Price throws hat into township race

Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

Shannon Price, who was appointed Plymouth Township supervisor a year ago, announced Wednesday that he is running for a full elected term. Speaking to several dozen supporters at the new Holiday Inn Express & Suites, Price unveiled a new slogan, "Plymouth Township: It's where you want to be," saying the words reflect the township's positive environment for businesses, family life and local schools. "It's where I want to be," he said.

Price faces state Rep. Kurt Heise, R-Plymouth Township, and Trustee Chuck Curmi in the contest for the Republican nomination for supervisor in the Tuesday, Aug. 2, primary. There are no Democratic candidates for supervisor so far; the general election is Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Heise, a lawyer and former director of the Wayne County Department of Environment, is in his third two-year state House term and cannot seek reelection because of term limits. Curmi, a mechanical engineer who specializes

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION AWARDS LATEST CYCLE OF TEACHER GRANTS

Joanne Maliszewski

Starkweather Academy Principal Kevin Lane knows all about budget restrictions and what's unavailable to help teachers enhance their lessons with creativity.

"Teachers come to us all the time with great ideas," he said. "Instead of saying, 'No,' I can say, 'Write the grant.'"

Lane is referring to the grants awarded by the Plymouth-Canton Educational Excellence Foundation. The nonprofit that exists to provide additional financing and support to students provides three grant cycles during which teachers are awarded money for innovative projects.

Salem High School language teacher Kathy Rokakis held up a yellowed cassette recorder to show guests Thursday night at the EEF's Showcase of Grants the equipment of yesteryear that today's students continue to use. "You should see these techie kids try to use these," Rokakis said.

And that's if the old recorders are working.

Rokakis was awarded a grant Thursday that has allowed her to buy some digital voice recorders for her language students.

Meanwhile, Joline Valentine at the curriculum center in Field Elementary received a grant to buy more eBooks for students, while Kimberly DelProposto earned a grant to purchase ma-

Spanish teacher Pam Purcell and district Interim Superintendent Monica Merritt talk about the new games purchased with EEF funding to help students to learn and retain foreign language.

"Teachers apply for grants and we award the grants," said Gretchen Ward, EEF executive director, adding that EEF board members can see their fundraising efforts come full-circle when grants are awarded.

Added Stephanie Goecke, EEF board president: "We are grateful to bring their ideas to fruition."

On Thursday, the EEF provided $5,500 in grants and, last fall, $20,000 in grants to teachers such as Derek Kendall, who teaches AP environmental science at Canton High School. With the grant he received, he created a program - Salmon in the Classroom - with the purchase of salmon eggs and the necessary equipment that has allowed students to follow the birth of salmon and the species' life cycle.

Salmon in the Classroom touched on a variety environmental science topics, including climate change, habitat destruction, invasive species, nutrient cycling, erosion control and resource exploitation.

"I think the teachers are so darned creative," P-CCS Board of Education member Sheila Paton said, as she introduced chemistry teacher Scott Milam, who earned grants to work with his students on modeling.

"It's kind of a better way of teaching," Milam said.

Grants awarded Thursday include:

For a few cents more? City water rates could go up

Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

Water rates in the city of Plymouth could be trickling upward for the first time in two years.

City officials are proposing a water and sewer rate increase of just over 1.5 percent, or 18 cents for every 1,000 gallons of water used. If approved, the change would put the retail cost of water and sewer service in the city at $11.52 per 1,000 gallons beginning in July.

A typical Plymouth household using about 18,000 gallons every three months would see a quarterly water bill of almost $219; the figure includes water used, plus a quarterly "ready-to-serve" meter charge, based on meter size, of $11.56 for a five-eighths-inch meter, the most common household meter size.

Plymouth's water rate last went up in July 2014.

The proposal was made at Monday's city commission meeting as budget plans for the next fiscal year, including a general fund budget of nearly $7.47 million, were introduced. The 2016-17 fiscal year starts Friday, July 1.

The hike was proposed in response to anticipated increases from the new Great Lakes Water Authority, which is replacing the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department as the entity that provides water to suburban customers, and Wayne County, which bills many suburban communities for sewage treatment service, plus increases in the cost of running Plymouth's water delivery system.

Plymouth's proposed water and sewer operating budget for the fiscal year is about $4.72 million and the proposed water and sewer capital improvement budget budget is $150,400.

The commission will discuss the rate-increase plan at a budget study meeting scheduled for 6 p.m. Monday, April 25, at the Department of Municipal Services building.

No increase was proposed in Plymouth's monthly "cart fee" for trash and recyclables disposal, which was lowered to $9.50 a month from $10 a month in late 2014. The cart fees are included in the quarterly water bills.

in program management in the automotive industry, is a five-term township trustee. Price told supporters he plans a positive campaign, despite warnings from opponents that it will be a negative township election season. "I'm not going to subscribe to that," he said. "I'm going to talk about the positive things we've done." But, he added, "We're going to fight for what we believe in and I believe in my community."

Lists high points

He touted several pluses for the township, like being named the second-safest community of its size in the state and having the lowest tax rate of any community in Wayne County, plus recent economic developments: the addition of about 3,000 jobs in the township in 2015 and plans for a major automotive supplier to bring 600-800 jobs to the vacant Automotive Components Holdings plant on Sheldon Road.

Price and his family moved to the township from Canton Township in February 2015 and he was named supervisor by a 4-2 Board of Trustees vote last April after Richard Reaume, in the middle of his third four-year term, announced his resignation.

Price had been a Republican member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, in a district that includes Plymouth Township, and had been elected to his second two-year commission term in November 2014.

After his announcement, Price said he wants to build on a record that, so far, has included improvements to recreation facilities, increased programming for senior citizens, a new Christmas tree-lighting event and a Shannon Price announces Wednesday that he is running for supervisor in this year's Plymouth Township election. Price was appointed supervisor a year ago this month to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Richard Reaume. projected budget surplus for this fiscal year, the first since the economic downturn that began in 2007.

"We've been very, very successful in what we've done so far in keeping taxes low and building on the strengths of our community," he said.

Price said he's reached out to neighboring communities and local organizations such as the Friends of the Rouge and the Plymouth Community Arts Council in hopes of launching joint projects or services.

With the Friends of the Rouge, for example, Price hopes to establish hiking trails at Plymouth Township Park, he said.

'Working to build trust'

Price said he recognized he inherited a difficult situation when he was named supervisor; Reaume's resignation came amid a failed attempt to bring to the ballot a measure to recall Reaume, Clerk Nancy Conzelman, Treasurer Ron Edwards and Trustee Kay Arnold, who died later in the year. But Price said he is working on building good relations with residents by meeting with homeowners associations and individuals and by having regular monthly open office hours.

"I am working every day to build trust in this community," Price said.

Price has two major issues on his supervisor's plate: A legal dispute with the city of Detroit over the ownership of 190 acres at Five Mile and Ridge and negotiations with Plymouth officials over the roughly $3.7 million that township officials contend the city owes it in retiree insurance and pension costs stemming from the Plymouth Community Fire Department, which served both communities from early 1995 through 2011.

He said he hopes to have both wrapped up by the end of his current appointed term in November.

The land dispute, over property that was once part of a Detroit-owned prison, is before the Michigan Supreme Court, though there are separate negotiations to settle the matter. The PCFD legacy debt is the subject of discussions between city and township officials.

Price and his wife Jacki have a daughter, Maddie, and a son, Brady.

Plymouth-Canton Winter Guard wins state championship

Dawn Pyko
Correspondent

The Plymouth-Canton Winter Guard took the top score at the state championships last weekend.

Seventy-five color guards from across Michigan gathered to compete in five distinct classes. Plymouth-Canton ranked first in the most challenging class – Open Class Scholastic competition. The team executed a beautiful performance of its show, “Flight of the Monarch,” and scored 78.15 points, followed by Jenison High School with 75.55, Reeths-Puffer High School with 74.20 and Walled Lake Central with 71.55.

The Michigan Color Guard Circuit also presented scholarships. This year, the Plymouth-Canton Winter Guard had three recipients of the prestigious awards. Enya Chen, Gina Dossantos and Hailey Deptula each received a scholarship to provide the opportunity to develop their technical skills. Several members of the guard will travel to summer camps in Michigan and Indiana, allowing them to focus on mastering technique and improving on a variety of different equipment, including flag, rifle and saber.

P-C director Rachel Nelson and her staff are incredibly proud of the team’s accomplishments. Rory Duffey and Lucas Schmidt have been coaching, along with Nelson, all season and were thrilled with the team’s performance.

“To say I’m proud of the members is an understatement,” Nelson said. “To see their growth over the past four months is the best part of teaching; it’s extremely rewarding! The girls are right on track to deliver their best performance to date at WGI (World Guard International) World Finals this week. Now all they need to do is stay focused, determined and believe in themselves.”

The team will board the bus April 6 for the trip to the World Finals in Dayton Ohio. Members have worked hard and have high expectations; they hope to wrap up the season with a strong preliminary performance, qualifying them for semifinals. Their dream is to represent P-CEP and their community in finals competition Saturday, April 9.

The P-CEP Winter Drumline took first-place April 3 in the state Percussion Scholastic Open.

The drumline competed against 32 percussion ensembles from across Michigan. The drumline competed in eight categories. Plymouth-Canton scored 85.40 points, with Lake Orion taking second place with a score of 84.38.

Their drumline’s show, “Heavy Metal,” uses the music of Igor Stravinsky and Metallica. Stravinsky is one of the most important 20th century Russian orchestral composers. He has also been named as a large influence on today’s heavy metal music.

Local doctor brings THE Jaw Pain Solution to Livonia

As many as 30% of people will suffer with jaw pain at some point of their life. While the condition itself usually isn’t serious or “life threatening” the symptoms which often include significant pain in the face and head as well as the jaw itself, popping or clicking when chewing or speaking and difficulty eating really can seriously affect your quality of life.

If you’ve ever had jaw pain you may have sought professional advice and you may have heard that the actual cause is called TMJD (Temporomandibular Joint Disorder), and the frustrating thing is that while it is an easily diagnosed condition most professionals are poorly educated about how to cure the problem and it can take months to get better by itself. In severe cases, you may not be able to eat solid food in that time period.

It’s doubly frustrating because you look absolutely normal and healthy to anyone that looks at you, but it can be a very debilitating and embarrassing condition leaving you to order soups and soft foods when you go out with friends..!

When my husband suffered with the condition we found it very difficult in getting the right treatment because it is generally not fully understood why people get TMJD. We did a lot of research and saw many “experts” but most of their advice seemed to be totally useless for my husband, it just didn’t get him better...

However, eventually after weeks of suffering we happened across an expert in TMJD that seemed to genuinely know what he was talking about. He assured us that with appropriate diagnostic testing and treatment it was possible to shorten the period of disability and pain significantly.

But for most people, all too often, the standard clinical tests ignore a vital potential causes of TMJD and the real cause of the problem may never be uncovered.

The consequence of being left with a non-specific diagnosis for TMJD is that you’re left to struggle back to health painfully and very slowly...

With so many people, suffering from this debilitating condition, it is vital that we find the best solution; and this is where it can start to get complicated because TMJD can be caused by so many different things. It could be one of the tendons of the jaw muscles, damage to the cartilage or capsule of the joint, problems with the closely related nerves of the neck, even problems with the cranial bones surrounding the TMJ and a number of other things...

Perhaps most importantly it could be as a result of a problem that has developed with your cervical (neck) nerves. These nerves are very vulnerable and when something has gone wrong with the upper cervical nerves they usually also affect the function of the jaw leading to TMJD.

This is the potential problem that is so poorly understood that it often remains completely undiagnosed as the cause of TMJD even in cases where it is the sole cause. The key to solving TMJD quickly is to either rule out or confirm nerve damage as primary or secondary cause; if not, you are going to be wasting a lot of your time waiting for it to heal.

Precise diagnosis is available in Livonia Michigan

Kramer Chiropractic is your nearby specialist in determining functional problems of the jaw. Their team of specialists use a combination of advanced analysis of the neck and jaw and a protocol for resolving your jaw pain that is unique to the Livonia - Farmington area. With it, they can diagnose what is causing your jaw problems and find you the very best approach for ending the suffering.

Long-term relief without surgery, injections, or drugs.

After years of seeing a need for a better solution to solving to TMJD, Dr. Kramer has learned a unique, world leading program of natural treatment that provides safe, long-term relief. This is not about treating symptoms the way injections or drugs do.

Dr. Kramer will determine what is the source of your jaw problem. Then he and his team will carefully reconstruct the damaged area – all without

P-CEP choir, Festival Singers perform in Italy

Danielle Alexander
Staff Writer

After months of preparing and practicing complex music, Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's 2015-16 Festival Singers visited and performed in Italy during spring break, March 25 through April 1.

"From the day I got there until the day I left, it felt like a dream," Plymouth senior MacKenzie Grosse said.

Over the course of the week, the choir performed four times, three of which were at Mass, including one Easter Sunday.

Of the four performances, director of choirs Jennifer Neumann said that many would agree the "highlight" and "pinnacle" took place that Tuesday, during a mass at St. Peter's Basilica, where Grosse added there was not a "dry eye in the room."

"The students performed with such soul and heart there," Neumann said. "Everything just connected, both musically and educationally. It was a very emotional experience for everyone."

Canton sophomore Connor Wright agreed: "That was the point where we all realized how lucky we were. Beforehand, I guess we didn't really realize how special the experience was, but that was the moment it just hit us."

Of the 87 who traveled, 50 were adults.

"What truly impressed me was how well the performers conducted themselves," parent chaperone Amy Rhode said. "They were respectful, attentive and, at times, deeply moved by the beautiful art, history and faith represented in the locations we visited and performed. Strangers from all over the world asked to have pictures taken with them and were taking videos of their performances. It was truly a global experience!"

Neumann said she is grateful for all of the chaperones and visiting relatives, since they became the students' own "fan club."

"Students realized that it was not just me, their teacher, who supported them, but also that they had all this other adult support," Neumann said.

Next school year, all choirs, composed of all four grades, will be going to Cedar Point., Neumann said her goal for the following year, though, will be Austria.

"There is just so much musical history there and it's Mozart's birthplace," Neumann said.

Domestic violence victims to get gift-filled purses

Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Staci Reynolds was on Facebook when she found a simple way to help women living in domestic violence shelters — collect gift-filled purses for them.

She and daughter Rebecca, 16, are doing just that.

Reynolds, systems administrator for the Canton Public Safety Department, stumbled upon a Facebook group organizing the Mother's Day Purse Project. It is named after Carol Atkins, who died in 2013 after she helped start a domestic violence shelter in Manistee.

The goal is to turn the purses over to domestic violence shelters, where children can give them as gifts to their mothers on Mother's Day.

"I thought it was a unique volunteer project," Reynolds said. "I know these women are walking into these domestic violence shelters with nothing."

Reynolds and her daughter, involved for her National Honor Society project, have collected about 20 purses. They hope to collect as many as possible by April 24.

They are asking for gently used purses filled with items such as toothpaste, lotion, perfume, hairbrushes and shampoo. They also ask that gift-filled purses be placed in gift bags with tissue paper.

"Some people are buying new purses, but that's totally not necessary," Reynolds said.

She said anyone wishing to help may take the gift-filled purses at any hour to the front desk of the Canton Public Safety Department, 1150 S. Canton Center.

Jill Popovich, who works as a community response survivor advocate for First Step, which helps victims of domestic violence, said the small token of a gift-filled purse can send a strong message.

"Victims of domestic violence aren't used to getting things without strings attached," Popovich said. "When people give something just because they want to support victims of domestic violence and their children, that is a totally different feeling for some women. It's a whole new concept for them."

Popovich works out of the Canton police station to help victims of domestic violence.

"Women who are victims of domestic violence feel very isolated," she said. "They don't believe that other women are going through a similar thing. When they go to a shelter, then they start to understand that they are part of a bigger problem. Only then do they understand that they are not alone."

And when they receive gifts from complete strangers, she said, they are moved by it.

Rebecca and Staci Reynolds are collecting purses to help victims of domestic violence.

"It's just a very rewarding experience, this generosity of strangers," Popovich said.

Park Players Theatre stages drama 'The Library'

The Park Players Theatre Co. presents the drama "The Library" at 7 p.m. April 15-16 and 22-23 in the Canton High School DuBois Theater. Tickets are $10.

"The Library," partly inspired by the 1999 shootings at Columbine High School, is about the aftermath of a high school shooting. This play doesn't make the mistake of trying to find clear motivations for that crime. Instead, it considers how such events warp and contaminate those who survive them.

The culprit, in this regard, is no deranged assassin. It's a media-driven culture that searches for instant heroes, while turning tragedy into profit as fast as it can. The show isn't concerned with the tragedy itself, but with the stories people tell afterward, from he said/she said testimonies to the search for perfect victims.

"The Library" also doesn't consider that the murderer purchased his weapons at a garage sale and a Walmart store. It lacks interest in stirring debate about the ready availability of guns or the root causes of senseless violence. It focuses on the impact of such events and the conflicts that can arise among those who endure them.

Regrettably, school shootings are a modern-day phenomenon. The author, Scott Z. Burns, is brave in showing how disaster brings out the pettiness in people, in addition to more heroic traits. The play questions the facile abuse of words like "healing" and "closure."

The aim of "The Library" is to consider responses to calamity and the alternate narratives that can emerge under the sometimes misguided banner of healing. The community of this fictional town is completely focused on the blame-game - which one of two terrified girls instinctively tried to survive an incomprehensible horror. They are a people who choose one truth and who, even in the face of the facts, stay committed to that journey.

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

The Park Players Theatre Co. presents "The Library," a drama about the aftermath of a school shooting. Caitlin Gabriel (Amanda Barberena) is blamed for telling the killer where the students were hiding. Dawn Sheridan (Madison Fifer), kneeling, is the mother of a dead student coming to terms with the reality of the tragic events. Ryan Mayes (Samuel Wilmarth), an eyewitness, blames Caitlin for the loss of life. Nolan Gabriel (Muhammad Anwar), in background, is Caitlin's father. The publisher (Sam Schikora), Detective Washburn (Sarah Bondy) hopes to uncover the truth. Ms Thornton (Samiha Akbari) is the social worker. Pastor Dunstan (Madeline Damron) wants to help through faith.

Ask Dr. Stewart

Dr. James Stewart is a general dentist in Livonia, MI. Today, he answers a question about what we can do to maintain fresh breath.

BAD BREATH

Dear Dr. Stewart: Why do we get bad breath? Can we do anything to fight it besides breath mints?

Dr. Stewart: While breath mints can mask halitosis, the results are very short-lived. What you need to do is address the source of bad breath. There are several factors behind halitosis, including drinking coffee, smoking, issues with digestion, and sinus infections. However, poor oral hygiene is one of the most common causes. When you don't brush and floss properly, food particles remain behind to be broken down by bacteria. In addition, cavities and infections can lead to bad breath as well. Proper oral hygiene also includes brushing or scraping your tongue. Simply put: To enjoy fresher breath you need to take better care of your smile.

If you have a question about combating bad breath then contact Dr. James Stewart by calling 734-425-4400 or visiting www.jamesstewartdds.com.

PARC goes blue for Autism Awareness Month

The Plymouth Arts & Recreation Complex lit the front of its building blue Saturday, April 2, in honor of both Autism Awareness Month and its new tenant, Autism Compass Consulting.

By lighting the building blue, the PARC and Autism Compass wanted to raise awareness of autism in Plymouth and throughout Michigan.

The event was also intended to welcome Autism Compass to the PARC and to the Plymouth community. Autism Compass provides diagnostic services, professional guidance, training and social skills groups for individuals and families impacted by autism and other developmental disabilities. It also provides professional training and consulting to autism service providers and other organizations, including local healthcare providers, looking to better serve the autism community. PARC president Don Soenen said he is thrilled to see such an important provider move into the building. "Autism is a serious problem for so many of our kids," he said. "We are pleased that Autism Compass has selected PARC for its new home."

Founded in 2010 by autism expert and certified autism specialist Jamesena Ingram, who lives in Plymouth with her husband and three children, Autism Compass boasts a team of highly-qualified autism professionals, including Megan Cox, a board certified behavior analyst, who will oversee social skills groups and offer ABA consulting. Taraneh Breisacher, also a social worker, will conduct social skills groups, while Dr. Susan Risi, a licensed psychologist and co-creator of the ADOS tool for diagnosing autism (considered the gold standard), will handle diagnostics and adult social skills groups.

Autism Compass moved April 1 into the PARC and is welcoming new clients. The first social skills group begins in early May and will run eight weeks. These groups are designed to help individuals with social cognitive challenges, including autism, gain necessary life-long social skills to succeed in school, young adulthood and beyond.

To register for a social skills group, make an appointment for any another service or for more information, contact Autism Compass at 844-273-4273 or go to www.autismcompassconsulting.com.

For more information about the PARC, go to www.plymouthparc.com.

'Shoot the Gap' multi-sport clinic set for April 23

"Shoot the Gap" is P-CEP athletics' first-ever, free multi-sport clinic for special-needs students, similar to Plymouth football's Sunshine Skills and Drills clinic held over the summer.

The event is 1:30-3:30 p.m. April 23 at Plymouth High School, where there will be different stations set up for volleyball, basketball, soccer, hockey, baseball and softball and track and field.

Each special-needs student will be "buddied" up with a student volunteer from either

National Honor Society or P-CEP athletics and they will travel to the various stations. Each station will be led by P-CEP athletes and coaches, who will teach students the basics of each sport.

This event is a way to bring sports to life for students who may not always get the chance to play them. The National Honor Society group in charge of this event also hopes that afternoon of bonding, this event will help lessen or "shoot" the gap between the special-needs students and other students.

Oscar winner's play comes to Westland's Inspire Theatre

Inspire Theatre in Westland is bringing the work of an Oscar winner to life.

From Cormac McCarthy, author of "No Country For Old Men" and "The Road," comes a two-character drama about the choice people frequently make. Set in a New York tenement, "The Sunset Limited," which opens April 15, is a philosophical debate with high stakes. Souls are bared and secrets shared. The conflict reaches a shattering conclusion that will leave you thinking.

"The Sunset Limited" is directed by Eastern Michigan University graduate student Anthony Petrucci, who is preparing to graduate with a master's of arts degree in interpretation/performance studies.

Petrucci chose "The Sunset Limited" because of the relevant common ground that can be found even by two people that are complete opposites. It covers topics such as race relations, religious freedom, and dealing with death.

Petrucci has been in the last two plays at Inspire Theatre.

"I am thrilled to be able to bring this play to Inspire," he said. "I enjoy working there and like what they do. And this allows this show to be seen by a wider audience. Not a lot of people know about it. It's rarely done and I think that's a shame."

The show opens Friday, April 15, and runs through Sunday, April 17. Show times are 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are available at inspiretheatre.com. For more information, call 734-751-7057.

Inspire Theatre is in the Westland Center for the Arts at 33455 Warren Road.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Educational Excellence Foundation's 2016 wine-tasting, strolling dinner and auction is Friday, April 22. It's a fundraiser for the EEF, which a mission to provide extra resources for the district.

Foundation wine-tasting will raise money for P-CCS extras

Matt Jachman
Staff Writer

A strolling dinner, wine and craft beer samples, live jazz music and an auction of everything from grocery gift cards to tickets to major athletic events will highlight the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Educational Excellence Foundation's sixth annual wine-tasting and silent auction.

The event, $50 a person, is 7-11 p.m. Friday, April 22, at Fox Hills Golf & Banquet Center. An online auction, which can be found at www.pccseef.com, closes Sunday night; items, tickets and services up for bid at the silent auction can be viewed at the same site.

Items available at the live auction only include two tickets to the Oct. 29

University of Michigan-Michigan State University football game, a golf foursome at Fox Hills and a one-night stay at the Crowne Plaza in downtown Detroit.

The Educational Excellence Foundation was organized to provide extra resources that the district might not be able to afford, but will help P-CCS students prepare to compete in the global economy, said Jim Harb, EEF trustee and event chairman.

An example, Harb said, is an after-school tutoring program at the middle school level that has proved successful and is in its second year. "You've got a lot of kids who've benefited from that," he said.

EEF-funded projects were showcased Thursday at the new Liberty Middle School (see related story).

The wine-tasting and auction is the EEF's biggest fundraiser, bringing in more than $175,000 in its first five years, Harb said.

"All the dollars that we raise stay in the district," he said. "The money's not leaving."

This year's wine-tasting menu will feature dishes from 18 different event sponsors — area restaurants and food businesses — including Busch's Fresh Food Market, Beirut Bakery, the Courthouse Grill, Noodles & Co., the Mexican food restaurant On The Border, Happy's Pizza, Dearborn Sausage and the Rusty Bucket.

The Fox Hills pro shop will be turned into a tasting room for up to 30 different craft beers, there will be a shrimp and salmon table and visitors can select a random bottle of wine, by drawing numbered corks for $20 each, from the event's "wall of wine."

Jazz ensembles of students from the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park high schools will be performing during the evening and complimentary valet parking will be provided.

Harb said the event is usually a sellout, attracting about 600 people.

Tickets are available at the Busch's in Plymouth Township, 15185 Sheldon, at the Showroom of Elegance, 6018 N. Canton Center Road, and in the EEF office at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

City's historical personalities to tell their stories

Personalities from Plymouth's past will walk again Saturday, April 23, during the Plymouth Historical Museum's Ghosts of Plymouth Walk in Kellogg Park.

The annual walk, typically one of the museum's biggest fundraisers, brings to life such early Plymouth characters as photographer Romeo Wood, Civil War soldier and shopkeeper Calvin Crosby, Eleanor Kellogg, whose husband John donated land for the park named for him, and Sarah Fuller Shattuck, daughter of Michigan Anti-Slavery Society leaders.

Even anti-saloon activist Carrie Nation, who visited the area, will make an appearance.

Walks begin at the downtown Plymouth park at 5 p.m. and one will leave every 15 minutes, circling the park to listen to the stories of the characters played by costumed actors.

Each walk will last approximately 90 minutes. Participants should meet for walks by the Kellogg Park fountain; the last walk will leave at 7 p.m.

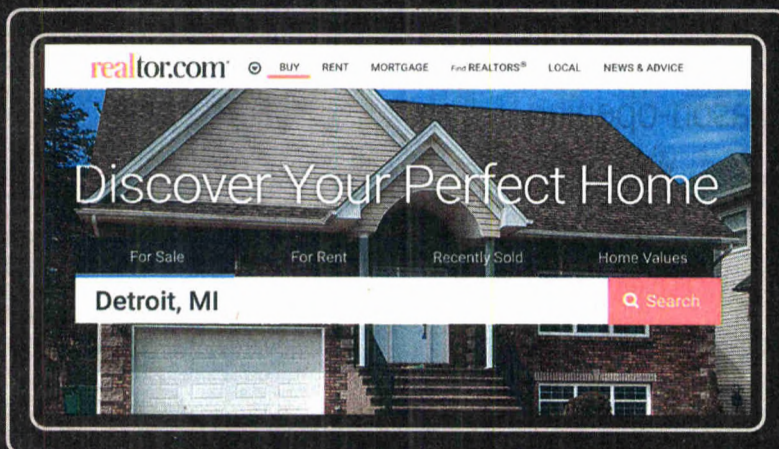

PLYMOUTH HISTORICAL MUSEUM
Robert Taylor portrays George Richwine, a harness-maker in early Plymouth, in the 2015 Ghosts of Plymouth Walk. This year's walk, a Plymouth Historical Museum fundraiser, is April 23.

Tickets are $10 a person ($5 for children under age 10) and can be purchased through the museum's website (plymouthhistory.org) using PayPal or at the museum during open hours: 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The museum is at 155 S. Main.

Tickets will be available at Kellogg Park on the day of the event for $15 each ($10 for children under 10).

Salem throwers key season-opening triumph; team boasts depth in most events

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

All winter, Salem senior throwers Jannik Schmitt and DeAngelo Meredith excelled during their winter indoor track season — qualifying for the New Balance Indoor National Championships held last month in New York City.

And Wednesday, both picked up where they left off as they helped Salem's varsity boys track and field team defeat Hartland 90-47 to get the regular season off to a good start.

Schmitt won both the shot put and discus events with throws of 52-feet, 1-inch and 144-8, respectively while Meredith's throw of 128-9 in the discus earned him second place.

Also stellar for the Rocks was sophomore Alex Howie, who finished second in the shot put (42-04) and third in the discus (127-09). Senior

'Cats look to hit the ground running

Loss of Davis aside, Plymouth boasts plenty of talent

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

After narrowly missing out on winning last year's Division 1 varsity girls track and field regional, the Plymouth Wildcats have intentions of finishing the job this time around.

It won't be easy, due to the loss of senior Jewel Davis — out for the season after suffering a stress fracture during the indoor club season.

But seventh-year head coach Ricky Styes has a wealth of other talented athletes who have the potential to overcome the adversity of Davis' unfortunate injury.

"We have a young, but experienced team in many events this year," Styes said. "We have a great senior class and captains that will be up to the task of helping lead our team in the beginning of the season so that our younger athletes will be able to mature through big meet experience."

The Wildcats, who finished 3-2 in the KLAA South Division, fourth in the Kensington Conference meet and second at the regional, will bank on returning standouts in sprints, distance and field events collecting plenty of points while several talented

Nucleus ready to lead Wildcats

Plymouth veterans return to build off of 12-4 season

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Plymouth's varsity girls lacrosse team looks to build off a 12-4 season, with a standout nucleus leading the charge.

At the top of the list for the Wildcats, coached by Jake Wieloch, are senior co-captains Natalie Nowicki, Marissa Cirino, Abigail Bolterman and Sabrina Shiftar.

Nowicki and Cirino — last year's top two scorers — are midfielders who already are slated to play at the collegiate level (Ursuline College, Siena Heights, respectively) while Bolterman leads the Plymouth defense.

Certain to spark Plymouth in the Kensington Conference will be Shiftar, an attacker who missed last season due to a knee injury.

"(Shiftar) will give us a huge boost in energy and athleticism," Wieloch said.

The Wildcats also return a number of junior players who gained valuable experience as sophomores during the 2015 season.

Those are attacker Madeleine Caswell, midfielders Cathryn VandenBosch, Cierra Steiner, defenders Megan Eschelbach, Emily LaBlanc, Shelby Strawn and goalie Elizabeth Elliott.

Wieloch also has high hopes for varsity newcomers such as juniors Reagan Woodward (attack), Jessica Curtis (defense), Grace MacLellan (defense) and Claudia Saveski (goalie), sophomores Michelle Cirino (attack) and Catherine Sandberg (defense).

NTDP Under-17 team routed in home finale

Youngstown buries Team USA with avalanche of goals, 12-0

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Friday marked a changing of the guard at USA Hockey Arena, but it wasn't much of a send-off.

During the day, the 2016-17 U.S. National Team Development Program Under-17 team was unveiled and later the current U17s took the home ice for the final time with interim head coach Nick Fohr behind the bench.

The United States Hockey League contest against Youngstown was decided early on, to the chagrin of the 1,344 fans on hand for the finale as the Phantoms broke out to a quick 3-0 lead and rolled to a 12-0 victory.

"The outcome really wasn't indicative of how the game went, in my opinion," Fohr said. "I thought we actually played well for 35 minutes of the game. We just couldn't get anything behind their goaltender (Ryan Bednard)."

"Had we got a couple in there early, it would have never gotten the way it did. And when they got opportunities they put the puck in the net."

Youngstown (30-20-9) set the tone off the hop, scoring on the first shot against U17's goalie and Northville native Dylan St. Cyr. Defenseman Luke McInnis slid a shot from the left side that eluded the 5-7 netminder, with 16:25 to play in the first period.

Back-to-back shots by forward Yushiroh Hirano — who scored four goals in the contest — upped the Phantoms lead to 3-0, with the markers coming just 1:16 apart. At 13:55, Hirano snapped a shot from the right circle over St. Cyr's left shoulder and he followed up at 15:11 with a short-side snipe.

Drawing assists on both goals was linemate Chase Pearson.

Team USA (22-31-4-2, including games by the U18s and U17s) put pressure on Bednard (38 saves) during a subsequent power play, with a handful of quality shots turned aside. Bednard denied a point-blank attempt by forward Randy Hernandez and got in front of defenseman Nate Knoepke's drive.

Youngstown then chased St. Cyr at 3:38 of the second period when defenseman Connor Moore walked in and launched a rocket from the right circle that cleanly beat the Team USA netminder.

Fohr switched goalies, but Adam Scheel didn't fare any better. The second shot he saw was an unassisted tally by forward Cameron Morrison to make it a 5-0 deficit with 11:27 left in the middle stanza.

The Phantoms scored in the closing minute of the frame to go up 6-0 and the onslaught continued in the third with five goals in 7:46 — two by Hirano — to force Fohr to mercifully pull Scheel and put St. Cyr back in the game.

Roster unveiled

As for next year's U17s, 12 forwards, eight defensemen and two goaltenders were selected. On the roster is Plymouth native Will MacKinnon, a defenseman from the Detroit Honeybaked 16U program.

Other Michigan players to make the squad included Birmingham's Bode Wilde (Chicago Mission), Rochester's Jonathan Gruden (Honeybaked 16U) and Blade Jenkins (Detroit Compuware 16U).

Wilde is a defenseman while Gruden and Jenkins are forwards. Slated to coach the team is current NTDP U18s head coach Danton Cole.

Battle of the elements: Chiefs best Northville, 1-0

Mustangs fall in frigid season opener

Tom Morelli
Correspondent

Sometimes it's just the way the ball bounces.

And with unforgiving snow to match the frigid 34 degrees Thursday night at kickoff between Northville and Canton, the ball bounced every which way in what was the season opener for both girls soccer teams.

In the end, however, it was the Chiefs who were able to catch more breaks, but none were more important than junior Raquel Church's spontaneous drive in the 19th minute that turned out to be the difference maker for Canton in a 1-0 victory over the host Mustangs at Tom Holzer Field.

As the Chiefs employed a hefty attack inside the Mustangs' box, Northville attempted to clear the ball out of the area, only to have it fall right into the path of Church for a smooth finish from point-blank range.

"It was definitely a matter of being in the right place at the right time," Church said. "Those easy ones are sometimes easy to miss."

Canton nearly doubled their lead three minutes later, but Church's crossing pass to senior Mary Galm was broken up by the Mustang's defense.

Northville picked up the pace in the second half with a handful of scoring opportunities, including a blast by Abby Henzi off a feed from

The first official shot on net for the Mustangs came with three minutes remaining, as Schembri's laser from 20 yards out was denied by Canton goalkeeper Sarah Hammond.

A stutter step by senior Alissa Moore warded off Chiefs defenders in the final minute of play en route to a 10-yard attempt, but Hammond negated it to preserve the win.

Jordan Anheuser and Hammond each played a half to earn a shared shutout for Canton.

"It was definitely crazy weather," said Canton assistant coach Mark Zemanski. "Northville's a really good team. We got the early goal and we were able to hold them out. They had some quality chances, but that's the way soccer goes."

Although Northville coach Eric Brucker was happy to see his squad come alive in the second half, he believes that they could have taken more chances.

"We strung a couple more passes together and had opportunities, but we didn't adapt to the high-style their backline was playing," he said. "The space was behind them and we didn't use it. We generated more scoring opportunities, but based on how Mother Nature was treating us, we should have had more."

Sophomore goalkeeper Charlie Castiglione stopped 5-of-6 shots for the Mustangs.

Salem edges Churchill in opening game

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

A strong all-around performance Wednesday night enabled Salem's varsity girls soccer team to defeat Livonia Churchill 1-0 in the Rocks' opener.

Salem (1-0-0) broke a scoreless tie midway through the second half on a goal by junior forward Bailee Soper, capping off a nifty passing play.

After a Churchill foul gave the Rocks a re-start from just outside the 18-yard box, senior midfielder Miranda VanDerRoest jumped high to redirect the ball in the direction of Soper.

"As Bailee ran on to the ball she took a small touch to force the keeper to hold her ground and then shot a laser beam," said Salem head coach George Tomasso, describing Soper's winning marker.

At the other end of the pitch, Salem junior goalkeeper Skyler Brant was solid, making eight saves for the shutout.

Providing her with defensive support were seniors

Pamela Beas, Kamrey Dingelday, junior Gabby Teodorescu and sophomores Gabriella Mazzuca, Rhona Nicol and Brittney Simpson who "did a great job stopping Churchill's attack," Tomasso noted.

The coach added that another plus was how well the Rocks possessed the ball all night long, minimizing opportunities by the Chargers.

Wildcats lose grip on game in seventh, 9-5

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

For six innings Friday, Plymouth junior pitcher Mike Matovina handcuffed University of Detroit-Jesuit's varsity baseball team.

The Wildcats took a 3-1 lead into the seventh inning and head coach Jason Crain then went to the bullpen. But that's when the wheels fell off as the Cubs plated eight runs and went on to claim a 9-5 non-conference victory.

"We'll play better, just a few untimely mistakes today," Crain said. "A couple softly hit balls fell in (during) the seventh inning and it snowballed from there."

"They (Cubs) took advantage of our mistakes and we lost because of it. But I'm confident when the weather turns, guys will fill into their roles."

Mantovina gave up just five hits and one run while striking out six for Plymouth (1-2).

"Mike pitched a great game," Crain said. "We were up 3-1 and we just couldn't finish it."

At the plate, Brenden Lacorato slammed a two-run homer and collected three RBI's while Pete Carravallah (3-for-3) and Ryan Elliott (2-for-2) also had solid games.

Thursday, the Wildcats dropped a 5-4 decision to Novi Detroit Catholic Central, as the bullpen coughed up a late lead, Crain noted.

Plymouth's season opener was a 18-1 rout of Ann Arbor Skyline. Carravallah and Evan Claggett each went 2-for-3 while Lacarato had a 2-for-5 day at the plate.

Registering three hits each were Kyle Wolter and Austin Scheffer.

The Wildcats are scheduled to host South Lyon East at 4 p.m. Monday, weather permitting. Rain is in the forecast.

Chiefs prevail

Canton edged Hartland 1-0 with a run in the ninth inning on a suicide squeeze bunt.

Noah Spencer earned the win in relief of Six Zeleznak, who tossed six shutout innings against the No. 1-ranked team in the state.

On the offensive end, Lou Baechler had a double and RBI for Canton (3-1).

BOYS TRACK & FIELD - PART 2

Shough likes makeup of promising Chiefs

Veteran coach points to mix of returnees, newcomers as reason for hope

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Canton's varsity boys track and field team is poised to make noise in the KLAAs South Division, according to third-year head coach Jess Shough.

The Chiefs (3-2 in the division, fourth in the conference and regionals in 2015) has an impressive cast of returnees who Shough expects to lead on and off the track.

"Although still quite young," Shough noted, "the team is returning a good number of experienced underclassmen who will make a tremendous impact this season along with an outstanding core of senior classmen."

"The senior leadership has done an excellent job so far this early season to help get the team prepared to meet their goals."

Those seniors include Darren Davis (third in conference in 200-meter dash), Derek Triebwasser (eighth in conference in pole vault), Peter Bruchnak (eighth in regionals in 800 run), Alan Jones, Jr. (sprints), Xavier Reinders (mid-distance, distance events) and Luis Orozco (sprints, long jump).

That group has plenty of support from underclassmen.

Ready to rack up points are returning juniors Jemal Vau-nado (second in conference and regionals, state qualifier in 300 hurdles), Andrew Koenigsknecht (fourth in conference and fifth in regionals in pole vault), Zachary Clark (eighth in regionals in 3,200-meter run), Caleb Moraw (eighth in regionals in 400 dash), Brennon Pelland (sprints, hurdles), Logan Leibach (hurdles, high jump) and Nick Socha (distance).

Also back are sophomores Dirk Thornhill, who was third in the conference and fifth in the regionals in the 400 dash, and Shane Andrews (distance).

The Chiefs will give a number of newcomers the opportunity to be noticed.

On that list are senior Malcolm Hunter (throws), juniors Danual Johnson (jumps), Markus Sanders (sprints), Julian Thornton (sprints), sophomores Patrick Lenczewski (throws), Marquis Reed (throws), Sam Reinders (distance) and freshmen James Deese (throws), Luke Fenstermacher (jumps, hurdles), Braden Heimbaugh (distance), Travis Lu (distance), Alex Poe (mid-distance), Vinson Sigmon (sprints) and Steven Walker (sprints, jumps).

Another plus for the program is what Shough said is an "outstanding" coaching staff in Matti Kilpelainen (vaults), Paul Rakovitis (distance), Devin Thomas (sprints), Nia Henderson (throws) and newcomer Chad Smith (hurdles, sprints and jumps).

"We hope to continue to improve on the successes of last season where an additional number of relays and individuals were very close to qualify-

GIRLS LACROSSE PREVIEW

Chiefs eager to turn things around

Tim Smith
Staff Writer

What goes down must come up, and that's what Canton's varsity girls lacrosse team is pinning its hopes on for the 2016 season.

The Chiefs struggled to a 1-15 finish last spring. But with the lone notable loss to graduation being all-state honorable mention player Jordan Church (Albion College), coaches point to the tough year being a learning experience for those who return.

"Last year we had trouble with everything — scoring, midfield play, defense, you name it," said sixth-year head coach David Bower. "This year, our scoring should be more balanced, and our defense should be stronger, with a much improved, faster and stronger midfield to lead the way."

Helping put 2015 squarely in the rearview mirror will be several solid returning midfielders and defenders.

Those include senior midfielder and co-captain Katja Nuler, senior defender Rianna Pfau, junior midfielders Lauren Rippey, Olivia Adamic and Maignan Byers.

"Our strength will be in the midfield," Bower said.

Also back is senior attacker and co-captain Casey Bower, who will lead the offense along with senior co-captain Andrea Simons and junior transfer Marissa Barman.

Meanwhile, in addition to Barman, the Chiefs will plug some promising newcomers into the lineup.

Canton's varsity girls lacrosse team will be led by senior co-captains (from left) Katja Nuler, Casey Bower and Andrea Simons.

CANTON GIRLS LACROSSE

Sophomore midfielders Caroline Currie and Kristen Wiseman will provide additional depth at the important position.

Joining Pfau on defense will be seniors Brenna Wayne, Hollyann Stewart and sophomore newcomers Lauren Grendysa and Zoe Stirrett.

Handling goalkeeping duties will be sophomore newcomer Kendall Gregory.

Bower's staff includes assistant coach Doug Pfau, beginning his second season, and Sarah Tiderington, starting her fourth year as JV coach.

Salem outlook

The Rocks finished 9-10 overall and 2-4 in the Kensington Conference last season and welcome a new coach as Nicole Jacobs takes over from Dave Medley.

Salem's hopes hinge on a strong midfield — spearheaded by junior Leah Tardiff and senior Colleen Shortal — and defense, with senior Mikeala Berg the steady factor. Backstopping the squad will be junior goalkeeper Maddie Johnson.

Augmenting those players will be promising newcomers, including junior attacker Madison Mullins, junior midfielders Kayla Goleniak and Stephanie Miller.

"The 2016 Salem girls lacrosse team intend on taking advantage of every opportunity given and constantly improving," Jacobs said. "We have a strong midfield led by Leah Tardiff, Colleen Shortal and Stephanie Miller as well as a strong defensive unit with Maddie Johnson in goal, and senior Mikeala Berg on defense."

newcomers get acclimated to varsity speed.

"We have a number of athletes who will be asked to step up in different ways this year," Styes said. "Our goal is to be competitive in all of the meets that we run this year and be in the mix for the division, conference, and regional championships."

Options abound

Styes emphasized that sprints will be Plymouth's primary strength, even with Davis injured.

"We have a lot of depth here and hope to use this to take pressure off of other parts of the team," Styes said. "Our sprinters will be led by (junior) Ryen Draper, (senior) Bailey Brown and (sophomore) Faith Washington."

"Ryen was a state qualifier last year and has had a great indoor season," Styes said. "We expect great things from her and I think she is eager to leave her mark on the Plymouth record board."

Hurdles also look to be in good shape, with senior Nadine Saleme, junior Kayla Dudek and newcomer and two-time state qualifier Erin Bradley, a junior who transferred to Plymouth this year.

Leading the distance team will be junior Annie Bonds and seniors Genieve Mitrano and Emma Radke.

"Our distance team will be young this year," Styes continued. "We will lean on our upper classmen leadership to help our distance runners improve during the season."

Senior high jumpers Brown, Kat Harris and Jillian Betts headline an impressive field events lineup.

"Kat is coming off of a all-state season last year," he said. "And Jillian and Bailey could help us be one of the best high jump teams in the area."

Senior Elise Wehmer will take care of shot put and discus duties, with Brown also asked to step in at long jump.

The Wildcats boast two pole vaulters in senior Emily Welch and sophomore Emily Caragay who qualified for states in 2015.

"Both of these girls could be two of the best vaulters in the area," Styes said. "We also hope to see a lot of growth from (sophomore) Natalie Janke this season in the vault."

Although the veterans bring a lot to the mix, Styes is confident that a quartet of freshmen will have immediate success.

Those include sprinters Reghan Draper and Cora Wallen, Emerson Recto (jumps) and Ana White (jumps/distance).

Christian Pearson chipped in with a throw of 41-09 in the shot put for third place.

"This group of throwers have been working hard during the offseason on their technique and their strength," Rocks' throwing coach James Crabill said. "The hard work has continued into the season and I am excited to see how well we can do."

"When you mix hard work and dedication with outstanding talent, great heights can be reached."

Breaking through

Of course, for Crabill, new head coach Dale Maskill (who takes over from Steve Aspinall) and the rest of the Salem staff, there were many other highlights from the opening meet to take stock of as the team looks to defend its KLAAs Central Division title.

In sprinting events, senior Vershawn Patrick picked up where he left off last season by winning the 100- and 200-meter dashes (11.79, 24.24 seconds, respectively) and running the anchor on the 400-meter relay (first, 44.64).

Senior Gino Persicone, meanwhile, had what Maskill called a "breakthrough performance" by finishing second in the 400 dash (53.98) and running an 800-meter split of 2:02 to spark the Rocks to first in the 3,200-meter relay (8:33.12).

"Gino also ran the lead leg of the winning 4-by-400-meter relay," noted Maskill, about the quartet prevailing in 3:48.66.

The Rocks again will boast a strong distance lineup, spearheaded by senior all-stater Chaz Jeffress and early returns didn't disappoint.

Jeffress won both the 800 (2:04.03) and mile runs (4:35.17), with sophomore teammate Derek Skaff pushing him with third-place finishes in both events (2:14.70, 4:52.71).

In the two-mile run, senior Jacob Kubinski and sophomore Ryan Exell challenged for the top spot with respective times of 10:25.03 and 10:26.84. Prevailing with a time of 10:21.05 was Harland's Noah Kramer.

Salem's hurdles lineup could be one for opponents to reckon, with Wednesday's results underscoring that point.

Sophomore Eseosa Arhebamen took the top spot in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 16.67 while, in the 300 hurdles, sophomores Sharriff Dyer and Arhebamen placed 2-3 with respective times of 44.98 and 46.51.

Closing out the meet, junior Cameron Grace finished second in the high jump (5-08), while sophomore Jonathan Bilko registered a 9-06 to take second in the pole vault.

Another Salem sophomore, Cody Tapp, tied for third in the pole vault with a mark of 9-feet even.

And, in the long jump, the Rocks managed a fourth-place showing with freshman Saad Syed tallying a 16-07 mark.

"The strength of our team this season will be our depth," Maskill said. "We have outstanding athletes in most events and really solid performers behind them."

"The advantage of having depth takes the pressure off of the top athletes and allows them to compete without added pressure."

Salem will open divisional competition Tuesday against South Lyon East at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

critical roles in the success of this year's Lady Cats."

Wieloch noted that the Wildcats have the talent, experience and determination to be a contender in the KLAAs Kensington Conference, which Northville claimed last year with a 6-0 mark.

Plymouth finished fourth in the conference with a 3-3 record.

"This year's team has a tremendous amount of athleticism and experience," Wie-loch said. "I expect us to compete in all of our games even though the schedule this year has some very good teams on it."

"We will need to understand how to control the pace of the game to best use our athleticism."

"The girls that are new to the varsity game will need to come up to speed quickly and our returning players must play to their potential. If we do these things, we will be a very difficult team to beat."

GC Library offers 'Art Garden Is Coming!' presentation April 13

The Garden City Public Library, 31735 Maplewood, is offering Don Wakefield's Art Garden Is Coming! presentation and fun artistic activity at 6 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at the library. This free event is open to all ages and registration is requested by calling 734-793-1830.

Don Wakefield is an artist from California known for creations from large-scale art pieces to furniture to sculptures. Most recently, he petitioned Mayor William Wild and the Westland City Council to vote for the transformation of the unoccupied Hawthorne Valley Golf Course (near Hines Drive) into a year-round family and cultural art center. Some of the highlights that he has envisioned include bonfire pits, cross country skiing and maintained paths through the 14-plus acres. He calls this creation The Art Garden.

Part of Wakefield's process to bring this vision into existence included creating a petition on the website Change.org. There he stated: "There are no art centers in the region and this project will benefit the citizens of Westland more than anything else at this site. We are starting this petition to encourage the mayor and council to work with our group on this project."

In June, the Westland City Council voted in favor of the art center with Wakefield and publicly posted: "With a few more details to complete we should be on our way to having the most exciting art center in the state of Michigan."

The Garden City Public Library encourages all who are interested in this center to attend April 13.

The Garden City Public Library is available to answer inquiries during normal business hours in person or over the phone at 734-793-1830. When visiting, enter the Balmoral side of Maplewood Center located at 31735 Maplewood, Garden City. Library hours are Monday-Thursday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Friday-Saturday noon to 5 p.m.

As simple as black and white

The Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA) Founders Junior Council (FJC) knows how to throw a great soiree. And their recent Cirque 2016 was no exception. Inspired by New York's legendary Black and White Ball in 1966, the FJC's Masquerade Gala kicked off the DIA's spring season and the newest exhibition, Dance America Art: 1830-1960 that will run through June 12.

And downtown Detroit was certainly hopping on Friday with the Tigers season opener followed by a Speakeasy Dance Party at the DIA.

You have a chance to meet new DIA director Salvador Salort-Pons, unmasked, 7-9 p.m. April 11, at the Rochester Hills Public Library. Salort-Pons has been hosting a series of meet and greets throughout Metro Detroit to get some feedback from the community.

And next up for the family at the DIA is Sensory Friendly Saturday on April 16 and two puppet performances, Reverse Cascade, at 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday, April 24 in the First Level Lecture Hall.

And finally, and very appropriately, DIA-goers have their last chance to see "Detroit Weather: 365 Days" which closes on April 16.

Redford author says the 'new' old maid has fun, freedom

Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

"You've NEVER been married? Never?"

Redford playwright and actress Maureen Paraventi has often tried to sidestep that question by steering the conversation in another direction.

Now she's responding with a Facebook page, Twitter account, blog and nearly-finished book about single, over age 40 women who are "new" old maids. She counts herself among them.

"I got the question just one too many times," she said, explaining why she embarked on her newest writing project. "The subtext always seems to be, what's the matter with you? And even if people follow it up, as they often do, by saying oh, but you are so attractive and you have such a great personality, how come some man didn't snap you up, there is still the implication that something's wrong with you."

"I love my life. I'm living a happy life. I think there is a perception out there that to be an old maid is to be unhappy ... or lonely or unfulfilled."

Paraventi saw other "never married" women her age and older, living "active, vibrant lives." She set out to document their stories and their views on relationships, marriage and the single lifestyle.

She interviewed women across the country, finding them mostly through referrals.

Lots of old maids

"I was actually worried I wouldn't find enough women to talk to. There must be so few old maids out there," she said. "It couldn't be farther from the truth. I think the results are going to surprise a lot of people."

She interviewed women age 42-68, including a corporate leader, ski bum, entrepreneurs, teachers, a psychic medium, nurse, fashion designer, house cleaner, former beauty queens, a retired firefighter, a stockbroker and others. Paraventi said they were forthcoming and willing to share "extraordinary stories."

One woman moved to Australia for a new job at age 60 and suggested that lifelong single women tend to live more adventurous lives.

Another woman said she travels alone to Stratford, Ont., every year to attend plays and eat in fine restaurants. She recalled encountering two couples at dinner who were surprised she was vacationing by herself.

Freedom

All of the women told Paraventi they relish their freedom and autonomy.

"What they said was I can do what I want, when I want to do it. I can spend my money anyway I want," Paraventi said. "I don't want to imply that being single is the best thing ever. There is a downside to it. But there is more of an upside than people have acknowledged. And one of the upsides is freedom."

She said most of the women she interviewed are open to the possibility of marriage on their own terms. A 68-year-old woman with a boyfriend said she wouldn't tie the knot if it meant giving up her condo and living with a husband 24/7.

A few women cited childhood experiences such as divorces, or relationships that compelled them to avoid marriage. None of the women she interviewed regretted never marrying. Some said they felt lonely occasionally, but the feelings didn't last.

"The other thing that may surprise people is that a lot of the women I talked to have had plenty of relationships, plenty of boyfriends. They didn't end up in marriage and often that was because the woman didn't want marriage."

Social media

Paraventi started interviewing women and writing the book more than a year ago. She recently signed with a literary agent and is in the process of finishing a book proposal. A "New" Old Maid Facebook page and Twitter account followed. She also blogs on the topic at maureenparaventi.com. The social media pages give her a platform to continue discussing the topic with others and shows publishers she has the digital goods to support a new book.

The social media and eventually the book are meant to counteract "that obnoxious question" she and other single women often hear. But she also hopes women embrace the equally negative term, "old maid."

"I think unmarried women should take that term and own it. And take the term spinster and own it in order to get rid of the negative associations," she said.

Paraventi wants the writing project to be seen as a "positive." She stresses that it's not meant to be anti-men nor anti-marriage.

"Someone on Twitter recently said 'I hesitate to ask about the inspiration for your current writing project ... I'm a little scared of this spinster army.'"

"There is nothing to be feared."

OTHER MAUREEN PARAVENTI PROJECTS

» Paraventi portrays one of four characters in "Phillip Glass Buys a Loaf of Bread," a one-act play by David Ives that parodies the minimalist-style compositions of Phillip Glass with short phrases and repeated rhythms. See it April 22-May 5 at the Children's Creative Center, 1600 Pauline Blvd., in Ann Arbor. btensemble.org for more information.

» Her first full-length play, "The Bucket List of Booze Club," runs weekends, Oct. 21-30 at Barefoot Productions in Plymouth. Two long-time friends find themselves locked in a bitter competition that plays out during weekly gatherings of the "Club," which consists of friends who sample exotic liquors and talk about their problems. Jen is a successful lawyer; Collette, a divorced Mom. Collette's battle with cancer forces her to confront a lifetime's worth of regrets and face the fact that her smart, ambitious daughter takes after her "Aunt Jen," much more than herself. The four main characters are "50-something" women. justgobarefoot.com for more information » Paraventi has won awards for several of her plays, including third place audience favorite award for "Who Goes to Russia," at the 2013 Canton One Act Festival; first place audience favorite award at both the 2015 Canton One Act Festival and the 2015 West Coast Players One Act Festival for "Such a Small Word;" first place Michigan Playwright Award for "Ruin Porn," at Two Muses' 2015 Women's Playwriting Festival; and first place audience favorite award in 2015 for "Scene in Black and White," for Detroit Fringe Fest.

We're not taking over the world yet. You've got to have a sense of humor about these things."

Local business helps animal shelter with van repairs

Sharon Dargay

Gail Montgomery wanted to hug Neil Adrian over the phone.

"It's so heartwarming for someone to approach you wanting to help you, rather than you having to beg," said Montgomery, co-founder and director of Almost Home Animal Rescue League and Haven, in Southfield. "It's very unusual and kind."

When two of her animal transport vans needed repairs recently, Adrian offered to help. He owns Adrian's Collision Centers, which has six locations, including Farmington Hills and Southfield. He heard about the shelter's needs from a new business acquaintance.

"I reached out and found out what was happening. When an opportunity presents itself, we try to help out when we can," said Adrian, who owns a soft-coated wheaten terrier and has been a lifelong dog owner. He paid the insurance deductible on one van and made extensive repairs for free on the other, enlisting the help of 1-800-Radiator, Autoglass Services in Redford, and PPG Industries for parts.

He's also brainstorming other ways he can help, including the possibility of playing a video about the shelter in his lobby or posting photos of adoptable animals on his business Facebook page.

"Almost Home is our neighbor. I'm sure though this we will end up saving a couple more animals, along with keeping their vehicles on the road."

His generosity enables Montgomery to spend money — approximately $2,500 — on animal care rather than vehicle repairs.

Making them adoptable

She estimates Almost Home's medical costs at approximately $100,000 annually. "The animals come to us in need of being rehabbed and most come in ill. We make them adoptable."

She said a trainer works with dogs that have behavioral problems every week, but the rehabbing process takes time and money. Animals with medical problems also get a second chance. Montgomery describes Almost Home as a "never kill" facility that euthanizes only if an animal is so sick it will have no quality of life no matter how much medical treatment it receives.

Almost Home was granted the former City of Southfield animal control building in 2006. Montgomery said the rescue is required to take in all stray dogs and cats found by police or the animal warden within the city limits. It also takes owner surrenders from Southfield residents as well.

"Cinder was lying on the road and a police officer stopped and brought her to Almost Home. One of her eyes was atrophied. She had mammary tumors, a hernia, Cushings disease. Her ears were messed up. She was a total mess."

soon.

Go Fund Me

Almost Home posted stories of Cinder, Bernard and several other dogs and a cat with medical issues, along with photos of their progress, on the organization's Go Fund Me web page.

Montgomery hopes to raise $35,000. As of April 8, the campaign had raised $2,760. It's Almost Home's first Go Fund Me campaign. The organization often reaches out to its 65,000 Facebook followers for both donations and prayers.

"We thought we'd try something different because we're so desperate. Wally the cat, whose head was burned by cigarettes and his head was bashed in, is doing great now. But it cost us a fortune."

Bernard, who was in the hospital a month with a poor prospects for survival, is walking and "almost completely recovered," although his vet bill is $6,000.

"I believe every life is precious," Montgomery said, explaining why she rarely gives up on a sick animal. "Our hearts bleed for them."

Joe Gagnon dreams of a world with no junky appliances

Not only live my life dwelling on major home appliances, I also dream about them a lot.

In columns written last September and December, I wrote that General Electric was bailing out of the appliance industry by selling to Electrolux, and then followed it up with a move in Washington to ban that particular sale. Now I find out that GE has successfully sold out to Haier, a Chinese major manufacturer of appliances. This sale is to be consummated by mid-June barring any hiccups from Washington.

And now, my dream: My darling Valorie had passed away and all I did was stick around the house feeling miserable for myself and waiting for the good Lord to take me so I could be with her again. One evening I received a phone call from China and this gentleman with a serious flaw in his English wanted me to fly to Louisville, Ky., to meet with him at the GE factory. Greeting me as I got off the airplane was a group of Chinese men with big smiles. They escorted me to this huge office and sat me down on a chair fit for the Queen of England and offered me the office of president of GE and a salary big enough to exceed Trump's earnings. I quickly accepted the offer and immediately asked, why me? They replied that I was the only one who could gear Haier to the ultimate goal of customer satisfaction and my way would be etched in stone.

Joe Gagnon
APPLIANCE DOCTOR

I wasted no time in setting up a meeting with the whole of the engineering staff. I pointed out that with all of the secrets obtained with their purchase of GE, success could be a sure thing if they followed some new procedures in production of major home appliances. I started with the subject of JUNK. I told them their reputation in the United States of shipping nothing but junk into our country has been devastating and that consumers are angry at the lack of quality in their products and that I was tired of announcing so many recalls on Chinese products.

The first thing I wanted was a much smaller office and a salary no more than $100,000 per year with no bonuses. With GE employing 12,000 workers I wanted no layoffs to occur and I wanted each employee to be satisfied with his or her yearly earnings. Any engineer who approved one component that proved to be junk would be sent to Japan for punishment or moved to the assembly line for life.

Manufacturing quality

Knowing what the manufacturers had done just a few years ago by reducing the warranties to only one year on products, Haier would immediately offer a 10-year full warranty on their products only because we could now offer quality like never before. As an example, I wanted a clothes dryer that could last 30 to 40 years without fail. The engineers argued that we eventually would go downhill on dryer sales. I countered with the fact that for the next 10 years everyone in America would purchase a GE dryer and in 10 years we would have some sort of laser beam that dried the clothes in seconds.

I made it absolutely clear that I would walk the factory assembly line, talk to our parts suppliers and go out on service calls with technicians. I wanted opportunities for Amish families to be employed at our factories so that the pride of workmanship would be second to none. It is surprising to see how well an Amish person can build a product. I wanted appliance service schools set up across America to teach a trade to young people that could assure them of work wherever they went. I wanted a sound money arrangement with Washington that would be agreeable to all parties and provide China with a great sense of pride in acquiring the great name of General Electric. Together we could turn the appliance industry into what it was in yesteryear compared to what it is today.

THEN I woke up and made sure Valorie didn't die on me and yelled, NO MORE JUNK.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m., Saturdays on WAAM 1600. You can e-mail your problems and questions on appliances to appldr@twmi.rr.com

Seaholm High School hosts Women in Leadership conference

It was a day of girl power. Seaholm High School students had the opportunity April 1 to meet with a distinguished panel of women who are in positions of leadership in the local community. Students had the chance to quiz the panel and learn from role models who have carved out successful careers.

"I really enjoyed it," Birmingham Police Sgt. Kate Long said. "We had a great group of students there with insightful questions and I thought it was a very positive experience for everyone involved."

Other members of the panel included Deborah Piesz, an assistant superintendent with Birmingham Public Schools; Kia Hagens, with the Michigan Education Association; and Baldwin Public Library Trustee Ashley Marie Aidenbaum, with the Skillman Foundation.

Aidenbaum applauded the school for bringing together various student groups (Black Student Union, Gender and

EDUCATION
Canton foundation continues scholarship tradition

By Brad Smith

The Canton Community Foundation has a long history of supporting students in need. This year, the foundation awarded 25 scholarships to local high school seniors.

The program was started in 1964 and has since then provided financial assistance to over 1,000 students. The foundation's goal is to help students who are academically talented but lack the financial resources to attend college.

Each year, the foundation receives applications from students across the region. The selection process is rigorous, and only the most deserving students are chosen to receive a scholarship.

The scholarships range in amount from $1,000 to $5,000, depending on the student's financial need and academic achievement. The foundation also provides support for books, supplies, and other educational expenses.

Over the years, the foundation has seen the success of many of its graduates. Some have gone on to become doctors, lawyers, and business leaders. Others have returned to the community to give back and support the next generation.

The foundation is proud to be a part of the Canton community and to support its future leaders. If you are interested in learning more about the scholarship program, please contact the foundation at (517) 781-1111.
