Teachers reject proposed two-year contract

Educators vote 73 percent against, 27 percent in support

Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

It's back to the bargaining table after Plymouth-Canton teachers rejected Monday a proposed two-year contract by a majority of 73 percent of the 950 members who voted.

"They thought it was collectively time to send a mes-sage," said Bob Williams, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, which represents the teachers.

Following a theme of "Supported teachers make successful students," some 15 teachers, former teachers and parent supporters took turns Tuesday night explaining to the P-CCS Board of Education the difficulties of living on wages that have not kept pace with the economy nor allow teachers to adequately support their families or repay student

Despite the overwhelming rejection of the proposed contract, speakers expressed an understanding of the difficulties with state financing of public education. But teachers told the school board they could no longer continue to accept pay freezes and lower wages because the state requires a balanced budget that does not require budgeting for steps up in salaries.

In an unprecedented move from the board's tradition of not responding to public comments, John Barrett, board president, told the overflow crowd at the former Allen Elementary School that "we understand. Unfortunately, we

Members of local veterans groups gathered Monday in Plymouth to remember the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and honor the Americans who fought there — and all who served the U.S. in uniform, especially during World War II.

The Pearl Harbor Day remembrance, 74 years after the surprise attack on a U.S. Navy base, which brought the U.S. into the war, was held at Plymouth Community Veterans Memorial Park. Members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6695, Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528 and American Legion Post 391 were joined by family members, friends and local elected officials.

Funding in question for disabled recreation program

Darrell Clem Staff Writer

A Canton-based therapeutic recreation program that serves people with disabilities from across western Wayne County could be forced to scale back or increase fees unless funding is continued, officials say.

The program provides job-building skills, swimming, holiday dances, movies and numerous other activities for 150 people a year, helping them to become more independent and boosting their social skills. It serves a population with a wide range of physical and cognitive disabilities.

Jennifer Provenzano, Canton recreation specialist, said the program, largely based at the Summit on the Park recreation center, has survived with a $75,000 Wayne County grant for each of the past two years, but funding isn't guaranteed next year even though the number of participants has

"It would be sad if funding for that program was going in the other direction," she said.

Wayne County Commissioner Joe Barone, who represents Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, said money wasn't allocated in the county's new budget, but he is working to change that.

Old Village fixtures make way for new businesses

Matt Jachman Staff Writer

A Plymouth property owner is planning to bring new life to an Old Village commercial strip after the closure of two longtime neighborhood businesses there earlier this year.

Joe Ventura is remaking a building on Starkweather, north of Farmer, and exploring several options for locating two or three food-based businesses there.

Among the possibilities being discussed are a neighborhood pizzeria, a casual dining restaurant, an Italianstyle market, a Mexican restaurant and a Mediterranean

"I have several options and a couple of parties interested, Ventura said Tuesday. The Plymouth Township resident said he gets a call from a new prospective tenant every other week

Township board plans special meeting to address Salem issue

Matt Jachman Staff Writer

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees will discuss the possibility of selling water and sewer service to a Salem Township development, among other issues, during a special meeting.

The meeting is scheduled for 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 10, at Plymouth Township Hall.

A feasibility study, to determine if the township has the capacity to provide sewer and water service to a mixed-use development planned for Salem Township's east side, in the area of M-14 between Gotfredson and Napier, is one of the items on the agenda.

The study, to be paid for by the developer at a cost of up to $60,000, was approved on a split board vote at last month's board meeting, but some Plymouth Township residents have mobilized against it.

Supervisor Shannon Price said officials want to have more discussion.

"There are people who want to talk about it a little bit more," Price said Wednesday.

The feasibility study will look at whether the township can provide water and sewer service to a development, Salem Springs, planned for a site of about 370 acres. It would include a commercial district and a subdivision of up to 558 homes: 56 townhousestyle condominiums, 207 detached condominiums and 295 single-family homes. Salem Springs LLC is an offshoot of the

Livonia developers Schostak Brothers and

Price said that, if the study shows providing the services is possible, the ability to sell water and sewer services would get the township a seat at the table during discussions about the project and a chance to seek limits on its size and impact on Plymouth Town-

Opponents of the study, led by Trustee Bob Doroshewitz, argued last month that the township should not be making it easier for Schostak to put in a major development that would mean more traffic, a possible drop in water pressure and lower property values for westside residents.

Price said he wants also to ensure the township has enough water and sewer capacity to meet its own future needs, including for residential growth and the development of the planned Michigan International Technology Center in the Five Mile corri-

Price says Salem Springs will be developed whether the project gets water and sewer service from the township or not.

Other items on the agenda for Thursday's special meeting include a budget study session the township's next fiscal year starts in January and a closed session to discuss contract negotiations and an attorney's opinion.

Phoenix Theatres will play 'Star Wars' non-stop

The greatly anticipated Star Wars movie, The Force Awakens, hits theaters at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 17, to a nationwide, energetic fan base like few film series have ever known.

Phoenix Theatres will be the only known Midwest theater chain that will keep the doors open all night long, catering to those who miss out on the first showing and cannot wait another minute to see the J.J. Abrams' epic. "For the first time in the history of Phoenix Theatres, due to the national groundswell of demand for this film and the excitement it's generated, we've decided to start at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 19, and will keep it playing - non-stop straight through the night, early morning hours and on into the normal rotation of show times on Friday for over 30 hours of non-stop Star Wars action," Phoenix Theatres President Cory

"It was actually the employees who came to us, so excited about this film that they wanted to run all night with it. Our group of people are reallv excited about Star Wars and for the Cause of the Force, they wanted to do this," he added.

Jacobson is also former president of the National Association of Theatre Owners of Michigan and he knows of no other theater in the Midwest planning to show the film for more than 30 hours and all night long. Tickets may be purchased in advance at any Phoenix Theatres location or online at Phoenixmovies.net or Movietickets.com. Phoenix Theatres opened its first Detroit-area theater in 2001 and currently operates 10 screens at Laurel Park Place in Livonia, eight screens at the Mall of Monroe in Monroe and four at State-Wayne.

Wayne-Westland sets up strategic planning

Dreaming and thinking big doesn't cost anything, so officials in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools are looking for residents willing to help the district define its future by dreaming big about what the district wants for its students.

District officials are developing a strategic plan that will guide its direction over the next five to 10 years. It is an opportunity, they say, to "dream big," an opportunity to envision what could be and what will be in the future.

Wayne-Westland Community Schools is building a strategic plan officials said will be "the stimulus for continued innovation and excellence in our district, both now and into the future.'

A strategic plan is a guide to success and a chance for students, staff, parents, city officials and community members to share their dreams for the future of the district.

District officials are looking for creative thinking, innovative possibilities and out-ofthe-box ideas. They've set up a series of meetings through the end of January to help shape the plan.

Meetings are expected to last two hours, with the goal of being highly interactive, inspiring and engaging. Meetings are

New Kroger store in Northville to serve as model

Joanne Maliszewski

Staff Writer

For months, residents and passersby saw construction crews at the former Hiller's on Center Street. When the new Kroger opened in its place Sunday, it was like, well, a holiday gift of sorts.

The grand opening at 8 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 6, drew Northville community officials and crowds of shoppers, leaving many to drive around the the area looking for a parking spot. That didn't seem to bother shoppers, who wanted to get in and see the new store.

After all, unlike many former Hiller's markets that were reopened as Kroger stores, the Northville site took a bit longer. "The store was in need of extensive remodeling and structural repair," said Ken McClure, Kroger consumer communications manager. We had decided to close it immediately (in June) and give it a full-scale remodel.

In May, Kroger Co. of Michigan purchased the seven popular Hiller's stores, which were known for their ethnic foods and other hard-to-

But the new Kroger is what company leaders call a model for what future new stores will be like. Even as the smallest Kroger store at 36,000 square feet, the location boasts Murray's Cheese Shop and a world-class wine cellar that features beverage steward Kaila Boggs. A Starbuck's, one of the first to offer its breakfast sandwiches, is also a big draw. The store includes All Things Cheese, where shoppers can take a rest and order a meal. "As you order it, they are making it," McClure said.

A Boar's Head Sandwich Stop is also a new feature. "They have a hot Italian sandwich that will knock your socks off," he said.

Kroger will continue and expand on the Hiller's offerings of ethnic foods. Indian, Asian, Middle Eastern and Mediterranean offerings will be available, including a fresh salad bar.

"In fact, other of our Michigan stores have also expanded ethnic food selections, depending on the area," Mc-Clure said.

The grand opening was celebrated in style, with Kroger of Michigan president Jayne Homco presenting a $5,000 check to Northville Public Schools Superintendent Mary Kay Gallagher.

"In all the communities we operate in, we try to be involved in community projects," McClure said. "(School officials and Gallagher) were very gracious to come in at 8 a.m. on a Sunday."

Shoppers may or may not notice it, but the store features top-notch energy saving technology for refrigeration and air handling. "We are using this as a case study to use across our enterprise," McClure said.

Shoppers will, however, recognize the Kroger manager - Rick Sherman, who served as manager of the former Hiller's. "We retained the vast majority of Hiller's employees and manage-ment," McClure said.

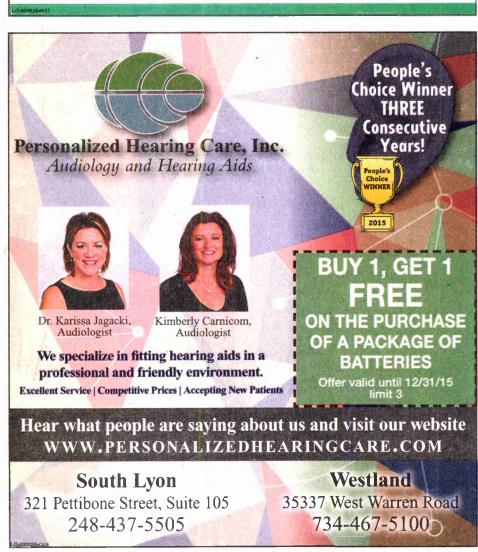

Also familiar to local shoppers is George Jordan, in charge of the seafood department, as he was in the Hiller's

Burglary suspects nabbed by police

Quick action by Canton police led to the capture of two burglary suspects fleeing the scene of a break-in that happened shortly before 1 a.m. Sunday at Wayne Lawn & Garden Center, on Michigan Avenue near Lotz.

Police responded after an alarm company detected a burglary and, through live audio, could hear a loud banging noise at the building, a police report said. Police arrived and saw three suspects running toward a nearby wooded area.

An officer quickly caught a 15-year-old Wayne boy and a second suspect, a 17-year-old Wayne male, was soon apprehended. A third suspect and possibly a fourth were still being sought.

Police believe the suspects used a tool to break into the business, but the report indicated nothing appeared to have been taken.

The investigation was con-

Suspicious behavior

Police went to the Mexican Fiesta restaurant at Ford and Sheldon roads after reports of two males acting suspiciously after they entered the eatery about 8 p.m. Monday, a police report said.

The owner told police the men walked in, said they would need a table for five and behaved suspiciously as they supposedly waited for others to arrive. One of the men tried to walk into the kitchen before he was stopped, while the other went to the cash register to ask for change - but then didn't follow through.

One of the men went toward the restroom, but never went inside. The owner said the two males quickly exited the restaurant after he removed the money from the cash register. He described one of the men as a tall, thin black male wearing a black vest and white sleeves. He said the second man was a short, thin black male wearing dark clothing.

Court violation

Police arrested a 35-year-old Canton man after learning he had gone back to his mother's house despite a court order to stay away, following an earlier domestic incident.

Police had gone to the 67year-old mother's house in the 48300 block of Applewood, near Palmer and Sheldon, about 6:10 p.m. Sunday to serve a subpoena for the woman to testify in court, a police report said.

Her son answered the door, refused to let police inside and shut the door. Police tracked down the mother by cellphone and arranged to speak with her.

Police learned the son wasn't supposed to be at the house.

Fake car theft

A 47-vear-old Canton woman is facing charges of filing a false police report after authorities say she lied about her 2013 Chrysler 300 being stolen from her home, a police report

Turns out her son apparently took the car and crashed it, possibly ending up in a hospital, where he was suspected of using an alias rather than his real name, the report said.

The woman went to the Canton police station to report her car had been stolen from her residence at Carriage Cove, an apartment complex near Warren and Lilley. She said it was taken between midnight and noon Sunday.

The woman told police she had fallen asleep and that someone, possibly her son, had taken the car while it was parked in Canton. She said she realized the keys had been taken from a kitchen drawer when she tried to go to work.

Further investigation revealed the woman had been staying at her son's residence in Detroit, when the car was taken and crashed near Linwood and Grand Boulevard. Police also learned the woman had made three phone calls to her insurance company.

The woman ultimately admitted to police she had lied when she said the car was stolen in Canton, leading police to arrest her for filing a false police report. She posted a $300 bond and was released from custody.

Police learned the woman's son had a suspended license. The investigation was continu-

The arrest occurred shortly after 10 a.m., after an officer patrolling Beck Road spotted a southbound Mercury that matched the description of a car involved in a shoplifting that had occurred minutes earlier and turned around to look at its license plate.

The Mercury's driver turned quickly onto west-bound Galleon and then into a business parking lot, where the officer blocked him in, a Plymouth Township Police Department report said. Asked about it by the officer, the man denied hav-

Asked why he should be handcuffed, the man replied that he had stolen the Mercury in Brighton on Thanksgiving Day.

The car was impounded and the suspect turned over to the Livingston County Sheriff's Department on the car-theft case.

The shoplifting had occurred a short time earlier at Busch's, just south of Five Mile. Police were told that a man had tried to leave with a basket containing 11 fourpacks of Red Bull, but dropped the basket when confronted and fled north on Sheldon in a tan-colored car covered with dirt. A witness was able to get a licenseplate number.

Fraud try

A township woman reported an apparent case of attempted fraud Saturday.

The woman told police she had received a letter claiming to be from a sweepstakes organization and telling her she'd won $2.6 million. The letter instructed her to call a certain number, which she did, a police report said.

During the call, she said, a man verified her address and then asked for her bank account information, which she declined to give.

The woman called the sweepstakes organization mentioned and was told the letter was fake, she said.

Larceny from auto

The front grille was reported stolen Nov. 30 from a Ford Contour while the car was parked at an apartment complex on Plymouth Road in the township.

The theft occurred between Nov. 23 and the morning of Nov. 30, the victim told police. There was nothing else reported stolen from the car.

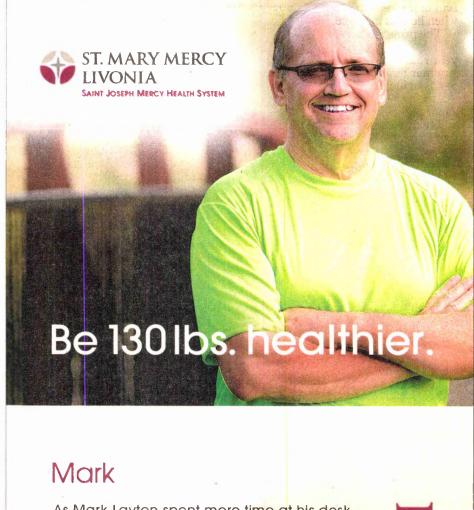

License suspended

A 29-year-old woman was cited for driving with a suspended license the night of Dec. 3 after police noticed the car she was driving had an improper plate.

The woman, driving a Ford Fusion, was stopped in the area of Sheldon and Plymouth Oaks Boulevard about 10 p.m., a police report said. Police said the license plate on the Fusion had been flagged by the Secretary of State's office for suspected fraudulent activity. The plate was confiscated.

Priest who died in '04 now accused of child sex abuse

Bill Laitner Michigan.com

More than a decade after the death of the popular Roman Catholic priest and pastor known as Father West, church authorities said an allegation of sexual abuse of a minor has been "found to be credible" against West, who served in about 20 parishes across southeast Michigan.

The Rev. David West died in 2004 at age 65, well before anyone came forward charging him with sexual abuse, according to the Archdiocese of Detroit.

But church officials "put no time limits on the reporting of sexual abuse of minors" by members of the priesthood or any other personnel connected with churches and related institutions such as parochial schools and seminaries, said Joe Kohn, spokesman for the Archdiocese of Detroit.

"It doesn't matter when it happens or when it's reported. We try to determine if it's credible and, if it is, we notify every place" in which the perpetrator ever served because "that increases the likelihood that this might have occurred elsewhere," Kohn said.

The goal is to find other victims, if any, and to offer them counseling services, he said, adding: "We do everything in our power to help every victim." In West's case, the abuse occurred in the 1970s and "the victim was male," Kohn said.

West was ordained in 1964 and served in many high-profile positions, including as church pastor at Our Lady Star of the Sea in Grosse Pointe Woods, St. James in Ferndale and St. Louise de Marillac in Warren. West also was on the faculty of Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit, a minister at Wayne State University and chaplain at Bishop Gallagher High School in Harper Woods, a news release from the archdiocese stated.

He also served as administrator at churches in Temperance, Livonia, Eastpointe, Dearborn Heights and Rockwood. And according to a Detroit Free Press report, West was an instructor at St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake when he was chosen, in 1997, to be parish administrator of Detroit's Catholic Church of the Madonna upon the death of its pastor, the Rev. William Cunningham, legendary co-founder of Focus: HOPE.

To report abuse committed by a priest or other person working for the Archdiocese of Detroit, email the victim assistance coordinator via vac@aod.org or call 866-343-8055, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

"I'm pushing for it," he said, adding that he is "relatively hopeful" that a budget amendment will be made and the program will be funded.

His predecessor, former Commissioner Shannon Price, now Plymouth Township's supervisor, fought the same battle when he was in office.

The program serves people ages 15 and older year-round and, during summer months, it expands to include children 8-14 years old. Provenzano said the participants and their families form strong bonds.

"We continue to promote acceptance and we watch our participants grow and blossom in ways that many people never thought might be possible," she said. As officials await word of funding, a therapeutic recreation program "wish tree" has been placed in the Summit lobby through Dec.

are under a severe economic hammer from Lansing.

Barrett referred to the state's Proposal A, which has drastically limited public school districts' funding. He urged teachers to work with the board and with legislators to turn the tide of reduced state funding for public education. "We will go through this every year," Barrett said.

In a statement, Superintendent Michael Meissen said, "We understand the frustration expressed by our teachers and we will continue to work with them within the finances as dictated by the state. We believe in the process and we believe strongly in our teachers and deeply appreciate all they do for our students and fam-

The proposed contract offered a continuation of a pay freeze this year and a half-step increase next year for teachers earning in the first through 13th step. Teachers at the top of the scale, the 14th step and above, were offered a 0.5-percent increase next year.

"There is a business approach to education,"

Williams said, referring to the state and its funding of education. "It used to be that teachers got a step (increase in salary) every year."

Teacher Darin Silvester, a 20-year educator, told the board that he, like his colleagues, is committed to educating children and making them successful. But contracts in the past years – with little or no salary increase - have forced good teachers out of the profession. Prior to joining the teacher ranks, Silvester worked at a factory, where he earned $60,000. The salary his first year of teaching was $28,900. "Our kids have lost

good teachers," Silvester

Matt Johnson, former English teacher at Salem, left teaching. "The reason I am not at Salem is money," he said, adding he has a master's degree. When he left, he earned $38,000 – before taxes – and was also trying to pay off his student loans.

Johnson told the board that when he approached a previous district administration about salaries, he was told, "If you don't like it, go some-where else." He added that he finally decided to leave the profession when he realized he was looking at long-term poverty.

Discovery Middle School teacher Luke Haddad called teachers "the backbone of our district." After four years teaching at P-CCS, Haddad said he had moved only one step up in salary. He also figured that it would take him 48 years - under current contracts - to reach the top step in salary.

"I thought this sacrifice would be only a short-term one," said another teacher, referring to concessions and pay freezes. "Teachers continually are asked to make more concessions."

Former science teacher Jake Porter left teaching for a job in the automotive industry. "I do not miss the insecurity of my future," he said.

Salem teacher Emily Mcclellan told the board that after seven years in the district, she is only at step five of the salary scale. But she voted yes on all contracts during her tenure. She drives 65 miles to work and the couple - with her husband also a teacher — is deciding what to do next.

"We have to be realistic on how long it will take me to get to the top step," she said.

Still time for some holiday tech-savvy deals ood news for prorastinators and last-minute shoppers: the best deals are yet to come. Even if you haven't yet purchased gifts for the tech geek on your list, you might be in Black Friday and Cyber Monday are just the beginning of the winter season sales and buyers can expect low prices on hot items such as DSLRs, GoPro Cameras, Parrot Drones, TVS and mobile devices into 2016.

If you are buying for someone close to you or even for yourself, patience may pay. Manufacturers are hitting the end of their production years, meaning it is time to sell off inventory to make way for the new equipment.

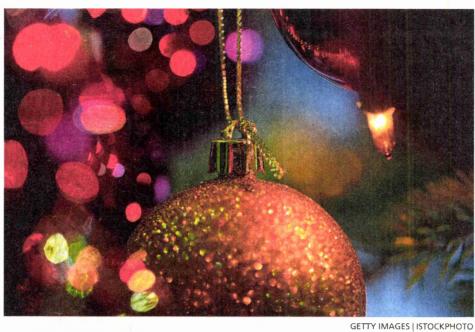

In the first week of January, tech giants like Samsung, Sony, Microsoft and many others will launch their newest products at the Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas. As the new products come to market, the old units typically reach unforeseen prices. And in this case, old doesn't mean bad.

Take HDTVs, for instance, which have steadily dropped in prices for a few years as newer 4K HDTV have hit shelves. Even 4K HDTV televisions have seen a sharp decline in price recently. Currently, a 4K HDTV in the 42-inch size range is going for $350, whereas a model in the 50-inch range is about $200 to $250 more.

Just three short years ago, there were only two HDTVs available on the market and both retailed for more than $20,000. So it is not surprising that the next big thing — the Ultra 4K HDTV from Vizio — is expected to hit shelves with a six-figure

Price drops are the norm for technology especially for TVs and s I was watching Michigan State's incredible win over Iowa, my emotions were on a roller-coaster ride. Ultimately, the outcome was what I wanted it to be, but the journey had its fair share of twists and turns and it certainly was excruciating. The only way I can describe it is to compare it to the stock market. As investors, we know that the market tests our emotions and it certainly has its fair share of uncertainties — just like the Michigan State football game. However, the lesson to learn is that discipline and patience do pay off in the long

For those who did not watch the game, you would have seen a team that was confident, patient and with a game plan. The game plan worked in the long run, despite its fair share of ups and the downs. What the Spartans did doesn't just apply to a football game; it also applies to managing your portfolios as well. Investors who have a game plan and who have the discipline to stay with that game plan, despite ups and downs and twists and turns, tend to be those who are successful. Investors who don't have a game plan or let their emotions sway their decisions are generally investors who are not successful.

When Michigan State started its final drive of the football game, it had a game plan and stuck with it. Ultimately, that game plan was successful. The bottom line, when it comes to our investments, you have to make sure you have a game plan that can lead you to success. Unfortunately, too many investors do not have a game plan and, thus, are not successful.

Although I do not like new year's resolutions because, typically, all you're doing is setting yourself up for failure, one thing you should dedicate yourself to do in the next year is to make sure you have an investing game plan in place. Buying and selling investments based upon emotions or what currently is happening in the market is too haphazard.

You need a game plan that factors in market fluctuations, as well as your individual needs and wants. You must have the discipline to stay the course, even during difficult times. You can't let every hiccup or speed bump deviate you from your plan. Of course, there are times you need to change your game plan, but you don't change your game plan for short-term com-situation needs a change. Remember, markets are volatile and change faster than the weather in Michigan; that's why vou have to be cautious about making wholesale changes simply because markets move one direction or the other. No one will say that having a game plan and following it is easy — it's not. Just like watching Michigan State's final drive of the game was not easy to watch, the same thing applies to your investments.

However, just like Michigan State, which stayed focused and achieved its goal, that's exactly what you should be doing with your port-

Be very wary of the word easy

he HP printer-scanner I bought last month for my school office was intended to make my life easier. Working from home in the morning and then from campus in the afternoon, I reasoned both spaces should have a color printer. After all, since the beginning of the semester, I had been writing lists after class about what needed printing or scanning once home. For the record, I keep hard copies of news articles I share with my students, as well as our correspondence, attendance sheets and duplicates of my lectures. My trip to the office supply store was easy enough; in and out in less than 10 minutes. That the printer was less expensive than anticipated buoyed my mood.

Yet it sat in the trunk of my car for probably a month or more and then on the floor in my office for another few weeks. It is puzzling behavior, but know the uneasiness I have when it comes to upgrading or installing technology is great.

The longer the printer sat in my car and then office (baby steps, right?), the more embarrassed I became — and disappointed in myself.

"It'll be easy," I repeated each day when I arrived at school. "You'll unpack it, plug in, log on and be done ... what are you waiting for?'

So with equal parts trepidation and excitement, I tore open the box, freed the machine from its Styrofoam swaddling, cleared a spot on my desk and reached for the instruction manual.

Easy as 1-2-3.

The deception begins

But it was not ... for me, at least. Quite literally, the manual describes the installation process in those terms and the website users go to to begin the process is 123.hp.com.

Hours later, my only accomplishment was having set the time and filled the paper tray. Well, that and having vented to the help desk operators at both HP and the office supply store as my entreaties went unanswered. I simply wanted a kindly voice to walk me through the process, but instead received only apologies on behalf of the respective companies.

No matter how much I willed the process to be eas and how much criticism I leveled on me, my disappointment, embarrassment and frustration

Fast forward another week — and another hour on the phone with the computer service I rely on to get me out of these jams — I was, finally, printing with ferocity. Indeed, my life has become less cumbersome.

The deception of easy, then, is that it is not an absolute anymore than an opinion about a movie or restaurant is to readers of reviews.

What was easy to see, though, was my hypocri-

Easy does it

I often hear students in my classes say writing about a particular topic will be easy. Or they will ask my opinion about what might be the easiest to write about from a handful of ideas. High school students, too, are under the spell of easy. Indeed, they usually learn the hard way — a disappointing grade that the best topics are those in which there is a personal interest. Note I did not say easiest. In fact, I discourage the use of "easy" and "hard." Better I say, to use phrases such as, "might pose less of a challenge in terms of finding sources" or "you might experience a few hiccups as you get deeper into the assignment ... are you prepared?"

Recently, I encouraged one student to change the topic for his final paper. Curious about why he selected the first theme, he admitted thinking "it'd be easy to find people to interview." He found it more challenging than anticipated.

As professionals, too, the word "easy" is ever present, as we are encouraged to tackle to-do lists by starting with the "easiest" item, for example. A better recommendation, however, might be to encourage us (students, too) to admit when we need help, seek guidance from an expert and learn for next time.

Opera House 'exciting' for women of Madonna U. Chorale

Julie Brown Staff Writer

The Madonna University Chorale women's section got a special holiday treat Dec. 5. The women performed with a ballet company and the orchestra for The Nutcracker at the Detroit Opera House.

Some 15 women performed that day, said director Kevin Cushman, a Redford resident. The performance was one of about seven. "They would have different choirs from around the area," said Cushman, also the music minister at St. Valentine Catholic Church in Redford.

Barbara Wiltsie, a voice faculty member at Madonna, is on the Michigan Opera Theatre board and was able to pass along the request to Cushman. "We just set it up. Our part was a small portion of the production," he said.

"It's all women's voices. I was just there for moral support," he added.

KEVIN CUSHMAN

Women members of the Madonna University Chorale sang Dec. 5 in "The Nutcracker" at the Detroit Opera House.

The Madonna University Chorale numbers about 40 with the men. On Dec. 5, the women sang during the "Waltz of the Snowflakes" as well as doing Christmas carols at the Opera House to entertain before the performance and at intermission.

This is the first such performance Cushman knows of; he started with the Madonna University Chorale this past fall. "The members who performed had never done it," he said. "They enjoyed it. It was exciting, entertaining, informative, just a nice honor."

The women had some performance "butterflies," he agreed. "You have to concentrate totally on the director." said Cushman, retired from the Redford Union schools, where he was vocal music director for high school and middle school.

Liz Cross of Redford was among chorale members singing Dec. 5. "It was exciting," she said. "Half of us were under the stage as it was going on. We were all in the orchestra pit."

Cross, who began with the chorale in September, said "it was kind of intimidating. But it was so much fun." She especially enjoyed listening to the orchestra.

"Just to sit with them and see what goes on in the pit," Cross said. The singers were able to go up after they were done and watch the performance from a balcony, which Cross did. The chorale members wore concert black.

Added Cushman of the professional musicians, "It was a genuine response on their part. It was all very positive." They met the conductor.

The chorale members come from western Wayne communities of Plymouth, Canton, Livonia and Redford, as well as Southfield and the Farmington area, he

Its winter concert, with a "Winter Gifts of Music" theme, will be at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 11, in the Presentation Chapel of the Felician Sisters Motherhouse, in the Schoolcraft and Levan road area of Livonia. The concert is free and open to the public, with parking nearby.

"It's a nice wide variety of holiday specials," said Cushman, who agreed the Livonia chapel has good acoustics. "It's a lovely place to perform."

Play it safe when out holiday shopping

Julie Brown Staff Writer

Shopping during the holidays, in search of just right gifts for loved ones, can be a lot of fun. Local police also encourage you to keep safety in mind when heading out to shop. Chief Jeff Jedrusik of the Westland Police Department offers these safety tips for holiday shoppers: » Avoid stashing shopping bags or valuables in your vehicle while visiting stores. If you must, use the trunk vs. the vehicle's interior, which is visible. This will reduce thieves' temptation.

» When possible, park near light poles. This will make your exit safer if it happens to take place after dark. » When exiting into a dark parking lot, time your departure from the store with others » Have your keys in hand and ready when walking toward your vehicle.

» Once you are inside your vehicle, lock yourself in.

» If you need to util-

Jedrusik

ize an ATM machine, choose to use the ATM located in the Westland Police Department's lobby. The police station is on Ford Road (south side) east of Newburgh.

Westland is home to the Westland Shopping Center at Wayne and Warren roads, with anchors JC Penney, Sears, Macy's and Kohl's. Jedrusik agreed having a large mall in his community presents law enforcement issues. "Yes, having a large mall does create some law enforcement challenges," Jedrusik wrote in an email. "Increased pedestrian and vehicle travel causes an increase in the number of traffic crashes. With a higher traffic volume and wet/ snowy roads, please take your time and be respectful to others.

'Thieves are attracted to crowded and busy malls. I encourage all of our visitors to be mindful of the listed safety tips. Most important, the holidays are supposed to be a time of happiness. Don't let the stress of the shopping season take our good decision making."

The Livonia Police Department also has common-sense holiday shopping safety tips, along with other crime prevention advice online. Here are some ideas that may help you keep the Grinch from spoiling your holiday season from Livonia police:

» Do not leave an opening or a gap in any window for the Christmas lights extension cord. The smallest opening is the biggest opportunity!

» Do not advertise your newly acquired items by throwing out the boxes in the garbage. Make sure that they are flattened or torn down. Take them to the recycling depot, if possible.

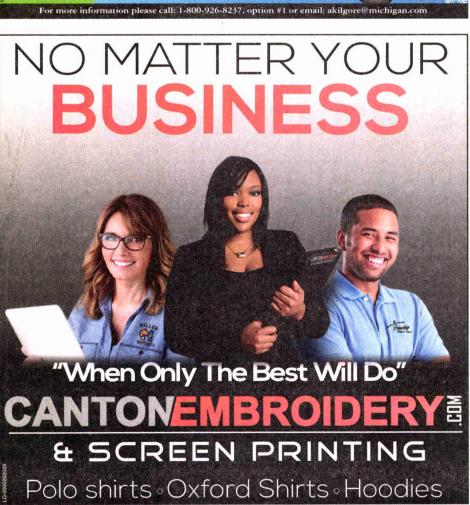

» Do not throw out anything with your name, address, phone number, banking or personal information on it without blacking out the personal information first. This also applies to magazines and boxes delivered to your home. Tear them, shred them, but do not throw them out intact.

» Do not leave keys under mats, in mailboxes or hanging on a hook around the corner. You might just as well leave your doors open.

» Do close all of your windows and blinds if you are going out so your Christmas tree and gifts are not on display.

» Do engrave your new items (with your driver's license number - i.e.: BCDL9876543) Putting it off until later may be too late.

Reason for the season: Giving matters, so help those in need during holidays

This is the time of year when local Goodfellows and Salvation Army leaders rely on your generosity. Not all friends and neighbors can provide a merry Christmas or holiday season for their children.

Goodfellows have been hard at work in recent weeks selling their trademark newspapers or collecting to make sure there's "No Child Without a Christmas." Salvation Army volunteers and staffers have also been out in full force with their Red Kettle campaign, which supports not only Christmas endeavors, but also help with rent, utilities, prescriptions and other necessities all year.

The Salvation Army and Goodfellows are joined by many churches, other faith-based institutions, schools and businesses, all working hard to make the holidays brighter. Food and clothing drives teach even the very young that kindness counts and giving

Many, including the Salvation Army and other churches, offer the opportunity to adopt a child or family and provide toys and clothing geared to specific needs. Involving your children in this shopping and giving can help teach them right from the start that not all have an easy road to walk.

Job loss, poor health and hard times are the reality for many and Christmas can exacerbate their feeling of separation from others who are shopping, celebrating and decking the halls. Remember them in this season of giving, to the extent your resources and finances allow.

This season is also a good time to remind children that there's a difference between needs and wants. Sure, none of us wanted a Christmas or Hanukkah with only socks or underwear as gifts when we were

It's only reasonable to try to accommodate children's wishes and holiday lists, but again that doesn't mean children should have free rein. One local boy was at Westland Shopping Center with his parents, who encouraged him to ask the volunteer Salvation Army bell ringers where the money raised goes.

The child understood the answers, especially those related to others his own age. It's a good time for parents to reinforce lessons of generosity and of deciding what gifts are "must haves" and what doesn't have to be purchased.

It's also a busy season. If you have the gift of time available, don't sell yourself short on that. The Salvation Army hires bell ringers and benefits greatly from the work of volunteers who don't require pay. The website www.ringbell.org has details on bell ringing opportunities or you can call your local corps/ citadel of the Salvation Army and ask for the volunteer coordinator if you're less tech-savvy, but still ea-

Let's make this season joyful for all, to the extent our resources allow. It's a good time to visit family, friends, neighbors and colleagues and to wish all the best for the coming year. It's also a good time to remember those without great blessings, such as warm housing, good food and decent clothing - and to extend the hand of friendship to them.

Money talks

It appears that pigs can fly. The ultra-right, corporate loving Mackinac Center for Public Policy and its child, Americans for Prosperity, have finally seen a tax giveaway that is so bad and vile that they are lobbying against it. This has to be a once-ina-lifetime event, thus "When pigs fly.'

A front page expose in The Detroit News (Nov. 30) brings to light a series of bills being rushed through the state House and Senate that would be a boon to the Las Vegas company Switch.

According to the article, Switch promises to invest between $5 billion and $10 billion at a site in western Michigan. The catch is that it has to have a guarantee that it never has to pay any of the taxes our other companies are required to. This is the reason the bills are being hustled through Lansing. Never Jani Hayden, Advertising director government units or schools - damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead, to hell with the consequences.

If a company has a business plan that varies by $5 billion, I would be leery of any numbers proposed. Remember, in Las Vegas, the house always wins.

Some might wonder why our mainly Republican elected officials would approve these garbage bills. Just follow these politicians once they leave office. After bestowing billions in tax breaks on corporations, past lawmakers are now working for the very entities that benefited from this generosity. The Koch brothers, Matty Maroun and other billionaires make sure they reward their minions for service provided. And, believe this,

Switch will follow suit.

Money talks and the current group serving in the House and Senate is very adept at listening. These low-down pawns won't be happy until the only money going into the state treasury comes from individual taxpayers and every union in the state is obliterated.

Thanks, Gov. Snyder for teacher attacks

So there's a massive shortage in available teachers; Detroit can't find teachers.

Gov. Snyder and the Republican Legislature greatly reduced teacher wages, retirement and benefits in order to defeat the MEA. Why would anyone want to get a four-year degree, work for $32,000 per year with no retirement health care or pension? They can do better in private industry.

Religious liberty attacked

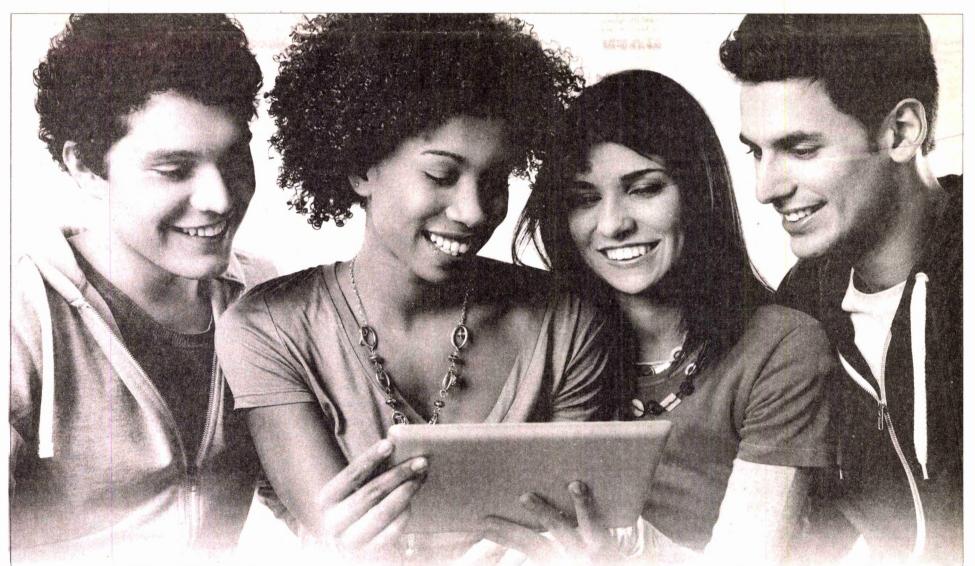

State Sen. Patrick Colbeck's op-ed that appeared Nov. 26 nails the current state of attack on religious liberty that is taking place in our country today.

If a sitting U.S. president were to issue a Thanksgiving Proclamation today and invite fellow citizens "to set apart, and observe the last Thursday of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the Heavens" and also " fervently implore the interposition of the Almighty Hand to heal the wounds of the nation ...,' I dare say the liberals and secularists of today would come down on Abraham Lincoln with much vitriol and disdain for violating church and

Sadly, this movement on religious freedom is getting away with painting the historical fact that our country was founded on Judeo-Christian principles and seeks to ban any reference to God in public. We also would not have Thanksgiving today except for the fact that Lincoln made this proclamation Oct. 3, 1863, a time when invoking religion in public was acceptable and, dare I say it, tolerated.

Rocks primed to continue rolling

Salem upbeat about maintaining momentum from last season

> Tim Smith Staff Writer

Last year was a breakout of sorts for Salem's varsity wrestling program and signs indicate the positive momentum will carry forward into the 2015-16 sea-

Definitely upbeat about what this year's squad can accomplish is coach Jeremy Henderson, himself a state champion during his high school career at Salem.

Last year's team "is coming off our best season in a decade," Henderson said, referring to a Division 1 district championship, plus sending several wrestlers to the regional and states.

"We have an experienced wrestler at almost every weight class and we are being led by a great group of seniors," Henderson said. "They are all gunning for a big year. Division champs and defending the district title crown are a couple of things on the list and I think sending four or five to states is not out of the question."

Slated to provide all-around leadership are senior captains Roy Foster (a D1 state qualifier at 189 last year), Cam Shaughnessy (a regional qualifier at 125), Ahmad Mehsen, Russell Gaubatz, Demetrius Fields, Seth Dunn and Tyler Title mission

"Roy wants to win a state title this year and is determined to prove he can," Henderson said. "He has come a long way and a lot of people didn't know who he was until late last season.

"But they found out real quick on the mat. He always wrestles tough and his hard to get out of good position.

Backing up Foster at 189 is Mehsen, who "gives his heart every day and is in a tough position behind Roy. But it is a reason Roy will make the podium at states this year.'

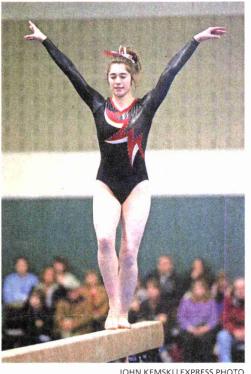

The lone junior captain is Akash Rai, a regional qualifier last season at 112.

Henderson, who shares Salem coaching duties with Pete Israel, said Shaughnessy and Rai will battle it out to start at 119, "with the other going up to 125. Obviously, for dual they could switch around often. They are both good wrestlers with hopes of making it to The Palace podium this year."

Moore is another standout returnee, who will be in the lineup at 215 to open his fourth season on Salem's varsity.

State runners-up looking to continue Division 1 dominance

> Tim Smith Staff Writer

Don't expect Canton's varsity gymnastics team to slow down anytime soon, especially in 2015-16.

That's how Chiefs coach John Cunningham sees things as the season gets into gear for the Division 1 runners-up.

"Lots of other good teams out there," Cunningham wrote in an email to the Observer. "But we will start ranked in the top five."

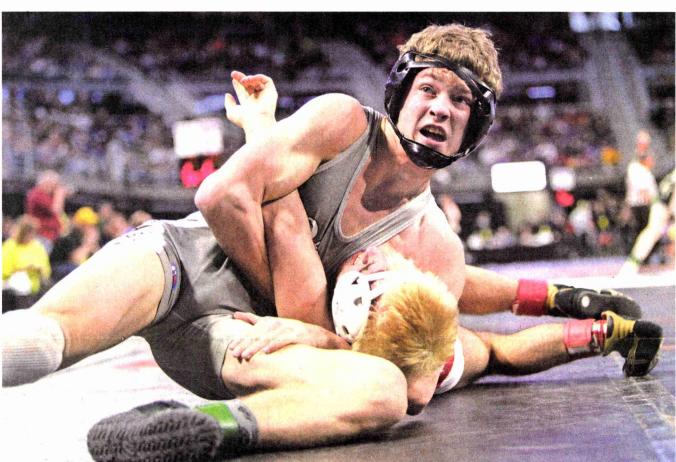

Canton finished 6-0 in KLAA meets last season (5-0 in the Kensington Division) to capture the conference and division championships. The Chiefs then went on to win the D1 team regional, but came up just short of a second consecutive state

Cunningham added that he expects the squad to be "just as strong" as last year's juggernaut, even with the graduation of Allison Kunz (state champion on uneven parallel bars).

It undoubtedly helps that seniors Maddie Toal, Hailey Hodgson and Stephanie Cox, junior Jana Hilditch and sophomores Katie Dickson and Rachel Socha are back

Plymouth Wildcats planning on making life tough for KLAA rivals

It remains to be seen how far Plymouth's varsity wrestling team can go this season, what with the graduation of several top performers from 2014-15.

Yet head coach Quinn Guernsey has a standout nucleus that could spark another winning season.

'This year's team has a lot of depth and experience," Guernsey said in a preseason overview about the squad. "But (it) is lacking in top-end talent compared to recent seasons.

"If wrestlers improve as the season goes on, we should be able to push (Westland) John Glenn for the division title. They are certainly the favorites, but we are only a couple of breaks away."

Challenge in Northville. Undoubtedly, the Wildcats' lineup features a handful of athletes who could reach the podium at The Palace of Auburn Hills in early March.

Leading the list is senior 145pounder Dylan Dwyer, who placed at the D1 state finals last season. "He should be considered as a contender for a state title," Guernsey said.

Dwyer is one of the captains, along with seniors Collin Reed (130) and Spencer Schiftar (135) — both with the talent and work ethic to potentially get through the regional and qualify for states.

"Collin Reed and Spencer Schiftar have been competing with and beating some of the best wrestlers in the area," Guernsey said. "And this year both look to turn a corner, earning all-state status.'

Other wrestlers who could help the Wildcats make a deep run are sophomore Isiah Berry (103), junior Ethan Shulaw (171) and promising newcomer Jezan Sukhaida (119).

"Isiah Berry will look to have a breakout year after falling a round short of qualifying for the state meet last year and spending the summer

Davis sparkles for Wildcats in 43-28 season-opening win over Redford Union

> Ed Wright Staff Writer

Other than barely missing his single-game record for slam dunks and tweaking his left calf while ascending for one of his three jams Monday night against visiting Redford Union, Plymouth senior guard Brent Davis had a pretty nice debut as "The Man" for the Wildcats.

Handed the keys to the Wildcats' offense in the wake of the graduation of three top players from last season's Class A district-championship squad, Davis scored a teamhigh 20 points and spearheaded a mid-third quarter defensive surge that all but turned out the lights on the gutsy Panthers, who dropped a 43-28 decision.

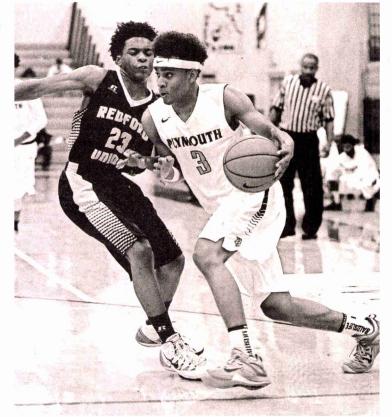

Both teams were hit hard by graduation since last season and it showed at times during a less-than-artistic first half that ended with Plymouth clinging to a 16-13 lead.

The Panthers, who return just one player who was on the varsity roster last winter, trailed 21-17 with four minutes left in the third quarter before the Wildcats switched on the defensive after-burners while ripping off an 11-2 spurt.

Davis, who has an amazing 41-inch vertical jump — 10 inches higher than the average person — put an exclamation point on the game-changing span just over a minute into the fourth quarter when his crowd-pleasing throwdown upped Plymouth's lead to 32-19

His final dunk came with 3:08 left in the game and gave his team a 40-26 cushion.

"I feel like coach has been preparing me for this role for two years now," said Davis, whose lower-left leg was wrapped with ice during a post-game interview. "It's a role I think I'm ready for. I like it because I don't have to be quite as cautious as before. I feel if I can drive the lane, the other team is going to focus on me, so that's when I can distribute to my teammates."

Plymouth senior Brent Davis (right) dribbles past a Redford Union defender Monday night.

Senior guard Kevin Hogain led RU with 10 points. Eric McCarter added nine, while first-year senior Caleb Moore contributed five points and eight rebounds.

"I like how we defended tonight, especially with how young we are," RU head coach Randall Taylor said. "One of our goals going into every game is to hold the other team to 45 points or less and we did that tonight, so that was good. We just have to figure out a way to score the basketball more. We'll get better, I'll tell you that.

Senior forward Pete Carravallah scored seven points and snatched five rebounds for the winners, while sophomore guard A.J. Neal added six points in his varsity debut.

Along with scoring five points, Plymouth senior guard Frank Brown was a beast on the boards, grabbing a teamhigh nine rebounds.

'I loved our effort level tonight," Plymouth head coach Mike Soukup said. "We did a great job of getting up into people tonight and making them uncomfortable. Our communication on defense was good tonight and our rebounding got a lot better in the second half.

"They came out in a 3-2 zone defense, which we don't see a lot. That was a great coaching decision by Randall, because it forced us to ad-

Plymouth exploded out of the game and led 7-0 after Davis completed a three-point play at the 4:47 mark of the first quarter.

Slowly but surely, however, the Panthers chipped away their deficit and trailed just 16-13 at the half.

After Carravallah opened the third quarter with a long triple from the right wing, Moore scored four quick points to tighten up things

The pivotal sequence of the night unfolded with exactly three minutes left in the third quarter, when Brown tipped in a rebound while getting fouled. He made the free throw to extend the hosts' lead to 26-17. On Plymouth's next possession, Carravallah hit the floor hard while getting fouled as he attacked the basket. He had to leave the game, but his replacement, Julian LeDoux, drained both free throws to make it 28-17.

Rocks can't stop Eagles in opener

Ammerman scores 27 to lift Skyline to 63-56 win

Tim Smith

Some late music Tuesday night by Salem's Kenny "T" Topolovec nearly lifted the Rocks to a season-opening comeback win against visiting Ann Arbor Skyline.

The senior center scored eight consecutive points in the latter stages of the fourth quarter — including a sweet baseline move to the rim — to cut a 10-point deficit to 58-54 with two minutes to go.

Unfortunately, the Eagles closed out a 63-56 varsity boys basketball win in large part to a 27-point game by sophomore guard Jack Ammerman (who drained five 3-pointers, including two from well behind the arc).

"We just had a couple turnovers that cost us," Salem head coach Bob Brodie said. "And if you get a couple of those nice puppies we had inside to fall, we're right back in the game.

"But give them credit; they're a tough basketball team. They play with a lot of aggression and shoot the basketball from the perimeter very well."

Leading Salem with 15 points and 16 rebounds was Topolovec, while senior guard Calin Crawford collected nine points along with three assists and three steals.

Strong on defense was junior forward Cameron Grace (eight points, seven rebounds). Chipping in seven points was senior guard Freddie McGee. Salem coughed it up 15 times and shot 18-of-60 from the floor for 30 percent.

Augmenting Ammerman for Skyline were Brandon Wade and Christian Knox with 13 and 12 points, respec-

The Rocks led the opening quarter, 17-16, but the Eagles went up 33-27 at the half after taking advantage of Salem turnovers and off-the-mark shooting.

An example of how the game went came with about 1:30 left in the half. Crawford stole the ball, but missed on the subsequent layup.

"I thought all the players did a pretty good job for us. There wasn't a weak link out there, I don't believe," Brodie said. "We just had a couple unfortunate turnovers at times and missed shots. Otherwise, it could have gone the Skyline maintained the lead the entire second half. although the Rocks did get to within three or four points several times.

Ammerman greased the skids for Salem with successive triples from nearly 10 feet beyond the top of the arc, sandwiched around Salem guard Cam Barden's nifty scoop layout. That gave the Eagles a 50-42 edge after three quarters.
"They're a good basketball team with some weapons. They can shoot it from the outside; they got big guys inside," Brodie said. "But I was proud of the way our guys reacted; they never gave up, They kept fighting the whole time and answering the bell.

Brodie said one reason Ammerman could hit those shots was Salem defenders had to "back off because we got in a little foul trouble. But give them credit, when they're knocking those shots down, it's going to be hard to beat them." The Rocks never quit, going on a 10-0 run in the fourth to slice the Skyline lead to 58-54. Getting it started with a bucket was Crawford. Topolovec followed with two field goals and four foul shots. Topolovec put a charge into the home crowd when he made a strong, confident move along the baseline to score and give the Salem faithful hope.

"He had some nice moves inside," Brodie said about Topolovec. "If he would have got a couple 'and-ones' it would have been nice.'

But in tune with how the night went, Skyline responded with another triple.

Contributing 12 points was Matt Malcolm, while Phillip Morby (eight points), Ian Hay (seven points, five rebounds, six steals), Luke Yakuber (seven points), Max Okolo (six points, nine boards), Layne Pries (four points) and Jayme Fadden (five boards) all helped the cause.

PCA's all-out team effort led to 38 rebounds and "I thought we played as good as a first game as you could ask for from a team," Windle said. "Overalt, there's still things we can look to improve obviously. But it was a great start with where we want to be going. We are moving in the right

Bouncing back from a heartbreaking loss against Farmington Hills Mercy, Salem's varsity girls basketball team edged host Dearborn Divine Child, 46-44, Tuesday night.

Strong defensive pressure all over the court Monday night sparked visiting Plymouth to a 41-30 non-conference victory over Allen Park. It marked the first win for new Wildcats coach Ryan Ballard.

Leading the Wildcats with nine points was Cassidy Lewis, while Hannah Badger chipped in eight points.

Also big for Plymouth were contributions off the bench, notably from Bailey Brown and Gabby Chouinard, who Ballard said "did some really good things in our press.

PREP WRESTLING PREVIEW

Young Chiefs are 'hungry' to excel

Canton bringing energy and desire to mat for 2015-16

> Tim Smith Staff Writer

With a fierce desire to compete on the wrestling mat, the Canton Chiefs collectively could overcome a lack of depth and experience in 2015-16.

At least, that's how head coach Cory Mancuso would like to see it unfold.

'We might not have the greatest numbers for a wrestling team, but the guys we do have are hungry," Mancuso said. "They come to practice each day with a positive attitude to get better and they're willing to do the extra work. That is a good sign for our future.

To that end, it is never a bad thing for a prep wrestling squad to have an athlete with the nickname "Tasmanian Devil" - which the Chiefs have in senior captain Armando Chacon. "Armando always gives us a gutsy performance on the mat," Mancuso said. "We call him the Tasmanian Devil, because of how hard he wrestles for six minutes."

Chacon will wrestle at 160 this season, an interesting move as he was the Chiefs' 189-pounder last year.

"He is going to have to adapt to the lower weight," Mancuso said, "which means he will have to become better technically to have the success he wants to have in his final season for the Chiefs.

Joining Chacon as co-captains are senior Harrison Samoy (125) and junior Justin Winnie (130).

"Harrison just missed out on making the regional tourna-ment last season," Mancuso said. "He is a scrappy wrestler that pushes the pace. The team will lean on him as our leader."

ANDREW RUBENSTEIN

Tenacious efforts such as this one by Canton's Armando Chacon (front) will be needed in order for the Chiefs to be competitive in 2015-16.

They work it

Doing whatever it takes to get an edge in a bout is Winnie, described by Mancuso as a 'great technician on the mat. His work ethic is second to none. I am expecting a breakout season for him.

The veteran coach is enthusiastic about what sophomore Zack Dehnke can accomplish as the starter at 135.

Zack is a hard worker and has made great strides since his freshman year," Mancuso said. "He keeps getting better every day.'

Juniors Jeremy Van Berkel (140), Abdelhabi Shuaib (152) and Clayton Declue (189) are listed as starters to open the season, but both Shuaib and Declue have some competition.

Pushing Shuaib is sophomore Kelvin Buckner; Declue is No. 1 on the depth chart at 189, but freshmen James Deese and Jonathan Suppelsa will attempt to get their share of matches.

Two Chiefs with an uncontested spot in the lineup are sophomore Max Mulvaney at 215 and senior heavyweight Terrelle Crutchfield.

On their way

Mancuso pointed to a large group of promising ninth-graders, of whom several could step right into the lineup. "We have a real nice freshman class this year that is raw, but has the talent and work ethic to develop into some well-rounded wrestlers in the future," he Deese is a three-sport athlete "with tons of talent that has the ability to really turn some heads as early as this year. If we can get his conditioning and technique to where it needs to be, watch out for this young man."

Just as promising is Chris Little, who is second at 145 to senior Sam Orr.

'(Little) has been wrestling for a long time, so wrestling comes very natural to him, Mancuso said. "He should adapt nicely to high school wrestling and do real well for us in the near future."

Freshmen will start at three weight classes: Collin Mueller (103), Alex Nesouski (119) and one of Noah Van Berkel, Austin Rosenau or Johnathan Valchine at 171.

Canton's roster also includes several wrestlers who will be doing all they can to get into the starting lineup: sophomore Robert Laird (125), senior Walter Beavers (130) and sophomore Ben Samoy (130).

"We have a lot inexperienced guys that don't have much varsity experience," Mancuso said. "But I think because of the strong work ethic and dedication to each other, we will make great strides from the beginning of the year until the end, when it matters."

His junior year was curtailed by a back injury suffered when he was thrown hard to the mat during a match.

"He has been having some of his best practices lately," Henderson said. "We could see Tyler go deep in the postseason as well, if he can put it all to-

Other senior starters will be Russell Gaubatz (135), Fields (171), Dunn (152) and Drew Lindsay (140). Henderson is looking forward to seeing how all the hard work Gaubatz has put in will pay off on the mat. "Russell is a two-year varsity wrestler so we are excited about what he can do this year," he said. About Fields, whether or not he makes it to The Palace might just come down to stay-

"Demetrius is one of our best wrestlers and can catch anyone anytime," Henderson said. "If he can put a good year together, we should be seeing him in a lot of finals and in the postseason."

Dunn is looking to exceed the 30 matches he won as a junior.

'Seth is one of the most competitive kids you will meet and that is a huge reason why has has gotten to where he is." Henderson said. "He has come

Returning after missing 2014-15 due to injury is Lindsay. "He is excited to be back on the mat and we are excited to see that as well," Henderson

"He will be looking to go far this postseason and is fully capable of doing just that."

SALEM WRESTLING

Starting at 145 will be junior Bruce Haslitt, winner of more than 50 matches combined during his first two seasons with the Rocks.

"Bruce has a unique style of wrestling, but it has been successful for him his entire career," the coach said. "This should be a breakout year for Bruce. He has all the tools.'

Sophomore Nate Gaubatz is 'poised for a big season" at 103 and Henderson noted he won't be undersized, as he was last

"He was only 88 pounds last year wrestling 103 and he is much closer to the weight class this year," he said.

Competition looms

Several weight classes will feature some intense competition to start, Henderson

At 112, freshmen Colin Shultz and Mason Opie will battle it out. "Both are athletic and I am excited to see what they can do for us," he said.

Returning varsity letter winner Tyler Knop and newcomer Ali Kobeissi are in the mix to start at 130.

Both sophomores "are athletic and with some good practices could make some noise this year."

"Both of these kids are fighters and are looking at their first time with a varsity spot," Henderson said. "It will be a tough role, but both of them will do their best and are fully capable of hanging with good competition."

Battling to start at 285 are sophomore Jake Giorgi and freshman Brennan McNeal.

"This is one of the most exciting weight classes for our team," Henderson said. "We finally have two full-size heavyweights, something we have not had in a long time, and they are both athletic big guys and it is awesome they get to work with each other.

"Both of them should hold their own, despite being underclassmen.'

Rounding out the roster are freshmen Ben Bennett, Max Hirvela, Sean Barnett, Grant Schils, Dustin Murphy and Hunter Peterson.

working with wrestlers around the state," Guernsey

'We also expect big steps from Ethan Shulaw, who had a successful sophomore season but should really take some steps this season in becoming a major con-tributor to the team in terms of wins.

"Jezan Sukhaida should also have some success at 119 for us after missing the entire year last season.

Others projected to start include sophomore Tyler Campbell (112), junior Zach Lundberg (125), senior Darwin Filey (140), senior Nour-deen Hussini (152), senior Jake Griffith (160), freshman Adam Atallah (189), junior Zach Lohrmann (215) and senior Elie Atallah

Provided the newer Wildcats improve throughout the regular season, the team could advance to the regional. "Our district should be competitive, as in years past, but I would say that Salem and us will be the teams most likely to advance, similar to last year," Guernsey said. "It should be a close dual that will come down to the last match.

"Advancing past our region, which contains Detroit Catholic Central, would be quite a challenge."

from last year looking to prevail this time around.

Toal (state champion on balance beam), Hodgson (regional all-around champion), Dickson and Hilditch (state medalists) will spearhead the all-around lineup.

"Newcomers Katherine Najduk and Megan Johnson (both freshmen) will give more depth to an already deep team," Cunningham said.

Strong performances can be expected from sophomore Bree Kalinski, junior Jitte Okabare, junior Kelsey Kernosek, senior Breanna Flowers, senior Breanne Henderson, junior Marissa Gubatz and sophomores Annika Wang, Paige LeFever and Sonali Mo-

"Annika Wang will do beam and Kernosek and Socha will score well on floor," he said. Handling captain duties will be Hodgson, Cox and

Megan Adams. Good start

Canton opened the season Saturday with a 135.05-117.525 victory over Vassar.

Toal led the way with first on beam (8.9), floor exercise (9.55) and all-around (35.325) while taking second on vault (8.6) and bars (8.375). Also first was Dickson with 8.55 on bars; she also placed third on vault with 8.55.

Earning second were Hodgson (floor, 8.55) and Hilditch (beam, 8.875).

Other notable performers included Socha (third on vault, beam and floor with respective scores of 8.5, 7.8 and 8.5), Najduk (third on bars, 7.85) and Kernosek, with nice showings on beam (9.0) and floor

"For a first meet so early in the season, this was a well-balanced team effort with every gymnast having a good event." Cunningham said. "High school coaches worry about both injuries and performances in December, but (we) did well in routines and came home healthy.'

Rocks foiled by Franklin comeback

Salem gives up lead in third period, falls 5-4 against Patriots in OT

Livonia Franklin scored three goals during the final 3:48 of regulation Saturday night to draw even with host Salem, 4-4, before Zack Nelson deposited the game-winner into the net just under five minutes into the eight-minute overtime to give the Patriots an amazing 5-4 victory.

"You don't see comebacks like that very often," Franklin head coach Dennis Gagnon said. "That's a game that our guys will tell their grandkids about and, more importantly, they learned a life lesson to keep the faith and never give up, no matter how insurmountable the odds."

Salem's Marty Mills scored the game's lone first-period goal — a power-play effort from Shawn Weldon.

Franklin scored the equalizer at the 13:52 mark of the middle period, when Chase Wallis scored from Brendan Whitney.

The Rocks scored three straight goals to seize what looked like an indestructible 4-1 lead before the Patriots began their remarkable rally.

After pulling goaltender Brian Hubbard at the 3:48 mark, Wallis scored an unassisted goal to make it 4-2.

Kolby Dewhirst added an unassisted goal approximately one minute later to bring the Patriots to within 4-3.

Wallis then completed his hat trick (from Dewhirst and Jack Engel) at the 15:24 mark. That set the stage for Nelson's overtime heroics.

Top line sparks NTDP U18s

Bellows, Keller, Anderson combine for 14 points in 7-4 win over Sioux City

Tim Smith Staff Writer

It was "all hands on deck" night Saturday night for USA Hockey's NTDP Under-18 team against Sioux City, with a lineup depleted by injuries and game misconducts.

Five skaters were out for the United States Hockey League contest before two more players (Will Lockwood and Trent Frederic) were thrown out with game misconducts during the penaltyfilled first period at USA Hockey Arena.

But thanks to the prolific top line of Kieffer Bellows, Clayton Keller and Joey Anderson, the U18s were able to outlast the Musketeers, 7-4. Anderson scored two goals and set up another, while Bellows (one goal, four assists) and Keller (one goal, five assists) also had their offensive magic working.

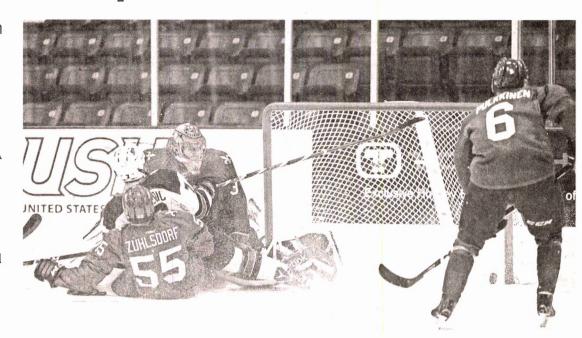

"I liked how we came out; we were physical," U18 head coach Danton Cole said. "It started really well, until we started running into the box and we were short for a good portion of the first period, but we got out of it tied at two and the guys really hunkered down.

"We were very short, five guys short to start the game and then two guys kicked out. So seven guys short. Conditioning-wise, real happy with how they just kept grinding, kept going."

Dangerous line

The Bellows-Keller-Anderson unit spearheaded the win for Team USA (9-8-1-1 in the USHL, including games played by the Under-17 team).

"They're a good line; there's a good mix," Cole said. "Probably the most important part, obviously, they have a lot of talent, but they work incredibly hard. They want the puck, they want it back and then they're always attacking on offense."

RENA LAVERTY | USA HOCKEY

Crashing into the Sioux City goal crease is NTDP U18 forward Trent Frederic, between two defenders.

Anderson said he has great chemistry with his linemates and a combined 14 points merely is the byproduct.

"All three of us we get along really well," the 17year-old Minnesotan said. "I played with Kieffer growing up, so I know him pretty well.

up, so I know him pretty well.
"And I've played with Keller pretty much the whole time I've been here, so we've gotten to know each other really well and I think on the ice we kind of just know how each other plays and we kind of know how to read off each other. It works really well."

The line also prides itself on responding after the other team scores. Such was the case several times Saturday.

Midway through the middle period, Anderson scored a power-play goal (from Keller and defenseman Adam Fox) at 10:44, just over a minute after Sioux City's Matt Steeves took a stretch pass, skated into the right circle and beat U18 goalie Jake Oettinger (35 saves) to make it 3-2 Musketeers.

Keller jabbed at the puck on the doorstep and it slithered along the goal line behind Sioux City goalie Cam Gornet (37 saves). All alone at the left post to tap it in was Anderson.

At 17:58, all three members of the line were in on Bellows' goal, which gave the U18s a 4-3 edge going into the third. Bellows veered right-to-left and whipped a shot from between the circles that beat Gornet.

Anderson snapped a shot from the top of the right circle at 3:18 of the third to give Team USA a 5-3 lead. Once again, Bellows and Keller assisted.

"Any team needs a line like that," Anderson said. "It's always good to be able to go to somebody and have a quick response and turn the tide back to our team and kind of set that ball going downhill again like we want it to be and I think we do a good job of doing that."

Step forward

Sioux City would not go quietly, slicing the deficit to 5-4 at 8:29. But the U18s responded again, on a slap shot goal by Fox less than two minutes later.

Closing out the scoring was Keller's empty-netter at 19:34.

In the first period, U18 goals were scored by Frederic and Luke Martin.

According to Cole, whose team also defeated Sioux City 5-2 on Friday, the back-to-back victories against the big, physical Musketeers (10-11-0-0) represent another step forward during a long season.

"We've been winning a lot and sometimes that conceals some issues you got to work on," Cole said. "But I think the guys have done a good job mentally of understanding our goal is the U18 gold at the end of the year.

"And there's still a lot of work to be done and there's still things that we need to keep getting better at.... They've done a great job and they've kept their heads in it"

Realtor group: Student loan debt impedes millennial home buys

Following the housing market's best year since the recession, existing-home sales are expected to increase in 2016 at a moderate pace; although affordability pressures from inventory shortages and rising mortgage rates could slow the potential for even stronger sales momentum, according to an economic forecast forum in San Diego, Calif., at the 2015 REALTORS® Conference &

Lawrence Yun, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors, presented his 2016 economic and housing forecast and was joined onstage by Cris deRitis, senior director of credit analytics at Moody's Analytics, who also shared his insights on the housing market and U.S. economy, and Jonathan Corr, president and CEO at Ellie Mae, who discussed issues impacting the mortgage industry and how real estate professionals can adjust to the upcoming wave of new millennial buy-

According to Yun, the pent-up demand for buying in re-cent years finally broke out in a meaningful way in 2015, fueled by sustained job growth in many parts of the country and rising home values giving more homeowners the incentive to sell - a trend that he expects to continue next year.

"Sales activity in 2016 will once again be primarily driven by the ongoing release of more pent-up sellers finally realizing their equity gains and using it towards the down payment on their next home,"

With demand expected to remain stable through the final two months of the year, Yun forecasts home sales to finish 2015 at a pace of 5.30 million and then expand 3% to around 5.45 million in 2016. The national median existinghome price is expected to rise to around 6% this year before slightly moderating to around 5% in 2016.

Although Yun anticipates further expansion in existingsales next year, rising mortgage rates and supply constraints are two likely roadblocks that have the potential to slow the pace of sales from being even more robust.

"Rents and home prices are expected to exceed income growth into next year because of the insufficient creation of new home construction and the detrimental impact its inadequacy continues to have on housing costs in several markets," said Yun, "The real solution to preserving affordability is a substantial rampup in housing starts and more homeowners listing their home for sale."

Yun forecasts single-family housing starts to close out around 1.1 million this year and reach 1.3 million in 2016, which is still below the 1.5 million he says is needed each year to keep up with current demand. New-home sales are likely to total 505,000 this year, and increase to 590,000 next year.

deRitis, who also expects ongoing affordability pressures in some areas as builders slowly respond to current housing shortages, said there's still an above-average share of young adults living with their parents. He predicted a burst of activity in new construction and home sales coming to fruition in upcoming years, backed by a labor market at full employment, and pent-up demand from delayed household formation and rising rents will encourage more renters to consider tation focused on the difficulty facing first-time buyers, whose participation in the market was reported by NAR earlier and fell to its lowest share in nearly 30 years. Surprised by the underperforming percent share, he highlighted a few of the reasons behind their hardships, including a meager amount of affordable inventory, competition from vacation buyers and investors buying similarly priced homes and repaying student loan debt.

"Even among recently successful first-time buyers, 41% have student debt and the typical amount is $25,000. Repaying this debt amidst flat wage growth and sharp rent increases only makes it more difficult to come up with the cash needed for a down payment," said Yun. "Their emergence back into the market will be a gradual one, but our data does show that young adults view homeownership as a good financial investment and part of their personal American dream.

Yun anticipates the homeownership rate declining slightly further as the number of new renter households exceeds the share of new homebuyers – as it has at least since 2008. He said the pendulum will likely swing towards a balance of more new homeowners as early 2017.

"Millennials outnumber baby boomers by almost 10%, and they're collectively just entering their homebuying years with marriage and children on the horizon," added Corr. "The good news is that most surveys are finding that millennials still want to engage directly with mortgage loan professionals and Realtors at key times in the buying process.

Heed 2014 legislation on sheriff's sale buy

Q: We are foreclosing on a mortgage on a house that we obtained at a sheriff sale, but we are concerned about the homeowner neglecting or intentionally damaging the home during the redemption period.

What can we do?
A: Legislation was enacted in 2014 to allow a purchaser at a sheriff's sale which, in this case, would presumably be you, to perform periodic interior and exterior inspections of the property to ensure that it is being kept up and not stripped of its valuables. The purchaser may proceed with eviction if an inspection is unreasonably refused or damage to the property is imminent or has already occurred. You should check with an attorney to find out what your rights are before entering the premises as there were updates to clarify the legislation in 2014 which should be reviewed by you and your legal counsel.

Q: Our next door neighbor had some kids over who drank alcohol and then got into a car accident. Our neighbor is concerned about being sued. What is your view on that?

A: More than likely, if he were to be sued, it would be based on the fact that he knowingly allowed his children to possess or consume alcohol in their residence and had control over the residence. The plaintiff would also have to show actual knowledge, not constructive knowledge, that they were drinking. Based on a recent case from the Court of Appeals of Michigan, he may well have a difficult time being held accountable, but, of course, it depends on the facts.

REAL ESTATE BRIEFS

Investors

The Real Estate Investors Association of Wayne will have an open forum. Investors will answer questions and offer a market update. Meetings are at 6-9 p.m. the third Tuesday of each month at the Red Lobster on Eureka in Southgate.

Members are free, guests $20, which will be applied to their membership. The Red Lobster is next to 7-11, near Trenton Road.

Any questions or concerns, call Bill Beddoes at 734-934-9091 or Wayde Koehler at 313-819-0919.

Short sales If you owe more than what your house is worth, you may be interested in a free informational seminar on short sale procedures.

Bonnie David, broker/ owner of Ouantum Real Estate, is the presenter. It will be 6-7 p.m. each Thursday at 129 N. Lafayette, downtown South Lyon.

Please call the office at 248-782-7130 or email june.quantum@gmail.com for your reservation or additional information.

Free foreclosure tours

Free foreclosure tours are 1 p.m. every other Sunday. Meeting place is Panera Bread on the southeast corner of Middlebelt and I-96.

Email Georgia@addedvaluerealty.com or visit FreeForeclosureTour.com.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the

LIFT YOUR SPIRITS AT WINTER WONDERS CONCERT

Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

Expect to hear joyous and jazzy sounds at Schoolcraft College's annual Winter Wonders concert on Monday,

Riccardo Selva, Ph.D., director of the jazz studies program, hopes the upbeat holiday tunes touch hearts and lift spirits. 'When I invite people to the jazz concert, most of them in the normal demographic say, I don't like that 'out there' stuff. This concert will be very enjoyable, engaging and interesting for everybody. It's appealing to all ages. It's beautiful music," he said. "During the holiday season we need things that touch our hearts. There is nothing that does that like the arts, in an intentional way that is meant to foster reflection and stir our spirits.

"There is always a joy and sorrow, a bittersweet feel, and yet, we can celebrate that. Music has a wonderful way of bringing memories to mind and it has a wonderful way of healing."

The two-hour concert will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Diponio Room at the VisTaTech Center on the main campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Parking and admission are free, although donations will be accepted.

All ages

tion and Professional Development Department or for college credit. The groups each meet for nearly three hours one night a week. Some members are professional musicians and have played with the bands for years, some are college students who are new to jazz band performance.

"There's a good dynamic of mentoring happening. I have folks in their 70s and I've had people in their 80s before. We have engineers, doctors, teachers. I have students who went on to four-year colleges and they come back to Schoolcraft. The nice thing about Schoolcraft is you can do your undergraduate work (elsewhere) and still come back and play." The Winter Wonders concert will include arrangements by Gordon Goodwin, who performed at the Detroit Jazz Festival this year. Duke Ellington, Count Basie and Ralph Carmichael, who arranged for Stan Kenton.

'It's very unusual because he uses unusual instruments and adds interesting colors," Selva described Carmichael's work. "Ralph is an interesting arranger."

The audience also will hear Vince Guaraldi's Skating and Christmas

Roller skate with comedian Big Dooley in Canton

Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

Comedian Gordon "Big" Dooley learned to roller skate when he was 6 years old and has been a fan of the sport ever since.

"I like the four wheels. That is what I grew up on," said Dooley, 37, explaining that he prefers traditional skates to the inline version. "Skating is one of those things like riding a bike. Once you've got it, you've got it for life.'

The Ypsilanti resident is inviting skaters and non-skaters, age 25 and over, to the This is How We Roll skating party, 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 26, at Skatin Station II, 8611 Ronda Drive, between Haggerty and Lilley, Canton. Tickets are $15 at in advance and will be available at the door for a slightly higher price. The event will include a DJ playing a variety of tunes, a billiards tournament, game tournament, and more.

"It will be fun. You don't have to skate to participate," said Dooley, who has run other skating events in conjunction with fellow alumni from Willow Run High School in Ypsilanti. He said members of the Willow Run alumni group are like-minded when it comes to skating. "It's a group of people who grew up on roller skating and are not willing to make the conversion to Rollerblades.. We gather and skate and raise funds for the com-

Dooley said he plans to make the upcoming public holiday skate party an annual event.

"I think it is the perfect time. Everyone is looking for something to get out of the house once the food and family is done. It's a great day to work off Christmas dinner."

staple of the holidays, flavorful desserts bring a seasonal spread together like nothing else, and whipping up those desserts is a perfect time to spend some quality time with your family. An array of tantalizing desserts can keep your family and friends around the dinner table long after the main course is gone, and give your family a new activity to bond over.

Made to vanish

When it comes to holiday baking, it's often the simplest ingredients and classic recipes that resonate best with everyone. One of which is Quaker's Vanishing Oatmeal Raisin Cookies, a family favorite that's been featured under the lid of the Quaker Old Fashioned Oats canister for 20 years. The Quaker Oats canister also is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. Find more cats recipes and learn more about the iconic oat canister at quakeroats.com.

Holiday classic

Be sure to remember around the holidays that special can be simple, and recipes do not need to be complex to be guest-worthy. Keep your kitchen stocked with a ey ingredients that can be used in a variety of dishes, such as cream cheese, which is perfect in a rich, classic cheesecake and other desserts, but also lends a creamy texture to appetizers and main dishes. Find more tips and recipes to make your holiday entertaining sparkle at creamcheese.com

From the freezer

For a festive twist to your holiday sweets, look no further than your freezer. Frozen red raspberries, with sweet and tart flavors, complement and enhance a wide range of ingredients. They also boast the most fiber and the lowest natural sugar content compared to other berries. Give your loved ones a taste of the holidays with this Raspberry Greek Yogurt Bark. VANISHING OATMEAL RAISIN COOKIES

Prep time: 20 minutes Cooking time: 8 minutes

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened, plus 6 tablespoons

3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

½ cup granulated sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 ½ cups all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon baking soda 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon salt (optional) 3 cups Quaker Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

1 cups raisins

Heat oven to 350 F. In large bowl, beat butter and sugars with electric mixer on medium speed until creamy. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Add combined flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt; mix well. Add oats and raisins; mix well Drop dough by rounded tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8-10 minutes, or until light golden brown.

Pren time: 20 minutes Total time: 5 hours, 45 minutes (including refrigerating) Makes: 16 servings

1 ½ cups graham cracker crumbs

3 tablespoons sugar

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted 4 packages (8 ounces each) Philadelphia Cream Cheese, softened

1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla

4 eggs

1 cup canned cherries

Mix graham crumbs, sugar and butter; press into bottom of 9-inch springform pan.

Cool 1 minute on cookie sheets; move to wire rack. Cool completely. Store tightly covered.

Beat cream cheese, sugar and vanilla with mixer until blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing on low speed after each until blended. Pour over crust.

Bake 1 hour, or until center is almost set. Run knife around rim of pan to loosen cake; cool before removing rim. Refrigerate 4 hours. Top with canned cherries, if desired.

RASPBERRY GREEK YOGURT BARK

Recipe courtesy of NourishRDs.com

2 cups plain, reduced-fat (2%) Greek yogurt

1 lemon, zest only 2 tablespoons honey

1 cup frozen raspberries

1/2 cup shelled pistachios 1/4 cup slivered almonds

Line small baking pan with aluminum foil.

In medium bowl, combine first 3 ingredients. Stir until well incorporated.

Add berries, pistachios and almonds to mixture. Fold in until well incorporated. Spread mixture in baking pan and place in freezer for about 2-3 hours, or until hardened.

Once hardened, remove bark from pan and either cut or break up into pieces. Allow to thaw about 5 minutes before eating.

Notes: Store remaining bark in freezer. You can experiment with any ingredients you have on hand, such as frozen cherries with dark chocolate chunks, frozen blueberries with unsweetened flaked coconut or dried cranberries with pecans.

overwhelming and led Nordeen to partner with Delawarebased Dogfish Head for the upcoming tap takeover. Tap takeovers happen about once a month when the restaurant offers several beers on tap from a featured brewery.

On Dec. 17, Craft Breww City will pour Dogfish Head's 60 Minute IPA, 90 Minute IPA, Namaste, Indian Brown Pale Ale, Burton Baton, Palo Santo Marron, Fort, Higher Math, Midas Touch, Pennsylvania Tuxedo, American Beauty, and Piercing Pils, a special winter seasonal release. Nordeen has dubbed the tap takeover "12 Beers of Christmas.

"They are all really good. Dogfish Head makes unique and fantastic beers. Namaste is one we pour with good frequency here. Guests love it."

Not a Dogfish Head fan? Craft Breww City will have 28 other beer brands on tap that night. "I have 40 beers on tap and those are always rotating,' Nordeen said. "Forty kegs on
