater, he's great on the forecheck," Elland said. "He really gets in and really pressures their D, he helps us kills penalties, he's a great two-way player."

"He can be physical when he needs to be. He's just got to keep doing what he's doing and understand that, even though he doesn't put up a ton of points, he is still very valuable."

Also in the mix will be Bryce Yetman, Connor Sils, Brook Hiddink, Vincent Scognamiglio and Nicholas Caamano.

Along with Peters and Wesley, the Whalers' defense will include veterans Gianluca Curcuruto (who possesses a wicked point shot), Mitch Jones (Rochester), Mathieu Henderson, Yannick Rathgeb and younger players Sensky and Alex DiCarlo.

"(Curcuruto is) always going to be a factor on the power play because of his shot and because he skates so well," Elland said. "That's a 20-year-old in our league, he should be dominant every night. Every night he should make a difference. He knows what an important year this is."

PREP ROUNDUP

Strong offensive output not enough for Salem gridders

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The 2014 football season is not unfolding the way the Salem Rocks wanted to.

Salem remains without a victory so far this year, after falling 30-22 to Novi at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

The Rocks are now 0-4 overall and 0-2 in the KLAA Central Division, entering Friday's homecoming game against Northville (7 p.m. at the P-CEP varsity turf field).

Northville is 3-1, 1-1 going into Friday's action.

In the loss to Novi (1-3, 1-1), Salem junior quarterback Alex Nicholson got the Rocks off to a good start with a 1-yard touchdown run midway through the first quarter.

Following a Novi TD, the Rocks answered when Johnny Perko bulled his way into the end zone from the 1-yard line, with 7:54 left in the first half.

That 12-7 edge didn't last long, as Emanuel Jackson scored the first of his three touchdowns. He raced in from 26 yards to put the Wildcats in front 14-12 late in the second quarter.

The see-saw battle continued, however, with John Kwiecinski nailing a 31-yard field goal just 13 seconds later to put the Rocks up 15-14 at halftime.

Unfortunately for Salem, the visitors responded after intermission with 15 unanswered points to put the contest away.

Jackson (228 all-purpose yards) did most of the damage, reeling in a 50-yard scoring pass from quarterback Alec Bageris and then running it in from the 8-yard line.

The Rocks made the final score more respectable when Nicholson completed an 81-yard TD pass to Jacob Miller late in the final quarter.

It was a tough defeat for the Salem, largely because the Rocks outgained Novi 421-274, with Nicholson completing 13-of-27 passes for 242 yards.

BOYS SOCCER: Plymouth tallied a 2-0 victory Sept. 18 over KLAA South Division rival Livonia Churchill.

Scoring for the Wildcats were Nick Freda and Nathan Harris.

GIRLS GOLF: Plymouth registered a 335 to tie with Detroit Country Day at Saturday's M&M Girls Golf Tournament, but lost on the fifth player score.

Leading the Wildcats was senior Sydney Murphy, individual medalist with a 74. It was her fourth first-place finish this season.

Katie Chipman tallied an 80, while Alaina Strzalka chipped in with an 84.

Salem and Canton also participated.

The Rocks (376 overall) were led by Darby Scott (90), Keista Elder (92), Kiley Flynn (94) and Hope Warkoczeski (95).

Canton registered 435 overall, with the top performers being Alyce Krumm and Meghan Meredith (99 each).

places.

"The captains (Tardiff, Stephanie Solterman, McKenzie Maurice) did a nice job tonight. It's a whole team effort. ... And they all went different events tonight. Maurice is usually a backstroker, sprinter, freestyler and she swam the 500 free tonight."

Maurice did the job, too, finishing fourth with a time of 6:10.16 to help chalk up two more points for the Rocks.

Other Salem individual victories were turned in by Lisa Zhang (200 IM, 2:13.20), Jenna Chen (50 free, 26.36), Camille Burt (1-meter diving, 183.83 points) and Katie Xu (100 free, 56.82; 100 breaststroke, 1:12.51).

Salem also took all three relays. The quartet of Xu, Linda Zhang, Lisa Zhang and Solterman finished first in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:52.90.

In the 200 free relay, taking the top spot with a time of 1:45.44 were the Zhang twins along with Solterman and Molly Rowe. And in the 400 free relay, Linda Zhang, Chen, Rowe and Solterman won with a finish of 3:54.14.

Plenty to like

According to Canton head coach Ed Weber, the key is to not get caught up in the final score and instead look at positive trends. The Chiefs now are 1-1.

"Salem's really strong and they have been for years," Weber said. "They've got a great base. We're working on ours. We have good experience on our team and we're trying to build our team to put together a whole program.

"We're looking forward to the rest of the season, when we get into our division and we get toward some of the exciting meets in the future. This is always a good rivalry."

Weber added that there were plenty of things to be enthusiastic about Tuesday, despite the lopsided result.

"We had a lot of great swims," Weber said. "Sydney Darnall's been on fire the last couple meets and she had a great meet this particular time."

"Claire Green, she had a good 200 free (first, 2:02.86) and a particularly good 400 free relay. Emily Hagan in the 100 breaststroke, she dropped great time."

Hagan tallied a time of 1:13.54, second to Salem's Xu. Green also prevailed in the 500 free, with a time of 5:25.90.

"Emily Osika did a combo, the 200 free relay and the backstroke," Weber said. "That's always a tough combo to come up with and she held strong in that backstroke."

Osika's mark of 1:05.22 trailed Salem's Lisa Zhang (59.35) and Patricia Freitag (1:01.52).

Meanwhile, the Canton coach praised the effort turned in by senior Jocelyn Moraw in sprint freestyle events. Moraw finished second in the 200 free (2:11.82) with a personal best in that event and finally cracked the one-minute mark in the 100 free (58.81).

JEFFRESS

The Rocks had others who stepped up at the Jackson Invite, namely senior Noah Engerer, "who overcame a bit of an illness to run very well" and finish second among Salem runners, the coach noted.

Salem's third best showing was by senior Jason Rogers.

"Both of these guys (Engerer, Rogers) ran big season bests and will be looking to crack 17 minutes in the next couple of weeks," Aspinall said.

Rounding out Salem's scoring at the Jackson Invite were senior Nabil Ahmed, junior Jacob Kubinski, sophomore Alex Kroll and junior Griffin Skaff.

CANTON 16, JOHN GLENN 45: Canton swept the top four places Tuesday in this convincing KLAA South Division boys cross country triumph over Westland John Glenn.

Medalist with a time of 18:05 was Mike Roberts.

He was followed by Canton teammates Nick Sosha (second, 18:09), Shane Andrews (third, 18:11) and Zac Clark (fourth, 18:12).

Other Canton scorers were Zach Cannon (sixth, 18:54) and Xavier Reinders (16th, 20:30).

In fifth for the Rockets with a time of 18:46 was Austin Hickerson.

Salem finishes near top at two races

Rocks' two teams place in top five at Jackson and Linden invitationals

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Once again, Salem is building solid depth that could help the Rocks make some noise when state tournament time rolls around.

Salem's varsity girls 'A' cross country team placed fourth at the prestigious Jackson Invitational, held Saturday at Sharp Park.

The Rocks held their own against several top-rated Division 1 programs, finishing with 145 points.

Taking the top three spots were No. 1-ranked Birmingham Seaholm (33 points), Northville (102) and Ann Arbor Pioneer (116).

"This group competed extremely well today against some of the top teams in the state," Salem head coach Dave Gerlach said. "We are taking steps forward each week and working as a cohesive unit.

"Lauren (Arquette) ran the perfect race today and showed true strength and leadership. As this unit continues to improve, it will be exciting to see what they can accomplish."

Arquette finished eighth overall with a time of 19:02, earning a medal in the process.

Also capturing medals were Anya Cho (26th, 19:58) and Kayla Hughes (30th, 20:12).

Other Salem finishers were Madalyn Simko (38th, 20:30), Erin McCann (43rd, 20:40), Elizabeth Tripp (48th, 20:46) and Shekinah Johnson (55th, 20:54).

And for good measure, the 'B' team also excelled Saturday with a fifth-place finish at the Linden Invitational. Milford won the invite going away, with 37 points; Salem tallied 129.

"Our 'B' varsity got an opportunity to compete at a varsity level at Linden today and several athletes stepped up," Gerlach said. "Kayla Delacruz, Hannah Jeffress and Shea Wilson all made the most of this opportunity and competed at a high level."

Delacruz (21:31) and Jeffress (21:45) each earned a medal, finishing 22nd and 23rd, respectively. Wilson came in 26th with a mark of 21:58. They were followed by teammates Sierra Bowden (28th, 22:00), Kaya Knake (30th, 22:07), Karissa McCarthy (31st, 22:09), Katy Robeson (33rd, 22:16), Jessica Hughes (40th, 22:52), Kelly McEvilly (41st, 22:54) and Annie Dermody (56th, 23:27).

'Cats sixth at Monroe

Plymouth's varsity girls cross country team finished sixth at Saturday's Monroe Jefferson Invitational, tallying 143 points. Winning the race was Brighton, with Saline in second place.

The top runner for the Wildcats was sophomore medalist Annie Bonds (fifth place, 20:08).

Junior Emma Radke (34th, 22:05), senior Hailley Foster (35th, 22:11) and freshman Claire Curvin (36th, 22:12) were next to finish for Plymouth. Marianne DeBrito placed 43rd (22:39).

"The girls did pretty well considering they had a pretty tough week of workouts," Plymouth assistant coach Alice Ahearn said. "We have already started our push to have them ready for the regional meet."

"We did have some season best and personal best times throughout the JV team."

Ocelots' Contreras comes up clutch with pair of goals

After trailing 2-1 Saturday afternoon, Schoolcraft College's Victor Contreras came to the rescue.

Contreras scored two consecutive unassisted goals (in the 39th and 71st minutes) to lift the Ocelots to a 3-2 victory over host Lake Michigan College.

Also scoring for Schoolcraft (7-0-0 overall, 3-0-0 in the MCCA) was Livonia Stevenson alum Billy Werthman, another unassisted tally just 16:41 into the match.

Just five minutes later, however Michael Esare-Beckson found the range for Lake Michigan, putting the ball past Schoolcraft goalkeeper Colton Robison (Livonia Churchill).

Jose Perez then scored for Lake Michigan (1-7-1, 1-2-1) at 30:36.

But Contreras still had something to say about the final outcome.

WOMEN'S SOCCER: Also Saturday at Benton Harbor, Schoolcraft's women's team prevailed 4-1 over Lake Michigan.

Scoring for Schoolcraft (4-0-0, 3-0-0) were Hannah Hasbrouck, Cienna Rael-Whitsitt, Lexie Cano and Stephanie Newton.

Earning the win for SC was Kaitlyn Dangelmaier, who made three saves.

Also standing out for the Lady Ocelots were forward Jessica Parry and defender Cynthia Konan.

"Jessica propelled our team with high energy and hard work," Schoolcraft head coach Deepak Shivraman said. "Cienna's goal has to be one of the best scored in the nation, fantastic upper 90 laser type of shot."

"And despite fighting a bad cold, Cynthia was a wall, blocking shots and putting in all of her efforts to resist (Lake Michigan's) attacks."

CROSS COUNTRY: On Friday, the Ocelots cross country team traveled to Elyria, Ohio, to compete in the Commodore Invitational hosted by Lorain County Community College.

Leading the team for the second straight week was Liam Cardenas (Plymouth). His time of 31:09 for the 8K was 21 seconds ahead of teammate Caton Hacker (Plymouth) and 43 seconds ahead of Ethan Levack (PCA) who finished in 31:38 and 31:52, respectively.

For Cardenas, the time was the fastest ever for a Schoolcraft runner on the course. Meanwhile, both Hacker and Levack registered personal bests for the course.

Also competing were Brandon Sutton (38:48) and Ryan Stamper (44:18).

Also running unofficially from Schoolcraft was Scott Howse who finished in 33:27.

In the woman's 5K, Audrey Baetz finished ahead of all of the runners from Wayne County Community College and all but one from Lorain and Hiram with a time of 25:05.

Running for Concordia was former Schoolcraft All-American Adriana Beltran, who finished ninth overall in 21:00 and took home one of the special awards given to the top 10 finishers.

Williams' two goals spur MU win

Thanks to the scoring touch of Ryan Williams, chalk up another victory for the Madonna University men's soccer team.

The senior forward from Auburn Hills Avondale notched his sixth and seventh goals of the season Saturday as the host Crusaders improved to 5-2 overall by blanking Robert Morris (Ill.) in a non-conference match, 3-0.

Both of Williams' goals were unassisted, with his first coming in the 14th minute (on a free kick) followed by his second the 54th minute to give MU a 2-0 lead.

Sophomore Amadou Cisse (Willow Run) then put it away with his first goal of the season in the 74th minute off an assist from freshman Strahinja Ljubevic (Walled Lake Central).

It was MU's fifth shut-out of the season as starter goalkeeper Marcel Schmid (Stuttgart, Germany) went the first 74:27 before giving way to backup John Boudreau (Livonia Stevenson), who finished the final 15:33.

Julian Soto made five saves for Eagles (0-4).

Madonna returns to Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference action at 7 p.m. Saturday against host Indiana Tech in Fort Wayne.

George Zhou, who plays No. 3 singles for Canton, prepares to make a shot.

Against the Wildcats, the duo of Narayanan and Paton earned a 6-4, 7-6 victory over Plymouth's Matt McDonald and Alex Tsakoff.

Canton also prevailed at No. 4 doubles, with seniors Cannon and Saravanan taking care of business 6-3, 6-1.

Meanwhile Lehrmann noted that she is being helped by first-year assistant coach Bev Lardin, who also teaches the rackets gym class at Canton High School.

"We are lucky to have her expertise" on the team, Lehrmann said.

Red-hot Hawkins lifts MU spikers

It was a breakout performance Saturday for Madonna University outside hitter Amanda Hawkins.

The 6-foot freshman from Livonia Stevenson High finished with a team-high 31 kills on the day as the MU women's volleyball team captured both matches at home in the Can-Am Classic.

In the opener, Hawkins recorded a career-best 19 kills, including a .536 attack percentage, as the Crusaders downed the University of Windsor in four sets, 25-13, 25-20, 25-27, 26-24.

Hawkins also contributed three solo and three block-assists in the win.

Canada natives Hannah Poole and Katie Breault also chipped in with 12 and 10 kills, respectively, while Breanna Geile had 11 kills.

Setter Spencer Stokes collected 47 assist-to-kills, while Amanda Obyrcki's 10 digs paced the defense for MU.

Windsor (3-2) got 12 kills from Hannah Robson, along with 36 assists from Andrea Jones.

In the second match of the day, MU got 12 kills from Hawkins and nine from Samantha Geile in a 25-21, 25-15, 25-15 triumph over the University of Waterloo (Ontario).

Stokes chipped in with 36 assists, while Obyrcki finished with 11 digs for the nationally ranked Crusaders (No. 9 NAIA), who improved to 17-2 overall.

The first-place Crusaders return to Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference action with a pair of weekend home matches: 7 p.m. Friday vs. Michigan Tech and noon Saturday against Marygrove College.

Firefighters face big challenge in protecting disabled residents

According to the U.S. Census Bureau's American Community Survey, encompassing the years 2008 through 2012, 7 percent of the people at least 5 years of age living in the community had some type of ambulatory disability, defined as "having serious difficulty walking or climbing stairs." Such disability can delay or prevent an individual from escaping a fire.

The National Fire Protection Administration estimates that physical disability was identified as a contributing factor in an estimated average of 400, or 15 percent, of U.S. home fire deaths per year during years 2007 through 2011.

Providing adequate fire safety for individuals with physical disabilities can be challenging, particularly in cases of severe mobility limitations. Detection requirements consider the time a typical person needs to leave the building. If an individual cannot move out of danger, a working smoke alarm provides less benefit. In rare cases, particularly when an individual is already in poor health and in the immediate area of the fire origin, fatal injury may occur before a sprinkler operates.

In most cases, however, sprinklers reduce the intensity of the fire and the danger even when an individual cannot fully evacuate. In 2012, NFPA Journal writer Kenneth Tremblay described a Florida fire in which an operating sprinkler saved the life of a 50-year-old woman who used a wheelchair in a 13-story apartment building primarily for older adults. The woman's discarded cigarette ignited her sofa and spread to the adjacent paneling. A single sprinkler controlled the fire until firefighters could extinguish it completely. While the woman suffered severe burns, she did survive.

In this analysis, national estimates derived from the U.S. Fire Administration's National Fire Incident Reporting System (NFIRS) and NFPA's annual fire department experience survey are used to show the causes and circumstances of home fire deaths of victims when physical disability was a factor and highlight differences from overall home fire deaths. The NFIRS Complete Reference Guide notes that "physically disabled" includes temporary conditions, but it does not indicate if sensory disabilities should be included. Although the overall numbers may not capture disabilities that were not obvious, this information can help people with disabilities and those who work with or care for them to develop and communicate ways to better protect this community from fire.

Compared to all home fire victims, victims with physical disabilities were more likely to be female and at least 65 years of age. Fifty-one percent of these victims were female. Fifty-six percent of all home fire victims were male. When physical disability was a factor, three of every five (60 percent) victims were at least 65 years old compared to 30 percent of all home fire fatalities.

While home fire deaths in general are much more common between midnight and 6 a.m., time patterns were less pronounced when physical disability was a factor.

More than half (55 percent) of these deaths resulted from home fires with operating smoke alarms compared to only 40 percent of home fire deaths overall.

Boat, trailer parking can obstruct access

Q: We are board members of a marina condominium. Some of our boat owners are parking their boats and trailers on public roads abutting the community. Do you think we have any basis to stop them from doing so because it has, in our opinion, a detrimental effect on property values?

A: While the association would probably have no jurisdiction over members of the public, and cannot regulate owner resident behavior outside of the community if there is no nexus to the community, there is at least some precedent that it can regulate the behavior of owners and residents on property outside of the project if it has an impact presumably adverse on the association. A good example would be a situation where it is necessary to prohibit owners and residents from parking boats and trailers on public roads abutting the community if it obstructs access to the community. You are best advised because of this unique issue to retain an experienced community association attorney.

Q: Our condo unit previously had bedbugs. The previous owner was told to treat her unit since their older documents and state law were silent on the pest bedbug type issue. Now, I understand that bedbugs have appeared in the second unit, and I assume they crawled across the common elements. Who do you think should be responsible for taking care of the bedbugs in the individual units?

A: That is a tough question, because the cause of the bedbug may not have emanated from the common elements, but may have traversed the common elements to get into your unit or they may not have. It requires the review of your condominium documents and an out of the box analysis by a knowledgeable condo attorney. It may also be that the association may choose to pay for a general building inspection and then owners can deal with their own issues and the association can deal with bedbugs on the common elements, if any. Good luck.

SUDOKU

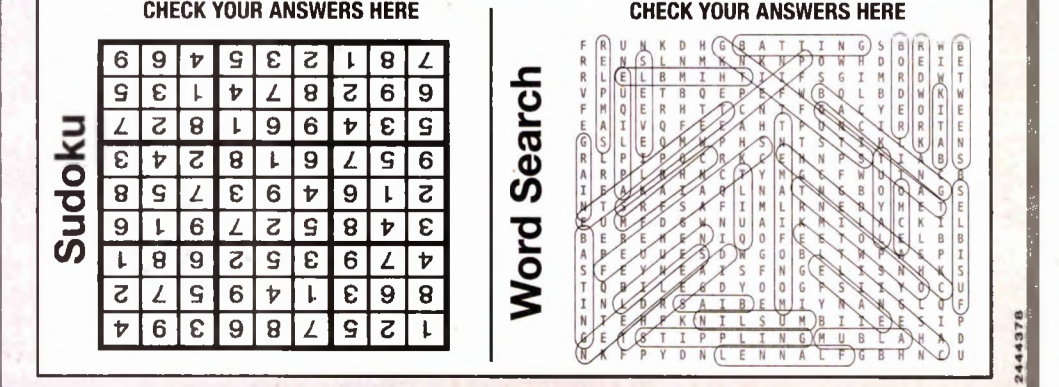

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Duo brings songs of hope, personal struggle to Plymouth church

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Listening to For King & Country's second album is a bit like reading a page from its diary.

"This album feels more personal," said Luke Smallbone, 27, who makes up half of the Christian music duo with his brother, Joel, 30. "I realize with music that something very powerful happens when you mesh personal lyrics with powerful melodies. There is a spiritual component to that."

"We're all living with highs and lows and you write about those things."

Highs for the brothers, who will perform this weekend in Plymouth Township, include professional and personal achievements, such as For King & Country's win as New Artist of the Year at the 2013 GMA Dove Awards, Joel's marriage, the birth of Luke's first child. Luke's bout with a life-threatening illness was among the challenges. The song Shoulders on the new album, Run Wild. Live Free. Love Strong., was inspired by his illness and conveys a sense of calm and deep faith, recognizing that God is "right here, pulling me through my weakness, my sickness, my brokenness."

"In the last few years there have been incredible moments when I've cried out to God, saying I don't know what's going on in my life, but you have a purpose for me," said Luke, adding that he finds the silver lining in hopelessness.

On tour

For King & Country will perform favorites from their first album, 2012's Crave, and songs from their new album, which was released last week, when their "You Matter - The Tour" visits NorthRidge Church in Plymouth Township. The concert is at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 28, at the church, 49555 N. Territorial Road.

For King & Country rocks out with songs that encourage listeners to feel hopeful. The Christian music duo is Joel Smallbone (left) and his brother, Luke.

Admission is $10.

The duo, which performs with a five-member band, plans a full night of music with no opening act.

"We try to be the best we can, innovative, trying to do things differently," said Luke, during a recent phone interview from Nashville, Tenn., where the duo lives. "We've gone out with other bands and sampled all over America. Our fans would say we want a night with you guys, where we can hear you play. That got us thinking, what if we just did a tour ourselves?"

Achievements

In the eight years since For King & Country was formed, the duo has been named one of Billboard's 17 acts to watch, performed on the Tonight Show with Jay Leno, and was named Breakthrough Artist of the Year at the first annual K-LOVE Fan Awards. Their spiritual and musical foundations

"A lot of people will ask 'how did you learn to be in a band?' My response is I was around it my whole life," Luke said. "I grew up playing drums and fiddle and my brother Joel plays piano. We're not master musicians, yet we write all of our own songs. It forces me to be more creative with my thoughts and ideas."

"It all comes from the brain and the heart. I'll play a chord and go hmmm hmmm — can you play that? It just comes. Sometimes I can be driving along and humming something and I (record it) in my phone. That is how songs are created."

He hopes the Plymouth concert will be "wildly entertaining and fun" for the audience.

"And we went to give people hope," he added.

SCORE A TAILGATE

TOUCHDOWN

Football season can only mean one thing — time to grab the best seat in the house, and we're not talking about at the stadium. In fact, 77 percent of Americans think the best seat in the house is at home in front of an HDTV, according to a recent survey by McIlhenny Company, maker of Tabasco brand products. Instead of heading to the stadium, keep the tailgate at home and throw a "homegating" party.

The ultimate homegate is not only about the football game, it's about the food. No matter what's happening on the field, the spread can be the real game-changer. In fact, the survey found the following:

» 78 percent of American adults think good food can make up for a bad game.

» Americans spend, on average, 42 percent of the game eating or drinking.

» More than half of Americans (57 percent) voted the grill as the most important appliance when hosting a homegate.

For a homegate touchdown, banish the boring and serve beer-infused chili, barbecue pulled pork and spicy sides. For other game day recipes, visit www.tabasco.com.

SUPER GOOD CHILI

Servings: 6

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 ½ pounds ground beef chuck
1 large onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon ground cumin
1 (12 ounce) can diced tomatoes
2 (16 ounce) cans pinto beans, drained and rinsed
1 (16 ounce) can red kidney beans, drained and rinsed
1 (12 ounce) can or bottle beer
1 (4 ounce) can diced green chilies
1 tablespoon Tabasco brand Original Red Sauce
1 ½ teaspoons salt
Shredded cheddar and Monterey Jack cheese, optional

Heat oil in 5-quart saucepot over medium heat. Add beef and cook until well browned on all sides, about 5 minutes. With a slotted spoon, remove to bowl.

Add onion and garlic to drippings remaining in skillet; cook over medium heat until tender, about 5 minutes.
