Township fire department reclaims former name

By Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

What's in a name? For Plymouth Township's fire department, no more than $6,000.

That's the amount the Board of Trustees, with a 6-1 vote Tuesday, decided to spend on re-branding the Plymouth Community Fire Department as the Plymouth Township Fire Department, a name that hasn't been used in about 20 years.

The money is to be spent on new lettering for fire trucks, ambulances and other vehicles, new badges and uniform arm patches and new letterhead stationery and business cards.

The new name, Chief Dan Phillips said, reflects the change in the department's service area that occurred when the city of Plymouth left the joint department to partner with the Northville City Fire Department, which occurred three years ago.

The township alone is the new PTFD's primary service area.

"The Plymouth Community Fire Department just serves as a reminder of the intergovernmental agreement that's been canceled," Phillips told the board Tuesday.

Phillips, who took the chief's job earlier this month, said the time is right for the change because two new ambulances are on order and will need insignia, an engine is scheduled for repainting and the department is applying for a grant with which it plans to buy another engine. So those vehicles will be getting insignia anyway, he said.

The vote to change the department's name was unanimous, but Trustee Bob Doroshewitz voted against spending money for re-branding, suggesting that could be done more gradually, as new firefighters are hired, for example.

"What's the problem that we're trying to fix?" Doroshewitz said.

Trustee Kay Arnold asked Phillips about the badges that were used prior to the city-township fire departments merger.

"Quite frankly, I don't know the answer to that," Phillips said. He's checked in several places for them, he said, and has one more place to check.

Voting to spend up to $6,000 for re-branding were Supervisor Richard Reaume, Clerk Nancy Conzelman, Treasurer Ron Edwards and Trustees Arnold, Chuck Curmi and Mike Kelly.

CHILLED THRILLS

Ice festival glides past temps to bring out crowds

By Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

An extraordinarily cold start didn't stop the action from heating up during last weekend's Plymouth Ice Festival.

Opening day Friday, cursed by a bitter wind and near-zero temperatures, saw sparse crowds, but the relative thaw Saturday – and especially Sunday – brought more visitors and made for a successful festival, participants say.

"Sunday it was crazy-busy in there," said festival producer James Gietzen of JAG Entertainment. "It was crazy-cold Friday and that really did hurt attendance."

"Sunday was really great," said Jeffrey Lao, an ice carving instructor at Henry Ford Community College. "You had the right temperature and just a really large crowd."

School board fills leadership positions

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

In a twist of an old adage, it was "in with the old and in with the new" Tuesday for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Board members, in their first meeting of the new year, reached into the recent past for three officers while electing one of the newest members to a leadership position.

John Barrett, who served as president his first two years on the board, was returned to that post to replace the departed Judy Mardigian.

Kimberly Crouch, elected for the first time in November after serving out an unexpired term, was chosen vice president, while Sheila Paton, halfway through her first term, was chosen treasurer. It's Paton's second term as treasurer.

Newcomer Kate Borninski, attending her first meeting after being elected in November, was chosen as board secretary.

All four positions were approved in 6-0 votes; Trustee Mike Maloney, himself a former board president, was absent for the organizational meeting.

Barrett said he's "excited" to return to a leadership position at a time when "lots of great things" are happening in

NAIAS chair, Northville's LaRiche: Detroit's annual auto show is 'big'

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

North American International Auto Show chairman Scott LaRiche has one word to sum up the 2015 event in Detroit's Cobo Center.

"I would have to say, 'big,'" said LaRiche, who lives in Northville. "The reason I say that is because all the manufacturers are going big. Not only from a display point, but what they're bringing to the show."

LaRiche, an executive manager and vice president of Lou LaRiche Chevrolet in Plymouth, is back chairing the auto show in Detroit this year, working long hours as international media and other guests descend onto the event center.

This year, the auto show has about 50 reveals from car companies and suppliers, a figure that's fairly typical at the show, LaRiche said. But especially this year, many companies are choosing to make worldwide releases here in Michigan.

With more than 5,000 credentialed media from 62 countries, LaRiche said these companies know they will get the attention they crave in Detroit.

"Part of it is we bring so much press in," he said. "The manufacturers know they're going to get a worldwide message of their vehicle spread in seconds, literally seconds, of their reveal."

He referenced one company, China-based Guangzhou Automobile Group, which planned a reveal of a vehicle that will be sold exclusively in

The 33rd annual festival, in Kellogg Park and downtown Plymouth streets, featured about 100 sculptures, plus vendors, interactive features like a hockey-shooting event and a cross-country skiing trail, plus collegiate ice carving competitions. Lao won the Dueling Chainsaws speed-carving contest for the second year in a row, carving the figure of a turtle in 15 minutes in the timed event. Not surprisingly, it's Lao's favorite festival event. "That competition's really interesting, because you get a lot of crowd interaction, you get a lot more animated,"

Lao said. Part of that, he added, is keeping visitors' minds off the fact that they are standing out in the cold. Lao, however, didn't mind the cold. "Nothing was melting. All the pieces were standing," he said. His Henry Ford students did well in the collegiate ice carving contests, with Steve McCormick, Robert Speeks and Mark Tampakes taking first, second and third place, respectively, in the individual competition Saturday. Speeks and McCormick also took second place in Sunday's team competition, after Oakland Community College's Walter Ross and Lauren Klapac. Joseph Masterson and Matt Larson, also of OCC, took third. Lao and six HFCC students had carved one of the major pieces at the festival, a giant squid, called Kraken, that incorporated 24 blocks of ice. It took the team two evenings last week to complete the carving, he said. Lao also worked on several other festival sculptures. Gietzen, wrapping up his second festival as chief organizer, said it "all kind of came together" this year and that he plans on building it by attracting major sponsors and increasing its budget. The 2015 festival, he said, will be able to pay its bills. "My hope is to find a few sponsors that are willing to step up and put some money into the festival," he said. "This year was a big success and we're going to .. build on it."

Bagger Dave's chooses Canton for burger tavern

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Bagger Dave's Burger Tavern chose Canton for its newest Michigan location because Canton has a thriving retail corridor and places a strong emphasis on community, a marketing official said. Bagger Dave's, a growing restaurant chain in Michigan and Indiana, plans to open for business at 11 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 8, on Canton Center south of Ford, promising the first 50 customers a free Great American Cheeseburger every week for one year. Someone tell burger lover Wimpy of Popeye cartoon fame. The newest Bagger Dave's restaurant, expected to have 80 employees and seat 200 people, has been taking shape next to Antonio's Cucina Italiana, as yet another restaurant joins Canton's dining landscape. The chain's closest sites are in Ann Arbor and Novi. Why Canton? "Canton is a thriving community with a strong retail corridor," said Lindsay Thayer, marketing director for Diversified Restaurant Holdings, Inc., creator of Bagger Dave's and one of the largest franchisees of Buffalo Wild Wings. Thayer cited Canton's population of more than 93,000 residents, its built-in customer base and the "fantastic visibility" of the Canton Center site, which offers easy access and ample parking. Bagger Dave's, a Southfield-based restaurant-and-bar chain, plans to open its 4,755-square-foot Canton tavern to the public after an invitation-only grand opening party Feb. 6 and a Friends and Family Day Feb. 7. Michael Ansley, president and CEO of Bagger Dave's, said in a statement he is pleased the chain's newest location

"is opening in our home region." The move into Canton comes as Diversified Restaurant Holdings issued numbers Tuesday indicating the company's preliminary revenue grew 17.9 percent in 2014, up to $128.4 million from $108.9 million. Founded in 2008, Bagger Dave's already has 24 restaurants as it continues to carve out a niche in the competitive, hand-crafted burger business, though its menu offers other selections and features items such as craft beer. China and not reach North American shores. All this international activity could see some indirect benefit here in Michigan, as well. LaRiche said many Chinese companies have moved some operations here to Michigan, with 210 of them being related to the automotive industry. It's become so important that LaRiche said he's heard catch phrases develop surrounding this practice. "It's the Great Lakes to the Great Wall," he said. "I stole the line." More than 800,000 expected Crowds during last year's show topped 800,000, LaRiche said, a figure he hopes the show can break again this year, as long as the weather permits. "We should keep that number. Maybe 850,000, I'm hoping," he said. "It's hard to get more through the doors because of the limited time we have." Also expected to increase is the amount of charity money coming in later this week during the charity preview gala. About $5.5 million is expected to come in, which would exceed $100 million total since it began to collect money for southeast Michigan charities. There will be several stars of the auto show this year, LaRiche said, from the new Ford GT to the new Nissan Titan pickup truck, a revamping of the previous model that's brought many media members to its display. While he hasn't seen the new Titan yet, LaRiche said it appears to be "a game-changer," especially with already established brands like the Ford F-150, the industry leader and winner of this year's North American Truck/Utility of the Year. "They're saying it's a defining moment for the brand," he said, "which I thought was pretty interesting. It's a big deal." Coming from a Chevy dealership, however, means LaRiche has one specific car close to his heart at the auto show: the Chevy Corvette Z06. "I'm a Chevrolet dealer and it's the highest-end vehicle we have right now," he said. "It's fast, it's sleek, I'm a kid at heart. I want a Corvette."

Johnson Controls touts new battery for Ford F-150

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

Johnson Controls is looking toward start-stop technology as a way to increase gasoline mileage and efficiency. The company is hoping powering the Ford F-150, the North American Truck/Utility of the Year, is enough to begin to boost attention to its technology.

The Milwaukee-based company, which has a technical center in Plymouth, unveiled its Absorbent Glass Mat battery technology during a press event Monday morning at the North American International Auto Show at Cobo Center in Detroit. The technology comes standard in the 2015 Ford F-150 2.7-liter model and is an option on other models of the truck. It is the first vehicle with this type of battery made by Johnson Controls.

Using the technology could lead to a fuel savings as high as 5 percent and can help automakers meet emissions regulations by 2025, company officials said.

Johnson Controls demonstrates some of its innovative seating systems at an early-morning press conference Monday at the 2015 North American International Auto Show.

"Not only do they need to power more stuff, batteries are also being used to help automakers meet increasing fuel economy and emission reduction regulations," said Joe Walicki, who was recently appointed vice president and president of the company's Power Solutions business. "Start-stop vehicles are here and they have room to grow."

It's a technology that's seeing growth in other parts of the world: Walicki said 60 percent of all cars in Europe are utilizing the technology. AGM batteries are expected to reduce carbon dioxide emissions by 14.8 million tons and reduce fuel usage by 1.6 billion gallons, according to the company.

"It's an affordable way for our customers to get incremental fuel savings without having to make significant changes to their vehicles," he said. "A car that can save a little bit of energy at a stoplight can save a lot of energy in the long run."

The company produced 140 million batteries in 2014, more than any other supplier in the world, Walicki said. The company also supplies batteries to other vehicles, including the hybrid Range Rover.

Other components were also unveiled by Johnson Controls, including a new interior seating model, as well as new designs for door and instrument panels.

Craig Rigby, the advanced market and technology strategist for Johnson Controls out of Milwaukee, Wis., said the decision to work with Ford in adding an AGM battery to the F-150, which is manufactured in Dearborn, is a great one for both companies.

"The really great thing about that vehicle and bringing start-stop technology to the F-150 is that it is the largest-selling vehicle in the U.S.," he said. "The leverage they get by putting that fuel savings technology in that vehicle is really tremendous."

While the AGM battery is produced in Toledo and St. Joseph, Mo., Rigby said brainstorming and the development process happened across the company's worldwide locations, including the facility off Halyard Drive in Plymouth.

"We're a global company. We have engineering activities here in Michigan, we have engineering activities at our headquarters in Milwaukee, we have a very strong team in Europe," he said. "Certainly, as it relates to working with automakers that are based here in the U.S., the team in Plymouth is invaluable and really amazing."

Canton child rescued in fire, smoke detectors credited

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Canton fire officials say smoke detectors helped save a 2-year-old child's life by alerting a homeowner when a space heater apparently caused a fire in a second-floor bedroom that filled with smoke as the toddler slept.

The child was taken to a hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation after the fire erupted about 1 p.m. Friday in the 42000 block of Metaline, northwest of Cherry Hill and Haggerty.

"There is no doubt the smoke detectors in this house saved the young child's life," Deputy Fire Chief Chris Stoecklein said. "This tragic event can serve as a reminder to the importance of having working smoke detectors on every floor, in every bedroom."

The fire was one of two Canton firefighters battled Friday. Earlier, one firefighter suffered a dislocated shoulder after slipping on ice while working to douse a blaze that occurred about 10 a.m. in the 47000 block of Waddington, near Beck and Warren. That fire started in an attached garage.

The firefighter was treated for the injury and has been placed on light duty, Stoecklein said Monday.

During the fire on Metaline, firefighters received a 9-1-1 call and saw flames coming from the home as they arrived on the scene. They entered the house and doused the fire, containing it to a bedroom and a hallway.

Paramedics took the injured child to a local hospital for smoke inhalation. No other injuries were reported.

Fire officials say the fire not only should serve as a reminder to have working smoke detectors, but also to use extreme caution when using space heaters in homes.

During the fire on Waddington, meanwhile, firefighters arrived and saw smoke coming from a garage attached to the single-family residence. No one was at home when the fire started.

Firefighters quickly extinguished the flames while also battling cold temperatures. The homeowners arrived on the scene and spoke with firefighters.

Damage was limited to the garage. The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

Stoecklein said the firefighter was recovering after falling on ice and dislocating his shoulder. The deputy chief said cold temperatures and icy conditions always pose difficulties when battling fires.

"It always hampers the firefighters because we've got all the ice and slippery conditions out there," he said.

Moreover, Stoecklein said, severely cold temperatures can cause fire equipment to not work as efficiently as it does during milder weather.

Three charged in Canton home invasion

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Quick work by Canton police has led to criminal charges against three defendants accused of stealing cash during a home invasion on Stonetree, north of Ford between Lilley and Haggerty.

Ramon Michael Payne, 28, of Monroe was charged with second-degree home invasion along with two 18-year-old Livonia women, Derricka Anne Allen and Milan Monet Hayes.

The three defendants could face penalties ranging up to 15 years in prison if they are convicted of second-degree home invasion for an incident police say occurred around 11 p.m.

Wednesday, Jan. 7, in the 6100 block of Stonetree.

No residents were at home at the time.

Detective Sgt. Dan Traylor said it is alleged the three defendants forced their way into a home and took an undisclosed amount of cash.

The incident "is not believed to be random," Traylor said.

Payne has been jailed with a $50,000 cash bond, while Allen and Hayes have been released on personal bonds. All three are scheduled to appear in 35th District Court for a Jan. 30 preliminary examination to determine if they should stand trial on the charges in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Traylor credited the "quick deployment" of Canton police for leading to arrests following the home invasion.

"We were relentless in getting the people we thought were responsible," he said.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

Death threats?

Canton police removed a handgun from a home - temporarily, for safety - after a 48-year-old man notified police to say his wife had threatened to kill him, a police report said.

Police received a call from the man Sunday evening, saying a dispute erupted because his wife was upset he was going on vacation with a friend. The man said his wife lashed out, saying she hated him and was going to kill him.

The man told police he didn't feel threatened enough to leave the home, but wanted to document the situation with police. The wife denied making death threats, telling police she would never harm her husband even though she believes he is cheating on her.

Police advised the man how to get his gun back when he is ready.

Chased by dog

Canton police issued a citation to a homeowner following allegations a dog, described as a collie-Jack Russell terrier mix, chased a 12-year-old girl on Foxcreek, near Warren and Lilley, a police report said.

Police received a call about the incident about 4 p.m. Jan. 7. A girl going home from a school bus stop told her father that she was chased by the dog as it barked and jumped up onto her knees. She said she was scared, but the dog didn't bite her.

The owner was calling for the dog, which reportedly has chased others in the neighborhood on other occasions. The dog's owner told police the dog fled out the door during the latest incident when she went outside to get a package delivered to her house.

Mailbox vandalism

A 65-year-old Canton man told police the mailbox of his home, in the 41500 block of Pheasant Creek, had been damaged by vandals.

The resident said the incident happened sometime Jan. 10. He said it appeared a vehicle had run over his mailbox at the edge of his driveway, knocking the mailbox off the pole and cracking the pole.

Police scoured the neighborhood, but didn't find any damaged vehicles.

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Job-site larcenies

Tools, copper pipe and a generator were reported stolen Jan. 5 from the construction site at Robert Bosch, on Haggerty near Five Mile. The automotive parts supplier's facility there is being expanded.

A Plymouth Township Police Department report said a torch was used to break into large locked toolboxes at the site and that one of those toolboxes caught fire and the tools in it burned. The thefts occurred between 8 p.m. Jan. 4 and 6 a.m. the next day, the report said.

The complainant told police that tools belonging to seven different workers on the site were stolen; some 30 feet of three-inch copper pipe and miscellaneous scrap copper were also reported stolen.

The thieves also tried to steal two welding machines, but damaged them in the process, the complainant said.

Buy or lease? Facts to help you decide

The North American International Auto Show is back in town and it's always exciting. Whether you are in the market for a new car or not, it's always fun to look at the new models.
 The question I get this time of year is whether it's better to buy or lease a car. There's no right answer. It depends upon a few different issues. By exploring these issues, it will help you make the right decision. After all, the key is not what's good for everyone else, but what's good for you.
 To understand leasing, it's important to understand the residual value of the car. The residual value is what the automaker thinks the car would be worth at the end of the lease.
 The number is important, because it determines your lease payments. The higher the residual value, the lower the lease payment. Some cars have a very low residual value and are not optimal to lease. On the other hand, cars that have high residual values are more favorable. If you know what car you are looking at, you can find the residual value of the car and that should help you determine whether that car should be leased or purchased.

Rick Bloom

 Another issue is how long you plan to own the car. Typically, if you plan to own a car for just a few years, leasing is an option to consider. If you are one of those people that hold on to their cars for five to 10 years, then leasing is generally not a viable option.
 An additional factor to consider is how many miles you typically drive. Remember, when you lease a car, what you really are paying for is the depreciation. The more miles you put on a car, the greater the depreciation. Typically, if you drive less than 15,000 miles a year, leasing is viable. If you drive more than 15,000 or 20,000 miles a year, the benefits of leasing tend to diminish.

 Before going to the dealership, you ought to have a good idea how you plan to finance the purchase. You can't necessarily depend upon the dealer to help you select the right option.
 One last note: Most people make the assumption that the best place to lease a car or to finance it is through the dealership. That's not necessarily the case. We live in a competitive society and it does pay to shop your financing around.
 On a positive note, look how things have changed. Five or six years ago, when it came to the auto show, talk was doom and gloom. Isn't it nice that those extremely difficult days are behind us and that the U.S. auto industry is once again standing tall?
 Good luck.

Local company creates web program designed to simplify online car sales

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

Purchasing a car should be like purchasing anything else, according to Yuval Moed, who says the Internet should be able to play a role.

That's why the CEO of Verishow, a company based in Farmington Hills with research firms in Israel, and his team came up with a web-based program to allow customers to interact more intimately with sales people.

"We basically allow them to engage with customers using video chat and comprising content sharing," he said. "They want to engage with them. They want to try and sell online."

David Veselenak
Yuval Moed, CEO of Farmington Hills-based Verishow, at his booth at the North American International Auto Show at Cobo Center in Detroit.

While the service is similar to other services such as Skype, this technology has a simple interface, is easy to use and does not require installation of programs on a hard drive. A demonstration is available at Verishow's booth at the North American International Auto Show, running through Jan. 25 at Cobo Center in downtown Detroit.

Moed, who lives in Israel but has several ties to southeast Michigan, said the program will allow other features besides video chat, including the ability to share documents, photos and videos to display vehicles for sale. Customers do not need to install any software and could use computers, mobile phones and tablets that meet system requirements.

The company began in Israel, but moved to Farmington Hills later. Moed, who graduated from the University of Michigan with an MBA, brought his company to Michigan after working with several associates. His wife also comes from Huntington Woods.

The move to the web is important, Moed said, especially for young buyers who do online research before heading to a brick-and-mortar dealership.

"When you shop for a car, you first go online and do all your research," he said. "You don't walk into a dealership before you know all this stuff."

The system could take a customer all the way through the purchase of a vehicle, to collecting information from the consumer if they've made a selection, Moed said.

It was tested in several area dealerships and received a strong response, Moed said. Since opening his booth at the auto show, he said there have been several dealerships expressing interest in using the software. He hopes to have the system be more widespread later this year.

"Some of the largest auto dealerships have stopped by already today to talk to us," he said.

Halal Chicken Licken mixes gourmet with fast food

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

When Mo Virk got involved in a Halal Food Festival in Canton last year, he had no idea it would be a life-changing experience.

A former IT man who shifted gears and opened EPIC Translations, a language translations service based in Plymouth, he came away from the successful festival with yet another career — owner of Halal Chicken Licken at 39021 Cherry Hill, west of Hix, in Westland.

"In my wildest imagination, I never thought I'd be the owner of a restaurant," Virk said. "We had the first Halal Festival in Michigan at Heritage Park in Canton and it was a huge hit. We expected 1,800 people and had 4,500. We ran out of food and had to get more. At the end of it, my friend asked if I had an interest in partnering with him in a restaurant."

Virk had developed an interest in food about 1½ years ago, so the opportunity was one he couldn't ignore. His friend is a silent partner in the endeavor. He has 17-18 years experience in the food industry and is the main chef, creating the menu items. All of the recipes are his.

The two men spent some six months getting ready to open and "every day people would stop by and ask if we were open yet," Virk said. When they did open, "It was a full house, a happy place."

The restaurant focuses on quality gourmet recipes blended with the convenience of a fast food environment. It offers salads, chicken (fried and grilled), subs and wraps, including steak subs and specialty subs like veggie, tuna and grilled cheese. There's also smoked beef ribs and side dishes like fries, onion rings and jalapeno poppers party platters. Catering also is available.

All of the sauces used are prepared on site, including a sweet and spicy double glaze and the extremely spicy Xtreme fire alarm used on wings. According to Virk, they have customers who order Xtreme that start with a milder L1 version as opposed to the L10, the hottest version. "Most who start with L1 don't want to go to L10," he said.

A waiver must be signed to order the Xtreme wings and those who order them can get their wings free and win a T-shirt, if they eat all 10 in seven minutes.

The goal is to provide customers with a good product. Virk remembers going out to eat and leaving still hungry. He doesn't want that to happen at Chicken Licken.

"The idea is to have consistency in the food so we have repeat customers and get new customers," he said. "Everything has to be just right. We constantly have to be on our toes."

Popular menu items included the double glazed wings, Texas chicken sub, Philly cheese steak sub and mushroom, steak and cheese sub. Southeast Asian tikka and kabobs also are "huge hits," Virk said.

The store opened Oct. 28. New customers can get two large subs for $10 each Tuesday.

Both men are putting in at least 60 hours a week at the restaurant and, while the hours are long, Virk said he is "having a blast."

"It's a lot of work," he said. "If you're heart's not in it, it's not fun. Our hearts are in it and we are having fun."

Halal Chicken Licken has a smart phone friendly website at mychickenlicken.com and orders can be placed by calling 734-858-7180 or at orders@mychickenlicken.com.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON BUSINESS BRIEFS

Kidney foundation board

The National Kidney Foundation of Michigan has elected Patrick A. Rugiero as a new member of the Board of Directors.

Rugiero has been very involved with the NKFM over the past year. He joined the 2014 Kidney Ball Executive Committee and was co-chair of the Auction Committee, which brought in more than $120,000 to the event. He co-hosted the Kidney Ball VIP Launch Party and participated in the NKFM's first Kidney 10K run last October. He has also been named as the chair of the 2015 Kidney Ball.

After Rugiero's father died from complications related to diabetes, he and his family created The Rugiero Promise Foundation — a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that raises money through various fundraising efforts for research, treatment, care and a cure for diabetes.

Rugiero and his three brothers operate the Roman Village family of restaurants that their parents founded 50 years ago. Rugiero's mother, also a diabetic, is still very active in the family business.

"As my parents instilled in us, if you're fortunate enough to have been blessed with good health and an able body and mind, it is your obligation and your responsibility to help those less fortunate and to leave this place better than we found it," Rugiero said. "We pass through this world only once."

F-150, VW Golf take home top truck, car honors at NAIAS

By Jay Grossman and Nathan Mueller
Staff Writers

The eyes of the industry are fixed on Detroit's world stage as more than 50 vehicles will be unveiled this week at the North American International Auto Show.

"I spent the last year traveling the world in preparation of this event," NAIAS Chairman Scott LaRiche said in his opening remarks at the show. "And I know full well the North American International Auto Show stands in great company with our counterparts and colleagues who are here with us today from Geneva, Frankfurt, Paris, Beijing, Shanghai and Tokyo - we are honored by your presence."

LaRiche went on to describe this year's show as "city within a city," a reference to the $300 million renovation Cobo Center underwent over the past year.

"It's a world-class facility for our world-class show," LaRiche said.

He also estimated the impact of this year's auto show is expected to exceed $400 million.

"This is the first time this has happened since 2008," LaRiche said.

The show kicked off with the North American Truck/Utility of the Year and North American Car of the Year awards, with the winners coming from domestic staple Ford and German-based Volkswagen.

cause it serves the company's customers better than ever.

"It recognizes the progress we have made in this truck," Hinrichs said while posing for photos in front of a red F-150. "It's the best truck we have ever made and whether it's capability or driving dynamics or fuel economy or styling, it is certainly the best truck we have ever made and we are so proud of it."

The Ford F-150 beat out the Chevrolet Colorado and the Lincoln MKC to earn top honors.

Matt Garchow, new car sales manager at Bill Brown Ford in Livonia, said the honor is "exciting" for the dealers and they cannot wait to get more trucks in stock.

Garchow said the dealership recently had an event where people could come and test drive one of four F-150s. About 20 people were expected, but more than 100 showed up.

"I think the aluminum body and talk of better gas mileage has a lot of people interested," he said.

The trucks range in price from $30,000 at the low-end to upward of $60,000 for a fully-loaded model.

"I really think once we get some volume in where we can display and advertise them, it is going to (help sales)," Garchow said. "And the fact it won truck of the year is something that sets it apart from the competition."

Hinrichs noted sales of the F-150 represent about 20 percent of the company's volume in North America and as a result is "a big part of our success here." The aluminum body also has quite a bit to do with the truck's popularity.

"Clearly, the materials have a lot to do with the story of this truck," Hinrichs said.

VW Golf hits hole-in-one

Joining the Ford F-150 on the main stage was the Volkswagen Golf, which was honored as the North American Car of the Year.

Ford had a chance to sweep the awards, with the Mustang as one of the nominees, but the Golf and its value and performance proved to be too much. The Hyundai Genesis also was in the running for the award.

"This is the icing on the cake," said Michael Horn, president and CEO of Volkswagen of America. "The Golf is important in many different ways - it represents the DNA of Volkswagens around the world."

The winners were selected by 57 journalists from around the world; the awards are separate from the show itself.

American automakers have won car of the year 12 times. Japanese automakers have won it three times, European automakers five times and Korean automakers twice.

The Golf has grabbed 10 awards in the past year, including Motor Trend Car of the Year. Horn said the car is a marriage of technology, design and value. The car has a starting price point at around $19,000.

Dave Hartmann, sales manager of Suburban VW of Farmington Hills, wasn't surprised when he learned the Golf won car of the year at the auto show.

"It's been racking up awards the entire year," he said. "The first VW I drove was a 1998 Golf and this year's car is just phenomenal. When the entire auto industry is appreciative of the car, that tells you a lot about the product."

But for all the awards the car has won, Hartmann believes this is the first time the Golf was named car of the year at the NAIAS.

"It's a huge event," he said. "And I have to believe that kind of press will deliver some customers to our showroom."

French attacks a reminder of importance of free speech, press

In shock and mourning, the human spirit often finds its strength. No worldwide message has been spoken with such distinct certainty and solidarity than that expressed in the aftermath of the French terrorist strikes — that democracy will continue and its foundation must remain embedded in the right of free expression.

Last week's terrorist attacks may have occurred in Paris, but the message sent by hundreds of thousands as they rallied following the deaths of 12 journalists at the Charlie Hebdo magazine, a police officer and four Jewish hostages, applies to all leaders and citizens in democratic nations, including right here at home.

Without the right of free expression and a free press, democracy is weakened, if not a failure. The right of citizens and the press to express thoughts and opinions, regardless if fashioned in a humorous or sarcastic form, plus though offensive to some or bluntly honest, is a fundamental pillar of a free — and engaged — society.

Without this stanchion of freedom, those in power at any given time or those who attempt to gain power, influence or retaliation, by murder, force, intimidation or deafening silence, may seat themselves with control over the masses.

The United States was born in the desire for freedom. Yet the country's history is, nonetheless, dotted with attempts by political parties, special interest groups and individuals who attempt to erode democracy by limiting not only freedom of expression and a free press, but the citizenry's inherent right to know and to be a part of deliberations and decision making.

As in France, the United States and other democratic nations, the press — in whatever form it takes — has consistently stood firmly in the belief that a society cannot be truly free without the inherent right of expression.

The 12 journalists who were slaughtered by terrorists in Paris were doing their jobs and expressing their political, religious and social opinions and perspectives, as supported and allowed by a democratic society and government.

Already in the days following the terrorist attacks, talking heads representing many special interest groups questioned the oppositional nature of some of Charlie Hebdo's cartoons. Freedom doesn't guarantee that all expressions will soothe the heart and sensibilities or be met with applause.

Yet the millions who have rallied around the world in support of Charlie Hebdo's work and right of expression is a clear sign that the citizenry not only is rising up against terrorism, but in support of a free press.

It is incumbent upon the citizens of a democracy to ensure that the channels in which they receive information about the world they live in, including government in all of its forms, remains vibrant.

Closer to home, journalists go to work every day with the heartfelt task of informing the public of the deliberations and decisions made by their local government officials and to provide insight into the activities in their hometowns.

The importance of this work cannot be dismissed. Government really does start at the local level and it is the level at which average people can have the greatest influence. Yet too often, residents — voters — remain distant from and disinterested in their local government. That allows elected officials and bureaucrats to operate and make decisions that affect citizens' lives without oversight.

Let the worldwide rallies of the past week be a lesson to all Americans. Freedom of expression and a free press must remain strong as an integral pillar of our democracy. Shortly after the Parisian murders, supporters of freedom of speech, expression and the press shared on worldwide social media a quote attributed to 19th century philosopher Voltaire:

"I do not agree with what you have to say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Let's collectively remember that to keep our democracy strong.

King's enduring legacy: Focus on service

Monday is Martin Luther King Jr. Day. This will be the 29th time the day, traditionally the third Monday of January, was observed.

The national holiday has seen its share of controversy. U.S. Rep. John Conyers was among the first to introduce legislation to make King's birthday a holiday, back in 1979, but the measure failed. As public support grew, it finally passed and was signed into law in 1983. It was first observed in 1986.

But not all states agreed to observe it as intended. Arizona, for example, lost the right to host the 1993 Super Bowl because it didn't recognize the King holiday. Voters in that state approved a referendum in 1992 to recognize the holiday. South Carolina was the last state to recognize the day as a paid holiday for state employees, doing so in 2000. Prior to that, employees could choose between that and three Confederate holidays to celebrate.

The day itself is an anomaly, because King is among the few people in U.S. history to have a day named after him without ever holding public office. King, a civil rights leader, was a proponent of peaceful protest of racial discrimination at the state and national level.

Opposition to the holiday remains, although it tends to be less vocal and organized, left to dinner table or bar room discussions, instead of legislative efforts to take the day off the books.

King became famous for his involvement in civil rights. He preached the need for community service, having everyone take the time to make the community a better place to live. More and more, we see individuals and groups focused on that aspect of his legacy. In 1994, President Bill Clinton signed federal legislation into law that challenges Americans to honor King's legacy by taking the holiday and turning it into a day of volunteer service.

The Plymouth District Library hosts a Youth & Family event honoring Dr. King on Monday, Jan. 19, at 2 p.m. Canton Township will once again honor King's memory and legacy with a special tribute, "Canton Celebrates Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.," Monday, Jan. 19, at The Village Theater at Cherry Hill, located at 50400 Cherry Hill.

We hope everyone embraces the spirit of Martin Luther King Jr. Day, if not the holiday itself. Pledging a day of community service is one that teaches young and old the importance of community, selflessness and taking an active role in making the world a better place.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The other side

After reading Mr. Stewart's scathing response to the article regarding the car donation from Jack Demmer Ford to Army veteran Amy O'Neil, I felt it necessary to tell the other side of the story.

It bothers me that someone would write a personal attack on Jim Demmer's character without knowing him. I work for a nonprofit in Canton that Jim and his entire family have supported for 25 years. Jim is one of the most humble men I have ever met. My experience is that he never does anything for the publicity. He gives to programs and people that he believes in and he gives with a full and gracious heart.

If you read the original story, it states that the program run by Progressive Insurance is called "Recycled Rides." It's right there in the name: They recycle. Progressive approached Jack Demmer Ford to see if it wanted to be a part of the project. And being the extremely giving gentleman that Jim Demmer is, he said yes.

The dealership was simply fulfilling the request of the program. The other part to consider is that insurance on a 2015 vehicle is clearly higher than that of an older model. That may have been more than this young woman could afford. Because we don't know all of the facts regarding Ms. O'Neil's situation, we certainly should not pass judgment on anyone's character.

Jim, I thank you for all the good that you, personally, and Jack Demmer Ford do for our community and the people in it.

Teach real history

Regarding the article on Open Door, I think it's a great idea what it is doing to raise awareness of homelessness and it's fantastic that the kids are involved in such a great learning experience.

I do, though, take exception to Ben Ogden's take on the history of Detroit. He states that, "Anyone that could afford to leave left. White people had money first."

Many people who could have afforded to leave the city do, in fact, still live there. Not all "white people" had money first. My grandmother came from Spain as an indentured servant; some refer to this as a slave. Our family has never made a victimization out of the word. She had four children and no husband. They did not have much of anything, but the desire and necessity to better themselves through hard work. It was a true tale of poverty, not having enough to eat all the time, not graduating from school, discrimination and hardship.

My grandma did some illegal things like running whiskey during prohibition, to make money. Rumor has it that the police looked the other way because they knew she was raising four children on her own.

So please, keep getting these kids involved in great causes — just teach them real history, not racist history. We have enough of that already.

GUEST COLUMN

Guest column failed to disclose author's bias

After reading the recent guest column "Look past rhetoric to the big picture" by Harry Jachym (Observer, Jan. 8) regarding the Recall 4 movement in Plymouth Township, I have to clarify a few points. When your paper allows a guest column to be written by someone who has a bias, via employment, even on a part-time or appointed basis without revealing that, it is disingenuous and further proves to me why your readership has declined.

Mr. Jachym serves on the Zoning Board of Appeals for Plymouth Township and, as such, has a known bias when writing to denigrate the citizens who are in favor of the recall of four township board members, especially since they vote on his appointment.

Sandra Groth

Any time I have written anything in your paper, I have always said that I am the former deputy clerk for Plymouth Township and my husband is retired from Plymouth Township after serving there for 35 years, 24 of which were in the position of fire chief. My bias is that my husband and I are both public servants with our hearts in our community. I am one of the lead organizers in the Recall 4 movement because I believe that we deserve better leadership than what we have for many reasons.

Mr. Jachym spoke about the PARC project and admitted his initial interest and subsequent reticence when realizing that the township taxpayers would pay more than other entities and have no more decision power. This is absolutely not true. When PARC was presented to the township and the board was asked to appoint someone to work on a feasibility study, it was suggested that Plymouth Township would have more representation on the authority because of the larger number of payers.

It was the decision of our Plymouth Township board not to enter into the feasibility study and not to allow the citizens of Plymouth Township a voice in this matter. To characterize this project as anything different is an inaccurate portrayal of the facts.

To suggest that our officials are deserving of their "big salaries" (in excess of $100,000) is one thing. However, to put this into context, you have to tell people the requirements of the job. They are that you must be a U.S. citizen, a Plymouth Township resident and a registered voter. Nothing else. And there are no attendance requirements for these positions. They work as little or as much as they want.

Just think, unlimited sick time, vacation time, campaign time with no change in salary or benefits. And I am not saying they do not earn their money. Public service is a privilege and it should be treated that way. The people you represent should be treated with respect and dignity, whether you agree with them or not because you are paid to represent them. If they are less than respectful, shame on them; that does not give a public official the right to do the same or to ignore the will of the people.

If the officials don't want to do the job they were elected to do — and if they don't want to serve at the will of the citizens — they don't belong there. If they don't like being disrespected, they should start showing some respect instead of trying to propose rules that censor citizen comments.

And, yes, Plymouth Township is a pretty darn good place to live. Most of us would like to keep it that way. Some of us disagree on how that will be accomplished, but we are one community and we should be mindful of that and recognize that differences of opinion are what makes us strong. We build on those differences, find solutions and move forward.

Sandra Groth is a Plymouth Township resident, the former deputy clerk for Plymouth Township and was a candidate for Plymouth Township trustee in 2012.

Plymouth loses Whalers to Flint

Karmanos announces long-rumored sale of OHL hockey team, arena

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

For nearly a year, fans of the Plymouth Whalers have wondered whether their favorite team would continue to play at Compuware Arena beyond the 2014-15 season.

Wednesday morning, they were to get the answer they've been dreading: Longtime Whalers and Compuware Arena owner Peter Karmanos was scheduled to announce the sale of the team to the new owners of Perani Arena in Flint (IMS USA Inc.).

Sources familiar with the situation Tuesday confirmed that Karmanos would be announcing the departure of the

Whalers after 25 seasons in metro Detroit — and since 1997-98 at Compuware, the facility located on Beck Road in Plymouth Township. Plymouth's middling attendance in recent years (it is ranked near the bottom of the Ontario Hockey League this season, with about 2,300 fans in a facility with a 3,800 capacity) is considered a main reason for Karmanos pulling the plug on the metro Detroit market.

In addition, it has long been known that he never was thrilled about fighting a no-win situation with the media (only the Observer has provided local game print coverage in recent years) in Red Wings-dominated "Hockeytown."

Sources also said it would be announced that Karmanos is selling Compuware Arena, with USA Hockey expected to purchase the venue and then move the prestigious U.S. National Team Development Program there from the 1,000-seat Ann Arbor Ice Cube.

In late November, it was reported that an agreement with USA Hockey was in place

Cutting-edge dome at High Velocity Sports in Canton wows soccer community

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The ribbon had been cut. The handshakes and back slaps were given and received by major players in Canton's soccer community.

All that was left Friday afternoon was for the sights and sounds of the global sport to fill the illuminated High Velocity Sports Dome, as they now will just about 365 days a year.

Soon, a U13 girls team from the Saline Area Soccer Association Swarm would be doing just that. Actually, the team has practiced there since last month, when the dome opened its doors for the first time.

"It's a gorgeous facility, absolutely gorgeous," said Knox Cameron, director or coaching for SASA. "We were fortunate enough to be the first club to use the facility, that's one of our claims."

"The kids are very, very excited. One of the unique things for the club is that we're able to have a whole bunch of our kids here on the fields at the very same time."

Cameron glanced to his right, to where U13 Swarm players Evelynne Crumm and Suzanne Chuparkoff were sharpening passing skills at the beginning of a practice session.

Invaluable tool

"We've been practicing in here for a few weeks, but it's been a lot of fun practicing," said the 12-year-old Crumm of Ann Arbor. "I think it's really good that we don't have to practice on the smaller fields, that we get our full field length to practice on."

Crumm was referring to the boarded indoor soccer fields elsewhere at High Velocity, on which the Swarm previously practiced. High Velocity maintains those hockey rink-type facilities in the building adjacent to the dome.

Chuparkoff 13, of Saline added that "the boarding was kind of helpful, but this is better because you get used to playing on it."

Players such as Crumm and Chuparkoff are quickly finding out that it is invaluable to hone their skills inside a facility that approximates outdoor pitches.

"The game of soccer, the majority of time it's played outdoors and there aren't any boards," Cameron said. "And so we don't want the kids to rely on that extra bumper.

"We want them to truly feel that if they misplay a pass, it's going to be going out of bounds and then there's a penalty for those types of things. So you work harder and you work better at your technical skills."

Saline certainly is an area where soccer is growing by leaps and bounds.

But the High Velocity dome enhances Canton's burgeoning reputation as a Midwest hotbed of the sport.

The township already is host to the prestigious Canton Cup, a Memorial Day weekend tournament that attracts hundreds of teams from Michigan, surrounding states and Ontario, Canada.

"The kids are very, very excited. One of the unique things for the club is that we're able to have a whole bunch of our kids here on the fields at the very same time."

PREP BOWLING

Chiefs on target at tourney

Canton boys keglers win another tournament

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Things are hitting the pocket just right so far this season for Canton's varsity boys bowling team.

On Saturday at Super Bowl Lanes in Canton, the Chiefs won the Plymouth-Canton-Salem Tournament with 2,656 pins — nipping University of Detroit-Jesuit (2,653) and Wayne Memorial (2,644).

But further evidence of how the season is going came when Canton head coach Karl Brubaker found out one of his varsity players could not participate due to a personal matter. No worries

"I took an up-and-coming freshman (D.J. Jablonski) with us for the day and I had to use him for the second game of the tournament," Brubaker wrote in an email to the Observer. "All he did was bowl 225 that game. ... He makes the coach look real good in that situation."

Brubaker was joking about that, but the way Jablonski stepped up in an emergency must have the coach feeling pretty enthusiastic about what the team can accomplish this year. The PCS tourney win was Canton's third already.

Among other area squads, Westland John Glenn came in fifth with a tally of 2,529 pins, followed by Novi-Detroit Catholic Central (sixth, 2,520), Salem (seventh, 2,466) and Plymouth (ninth, 2,398).

Team tallies included individual totals, along with scores from four Baker games.

Leading the individual standings was Catholic Central's Joey Kryzwonos, with a 256-220-476 series. Brandon June of the Zebras placed second (213-243-456), while John Glenn's Jared Stevens took third (192-234-426).

ONTARIO HOCKEY LEAGUE

Whalers can't complete home sweep

Plymouth drops tough loss to Soo, but newcomer Moore makes good first showing

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

It would be perfectly understandable if Plymouth Whalers head coach Don Elland gave his players name tags for practices the next few days.

Since the start of the season, Plymouth has been hit by a rash of injuries and suspensions — compounded by several top players leaving for the recent World Juniors.

As a result, the team Elland thought he would be coaching really has not had the chance to get out on the ice and jell as a unit.

"Like I explained to the guys after the game, we're back and we're healthy, but we haven't played together in 2½ months," Elland said following Plymouth's 3-0 loss Saturday to Sault Ste. Marie. "It's almost like a training camp. So we got to use this next week to get used to playing together."

The Whalers (13-23-2-1) had a solid weekend at Compuware Arena, all things considered, defeating North Bay 6-3 Friday and giving the OHL Western Conference leading Greyhounds all they could handle the next day.

And with 29 games remaining, Plymouth only needs to get in sync and make up the nine points they need to catch Saginaw (now holding the eighth and final playoff spot in the Western Conference with 38 points).

Still time

Elland was emphatic when asked if there was time for his team to pull that comeback off.

"One hundred percent," he said. "No reason we can't get that last spot."

Helping fuel his optimism is how the Whalers played over the weekend, augmented by much-needed reinforcements to the roster.

Plymouth welcomed back forward Danny Vanderwiell as he returned after missing 18 games with a hip injury.

World Juniors participants also were back on the ice, namely goalie Alex Nedeljkovic, forward Sonny Milano and defenseman Yannick Rathgeb.

Meanwhile, new to the lineup was speedy forward and Troy native Ryan Moore, who showed the approximately 2,100 fans Saturday how much of a spark plug he can be.

"I loved his game," Elland said. "He had energy, he moved the puck, he was quick, he got behind their 'D' a couple times. I thought he was really good."

The 5-7 Moore moved Friday to Plymouth after being part of a three-team trade involving Windsor and Oshawa.

Plymouth's top goal scorer, Matt Mistele (24 goals), was dealt to the Generals in the deal, which was consummated right before the noon trade deadline.

Back to his roots

"It's a big change for me, coming over from Windsor," Moore said. "But I'm back to my roots here and it feels good."

Moore, who played his formative years with Detroit Belle Tire, said he was happy with his first game as a Whaler — the loss to the Soo notwithstanding.

"Tonight was a tough game all-around. We held on, but I think I did play well," Moore said. "I used my speed. I bring speed and offense to this team and that's something we need going forward."

He came within inches of really having a memorable first home game.

Early in the second period, Moore nearly put the Whalers ahead 1-0, which could have set the wheels in motion for good things to happen against the Greyhounds (30-9-0-2).

But Moore, who took a feed from linemate Mathew Campagna, hit the crossbar with his rising one-timer. Greyhounds goaltender Brandon Halverson (26 saves for his second shutout of the season) was cleanly beat on the shot.

"I thought we played

hard and if we could have scored early, it might have gave us a little bit more energy, which we needed," Elland said.

The Greyhounds, given that reprieve, went up by a goal on the power play with 11:30 remaining in the middle period.

After Nedeljkovic (strong with 32 saves) fought off a point blast off the stick of defenseman Anthony DeAngelo, the rebound made its way into the right circle. Making no mistake with a one-timer was forward Jared McCann, for his 15th goal of the season.

Unable to capitalize

Elland blamed a bad line change for the Greyhounds' second goal, just 2:12 into the third.

Defenseman Darnell Nurse snapped a low wrist shot from the right circle that beat Nedeljkovic inside the far post.

Plymouth did have an opportunity to climb back into the contest, enjoying a five-on-three advantage for 1:07 midway through the third. But the Whalers could not muster even a single shot on goal during that span, much to Elland's chagrin.

"You can't get out-worked on a five-on-three. You got to have energy and we didn't," Elland said. "When you play a team as good as them, you have to capitalize on those chances and we didn't."

Wrapping up the scoring for the Greyhounds was McCann, with an empty-netter in the final minute.

The Whalers next visit Sarnia on Friday and then host Sudbury at 7 p.m. Saturday.

— "subject to due diligence" — with the transaction to be completed during the first half of 2015.

Last May, Karmanos strongly hinted at a press conference that attendance would have to improve in 2014-15 for the team to have any chance of remaining in Plymouth. He also lamented the fact his team, which has made the OHL playoffs 23 years straight and won the league's 2007 championship, has not been able to gain traction among area hockey fans.

"Well, to be frank about it, it's tough running an OHL team in a major league city," Karmanos said last spring. "Our attendance has been good, but it's not great. I look down (Highway) 401, you see the London Knights selling out every game."

"You know if you had to sell the team, you might want to move into one of those cities, rather than keep it playing here. Like I said, it's become an expensive business, it's a big business. If we could get attendance where we think it should be here, I think the future is great."

Last weekend, the Whalers drew about 2,100 for each of two games.

In Flint, the team will fill a void left when the Flint Generals of the International Hockey League folded five years ago.

A team from a lower junior circuit has been drawing about 1,000 per game in recent seasons.

The sale of the team to IMS USA Inc. also would set up a natural rivalry with the OHL's Saginaw Spirit.

Chatham had been considered the front-runner for the Whalers, especially after Karmanos tweeted his thoughts to USA Today in early December. But the lack of a suitable arena in the Chatham-Kent area doomed any possibility of that happening.

Salem chipped away from an early deficit Tuesday night and earned a 62-53 varsity boys basketball victory at South Lyon East.

Clean sweep for Park girls cagers

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Tuesday night was as good as it gets for Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's three varsity girls basketball teams.

All three garnered impressive home victories as division play begins to heat up.

Plymouth cruised to a 72-38 victory over Livonia Franklin, sparked by Courtney LaVallee's career-high 22 points — including 13 in the third quarter.

"Tonight really was the coming out party for Courtney LaVallee," Plymouth head coach Nick Brandon said. "She's a player who means so much to our team. She's a player who has dedicated herself to her game as much as any other player I've ever known."

The Wildcats (6-2, 2-0 in the KLAAs South Division) broke out to a 25-10 lead after one quarter and took a 44-21 halftime edge.

Contributing 12 and 11 points, respectively, were Kendall Rose and Leah Kliczinski.

Hannah Badger tallied a career-best eight points, providing a spark off the bench. Patti Begoske scored six points and pulled down seven rebounds.

LaVallee and Rose combined for five treys, as Plymouth got much-needed offense from beyond the 3-point arc.

Franklin dropped to 2-6 and 1-1 in the division.

Meanwhile, Canton easily got past Wayne Memorial, 84-9, behind a 22-point effort from Madison Archibald.

Bre Donehue (18 points), Brianna Finn (16 points) and Erin Hult (12 points) also helped the Chiefs click on offense to improve to 2-0 in the KLAAs South.

"The girls played really well," Chiefs head coach Kevin Palmer said. "I was really happy with the way we played offensively and defensively."

Spartans ice Plymouth, 3-1

Plymouth's varsity boys hockey team suffered its first conference loss Saturday against Livonia Stevenson, 3-1, at the Arctic Edge Arena.

Forward Stephen Olschanski's goal 11:18 into the second period broke a 1-1 tie. Forward Joe Alcantara added an insurance goal with 1:01 left in regulation to secure the win for the Spartans.

Stevenson opened the scoring 5:43 into the game, when forward Vince Glenn fired in a wrist shot off a face-off win in the Plymouth zone.

Plymouth responded later in the first period with sustained power-play pressure that culminated with forward Simon Nesich tipping in a shot from defenseman Jake Zaborowski. Defenseman Ben Chafin also assisted on Nesich's third tally of the season.

The Wildcats had two power-play chances in the third period and generated several good scoring chances. Nesich had a chance to tie the game with 2:30 left in regulation when he was alone with the puck at the top of the crease, but he was stoned by Stevenson goalie Cullen Barber.

Barber stopped 20 of 21 shots. Plymouth goalie Erik VandenBosch stopped 30 of 33 Stevenson shots.

"For some reason, we didn't have enough energy and jump the entire game," Plymouth coach Gerry Vento said. "We had it for parts of the game, but not long enough."

Plymouth killed off three Stevenson power-play chances, including a five-minute penalty in the second period.

"We won the special teams battle, but for the majority of the game, they were the better team five-on-five," Vento said.

Plymouth's record is 8-3 overall, 7-1 in the Kensington Lakes Activities Association. The Wildcats play Canton at 6 p.m. Wednesday at Arctic Edge Arena.

Plymouth wrestlers earning their points

Victories are good and so are bonus points. Plymouth varsity boys wrestling coach Quinn Guernsey is making it a daily reminder at practices and the message is sinking in, based on recent results. The Wildcats went 4-1 at Saturday's Warren Lincoln Duals, winning the tournament due to taking the tiebreaker criteria.

The tiebreaker criteria used was most points scored in the three duals between New Boston Huron, Warren Lincoln and Plymouth.

Plymouth won the tournament with 78 points, Huron took second with 74 and Lincoln finished in third with 68.

"We wrestled much better as a team than in the last weeks," Guernsey said. "The guys have been drilling very hard in practice and working to secure bonus points and pins for the team."

"With the matches we have coming up, continuing to secure pins will be vital for our team's success."

Plymouth 135-pounder Dylan Dwyer (right) went undefeated at Saturday's tournament.

The Wildcats defeated Orchard Lake St. Mary's (63-10), Cesar Chavez Academy (80-0) and Avondale (60-18) before going up against Lincoln and Huron in the championship pool.

Plymouth earned a 48-34 victory over Lincoln, with Dylan Dwyer (ranked No. 6 in Division 1 at 135) squaring off against Robert Pope (No. 5 in D2).

After a scoreless first period where there was a lot of action, Dwyer got things going with an escape and take-down before securing the fall in 2:56.

Dwyer was one of four Plymouth wrestlers to go undefeated for the day. The others were senior Hussein Youssef, junior Michael Jordan and Tyler Campbell.

In the Plymouth-Huron dual, there were a number of exciting match-ups, such as Spencer Schiftar's 6-5 win over Steven Poet.

Dwyer capped off his 5-0 day with a 10-5 trouncing of Nick Phelps.

Adding falls for Plymouth were Sterling Schiftar, Youssef and Campbell.

Shamrocks grapplers impressive in Super Duals

Only loss comes against Ohio power St. Edward's

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

If anything, Novi Detroit Catholic Central will certainly have its feet held to the fire over the course of the 2014-15 wrestling season.

The Shamrocks, three-time defending MHSAA Division 1 champions, took on two nationally-ranked and two more state-ranked teams Saturday in their own CC Super Duals tournament, finishing with a 3-1 record.

The day was highlighted by a 37-31 win in the third round over Brecksville, ranked 38th nationally and third in Ohio (behind only Lakewood St. Edward's and Massillon Perry).

Scoring big wins for the Shamrocks in the win over Brecksville were Aaron Rehfeldt, Trevor Zdesbki, Tommy Herrmann, Nick Joseph, Myles Amine, Nick Giese and Nick Jenkins.

"Overall, I'm very pleased with the fight and grit our guys showed," said CC coach Mitch Hancock, whose team is 8-2 overall. "These guys battled hard, were aggressive and got after the pin. To come in here and go 3-1 on alumni day is awfully impressive, considering the competition."

In the tourney opener, CC edged Dundee, the No. 1-ranked team in Division 3 and No. 4 in the Power 15 by Michigan Grappler, 39-34, as Stone Moscovic, Rehfeldt, Joseph and Jenkins all scored pins in the win.

In its second match, CC ran into a buzz-saw against No. 22-ranked St. Edward's, falling 54-10 as Amine and Giese were the lone victors for the Shamrocks, while Zdesbki fell to L.J. Bentley in a highly competitive match decided late by an officials' call.

In their fourth dual of the day, the Shamrocks edged Hudson, ranked No. 2 in Division 4, 36-34, as Jenkins, the sophomore heavyweight, scored a pin in the final match to sew up the victory.

Also earning impressive victories were Moscovic, Rehfeldt, Zdesbki, Herrmann, Amine, Connor Cox and Giese. Herrmann was able to avenge a semifinal loss the previous week in the CC Invitational to Hudson's Tyler Roberts, who finished fourth in last year's Division 4 tournament.

"This team is going to be hard to beat come late February and it's fun to watch them progress with each competition," Hancock said.

"Iron sharpens iron and these guys will have been battle-tested and better for having endured such tough competition."

"Obviously with Independence Park (where most of the Canton Cup is played) and now this, we have two of the premier soccer facilities in the state, if not the region," said John O'Meara, president of the Canton Soccer Club. "Between hosting one of the largest tournaments and then having this to be able to offer as well not only helps the club, but I think helps the whole southeast Michigan community."

O'Meara applauded Friday's official unveiling of the dome and he has plenty of company among Canton's soccer community in doing just that.

Wonderful day

"It's a wonderful day; it's finally come true," O'Meara said. "A lot of activities have gone on over the last few years to try to make it happen."

"From the club's perspective, it's something that's allowed us to expand our programs immensely and give our membership not only use during the winter, but during the rainy seasons of the spring and the fall as well."

"We're really excited, our membership's excited. It's here in Canton, another partnership with the club and the Canton community."

O'Meara echoes SA-SA's Cameron about the domed field providing a place where players can get better without worrying about rain, snow or hockey boards.

"I think it gives them the ability to continue to practice," O'Meara said. "With anything, the more you practice something, the better you become at it."

"If you're taking six months off, you've got that start-up curve again."

Now, soccer never has to stop.

Northville home's renovation includes 'lot of neat little features'

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

When you buy a home, you may envision something different from what it starts out as.

"It was a small ranch," said Carrie Bake, an associate broker/owner at Bake Real Estate of Plymouth, referencing the near downtown Northville home at 540 Orchard Drive. "They went up and built two more stories. It still has some of the original elements, but it's modern from a functional standpoint. It's got a great location as well. A lot of neat little features."

The home is listed with Bake Real Estate at $695,000 and is in the Northville Public Schools district. "It's actually in the city of Northville," said Bob Bake, Carrie's dad and also an associate broker/owner at the firm. "That's a very important component. Everybody wants that walkability."

The home had its garage torn down and a new one built to accommodate play space for the homeowners' two children. "It was built by Amish craftspeople that came from Ohio," Carrie Bake said of the renovation, undertaken by the owners in 2011 on the home originally built in 1954.

"They wanted something one of a kind," she said of the owners. "They decided to buy this ranch and make it their own."

The home has an open kitchen onto the family room, she added, as well as hardwood floors in the kitchen.

Trespass could be issue on property

Q: Our neighbor's house encroaches by a significant number of square feet on our lot and I am wondering if that is what the law calls "a trespass on a continuing basis"?

A: More than likely it is based on some case law that states that this is a continuing trespass for which an injunction could be issued and that the court has discretion to "weigh the equities in exceptional circumstances." The cases indicate that injunctive relief is not proper when it operates oppressively and inequitably against the encroaching party and the rights of the landowner can be adequately protected otherwise. However, in the type of case that you may have, there may not be exceptional circumstances and, depending on the amount of the square foot intrusion, it may not be deemed a minimus encroachment, and in the case that I am referring to, the developer's innocence in relying on the engineers site development plan did not outweigh the injustice of requiring compensation for the plaintiff and/or the transfer of title.

Q: An attorney friend told me that some of these developers who sell new condos have previously entered into confidentiality agreements in other developments where they got sued and settled. Can you elaborate on what he meant by that?

A: I presume what he meant by that is that developers have been sued by condo associations for construction defects and deficiencies and financial irregularities. When a settlement is reached, the parent developer as well as the single entity LLC that probably developed the condominium project want a release from the association of any and all claims and want the terms of the settlement kept confidential, even from the co-owners of the project. I think that is improper because purchasers of condos from these developers, working through single entity LLC's, will never know about the quality of construction that has occurred, particularly, when the same type units are constructed in a new project. You are best to consult with an attorney who has knowledge of the litigation history of the developer in the Metro Detroit area.

SUDOKU

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Livonia church offers group wedding, commitment ceremonies

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Unity of Livonia will marry couples for free in a group ceremony on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14 at the church.

"I think the timing had something to do with it," said the Rev. Eileen Patra, pointing out that Valentine's Day is on a Saturday this year. "And we wanted to reach out and do something where we were giving to the community."

The church will offer a complimentary wedding ceremony at 12:30 p.m. and commitment ceremony at 10 a.m.

Couples must pre-register, and those participating in the wedding ceremony must deliver their license to the church no later than Wednesday, Feb. 11.

It's the first time that Patra has offered the group ceremonies.

"I remember talking to another minister in the Chicago area and he mentioned doing it and I thought, Oh, what a cool thing to do. There were a few other Unity churches have have done it. Since it's on Valentine's Day, it's the perfect day," she said.

"I think the appeal is to people who are going to do something small anyway. The fact that it's complimentary can be appealing. And I think there's also some appeal of being part of a group."

She expects to cap the maximum number of couples at 10 for each group ceremony, leaving room for witnesses and a few guests.

Patra has no other weddings set for Feb. 14, although she reserved some church time in the evening, just in case she receives a request.

"We also get calls from people who want to get married on a Wednesday in the minister's office," she added.

Patra was married at Southgate City Hall, followed by a reception "around the campfire" in Brighton.

"I was a flower child," she said, adding that she wore a flowered dress and big, floppy hat to her wedding. A handful of family members witnessed the ceremony. The reception was larger, with attendees camping together.

Couples interested in the group wedding or commitment ceremony, may call Unity of Livonia from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, at 734-421-1760. Unity of Livonia is located at 28660 Five Mile, between Inkster and Middlebelt.

Dogs to test rat-hunting skills in new event at Michigan Winter Dog Classic

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Eric Madsen and his dog, Shirley, love rats.

Shirley loves to find them, and Madsen loves to cheer her on — even help guide her search.

The Canton man and his four-pawed companion, an Australian shepherd, are top competitors in barn hunt, a relatively new canine sport in which dogs uncover live rats encased in protective tubes from stacked hay bales.

"I remember the first day we gathered around and they brought the cage," said Madsen, recounting Shirley's initial training session. "When Shirley saw the rat inside, it was love at first sight. She is passionate about rats. Absolutely passionate."

Since achieving her first title in March last year, Shirley has soared in the sport and is the top titled dog in the country. She and Eric became the first barn hunt team to earn champion RatchX-2 and X-3 level titles last year. They are the only competitors to reach the RatchX-4 level. They'll work toward their next champion title at the Michigan Winter Dog Classic, Thursday-Sunday, Jan. 15-18, at Suburban Collection Showplace, 461000 Grand River Ave., Novi.

The annual dog show, presented by the Oakland County Kennel Club and Livonia Kennel Club, brings together more than 7,000 dogs and their owners for conformation, agility, rally, obedience and weight-pull competitions. The event also includes breed seminars, educational demonstrations, duck herding shows, vendors and rescue groups. New competitions this year are diving and barn hunt.

Follow your nose

Betsy Bernock, who owns Great American Dogs, a dog training center in Garden City, holds barn hunt classes and events throughout the year, in addition to teaching agility, conformation, rally, obedience and nose work. She is coordinating the barn hunt trials at the Michigan Winter Dog Classic, where more than 700 dogs will participate in the four-day competition.

Any breed or size dog may compete in barn hunt. Bernock owns Labrador retrievers who enjoy the hunt.

"If they are interested in the scent of a rat, that's all it takes," she said. "When the dog gets into the ring, the basic requirement is three-fold. They have to go through a tunnel made out of straw bales. They have to jump on and off of straw bales. The pyramids of straw bales are designed by judges to allow for (rat) hiding locations."

Tunnels and straw bale pyramids become more complex as competitors advance through titles. When the dog finds a rat, he signals his owner, who in turn alerts the judges. If the tube is empty or contains only rat bedding, rather than a live rat, the run ends. If the dog finds a live rat, he can continue to look for more.

Pet rats

"It's fun to watch. Some dogs will dig in the spot. Some bark at it. Some sit and say, Shirley leaps over a straw bale in search of a rat.

'there is is.' The rats are hidden in pvc tubes (with litter) for comfort and management," she said. "No harm is intended for the rats and there are strict rat management rules.

"You would have never convinced me that someday I would have pet rats. But I have pet rats at home."

Bernock rescued four female rats that were offered on Internet postings as snake food, and named them Thelma, Louise, Cupcake and Snowflake.

"They have a great life and home," said Bernock, who keeps her dogs away from the rats' housing. "During the trials we give them plenty of litter and treats. They are conditioned to it."

Madsen, who owns his own consulting firm, doesn't keep rats because he and Shirley are on the road a lot. They practice at Zodiac Ranch in Milford, which offers barn hunt training, practice and trials.

"She ping pongs around the course. I try to remember where she hasn't been and then work as a team and send her to those places," he explained his role in the game.

He's having more fun with barn hunt, than he had as a handler in other canine sports. He and Shirley tried herding, but Shirley was "too powerful" and he was slow to signal her. They tried teibbal, another herding sport that uses balls rather than sheep. He also trained Shirley as a therapy dog and the pair worked in hospitals together.

He was at a teibbal training class in Wisconsin when he first heard about barn hunt. "Barn hunt is the only sport I know of where the training is more fun than the games," Madsen said. When the pair visits Zodiac Ranch, Shirley hunts rats "for 20 minutes straight." The competitive trials are timed and dogs must complete their hunt in under 4 ½ minutes.

"Once we got to the championship level, there is no formal training. We're just out there to have fun. If it weren't for my ego, we'd just practice. She doesn't care if she gets ribbons or not. She just wants rats."

Shirley searches for rats.
