Plymouth, Northville revise fire service pact

By Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

Plymouth will get a $312,000 refund and part ownership of a new aerial fire truck with a revised firefighting and emergency medical services agreement with the city of Northville.

The revision, approved Monday by both the Northville

City Council and the Plymouth City Commission in separate meetings, comes during the fourth year of a 12-year contract that had the Northville City Fire Department take on fire protection and emergency medical response in Plymouth. Huron Valley Ambulance also provides emergency medical response, plus transportation to medical facilities when needed, in both communities. The fire department is managed jointly by officials in both communities and has one station in Northville and two in Plymouth. Operational costs are divided according to the services provided in each community. The 55-firefighter department relies on part-time, on-call firefighters; Chief Steve Ott is the only full-timer.

Officials said the revised agreement formalizes practices by which the department has been jointly operating since January 2012.

Separate trucks

Most significant, Ott said, is a change that makes each community responsible for buying its own vehicles – fire trucks, ambulances, pickups and the like – rather than sharing those costs.

With Plymouth having to provide such equipment to enter the service agreement to begin with – and the useful lifespan of a fire truck, at 30 years or so, greater than the length of the agreement – it made sense for each communi-

Incumbents make the cut, but newcomer tops field

By Matt Jachman

A newcomer to city politics topped the field Tuesday as voters whittled a list of nine Plymouth City Commission candidates with a low-key primary election.

Suzi Deal, an appointed Planning Commission member for nearly three years, won 524 votes in her first bid for elected office, taking one of eight spots on the November general election ballot. The top four finishers in November will win seats on the city commission.

Finishing second was incumbent Commissioner Mike Wright, who is seeking a third term, with 476 votes. Incum-

Zumba flash mob highlights fundraiser

A sunrise flash mob fitness event Friday in Plymouth's Kellogg Park capped a fundraiser by Gale, a publisher of resource materials for libraries and businesses that sent $20,000 to the Detroit-based Downtown Boxing Gym Youth Program.

Hundreds of people, including Gale employees and representatives from the Downtown Boxing Gym, gathered at the park at 6:30 a.m. for Zumba, a dance-based exercise routine, led by an instructor from the Z Spot Fitness Studio in Plymouth Township.

The Downtown Boxing Gym Youth Program is a nonprofit that promotes good citizenship among Detroit's young people, puts them through a boxing training program and provides academic support and mentorship opportunities.

With "books before boxing" as part of the program's mission, Gale wanted to support the gym because its goals fit with those of many of the libraries to which Gale provides resource materials, said Kristina Massari, a spokeswoman for Cengage Learning, Gale's parent company.

The $20,000, Massari said, was raised through a donation from Cengage, as well as employee-run car washes, bake sales and individual contributions from Gale employees.

Lilley resurfacing project closes road in Canton

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

A crumbling section of Lilley Road in Canton has closed through early October as work crews move to resurface a ragged one-mile stretch between Warren and Joy.

The project, long awaited by motorists who travel the car-rattling road, should be completed by fall, a Wayne County official said.

"We're looking at early October, weather permitting," said Tiffani Jackson, public affairs officer for the Wayne County Department of Public Services.

Work crews closed the road to through traffic Monday, though residents still can access their neighborhoods. Officials say the closing couldn't be avoided because the project involves repairs to a bridge and culvert at Tonquish Creek.

"The street will be closed to through traffic for the duration of the project," Jackson said Thursday.

Patty Gerou, office manager for Gerou Chiropractic on Lilley near Warren, said many motorists already avoided Lilley because of how badly the road had deteriorated.

"The road was just ridiculous," she said. "People would actually avoid this section of Lilley Road even before they started the construction. Once it's completed, it will definitely be worth the hassle that people are dealing with while it's under construction."

The latest developments come during a summer season that officials say also will involve resurfacing a section of Lilley between between Ann Arbor Road and Main Street/ Plymouth Road in Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Back in Canton, Municipal Services Director Tim Faas said some confusion already has occurred as motorists trying to bypass the Lilley

The company also plans to provide products for the Downtown Boxing Gym's computer lab. There are currently 65 students, ages 7-18, in the DBG youth program, plus a waiting list blonski (228), Charlie Gabbart (212) and Jack Wilson (196).

Only Thomas Guina, a retired chiropractor and the original owner of 336 Main, was eliminated, finishing with 193 votes, just three behind Wilson.

Low turnout

Voter turnout was light, with only 860 people casting ballots, about 11.5 percent of Plymouth's 7,481 registered voters.

Deal, a partner in the local apparel firm Simple Threads, was congratulated on her first-place finish after results were announced at the Community Cultural Center shortly after the polls closed at 8 p.m. She credited her many connections in the community for her top standing.

"I was surprised that it was that strong, but I feel like I do know a lot of people in the community," said Deal, who had campaigned partly on what she called her ability to communicate with a variety of people.

Wright, who had supported Deal, said he was proud of her showing and that she could be a "dynamic contributor" to the commission.

Krol, the fifth-place finisher, said he was glad for the win, but had gone into election day confident.

"I really felt I could do it," said Krol, a retired college anatomy and physiology instructor.

Krol had campaigned with Gabbart, Jablonski and Guina as a slate calling themselves 4 For Plymouth.

Incumbents strong

Pobur, who was appointed to fill a commission vacancy in September 2013 and previously served from 1997 to 2003, said a strong showing by the three incumbents in the race indicated voters are happy with the city's direction.

"Things are going really well in the city and I think the voters recognize that," Pobur said.

Four commission seats are up for grabs in the Tuesday, Nov. 3, general election; the top three finishers will win four-year terms, while the fourth-place finisher will win a two-year term.

Commissioner Ed Hingelberg is not seeking re-election, meaning there will be at least one new commissioner. Hingelberg was appointed to fill a vacancy in 2008 and won a four-year term in 2011.

The four winners in November will join commissioners Dan Dwyer, Diane Bogenrieder and Oliver Wolcott, who were elected to four-year terms in 2013.

closure have turned into a condominium complex, The Coves of Canton, only to learn they can't access Warren Road.

Officials say motorists should steer clear of Lilley between Warren and Joy as much as possible.

Jackson said the Lilley Road project in Canton was awarded to Ajax Paving Industries for $988,769.

The Lilley project widens the scope of an already busy orange-barrel season in Canton, where work is occurring in areas such as Ford Road near I-275, Cherry Hill west of Canton Center and Beck north of Warren.

In a letter to area residents, Lilley Road project engineer Jesus Plasencia said the work involves a hot-mix asphalt, cold milling (removing and replacing part of the surface), resurfacing, road shoulder repairs and concrete repairs. It also includes work on curbs, gutters and driveways, along with efforts to improve drainage, signs and pavement markings.

Not far west of the Lilley Road project, residents also have complained about the poor condition of Morton Taylor between Warren and Joy, but Faas said those repairs haven't yet been scheduled.

ty to buy its own trucks, Ott said, rather than having to come up with a plan for dividing major assets should the communities part ways.

"What we've been doing up to now seems to have been the simplest solution," Ott said.

That means Plymouth will be getting a refund, of just over $312,000, of money it has put into an equipment replacement fund since the service agreement began. The separate-purchase clause applies only to trucks, Ott said; other equipment, such as hoses, air packs and turnout gear, will continue to be jointly purchased, with each community contributing to a replacement fund.

Million-dollar truck

One exception, however, to the buy-your-own-trucks policy will come with the planned purchase of an aerial truck, a bucket truck with an extending boom for high rescues and putting water, from above, on fires in multi-story buildings.

Such trucks – Ott said the department is looking at a 100-foot boom extension – can run $1 million or more.

The revised agreement provides for joint ownership of a new aerial truck, with the price divided according to the percentage of department runs in each community. In his most recent report to the Northville-Plymouth Fire Advisory Board, in July, Ott said that 62 percent of this year's runs were to scenes in Plymouth, 38 percent to Northville.

The new aerial truck will replace a Plymouth aerial truck that's about 35 years old and a Northville truck that's about the same age. The revised agreement calls for continued joint ownership of the truck, even if the fire service partnership is dissolved.

Ott said a couple of different models are being discussed and that he hopes to soon come up with a recommendation for the NPFAB. "I think we're getting close, but I hesitate to put a specific time frame on it," he said.

Other changes made in the revised agreement were:

» Increasing the number of authorized fire personnel in the department from "30-55" to "up to 60."

» Adding language to include the department's third station, at Spring and Holbrook in Plymouth's Old Village. The other fire stations are next to the city halls in both Plymouth and Northville.

» Providing that either community can request on-site firefighter staffing during specific periods – such as during festivals or other public events – and that the requesting community will be solely responsible for those staffing costs.

First Step adds garden, playscape at Wayne site

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

When you enter the new First Step Healing Garden, one of the first things you see is a family of five penguins on an ice flow.

"It is designed to create a feeling of fun and whimsy," First Step associate director Theresa Bizoe said. "The portico (near the door) is for security. The table close to the building lets people just coming in to stay here and be closer to the building."

The recently opened healing garden and playscape is designed with elements of a hospital healing garden to meet the needs of adults and children. Serving residents of western Wayne County and Downriver, Wayne-based First Step provides services to victims of domestic and sexual violence.

"It used to be an open field with standing water and muck. It has been transformed," Bizoe said. "This took three years of fundraising and design. We put in drainage, electrical and plumbing. Now, 20 minutes after a rain, it drains and the kids can play."

Jonathan Dreyfuss of Greenscape Systems was the architect and volunteered as project manager for the healing garden and playscape. A wide range of service clubs and other volunteers donated time, materials and labor for the healing garden and playscape.

Something for everyone

The goal is to provide something for everyone. There is a toddler town play area with swings, a splash pad that allows the youngsters to cool off, a xylophone and pebble harp for music, an adult fitness area that includes a ping pong table, a healing garden that provides a serene place for quiet reflection overlooking the park and a pavilion for gatherings.

"There was no place for kids to play. We can house up to 50 people on any given night and more than half are kids or infants," Bizoe said.

"They range from newborns to teenagers. We get all ages and are almost always full."

For someone who has escaped domestic or sexual violence, Bizoe said the retaining wall around a seating area in the healing garden is designed to provide a sense of security, like sheltering arms.

"We want everyone to feel they will be OK here. Coming to a facility is so scary for kids, leaving all they know," Bizoe said. "We want them to know it's OK to be a kid, that they don't have to protect the adult."

Bizoe mentioned a particular volunteer on the project who lost his sister and two nephews to domestic violence.

"He knew his sister was hesitant to go to a shelter — that it would be too hard on her kids," Bizoe said. "If she knew of a beautiful place like this for her kids, she might have gone (to a shelter) and it might have saved her life."

Place to counsel

Along with providing a relaxing outdoor space for shelter residents, Bizoe said the healing garden also services counseling clients as well as staff.

"We can do counseling under a blue sky with beautiful flowers," Bizoe said. "The staff can take a walk here — they hear traumatic stories all day."

The healing garden and playscape were also designed with an eye on being green. A 2,000-gallon cistern holds water from the building roof and pumps it into the garden areas. The water and rock gardens have a porous paver that eliminates run-off and lets rain water drain into the ground. There were 60 trees planted, all donated.

Established in 1978, First Step provides free and confidential programs to help survivors of domestic and sexual violence. That includes a shelter, counseling and referral services. There is a 24-hour help line at 888-453-5900.

State grant, county match will fund River Rouge study

The Wayne County Commission has voted unanimously to accept a grant from the state that will help the county monitor the health of the Rouge River and its branches.

The State Clean Michigan Initiative Grant is for $35,830, with the county adding $11,943 of existing storm water general permit money. The combined $47,773 will pay for the "Rouge River Insecticide Monitoring" project, with the grant contract running from July 1, 2015, to June 30, 2017.

"This project is important because the health of the Rouge River and its branches is tied to the overall environmental health of the region," said Commissioner Tim Killeen, D-Detroit, a Committee on Public Services member and former science teacher. "It truly is a barometer of not only the watershed's health, but the health of the county and southeast Michigan as a whole."

The Rouge River Watershed comprises 467 square miles, primarily in Wayne County, but also in Oakland and Washtenaw counties. The Upper and Middle Rouge Rivers merge near the Dearborn Heights-Dearborn border and they merge with the Lower Rouge River in Dearborn. The combined Rouge River empties into the Detroit River at Zug Island, along the Detroit-River Rouge border.

"I am always pleased to see the county receive grants that improve water quality," said Commissioner Diane Webb, D-Livonia, who chairs the Committee on Public Services. "I'm glad we're able to take advantage of the opportunity. Ensuring the health of the Rouge River and its branches is so important."

The Friends of the Rouge nonprofit volunteer group and the Alliance of Rouge Communities will be involved in the project.

The project's goal is to determine if the pesticides pyrethroid and fipronil and their degradates are at a level considered toxic for the river's macroinvertebrates. Samples will be collected over two years at 32 surface water sites and eight sediment stream bottom sites.

Macroinvertebrates are organisms without backbones that are visible without a microscope, including species like beetles, mayflies, dragonflies, aquatic worms and snails.

Pyrethroids are synthetic chemical insecticides, with one of the primary uses as a spray to kill mosquitoes, while fipronil is a family of white powder pesticides that kill insects when they eat them.

Thief returns purse

A thief backpedaled July 30 when the woman whose purse he was stealing confronted him outside a Plymouth Township business.

The incident occurred just after 4 p.m. in the parking lot of a medical center on Beck, north of M-14, a Plymouth Township Police Department report said.

An employee told police she was taking a break in her car and had her eyes closed, but opened them to spot her purse outside the car. A window had been left down and the purse left on the passenger seat, the woman said.

The woman yelled and a man who had grabbed the purse put it back, the police report said.

The man left in a silver car with a paper license plate, the victim told police.

Super-drunk arrest

A 36-year-old woman was arrested under the "super drunk" statute early Friday after police found her slumped over the steering wheel of a Ford Escape and wandering in the area of the Hilton Garden Inn.

It was just after 2 a.m. outside the hotel on Sheldon at M-14, a police report said, when two officers making a building check saw an Escape in a driveway near the hotel. The driver pulled into the hotel lot and into a space, the report said, then pulled out again, nearly hitting the wall shielding the hotel's garbage bin.

The Escape then circled the hotel, the report said, and the officers saw the driver slumped over the wheel and stopped her.

The woman admitted to having two or three beers, police said, and registered a blood-alcohol content of 0.242 percent in a preliminary breath test. That's more than three times the level, 0.08, at which a driver can be charged with driving under the influence.

Later, at the police station, a more accurate test registered a blood-alcohol content of 0.25 percent, police said.

Paraphernalia, peeping

A police officer investigating a reported peeping Tom cited a 54-year-old man for possessing drug paraphernalia July 26 outside an apartment complex on Heritage Drive, in the area of Sheldon and North Territorial.

An officer was dispatched to the complex about 8:30 a.m., a police report said, on a report of a man who appeared to be looking into windows. The complainant told police this had occurred several times over a few weeks and that the suspicious man could be found in a gold Ford Taurus.

The officer approached a man in a gold Taurus, the report said, and noticed an odor of marijuana. When he asked the man about the smell, the report said, the man replied that he had been smoking marijuana in the car. He had no medical marijuana permit.

The suspect was ticketed and warned about window-peeping, police said.

Drunk, disorderly

A 56-year-old man was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge early July 26 after police made a third trip to a gas station to deal with disturbances there.

The incident occurred at the Mobil station on Northville Road. A police report said a clerk there complained the man had been arguing and swearing inside and scaring customers.

The man had already been warned twice that night, police said, and when police had to make a third trip around 1:30 a.m., he was arrested, the report said. The man's speech was slurred, he appeared unsteady on his feet and a breath test registered a blood-alcohol content of 0.235 percent, police said.

Slurpee citation

An 18-year-old man was cited for littering early Saturday after a township police officer saw a 7-Eleven Slurpee cup sail from a window of the car the man was driving.

The incident occurred shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday on westbound Ann Arbor Road at Beck. The suspect was driving a 2007 Saab and stopped for a red light, while the officer was stopped behind him, a police report said.

After pulling over the driver, the officer asked why he had thrown the cup in the road and the man answered that he was unsure, police said. He was issued a ticket. Punishment for littering from a vehicle includes a fine of up to $500, according to a township ordinance.

The officer circled back to pick up the Slurpee cup and dispose of it properly.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

Bloodied police officer says suspect assaulted him

A 31-year-old Canton police officer, in a bloodied uniform, reported he was assaulted during a traffic stop by a suspect who sped off before finally being captured during a foot chase.

The incident unfolded about 1:45 a.m. Sunday, when the officer said he stopped a 42-year-old male driver suspected of operating under the influence on northbound I-275 near Michigan Avenue.

The suspect reportedly tensed up while a handcuff was placed on his right hand, used his arms and elbows to distance himself from the officer and then lunged forward, striking the officer on the nose with his fist and the handcuff, a police report said.

The alleged assault left the officer with a cut and, the report said, left him with blood covering the front of his uniform. The suspect retreated and fell down while the officer tried unsuccessfully to use a Taser on him, the report said.

The suspect got back into his Chevrolet Cavalier and a brief struggle occurred before he allegedly drove off, leading the officer on a high-speed pursuit before he got out of the car and a foot chase ensued. The report indicated the suspect was captured on Cather Street, near I-275 and Joy Road.

The report said the suspect was arrested without injury. He was facing possible criminal charges. The officer was treated for his injuries at a Canton medical facility.

Reckless driving

A 15-year-old Canton boy, accused of driving a car recklessly through a residential neighborhood, was cited for obstructing a police officer and operating without a license after he allegedly lied about the incident, a police report said.

The incident unfolded about 4:45 p.m. July 28 on Willard, north of Cherry Hill between Lilley and Sheldon, when witnesses reported seeing the suspect, accompanied by a friend, driving fast and recklessly. One witness said she flagged the suspect down and told him to slow down because her children were playing outdoors.

Police went to the suspect's house after a witness provided a license plate number, but the suspect said the vehicle in question belonged to his father who had gone to work. Police, however, learned the car was in the garage.

The suspect then tried to blame his friend for driving, but police tracked down the friend, who denied it. Moreover, witnesses who knew the suspect identified him to police as the driver.

Pregnant teen harassed

An 18-year-old Canton woman was allegedly harassed after she had three people over to visit, saying they later called her and told her that she should kill herself and the baby she has been carrying for eight months, a police report said.

The incident happened Friday evening at Fordham Green Apartments, near Ford Road and Morton Taylor, where the victim lives with her mother, who also was there.

The victim said her visitors began calling her after they left her residence, also accusing her of stealing e-cigarettes and makeup from one of the visiting teenage girls.

The victim's mother told police the visitors also stole 14 pills of morphine and 70 pills of Percocet — pills she said she takes as she battles Stage 4 cancer.

The victims told police they didn't want to prosecute the offenders, but wanted to document what happened. Police were contacting the visitors to warn them to stop the harassment.

Medical help

Police took a 76-year-old woman to a hospital for a medical evaluation after her husband reported she was behaving strangely, swinging a stick and indicating she saw people who weren't actually there.

The husband told police his wife is bipolar and hadn't taken her medications for three months. When police went inside the house, the woman picked up a lamp as if to throw it at officers, who talked her into putting it down.

Police helped the woman to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia so that she could get treatment.

Hot out? Splash 'n' Blast can help cool you off

By Abby Welsh
Michigan.com

While Kensington Metropark's Martindale Beach is typically a huge hit during the summer months, park officials felt it wasn't enough.

Thus, they created the Splash 'n' Blast outdoor water feature in 2007.

Splash 'n' Blast consists of two 250-foot twisting water slides and a water spray area with cannons, palm trees and giant coiled-metal serpent sculptures.

The two water slides are intertwined and land in a watery landing pad.

"It's a great attraction for families to go to when it's hot outside or want something entertaining without paying a lot of money," said Kimberly Jarvis, Huron-Clinton Metroparks western division park supervisor. "It's still pretty new to Kensington, but it's becoming a huge hit for all."

The park officials took feedback from park-goers, noticing a need for something "more" to do other than just the beach.

"The beach is great for the summer, but we had upgrades being done to the beach (around 2007), and so we decided it was best to try and incorporate some kind of water feature," Jarvis said of the creating of Splash 'n' Blast.

Annual summer attendance to Martindale Beach is roughly 61,500 people.

"It's just a very popular spot because the beach is huge and (it's a) nice place to swim and relax," Jarvis said. "Also available at that beach is a bath house and a food bar."

The park is open from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. To get into the park, it's $7 per vehicle. Entry to the water park is an additional $5 for adults or $4 for ages 2-15. Children younger than 2 are admitted free.

Splash 'n' Blast also hosts birthday parties and other group events. However, such gathering are only available before or after business hours.

"That's always a fun thing to schedule because the kids have a fun time having the water slides to themselves," Jarvis said.

Jarvis said Kensington doesn't have any immediate plans to make any additional upgrades to the Splash 'n' Blast water park.

"But that doesn't mean that won't change in the near future," she said. "Who knows what could happen?"

Splash 'n' Blast isn't the only popular nearby water attraction for families this summer.

Hudson Mills Metropark in Dexter has a new water feature offered this summer called the Rip Slide, a blue-and-yellow 175-foot-long inflatable slide.

"We have never had a water feature here besides the Huron River to take a canoe trip on, so we thought this would be a great asset to the park," Jarvis said. "It's been quite the success this summer so far."

Hudson Mills is open from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. and those who want to ride the slide can either pay $2 a ride or $10 for the whole day.

"It's a pleasure to watch the families come here and have a blast all day and leave with a smile on their faces," Jarvis said.

United Way, Walmart to host school supply drive

It's not unusual for low-income students to come to class without a pencil or pen with which to take notes, according to a local school teacher.

Plymouth Community United Way and Walmart are trying to make sure less fortunate children are ready to learn by holding Back-to-School Supply Drive at the Canton Walmart store. The drive will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 15, at the Walmart, 45555 Michigan Avenue.

"There are over 1,600 students in the area who could benefit from this drive," said Marie Morrow, PCUW president. "It is a good way to help youth get a head start in September."

Morrow suggests parents purchase a few extra school supplies while shopping for their children. Those who donate new supplies will be eligible to win a Walmart gift card.

For more information on how you can help, go to www.plymouthunitedway.org, call 734-453-6879, ext. 7, or email randi.williams@pcuw.org.

New school supplies may also be dropped off at the PCUW office at 960 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Suite 2, in Plymouth.

Tubby's Submarines purchases Just Baked

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

Just Baked has become just bought.

Roseville-based Tubby's Grilled Submarines announced Monday it would purchase the Livonia company and hopes customers will enjoy cupcakes with a sandwich at its shops.

The company said it was purchasing the cupcake company that began in 2008 in Livonia and plans to add some of its lineup to its 60-plus sandwich shops across Michigan. The purchase included Just Baked's trademark, product recipes and distribution rights. Terms of the sale were not announced. Franchise stores in the Just Baked line, including the original shop on Seven Mile east of Farmington in Livonia, are expected to remain open after the sale and are not affected by the purchase.

Just Baked, which closed several shops earlier this year across Michigan and Ohio, was a local company the owners of Tubby's Submarines saw as a great fit to add under their wing.

"This is a great opportunity for us to begin to broaden Tubby's offerings and our overall appeal. That's something we've wanted to do, the time was right for us to do it and the well-known Just Baked name was available," Tubby's CEO Robert Paganis said in a news release. "We have room to display the desserts in our stores so there's no added cost to our franchisees and they're eager to have delicious desserts to offer customers."

Details on how the company plans to move forward with the business are still in the development phase, director of marketing Aimee Fitzgerald said, though she said the company plans to eventually offer cupcakes in its sandwich shops and provide them as an additional offering with catering.

"I think it was another solid, Michigan brand,"

DAVID VESELENAK

Cupcakes are expected to be available at several Tubby's Grilled Submarines shops in future months after the company recently acquired Livonia-based Just Baked.

Fitzgerald said. "This has been a nice top-off."

It's expected to be several months before customers will be able to have a cupcake with their sandwich at Tubby's, Fitzgerald said.

"Most of the details haven't been hammered out," she said. "We've just acquired the business and we're not exactly sure how the details are going to work out at this time."

Tubby's operates several shops in western Wayne County, including a location at 37420 Plymouth in Livonia, 39621 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, 33995 Ford in Westland and two locations in Redford: 27268 Grand River and 24000 Plymouth.

Franchise owners 'truly are heroes'

Just Baked began as a business venture by Livonia resident Pam Turkin in 2008. The company quickly expanded to several stores across Michigan and Ohio, then added a 17,000-square-foot production facility in 2011 in Livonia's industrial corridor, which has been closed for several months, Turkin said.

Fitzgerald said Tubby's is not expected to bring on any of the current employees from Just Baked with the purchase.

Turkin, who expects to be an unpaid adviser to the brand, said the work done by the franchise owners in the past several months has helped keep Just Baked going and praised them for their work in keeping the name alive.

"Todd and I would like to thank the owners of the six current Just Baked stores located in Canton, Troy, Novi, Southgate, Ann Arbor, and Livonia; they truly are the heroes in this new Just Baked story. These entrepreneurs have kept the brand alive during this transitional period and for that we are grateful. They have always been committed to the Just Baked brand and will now have the rights to continue to bring the community the greatest Just Baked products using the original baking team," Turkin said. "The public should know that these business owners should continue to be supported, because without their faith in the brand, it would not exist today."

She said being a part of Livonia has been a bright spot for the business since it began and hopes the community will continue to support the brand going forward.

"We love that we've been a part of so many celebrations in Livonia," she said in a phone interview with the Observer. "Livonia has always played a huge role in our story and they will continue to."

Citizen initiatives receive approval for signatures

Sick time, taxes and voting issues could all be on 2016 ballot

By Kathleen Gray
Michigan.com

2016 is shaping up to be a big year for ballot proposals.

Last week, the state Board of Canvassers approved the form of three more citizen-driven initiatives that could appear on the November 2016 ballot. With the three new petitions, there could be a total of eight groups in the field collecting signatures for ballot proposals.

The three latest proposals:

» The Earned Sick Time Act would require employers to allow employees to earn sick time to deal with health, personal or family issues. Employees of small businesses could earn an hour for every 30 worked up to 40 hours of paid sick leave a year. All other employees would earn one hour for every 30 worked up to 72 hours in a year.

The Legislature passed a law this year that prohibits communities from passing ordinances that dictate wages and benefits, such as paid sick leave, for employers in their towns. The citizen-initiated proposal is the response to that law.

» The Corporate Fair Share Taxes Act would increase the state's corporate income tax from 6 percent to 11 percent and earmark that money toward fixing Michigan's roads.

After voters defeated a proposal May 5 that would have raised the sales tax, in part, to fix Michigan's roads, the Legislature has been unable to come up with a solution for the state's crumbling infrastructure. Democrats in the House have proposed raising the corporate income tax from 6 percent to 9 percent to raise money for roads, but Republicans have said that proposal is a non-starter. Senate Republicans have proposed raising the gas tax by 15 cents a gallon over three years to raise money for roads, but the House hasn't taken a vote on the proposal yet.

» Let's Vote, Michigan would amend the state constitution to establish voting by mail for all Michigan elections. Three states — Oregon, Colorado and Washington — have vote-by-mail options.

In the first two proposals, groups organizing the petition drives would have to gather at least 252,523 valid signatures to put the issue to the Legislature, which could either vote to approve the initiative and it would immediately become law, or the Legislature could offer an alternative or do nothing and the matters would go to the statewide ballot for voters to decide. The vote-by-mail initiative is a constitutional amendment that requires at least 315,654 valid signatures and would go straight to the ballot.

The business tax hike for roads is the most controversial and attracted a big crowd to the canvassers meeting. The initiative is being led by unions representing carpenters, laborers and operating engineers.

Tom Lutz, a carpenters union official and spokesman for Citizen for Fair Taxes, said people will be out in the field quickly to begin gathering signatures. And it will go forward no matter what the Legislature does with trying to find a solution for roads.

"It really doesn't matter what they do. This would be the fairest way that we've provided," he said. "This gives back approximately half of the $2 billion tax break that corporations got."

But Tricia Kinley, of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, said the proposal was dangerous and reckless.

"These would have devastating consequences to Michigan's job providers and economy," she said. "And the irony is that these union carpenters and engineers — the people who actually employ them would suffer huge consequences by doubling their taxes."

The Coalition Against Higher Taxes, which fought the May 5 ballot proposal that would raise the sales tax, in part, for roads, is continuing its advocacy against the business tax hike for roads proposal.

"Anyone who believes a 5-percent increase in the corporate income tax isn't going to be passed along to the middle class and consumers is fooling themselves," said Randall Thompson, spokesman for the coalition.

The Board of Canvassers has already approved the form of five other citizen initiatives that would have to go to the Legislature first if the 252,523 valid signatures are approved.

Those initiatives include: two proposals that would legalize and regulate the use, manufacture and sale of marijuana for both medical and recreational use; a measure that would ban the use of horizontal hydraulic fracking in the state; a repeal of Michigan's prevailing wage laws, which require that union-scale wages be paid on public construction projects; and a proposal to prohibit health providers from charging different prices for the same services or medical goods.

The organizers of the proposals are given 180 days to collect the needed signatures before the canvassers rule on the validity of the petitions.

Masco moving its headquarters to Livonia

By Frank Witsil
Michigan.com

Masco, the Michigan-based maker of brand-named faucets and other building products, plans to move its headquarters from its longtime home in Taylor to Livonia by the end of next year.

The company, which spun off its installation and services business and has cut corporate staff over the years, intends to move into a new, three-story, 75,000-square-foot building on about 12 acres at West Seven Mile Road, near Schoolcraft College.

Masco hopes that it can begin construction by September and move by December 2016.

The company's research and development center will remain in Taylor, at 26855 Trolley Industrial Drive.

"Masco has been a tremendous asset to the city of Taylor and we are disappointed to see them leave," Taylor Mayor Rick Sollars said. "But we also recognize the business environment and the pressures involving these types of large corporate decisions. We wish we could have done something to keep the Masco headquarters in Taylor, but that wasn't possible."

The current headquarters is more than 400,000 square feet and was built in 1966. It will likely be put up for sale, the company said.

A rendering of Masco's planned 75,000-square-foot headquarters in Livonia. It is expecting to start construction in September 2015, pending approval from the city council. About 250 people are expected to work there.

"The move to a new facility will provide a more collaborative, functional space and is an important step forward for us," Keith Allman, Masco's CEO and president, said Thursday. "Over the past several years, we have better aligned our corporate center services with the requirements of our overall business and our individual business units. As a result, our corporate office is now too large and segmented for our leaner workforce."

Masco, which Alex Manoogian started in 1929 as Masco Screw Products, has seen its workforce decline from more than 60,000 to about 30,000 worldwide and from about 700 to 250 at the headquarters in Taylor.

In addition to Delta and Hansgrohe faucets, the company also makes bath and shower fixtures, KraftMaid and Merillat cabinets, Millgard windows and doors, Behr paint and HotSpring spas.

Mark Taormina, planning and economic development director for Livonia, said the city is delighted to add another corporate headquarters and expects to approve the plans and discuss tax incentives.

Schoolcraft College Vice President Glenn Cerny wrote a letter to the city in April, requesting the city to create an Industrial Development District on the proposed facility, indicating an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate would be requested for the property. The city council approved the creation of the district at its June 15 meeting.

Next level drones, security cams, smart watch shakeup

The next generation of drones is here and this time they float, too. Parrot's new Hydrofoil Drone is a hybrid device that combines a flying mini-drone and a floating mini-drone.

Together, the components allow users to hit the open water as fast as 6 mph before launching a quadcopter via a smart phone app turned remote control.

In the fall, the Hydrofoil will be available among a new line of mini-drones that include the Parrot Jumping drone, which can drive up to 4 mph and jump more than two feet in the air. With each mini-drone retailing for less than $200, price is not a barrier.

Move over, home security companies

Tech company Netatmo may have just made the traditional home alarm system irrelevant thanks to its new Welcome Camera, which offers facial recognition.

The Welcome Camera retails for $199 and eliminates the need for monthly fees and remote professional monitoring. With Welcome, users stream their camera's view remotely from their computer or mobile device. The camera alerts users to movement and recognizes faces of guests coming to your door — or anywhere else your camera is placed.

Facial recognition software detects new faces and flags them with a question mark, alerting the user to a new person in the camera's view.

In full disclosure, I work for a company that represents both Parrot and Netatmo, but that doesn't make their products any less noteworthy or groundbreaking. Their affordable prices make drones and home security a true possibility for the average consumer.

Smart watch shakeup

For months, talk about smart watches and tech wearables have revolved around the launch of the new Apple Watch. But after an initial sales boom in April, sales have decreased 90 percent as of July 1.

It could be that Apple loyalists and consumers rushed to pre-order the device. Or it could be that many tech consumers already own smart watches, traditional watches or fitness trackers that have some similar functions and there is no need to double dip. Or it could be that the $549 base price is a bit much for many consumers to stomach. While that's within the going rate for a cell-phone or computer, our cellphones are often subsidized through two-year contracts with carriers. And while premium computers remain expensive, mainstream models are available for less and less each year.

As the Apple Watch's future is uncertain, one thing about tech wearables and mobile tech devices is clear: not every consumer will own one type of every device. It is expensive and illogical for manufacturers to assume each individual will own a smart phone, a smart watch or wearable, a tablet and a computer.

If you are like me and you think we are heading in the wrong direction by making computers smaller and less functional by placing them on our wrists or within our glasses, maybe you already know the destiny of the Apple Watch. It could be the next Google Glass which, as of January of this year, isn't being sold anymore.

Civil War replica cannons coming to state Capitol

Restoration of the state Capitol dome isn't the only change coming to Michigan's historic building

At noon Saturday, Aug. 8, the Capitol lawn will see the return of the famed Loomis Guns — replicas of the historic Civil War cannons that Michiganders took into battle more than 150 years ago.

The project has been funded through private fundraising efforts.

Two 10-pound Parrott guns once flanked the walkway that leads to the front entrance of the Michigan Capitol, according to state Sen. Mike Kowall, R-White Lake, who championed the plan with Sen. Steven Bieda, D-Warren. The Michigan Capitol was dedicated to the memory of Michigan's Civil War soldiers and the Loomis guns symbolically protected the building's main entrance.

It is believed that the original guns disappeared approximately 70 years ago during a World War II scrap metal drive. With the 150th anniversary of the American Civil War, the two spent the past two years raising money to bring exact replicas of the guns back to the state Capitol.

"This project allows us to remember our Civil War soldiers and commemorate their extraordinary efforts — it's been a great and humbling experience for us," Kowall said. "It's amazing the horrors these brave men went through. Michigan made a commitment to remember them and it's time we honor them by restoring their history."

The original cannons belonged to the renowned Loomis Battery,

"This project allows us to remember our Civil War soldiers and commemorate their extraordinary efforts ..."

STATE SEN. MIKE KOWALL
sponsor of cannon fundraising led by Gen. Cyrus O. Loomis of Coldwater and composed of local volunteer soldiers of the Coldwater Light Artillery. The Loomis Battery participated in many significant battles, including Perryville, Stones River and Chickamauga.

"Like all of America's Civil War soldiers, Michigan's Civil War soldiers gave up so much for our nation and this is our way of thanking them," Bieda said. "Like many in Michigan, I have a passion for our history and when I found out these original guns went missing, I immediately agreed to work with Sen. Kowall to bring Michigan's history back to the Capitol's front steps to bring that legacy to life."

A public ceremony is planned for Aug. 8 on the front lawn of the state Capitol as the Loomis cannons are restored to their rightful place. The event will include Civil War re-enactors, firing of cannons, an original Loomis cannon on display, a President Abraham Lincoln re-enactor and more. This historic and fun event is planned as a family affair.

John Glenn High School alum begins fundraiser to help planetarium 'shine again'

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

When Steve Koponen and his wife Sandi got together with high school friends in June for a bit of a reunion, they wanted to come up with a few activities. One of them was visiting their alma mater, John Glenn High School, specifically the planetarium.

They were disappointed when they found out it wasn't really functioning.

The Koponens, 1989 graduates of the Westland high school, decided to turn that disappointment into a project to raise enough money to update the planetarium.

"We have pride in our alma mater and this is a good way to give back," said Koponen, a Farmington resident. "We saw it and said we should plan something. My wife and I said we're going to do it."

Working through the popular GoFundMe website, Koponen has set up a fundraising page aimed at getting enough money to bring the planetarium into the 21st century. The goal is $50,000.

The high school opened in 1964, just two years after its namesake, astronaut John Glenn, became the first man to orbit the Earth. The school included a planetarium which was funded through a grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Fifty years later, its analog equipment is outdated and in disrepair.

Analog technology

According to Koponen, a science teacher in the Farmington Public Schools, the planetarium still uses the original 1960s analog technology that was installed when the school was built. A huge light projects stars out of a large metal ball in the center of the room and is operated through a series of switches and dials.

In a post on the GoFundMe Page, Koponen said the old analog equipment remains unreliable and low-tech. The plan is to replace it with a digital system and an iPad to control the planetarium and new LED energy-efficient cove lighting.

"Having a digital system in the planetarium would again make the John Glenn planetarium a shining star in the school and in the community, with a potential to offer a great resource for astronomy students and a wonderful potential to again offer planetarium programming to other students as well as community groups," he wrote.

The biggest expense is the digital equipment, which Koponen said "is pretty cutting-edge."

The fundraising drive kicked off three weeks ago and, to date, it's raised just under $1,700. Koponen hopes it will pick up once school starts next month. It has the support of Wayne-Westland Assistant Superintendent John Albrecht and planetarium directors David Christiansen and Linda Willman.

In a letter posted on the GoFundMe page, Albrecht described the planetarium as one of the gems of the high school and the Wayne-Westland Community Schools district.

"I support Steve's work developing a fundraising effort to generate dollars to upgrade the facility to 21st century technology," Albrecht wrote. "I recall the great times I had as a teacher and administrator at John Glenn High School. I also had the experience of being a parent of five John Glenn graduates. It was a wonderful place for life beyond high

Benefit community

Christiansen and Willman echoed Albrecht's support, noting that "the upgrades would benefit not only the students of the Wayne-Westland Community School District, but the community as a whole."

Koponen remembers the planetarium from his elementary school days.

"Growing up in Westland, I remember in elementary school walking to John Glenn to get my first taste of astronomy in its planetarium, which is a rare treasure to have in a high school building," he said.

Koponen hopes to have enough money raised by November.

Donations can be made at John Glenn Planetarium: Shine Again page at www.gofundme.com.

People also can send a check made payable to John Glenn High School with Planetarium Fund written on the memo line and send it to Steve Koponen, 22973 Mayfield Ave., Farmington, MI 48336-3965.

"I would love to pull this off; it would be one of the coolest things I could do in my lifetime," he said.

Patches, coins show officer's travels, pride in profession

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

When retired police officer Hugh Jordan travels, he's a man on a mission. He visits police and fire departments in search of patches and coins to add to his collection.

"I stop in and talk to them," said Jordan, a Northville resident who spent 20 years with the Northville Police Department followed by 15 with the University of Arizona police. "Some of them are really nice."

The walls of his Allen Terrace apartment are adorned with police memorabilia, representing 29 U.S. states.

"It's sort of like Where's Waldo? They're all over the United States," he said.

Jordan had some 2,500 Michigan police patches, which were getting overwhelming. Many went to police and fire training academies at Schoolcraft College locally, as well as the Tucson, Ariz., Police Academy in frames for display.

Seven frames on his wall represent Michigan, he said, noting the difficulty of adding up and arriving at a total of patches. He does his own framing with Hobby Lobby frames.

A Kansas policeman friend has enhanced the collection. "He got me started on collecting Kansas ones. He is in Mission, Kansas," said Jordan, 66.

Family ties

The Northville police frame includes patches for officers as well as auxiliary and dispatch. It makes sense Jordan would collect, as public safety is the family business.

Son Hugh Jordan III is a Northville Township firefighter, while son Jason Jordan is both a Huntington Woods policeman and a paid-on-call city of Northville firefighter.

"And my daughter is a dispatcher in Farmington

MEMORIES OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

Retired Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said of his career, "I have a couple of scrapbooks. A lot of things happen in your career, the good things you want to remember. As you get older, you need to hang on. I've had more good spots than bad spots."

Berry, who now does private security, worked 36 years in law enforcement. He knows of Northville's Hugh Jordan, but doesn't know him personally.

When Berry was hired by Plymouth police in 1962, "I think I started out with (badge No.) 6 or 8, something like that." The No. 1 badge, the first issued by Plymouth, was given based on seniority.

"That was my badge," Berry said. "It got passed down to me. It was kind of an honor."

He added the Plymouth Township Police Department originated in 1985.

Hills," he said of Jennifer Jordan.

"I started when I was in Tucson," he said of his collecting, beginning some 15 years ago. "It seems like it's growing. It's just something I started doing. It gives me something to do and I enjoy doing it. It gives me some sort of pride."

Fellow Allen Terrace residents tell him, "This is unbelievable. This should be in a museum."

Jordan has put on several memorabilia shows and received awards for his collection. "We trade back and forth," he said of fellow public safety personnel. "I don't trade with just anybody."

He's now collecting public safety coins "to keep everybody happy. I try to get all I can," said Jordan, who started at the University of Arizona in 1996 and was its Officer of the Year his second year there.

Grandson Cameron Irby, almost 10, who lives in Arizona, went with his granddad to a national patch show after Cameron built an impressive sight now in the apartment.

"He built an entire LEGO city," Jordan said with pride. "All these buildings are built from scratch." The LEGO cars are from kits and Jordan modified the city to say in part Northville Fire Department.

"He built and I was his financier, which I didn't mind at all," said Jordan, who's acted to the award-winning LEGO for which Cameron took the stage in front of hundreds of professionals for his kudos.

"They couldn't believe what he had built," said Jordan, who has nine grandchildren, three in Tucson and six here, in Livonia, Redford and Novi.

Far and wide

The coin collection includes multiple Michigan State Police coins, including for physical fitness. Jordan has taken the train from Ann Arbor to Tucson and has Amtrak and Union Pacific's HazMat unit items in his collection from those treks.

"I stop and talk to cops along the way," he said. His University of Arizona commander and chief remain helpful with Jordan's hobby. "I'm looking for things that stand out, that look different."

Other highlights include a National Park Service badge and coin, both University of Michigan and Michigan State University items, law enforcement items for a Michigan Conservation Officer, the U.S. Marshal for both east and west Michigan and such local departments as Bloomfield Hills, Canton, Royal Oak and Westland.

He also looks on eBay. "These are all the Kansas sheriffs I have so far," he said, pointing to one area. A number of Michigan sheriff's departments are also included.

There's even Fishers, Ind., and other "tiny towns you've never heard of." For big cities, Detroit is well-represented.

Jordan's girlfriend is from Pinckney and got him police items from there for his collection.

He's even got a Geronimo, Okla., police patch, along with a signed Jerry Orbach Law & Order photo. There's a photo of him with fellow young Northville police officers aiming in unison at a target.

Jordan has had two heart operations and melanoma. "There are things I want to see and do," including time with family, he said.

He's seen many changes in Northville upon his return, but still enjoys it. He volunteers mornings for Meals on Wheels.

"It makes me really feel good," he said of that volunteering. "I wish I'd done some of this when I was younger."

His growing collection will, he hopes, someday go to a training academy, "where the young police officers can enjoy it by looking at it. I want somebody to enjoy it. I don't want it sold." A police department with display space is another possibility someday.

"I've had a good life and I've enjoyed it," he said. "Every day I went to work, I said I'm going to have some fun today."

He twice saw President Barack Obama while working in Arizona.

Plymouth resident Sarah Zarend Sollars (right) is a Madonna University senior paralegal major who works as an intern with attorney David Helm at Helm Law Office in Plymouth. Sollars, who said the internship is an invaluable part of her degree program, will graduate in December 2015.

MU department chair: Paralegal jobs the rise

"This is the best job market for paralegals that I've seen in my 30 years of paralegal education," said Jennifer Coté, chair of the paralegal studies department at Madonna.

Employment of paralegals and legal assistants is projected to grow 17 percent from 2012 to 2022, faster than the average for all occupations, according to the U.S. Department of Labor Bureau of Labor Statistics (<http://www.bls.gov/ooh/legal/paralegals-and-legal-assistants.htm>).

During the winter semester 2015, which concluded at the end of April, there were 49 paralegal jobs posted on Madonna University's Career Services website. Recent Madonna graduates work as clerks for a U.S. magistrate and a Michigan Court of Appeals judge. Others are employed in law firms, corporate legal departments (including the auto industry), banks and the U.S. Attorney's office.

According to Coté, most large law firms, corporations and government bodies require that paralegals possess a bachelor's degree in paralegal studies. In addition to a bachelor's degree, Madonna University's paralegal program - approved by the American Bar Association - offers a post-baccalaureate certificate in paralegal studies and a nurse paralegal certificate. Degree completion is available for those with an associate's degree. Fall classes start Sept. 8 and are offered week nights, weekends and online. For information about pursuing a paralegal studies degree, call Coté at 734-432-5570.

The National Utilization and Compensation Survey Report, published by the National Association of Legal Assistants, showed the average annual paralegal compensation for 2014 was $55,223 for the Great Lakes Region. Nationally, experienced paralegals in corporate, employee benefits and securities law were the highest paid, with annual salaries ranging from $70,000 to more than $100,000.

Be smart: Research Medicare plans, costs and benefits

Medicare, the government-sponsored program to provide health care for those who age 65 and older, just celebrated its 50th anniversary. Whether or not you think Medicare is a good program, it is something that people should understand.

Like everything else in our society, Medicare has gotten more complex over the years. It is important to understand the program because, the more you understand, the better you will be able to use it to fit your individual situation.

Medicare can be broken down into four basic programs - Parts A, B, C and D. Medicare A is basic coverage. When someone turns 65, they are eligible to collect Medicare A without cost. Medicare A is the coverage that you have while you are a patient in the hospital. Typically, Medicare will cover the first 60 days of a hospital stay free of charge. If you are in the hospital for more than 60 days, Medicare will partly cover days 61-90. Medicare A also covers your stay in a skilled nursing facility, for limited periods of time, hospice care and some home health care.

Medicare B is the coverage for health care outside of medical facilities. It covers doctor visits, outpatient procedures and lab tests. Medicare B can also be used to cover certain medical equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers and scooters. Medicare B is not free and requires a monthly premium.

Rick Bloom

The premium is a sliding scale based upon your income. Typically, you sign up for Medicare B at the same time you apply for Medicare. Medicare Parts A and B typically cover 80 percent of your medical costs. You will also want to research purchasing what is known as a Medigap plan that will cover the remaining 20 percent of your medical costs.

Medicare C is also known as Medicare Advantage. This program is offered by private companies and it incorporates Medicare A and B. Typically, Medicare Advantage Plans are HMOs (health maintenance organization) or PPOs (preferred provider organization).

Medicare Advantage Plans are offered by such companies as Humana, United Health and Aetna. There are certain minimums that Medicare Advantage Plans must cover, but the scope of the coverage and the cost vary. These plans limit your selection of doctors and facilities to a select network of providers.

Medicare D is the prescription drug coverage and, similar to Medicare Advantage Plans, is offered through private insurance companies. In Medicare D, all plans are based on a calendar year and there is an open enrollment period, typically in the last part of the year. That is the only time that you can enroll or change your prescription D plan.

It is important for everyone to understand Medicare coverage and options. It is important to understand the different coverages and their cost. For those people who are still working past 65 and who have health care coverage at work, it is important to coordinate.

When it comes to choosing a Medicare Plan, consider cost and coverage, along with quality of care and convenience.

To learn more about Medicare, go to www.medicare.gov. The site offers a wealth of information. The time you spend understanding Medicare and your benefits could lead you to better coverage, better quality of care and lower cost.

Good luck.

Motorsports Hall of Fame finds new home in Florida

By Cal Stone
Staff Writer

The Motorsports Hall of Fame of America has finally found a new home and it couldn't be more appropriate.

"The hall will be relocating to the Daytona Speedway in the months ahead to a 20,000-square-foot facility as part of the Daytona Experience," Ed Kriewall said.

The city manager of Novi was instrumental in creating the original hall of fame, which was located in the since-demolished Novi Expo Center on the southwest corner of Novi Road and I-96.

"The hall started out in Novi as a direct spin-off of the city of Novi acquiring the famed Novi Indy Car stable from Andy Granatelli, who got it from Novi industrialist Lou Welch," Kriewall said.

Welch manufactured automotive parts at a facility on Novi Road (just south of Main Street) near the C&O railroad tracks. The water tower, featuring a depiction of the Novi Special race car, is the only remaining vestige of Welch's facility.

"The Novi Special is one of the most famous cars to race at Indy," Kriewall said. "Its uniqueness is the power plant, a one-of-a-kind V8 developed by Welch."

With a double overhead cam engine and an integral supercharger, the car developed a whine that could be heard 10 miles from the speedway.

The Novi Special never won at Indy, but it sat on the pole as the fastest qualifier at the time.

The most noted driver of the original car, Duke Nalon, was inducted into the Hall of Fame at the 27th induction ceremony June 18 at The Fillmore Detroit.

How it came to Novi

After the city of Novi acquired the stable, Dick Lee, from the Michigan Motorsports Hall of

ABOUT MOTORSPOITS HALL OF FAME OF AMERICA

The Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame is operated by the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame of America Foundation, Inc. The museum houses more than 40 racing and high-performance vehicles. The constantly changing collection features vehicles from the world of Indy cars, stock cars, Can Am, Trans Am, sprint cars, powerboats, truck racing, drag racing, motorcycles, air racing and even snowmobiles.

The museum showcases exhibits and photographs of the personalities, manufacturers and machines of all kinds of racing and their rich legacy. Other features include exciting racing videos, driving simulation, games, driver uniforms and memorabilia displays.

Fame, contacted Kriewall and put forth that Novi should explore the idea of creating a national motorsports hall of fame.

In the mid-1980s, Kriewall invited Lee to a gathering of Novi residents for Saturday morning meetings at Fire Station No. 1. In attendance was Larry Ciancio, director of racing for PPG Industries and The Norton Co.; local attorney and then-Mayor Pro Tem Ron Watson; and several local racing enthusiasts.

After many Saturday meetings, the concept gathered steam and Ciancio emerged as the first chairman of the fledgling plan.

"As the concept picked up steam, the Novi Expo Center was beginning to unfold," Kriewall said. "Blair Bowman (owner) stepped forward to provide a space in the converted Adell facility to house the initial Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame of America."

The concept which began in Novi is now regarded as the premiere racing hall of fame in the U.S., according to Kriewall.

The hall was mothballed when Bowman left the Novi Expo Center and opened a new facility in 2005 just west on Grand River Avenue, now known as The Suburban Collection Showplace. The hall moved to the Detroit Science Center in 2009; the Daytona move is anticipated to be complete in January 2016.

Parents need to keep children's vaccines current

The countdown is on to the start of the new school year. Displays of school supplies line the aisles of stores and retailers are filling their racks and shelves with the must-have fashions for school.

According to National Retail Federation's Back-to-School Spending Survey, conducted by Prosper Insights & Analytics, the average family with children in grades K-12 plans to spend $630.36 on electronics, apparel and other school needs, down from $669.28 last year.

That's a healthy chunk of change to make sure children are ready for school, but there's one other thing parents need to do to make sure their children are ready when the school bell rings in September - making sure they are up-to-date on their immunizations.

August is National Immunization Month, a good time for parents to talk with their pediatricians about recommended vaccines. Before beginning school in the fall, children entering a licensed child care facility, kindergarten, seventh grade or moving to a new school district need to be up to date on their immunizations or obtain a waiver from their local health department, according to the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services.

"Immunizations are safe and effective and by keeping current on the recommended vaccination schedule, parents can protect their children and our communities against vaccine-preventable diseases," said Dr. Eden Wells, chief medical executive for the MDHHS.

Every year, there are cases of vaccine-preventable diseases the United States, which experienced a record number of measles cases during 2014, with 668 cases from 27, according to the Centers for Disease Control's National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases. That was the greatest number of cases since measles elimination was documented in the U.S. in 2000.

And between Jan. 1 and July 24, 2015, there were 183 cases of measles reported in 24 states, including Michigan.

The only way to reverse the trend is to build and maintain high vaccination rates in our communities. Currently, Michigan's statewide waiver rate for children and adolescents is 5 percent, but rates vary by county. To address this, MDHHS is partnering with local health departments to educate parents on the benefits of vaccines and the risks associated with not vaccinating - risks to both the individual and the community.

Parents who choose not to vaccinate must make an appointment with their local health department to receive a non-medical waiver; it is no longer available at schools or child care.

Beginning this year, a new administrative rule is in effect requiring parents to talk with a health educator at their local health department before opting their children out of vaccinations. The new rule ensures parents and guardians seeking a non-medical waiver have the opportunity to discuss their concerns and questions regarding immunizations prior to the waiver being signed.

Parents are encouraged to make an appointment with their family physician or local health department as early as possible. Further, cost should not be a barrier to vaccinations. The Vaccines for Children Program helps provide vaccines to children whose parents or guardians may not be able to afford them.

In Wayne County, the Public Health Department is holding a fun fest from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 20, at the Health Department offices at 33030 Van Born Road, Wayne, for parents and their children.

There will be plenty of activities for children and information for parents on such things as Head Start, health and safety, WIC and breastfeeding, as well as dental and hearing and vision screenings. There also will be displays by the Wayne police and Wayne-Westland fire departments, entertainment, food and beverages.

But most importantly, childhood immunizations will be available.

In the 200 years since vaccines were developed, more than 12 diseases, including measles, mumps, rubella, pertussis, diphtheria, polio, small pox and tetanus, have been almost eradicated in the United States. But the threat remains from non-vaccinated travelers who are exposed to those diseases in foreign countries.

Vaccinations are important. Yes, there are concerns about vaccines causing such illnesses as autism, but parents need to know all the information before making a decision about vaccinating their children. Parents can contact the Wayne County Health Department at 734-727-7000 for more information.

More information about vaccinations, including immunization schedules, local health department locations and resources regarding low-cost vaccination options for the uninsured or underinsured, can be found at www.michigan.gov/immunize.

McCormick is best

In response to "Detroit water chief draws Canton support" (Aug. 2, 2015), as a professional engineer, I've worked on big projects for DWSD and for its customers for over 30 years, worked with knowledgeable people who go back even further with DWSD and was a member of The Engineering Society of Detroit's Blue Ribbon Panel that examined DWSD's problems a few years back. I can say that Sue McCormick is the best and most competent leader DWSD has had since the 1960s, if not longer, especially considering today's tough political dimension. Plus, she's not politically driven and after three years at the helm, she knows the system and its challenges.

It would be a shame if a misguided search for "perfection" or political squabbles get in the way of retaining her as DWSD leader at this critical time.

Educate yourselves

All facets of the media are bombarding U.S. citizens with news of presidential candidates for 2016. How we wish we would have shorter election cycles similar to those of England and other countries.

As we research the policies, values, accomplishments and goals of the many possible candidates, I suggest we do the same for state and national current or potential candidates. The leaders of Michigan continue to disappoint me. Gov. Snyder and the Republican-controlled Senate and House of Representatives continue to disappoint me.

problem of the horrible roads in our state; taxpayers bear the brunt.

» In June, the governor signed legislation that allows faith-based adoption agencies to refuse to serve same-sex couples or unmarried couples if the religious beliefs of those couples were violated.

In 2018, citizens will vote for governor, secretary of state, attorney general, plus all seats in the state Senate and House. It is not too early to educate ourselves about the 2016 and 2018 elections. We must choose wisely for those leaders who policies espouse/ share our values and goals.

Sour effects of GOP

For those voters who hope and pray that the GOP will control both Houses of Congress, it is time to look at some

The P-CEP Marching Band is ready to perform at last Thursday's "Let's Go Blue" concert.

The P-CEP Marching Band has earned an invitation to perform in the 2016 Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena. But at a more than $500,000 tab to transport the students, instruments and other equipment, the effort needs community support. It's a great cause and one band members deserve. GOP history and take a good look at the sour effects created by the Republican Party.

For those voters who praise the era of Ronald Reagan, let us face the facts that Reagan increased the bureaucracy, increased government deficits, and presented a so-called "plan" to cut taxes, cut spending, to create a smaller government. Reagan said he would cut the Departments of Energy and Education. It did not happen. In fact, Reagan added a Department of Veteran's Affairs. Reagan increased the size of government from 1981-89. When he entered office, the U.S. deficit was $79 billion. When he left office the budget deficit was $155 billion. Is that

GOP progress?

Today, the U.S. voter faces a new election in 2016. So what might happen if the GOP wins the U.S. Senate? The GOP wants to ban abortion after 20 weeks of pregnancy. The GOP wants to strike parts of Obamacare, which affects the working class in America. The GOP wants to shrink the Environmental Protection Agency, which will allow more dirt in the air you breathe and more poison in the water you drink. The GOP Congress will stop all programs in Congress as they have done in the past.

In 1994, the GOP took control of the House and Senate. Bob Dole and Newt Gingrich pelted Bill Clinton to no avail until Gingrich softened and they passed a budget and welfare reform.

So if the American voter wants to see the U.S. government grind to a halt, then let the GOP takeover and we can say goodbye to the EPA, goodbye to Pell Grants for college kids, goodbye to food stamps, goodbye to Consumer Finance Protection. Of course, a GOP Congress and GOP president would spend money and time investigating the Benghazi Affair which is just another Republican mindless witch hunt where there is no witch except in the minds of people like Donald Trump.

Proposed raid on MEDC funding a truly bad idea for Michigan

The Michigan House recently introduced two bills that would redirect $135 million of Michigan Economic Development Corp. funding to address the state's road conditions. If passed, the proposal would cripple economic development efforts, including business development and attraction, community development, job training and entrepreneurship programs. House Speaker Kevin Cotter describes it as taking care of needs over wants, but isn't Michigan's economic future a need?

Jean Redfield
GUEST COLUMNIST

Michigan is becoming nationally recognized for its economic development ecosystem. At the Mackinac Policy Conference, Gov. Rick Snyder noted Michigan ranks second in National Economic Health Rankings and sixth in entrepreneurial climate. We've done great work identifying the best economic programs and helping them grow while eliminating ineffective initiatives. Shifting funding from these effective programs could have huge negative long-term impacts.

Roads are important, but not at the expense of an economic development ecosystem, which companies rely on for certainty.

As CEO of NextEnergy, a leading accelerator of advanced technologies, I've seen the results of MEDC initiatives first hand. Since 2002, NextEnergy has helped attract more than $1.6 billion in new investment and we are one of more than 50 organizations contributing to entrepreneurial and acceleration services in Michigan. We work with hundreds of entrepreneurs, early-growth companies and research teams each year, serving as a catalyst by helping them commercialize their technologies and connect with larger companies.

Through a recent NextEnergy Technology Challenge, one of our clients identified a new market and plans to expand its operations and hire 28 people. Just the hint that Michigan's economic development climate could change was enough to invite calls from Indiana and Ohio about moving to their states. Another client recently closed on $1.7 million to expand its operations. These companies are examples of small to medium enterprises, the business size responsible for the bulk of our economy and new jobs, and represent the company size least likely to leave Michigan once they've established roots here. Imagine how many would get courted to other states because our economic development volatility has signaled to the market that we no longer care to compete for this business.

A bigger question to ask is "What does Michigan want to be in 20 years?" Should we continue to rely on old-time approaches to economic growth or should we keep progressing toward an innovation-based economy? I believe the latter is essential to diversify our economy and keep the next generation of the auto industry - connected and autonomous vehicle solutions - growing in Michigan. To achieve this forward leaning, tech-based economy, we need more economic development investment to deliver talent and connectivity programs that help small companies and start-ups connect to the market.

Don't buy into the House road funding plan. Entrepreneurship and accelerated technology funding are critical to our economic growth. They're not "wants," they're definitely "needs" for Michigan if we hope to continue attracting and generating investment in the state. Michigan's roads need to be addressed, but this proposal is not the solution.

Jean Redfield is the president and CEO of NextEnergy.

Jordyn Shepler repeats as O&E golf champion

Madonna University senior and former Churchill star earns second straight title

Twice was just as nice for Livonia's Jordyn Shepler, who repeated Saturday as the overall champion of the Observer & Eccentric women's golf tournament at Whispering Willows Golf Course.

Shepler, who turned 21 last week, shot the same score (77) as she did a year ago in the Championship Flight and finished four strokes in front of Southfield's Shelly Weiss. Janina Jacobs, who had won four consecutive titles until being dethroned by Shepler last year, finished third with 86.

"Being the defending champion was a little nerve-wracking, because people are saying, 'Oh, you won this last year,'" said Shepler, who played a more balanced round this time. She shot 3-over-par 39 on the front nine and secured her

Crusaders sign another golfer

Madonna University women's golf coach Scott Marzolino announced a late addition to his 2015-16 roster with the signing of Colombia native Karen Zambrano to a letter of intent.

"To get a player of her caliber this late in the recruiting season was a great pickup for our team as we try and capture the conference championship," Marzolino said.

"With our three new players, plus all of the veteran experience we have coming back, I am excited to get practices and our events started in the next few weeks."

Zambrano is the third player to sign with the Crusaders for this season, joining Kelsey Edwards and Manuela Lopez Hernandez.

Zambrano comes to Madonna as the ninth-ranked golfer in Colombia after winning the Colombia National Youth Team Championship in 2014.

She also won medalist honors at three Interclub Junior Tour events, shooting a low round of 70.

The Crusaders open their fall schedule on Sunday, Aug. 30, at the Wolfpack Invite in Milwaukee, Wis.

Farmington Hills skipper Charles Blaty and crew cruise to victory in annual race on Lake Huron

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Wind speed and the ability of a crew to handle and harness it well makes all the difference in sailboat racing.

Charles Blaty of Farmington Hills and his team aboard the Days End mastered the task and sailed to victory last month in the annual Bell's Beer Bayview Mackinac Race.

It was the second time Blaty and his boat finished first in the Class R Cruising Class, having also won in 2008.

"Our boat does well under certain conditions," Blaty said. "It does well when it's a short race. When there's a lot of air, we do well."

"That year it was blowing pretty good. It was the same this year. We finished in 40 hours because it was a fast race. Last year it was a slow race, and we were second from

RECREATIONAL RUNNING

Naughton remains No. 1 in Founders Festival race

U-M's Taleen Shahrighian is women's winner in annual Farmington four-mile run

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

The annual Farmington Founders Festival four-mile road race undoubtedly will be on the 2016 calendar for Conor Naughton and Taleen Shahrighian.

Both have titles to defend

now. The pair of young runners from Northville were the men's and women's winners in the July 18 event.

Naughton is a two-time defending champion, having competed in the last three races. Shahrighian was a first-time participant and finished sixth overall.

The Founders Fest race is noted for its finish and the crowd lining both sides of Grand River Avenue, waiting for the annual parade to start.

Naughton and Adam Richmond, who was the 2013 winner and runner-up last year, gave people reason to cheer with a foot race to the finish line.

"It was a battle the whole last mile," Naughton said. "With about 100 meters to go, he was still up on me, and I was able to find one more gear and move by him at the end."

"It was fun and people were really enjoying the race going on. The crowd gave us some extra energy. With a lot of people watching, I didn't want to lose."

Naughton, who will be a senior at Northville High School, was 32nd and just last place.

"This year it was a fast race, and the boat really does well under those conditions. We got a lot of air. It was blowing in the direction we needed."

It was Blaty's third overall victory in the event, which started July 18 at Bayview Yacht Club in Port Huron and finishes each year at Mackinac Island.

For a change of pace and a new challenge in 2010, Blaty and Russ Martiniak won the Division V Doublehanded Class — a new category at that time for two-man crews.

Handicap scoring

Blaty and Days End won based on corrected time this year over Chas. Gabor of Troy, using the sailing community's handicap system.

Following a noon start on Saturday, Days End reached Mackinac Island just after 6 a.m. Monday, about 14 minutes behind Gabor's boat, Wasabi.

Blaty had a corrected time of 37:46:13, his friend and rival 37:52:09. Both have the same boat — a 32-foot Catalina 320 — but Gabor's has a different keel configuration.

"Because of that and because it's a handicapped system, he gives us a certain amount of time," Blaty said. "Even though he finished ahead of us, we corrected over him."

"Wasabi is exactly like ours, which is not surprising because, if it's great conditions for my boat, it should be great conditions for his boat."

Blaty and Gabor keep their boats at the same marina and race against each other throughout the summer, making for a spirited but friendly rivalry.

"I really respect him and, when you can beat the people fellow sailors do respect, it makes that win better," Blaty said.

Likes the challenge

In addition to winning their own 17-boat class, Blaty and his six-man crew also finished second in Cruising Class and ninth overall among 100 boats in the Shore Course Division II.

"It felt really good to win," Blaty said, adding he's in the sport more for the personal challenge. "It doesn't mean it's not a good race if you don't."

"Basically, you don't get a lot of challenges in your life. I feel fortunate for this one, to have the opportunity I have."

"In a certain way, it's like golf. You're not golfing against competition; you're golfing against the course. It's very similar with sailing. You're there to race the best race you can."

While the race ended well, it had a rough beginning for the sailors aboard Days End.

"A couple hours after the start, we got hit by a pretty good squall with about 40-knot winds, but it passed through," Blaty said.

"We saw it coming. Fortunately, we checked our radar and knew it was going to hit us before it did. The crew was able to put foul-weather gear on and shorten the sail, so when it hit we just kept sailing."

Come-from-behind win

Days End was among half the boats that followed the shoreline as opposed to going farther out.

Blaty checked the website (Yellow Brick) that tracks the race, shows where all the boats are and how fast they're going. He learned Days End was in 14th place.

"All the boats offshore were two knots faster than us," Blaty said. "Eventually, going inshore did pay for us."

"We found a wind line and carried that for 40 miles, all the way to Harbor Beach. We checked Yellow Brick again and they had us in first place."

"We were a long way from being finished. At that point, we decided we weren't going to look at Yellow Brick anymore."

"We were going to race the best race we could and not worry about it. We wanted to stay away from anything that might be negative." That proved to be a good move, too.

"After that we never stopped," Blaty said. "We kept moving. A lot of times you'll hit an area where there is no air and might stop for a couple hours. We didn't hit any of that."

"We made the turning mark near Thunder Bay at noon on Sunday. We hit it a lot quicker than we normally do."

"It's another 80 miles to Mackinac. From that point on, we just sailed the rhumb line from Thunder Bay, and things just went our way."

Veteran crew is key

While most boats have eight crew members, Blaty had five other experienced sailors with him.

They included his brother, Larry, and nephew, Alex. The others were Kurt Mitter, John Cooke and Matt Savage, who has done close to 45 Mackinac races.

"We've been sailing together now for 10 years," Blaty said. "When weekend night racing ends, we go out for practice."

"Most of the decisions we made (in the race) were sail changes. We did a lot of that. When the winds change, you want to get the best out of the boat, so you do sail changes."

Blaty, an electrical engineer who had sailed in 19 Mackinac races, and his crew know how to manage the simple things such as sleeping and eating during a race, too.

"I can pick any three (to be on deck at one time) and know they're going to do well," Blaty said. "That's a good crew."

"At night we were going with four up and two men down. Things can happen at night, and I thought we could push the boat better. I was more comfortable with that."

Blaty plans to return for his 20th Mackinac race and attempt to defend his title next year.

"When I did my first one in 1996, I got the bug then," he said. "It's just a very big part of summer."

missed being all-state in cross country. He was a regional champion and 15th in the state in the 3,200 meters.

Still a 'good time'

He won the Founders race in 21:02.3, which was slightly off the pace of his 20:53 time a year ago. Richmond finished in 21:06.8.

"It was a good time," Naughton said. "It was a little slower than last year, but I think that was purely because of the heat. I think I ran pretty quickly for July."

The length of the race suited Naughton well. A 5K is at the high end of his distance range.

"I think I'm able to find a little extra at the end when it's a four-mile race," he said. "It probably plays to my favor more than a 5K."

Naughton knows the course well because of his father Keith, who was raised in Farmington and also ran the race.

"I've run it five or six times and always enjoyed it," Naughton said. "I know the neighborhoods and some of the old stories my dad has told me about parts of the course that are fun."

On pace to win

Shahrighian, who ran a time of 22:18.2, will be a sophomore at the University of Michigan. She runs cross country and track for the Wolverines.

"I've never done a four-mile race before, but my average pace was 5:34, which was one of my best; so I was happy with it," she said.

"I was looking up different road races and saw that one. I'm more of a long-distance runner, usually anywhere from the mile up.

"Our (college cross country) distance is 6K, which is 3.7 miles. I figured it was close, so I could compare times. It's similar to what I'll be doing this fall."

Shahrighian was all-state in both sports at Northville High School and helped the Mustangs win the Division 1 state championship in cross country as a senior.

'A great course'

The Founders Fest was her first road race this summer, although she had done one trail race.

"I really enjoyed it," she said. "I like having all different levels of competition, running with the boys as well and having people of all ages. I thought that was nice."

"I thought it was a great course. It was fast. It had some gradual inclines. The last 400 meters was kind of downhill; I liked that for a fast finish."

Shahrighian trailed a former high school rival early in the race, but she moved ahead of her and even many of the male runners.

"That was pretty exciting," she said. "And they pushed me to go faster, so that was helpful to have them out there."

"The last mile and a half, I was alone to the end (among the women). I was just trying to pick off some guys in front of me and finish as strong as I could."

Thunder rolls to title

O&E WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT

Pritzl's never-give-up attitude provides payoff

By Dan O'Meara Staff Writer

Nobody was more surprised than Plymouth's Pam Pritzl after she won the First Flight championship Saturday in the annual Observer & Eccentric women's golf tournament.

After an admittedly poor start, Pritzl worked her way back into contention and eventually first place, finishing three shots ahead of Suzanne Madej at Whispering Willows Golf Course, 86-89.

"I didn't think I had any chance at all after playing so poorly at the start," Pritzl said, adding she was 10 strokes over par after the first six holes. "Things just started to click at seven, and I was only 4-over on the last 12 holes."

"Honestly, I don't know what happened. I just started playing better. I hit a few good shots, some putts went in and things turned around."

With several foursomes

playing behind hers, Pritzl had no idea where she stood in relation to the other players or that she was even a contender until well after she had finished the round.

"I was absolutely surprised - and winning was a complete shock," she said. "I was very happy to win the tournament, because there were some really good players in the field."

It was Pritzl's first time playing in the O&E tournament, and it was the first time she has won a tournament.

Pritzl has been playing quite well of late, she said, lowering her handicap from 17 to 14. Her average 18-hole score is in the low to mid 80s.

"Recently, I've been working a lot on my short game," she said. "I've worked a lot on chipping and putting, and making some key putts was the difference on Saturday."

Pritzl, who used to play in a league at Whispering Willows, has been a recreational golfer for 10 years and a serious golfer the last five.

She received a trophy and an $80 gift certificate to use in the WWGC pro shop for her victory, which she said is a statement about perseverance.

"I thought I was way behind because of my shaky start," she said. "It's a lesson in never give up, because you never know what can happen."

"I'm over-the-moon excited. The trophy means a little more this time. Hopefully, it's not the last one I win."

victory with 38 on the back. That was in marked contrast to last year, when she posted 3-under 33 at the start and finished with 44.

"It might have been the same score but not the same round," Shepler said. "I was more consistent this year. I was really good on the front nine last year."

"I was just hitting a lot of the greens. It helped to know the course and have played there so long and so many times."

Shepler said her nine-hole scores this year were more her average rounds, adding 33 is a really good round for anybody.

"And I got lucky last year," she said. "I eagled the (par-4) ninth hole, and that helped my score. This year, it was more fairways and greens and lot of putts made."

Repeat the feat

Shepler, who starred at Livonia Churchill High School and is a member of the Madonna University team, had another eagle this year on the par-5 10th hole.

"I hit a really solid drive and happened to catch the downward slope, so that gave me extra roll," she said. "I made a solid second shot, which put me within six feet of the hole, and I hit a little slider to make eagle."

Shepler had worked hard on hitting greens before the 2014 tournament, and that was a major factor in both of her wins.

"That's always a big goal of mine, because it makes it easier to score, obviously," she said. "I hit every green on the front nine this year, and it helped to make my score low enough to win."

Shepler had a bit of a rough start, however. She needed three putts to finish each of the first two holes.

"That put me into a different mindset, to get the ball to the hole on each hole," she said. "I was fine after the first couple holes, which knocks away the nerves, puts you at ease and gets you ready for the rest of the round."

Stays the course

Shepler had a nice lead more than halfway through the tournament and, though Weiss played well on the back nine, could afford to give away a couple of strokes on the last couple of holes.

"I think (knowing the course) helps everyone who plays a golf course a lot and happens to play in a tournament there," she said.

"You know all the little secrets of the course. It helps to build your score and makes you confident as to how you want to play the next hole."

Shepler, who said she most likely will return for a possible third straight title in next year, is looking forward to her senior season at Madonna.

"I have one last year; I don't want it to end," she said. "We have some new recruits coming in, so that's going to Realtors who know the market can help you find, or sell, a home.

Home selling, buying help: Talk to a pro, friends, too

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Realtor Noel Derr-Johnson has been with Century 21 Dynamic Realty in Westland 17 years. She also calls Westland home.

"I feel this is my community," said Derr-Johnson, who enjoys building a sense of community in her real estate work.

She and other industry pros have sound advice when you're buying or selling. "Someone with a lot of integrity and an honest reputation," she said. "I would say experience in the marketplace where you're looking and superior negotiating skills."

She agrees that asking trusted friends and family for referrals to real estate pros is sound. All Derr-Johnson's business is referral and repeat clients.

"I love working with first-time buyers," she said. "They can rely on my faith that we're going to get through this."

She's able to "jump hurdles" for first-timers and others, "so they want to refer people."

There can be a lot of anxiety in finding the right person to help you buy or sell a home. Buyers will be spending a lot of time with them throughout the process in a major decision with financial and lifestyle implications.

According to the National Association of Realtors' latest Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers, potential buyers should talk to friends and family to get their agent suggestions. In fact, 40 percent of buyers found their agent through a referral of a friend, family member, or neighbor (while another 12 percent used an agent they had worked with before).

On the seller side, 38 percent found their agent through referrals and 22 percent with an agent they had previously used.

Thirty-three percent of recent home buyers were first-time buyers, which is still suppressed from the historical norm of 40 percent among primary residence buyers.

For 43 percent of home buyers, the first step in the home-buying process was looking online for properties and 12 percent of home buyers first looked online for information about the home buying process.

Ninety-two percent of buyers use the Internet in some way in their home search process and 50 percent of buyers use a mobile website or application in their home search.

Real estate agents were viewed as a useful information source by 98 percent of buyers who used an agent while searching for a home.

The typical home buyer searched for 10 weeks and viewed 10 homes — this is two weeks shorter than the previous year's report.

Seventy percent of home sellers only contacted one agent before selecting the one to assist with their home sale.

The share of home sellers who sold their home without the assistance of a real estate agent was 9 percent. Forty-four percent knew the buyer prior to home purchase.

Livonia resident Maria Mitter used a Realtor from RE/MAX on the Trail in Plymouth when she bought her home five years ago.

"It was amazing," said Mitter, assistant director for Bright Futures, a program based at Eastern Michigan University that works in Wayne-Westland, Ypsilanti and Romulus district schools. "I'm quite happy where I am now."

Mitter looked for a home almost a year and appreciated the patience of Kim Belz, her Realtor. "She was the most patient person," Mitter said. "She got back to me right away. I was always impressed with her response back. She let me make my decision in what's best for me."

Belz was the listing agent at that time on a Plymouth home, and Mitter found her that way rather than asking friends and family for a Realtor contact. Mitter has since made a number of referrals to Belz.

Realtor Derr-Johnson said of the current market, "It's been a very nice summer." She appreciates her brokers' contributing to her success.

Derr-Johnson's cousin gave her a business tagline, "Prepare To Be Moved."

"He said it's really your personality that you move people," in both senses of that phrase, she said of her cousin's brainstorm.

In a building mood? Be informed, cautious

Q: I notice that there is a condo project being built out of empty shipping containers. I note that the empty shipping containers have been used overseas, but I am not aware if much of it is used in the United States. Do you have any comments?

A: Just as in any new construction, you must ensure the quality of the project by obtaining the proper warranties and, investigate the developer to make sure that the developer can stand behind its project. As a result of the new changes to the Michigan Nonprofit Corporation, Act, the developers and their first board of directors are much more immune from liability, which makes the purchase of any new property more risky, but being well informed is the answer.

Q: I am part of a small nonprofit condominium association. I recently received something from the "Division of Corporate Services," offering their services to complete our annual meeting minutes. The letter does state that we should not confuse these minute requirements with our obligation to file an Annual Report with the State of Michigan.

Are we required to file some sort of Annual Report with the State of Michigan?

A: If you are a nonprofit corporation, you are obligated to file an Annual Report regarding the nonprofit corporation with the State of Michigan once a year, which is due on Oct. 1 every year. You have received an advertisement from someone who wants to provide services to you.

Obviously, you are shrewd enough to recognize the need to consult with an attorney and that would be your best bet in terms of ensuring that the corporate affairs of the association are properly documented.

Report: Down payments inch up for 30-year mortgages

Down payments ticked up in the second quarter of 2015, according to a new report from LendingTree.

The average down payment percentage on a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage increased to 17.34 percent in the second quarter. The previous quarter down payments averaged 16.98 percent.

In dollars, the average down payment in the second quarter was $44,204.

"The spring and summer home buying season naturally creates more demand in the housing market," says Doug Lebda, founder and CEO of LendingTree. "With a more competitive housing market, it is common to see down payments rise. However, we also saw volume for FHA [Federal Housing Administration] loans increase a little over 5 percent quarter over quarter, signaling more first time home buyers entering the market. For potential buyers who have been sitting on the fence, it's still a good time to explore the housing market as interest rates remain historically low."

The average down payment on a FHA loan was 7.86 percent or $13,350 in the second quarter. The average down payment on a jumbo mortgage, on the other hand, was 23.61 percent or $215,909.

The following 10 states had the highest average down payments for a 30-year fixed-rate conventional loan, according to LendingTree:

Florida: 17.58 percent; Arkansas: 17.74 percent; New Hampshire: 18.16 percent; Connecticut: 18.62 percent; Massachusetts: 19.15 percent; Hawaii: 19.75 percent; New York: 19.97 percent; California: 20.01 percent; New Jersey: 20.14 percent; Washington, D.C.: 21.03 percent.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku saavy to the test!

Difficulty Level ★★ ★

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Color yourself happy

The crowd throws colored powder skyward at the first Festival of Colors in Novi last year.

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Prafulla Kharkar invites you to the "happiest event on the planet" this Saturday at Fuerst Park in Novi.

The Canton man guarantees you'll be singing, dancing and sporting a rainbow of hues in no time at the second annual Festival of Colors, also known as MI Colorfest, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 8, at the park on West 10 Mile at Taft.

"Every 45 minutes we do a color throw," said Kharkar, who coordinates the festival with his wife, Shivani, and other local volunteers. "We start counting from 10, nine, eight down to one and everyone jumps into the air and throws colors. All those colors at the same time, 1,000 people throwing colors, that is a beautiful sight. Nobody is spared. Everyone at the end is touched. It's that powerful."

Attendees toss the dry, colored powders imported from India into the air and at other revelers, while live bands perform. Before leaving the festival, they can blow the nonstaining powder off their clothing, skin and hair.

The event, which aims to promote friendship, unity, love and happiness through music and colors, is based on the Indian spring festival, Holi. A major difference between the Eastern and Western versions is the color used. In India, it's wet; at American color festivals, it's dry.

"In India, you don't gather in one place. You pull people out of their house and color them. Then you go to the next house and the third person's house," Kharkar said, adding that the festivities sometimes also include an alcoholic drink.

Although the festival in Novi will include Indian food and beverages, no alcohol will be served. Kharkar said the music and color throwing is enough to prompt smiles from ear to ear.

"We are giving the message of pure happiness with no drugs, no smoke."

Colorful atmosphere

Kharkar, who works in information technology, got his first taste of an American colorfest while visiting Pittsburgh, Pa., a few years ago. He participated in the festival, met the rock bands, and stayed in touch with them.

FESTIVAL OF COLORS RETURNS SATURDAY

Utah-based Ananda Groove performs mantra meditations while it rocks the crowd at a color festival.

Ananda Groove stays clear of colored powder that covers the crowd while it performs. The band will play at the Festival of Colors Aug. 8 in Novi.

FESTIVAL OF COLORS

What: The event is based on Holi, a spring festival in India, also known as the festival of colors. The Novi version is for all ages and will include live bands; dance performances; vegetarian food, including authentic spicy Indian dishes; dry, organic, stain-free colored powders thrown skyward every 45 minutes and at other attendees; vendors selling Indian jewelry, arts and crafts and other items; yoga; kids activities; souvenirs and raffle drawing

When: 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8

Where: Fuerst Park, at the Novi Civic Center, located at Taft and W. 10 Mile in Novi

Admission: $5 in advance; $7 at the door

Colors: Dry, organic One color bag is $3; five color bags is $15; protective mask is $1

Contact: mifestivalofcolors.com

With just three weeks of planning last year, he brought one band and lots of colors to Novi, attracting approximately 2,000 participants.

"I have so many pictures and one thing they have in common is everyone is smiling. The whole atmosphere became compassionate. The real deep meaning of this is when we get colored there is no differentiation behind the color. We are all human beings."

Kharkar said that while most festivals of colors are set on college campuses and draw mostly young adults, the Novi event targets families. He started planning the event four months ago and hopes it will attract a larger crowd than it did last year.

American color festivals started approximately 15 years ago in Utah. Joseph Perry, lead singer for Ananda Groove, was on hand for the inaugural event.

"It got bigger and bigger. We've been doing color festivals for 15 years and they've grown. The last one we did in March had 60,000 people come to it in two days. It has grown like crazy," Perry said. "Spanish Fork in Utah is the big one. The color is massive. There are no drugs, no alcohol served. You look ridiculous, but it's fun."

The band performs mostly at color festivals throughout the country. It played a three-hour set in Novi last year and will be back on stage for the second annual festival, along with other bands.

East meets west

"I've always had a soft spot in my heart for Eastern culture. I love the music and the chanting. It's what makes me tick as a musician," he said.

The band infuses its music with meditation chant, making it easy for the crowd to sing along with the lyrics.

"The music all is positive," Perry said. "I can't think of another word for the festival than fun with a capital F.U.N. We'll get to counting down (for a color throw) and say if you have stress or problems you're holding, let it blow out to the wind. It's a fun way to let go."

"It's amazing."
